The New Dover Sunday-school is at Sewaren, today, on its annual picnic. The pupils were driven down in large wagons.

REAL CAMP MEETING NOW IN FULL SWING.

Every Evening There is a Large Assemblage at Vail's Grove.

AN OX ROAST FOR THURSDAY

CLERGYMAN FROM NEWPORT NEWS WILL BE THE SPEAKER TONIGHT.

Jubilee Singing is One of the Important Features of the Meetings—Big Time is Planned For Thursday, August 29.

An old time camp meeting, now being conducted at Vail's Grove, is gladdening the hearts of the colored folk in this vicinity, who recall the happy times similar affairs occasioned them in ante-bellum days. The younger generation of colored citizens are also showing much interest in the meetings and every night the grove is well filled by brethren of the race and some of the white people, who find entertainment at the affair.

Rev. Dr. E. J. Crudrup, of Newport News, Va., who preached in the Fillmore Baptist church, Sunday, will address the assemblage this evening at 7:30 o'clock. Some jubilee songs will also be rendered. Tomorrow evening Rev. S. Smith, of Zion A. M. E. church, will conduct the services and some gospel hymns will be sung by local talent. An ox roast, such as attended the heated political meetings in days of yore, will be the attraction for Thursday. From 11 o'clock in the morning until 11 o'clock in the evening a lively time is to be expected.

The meeting to be held Thursday, August 29, in recognition of the promulgation of the Emancipation Proclamation, will constitute the closing feature of the camp. Many distinguished citizens have been invited to participate and some addresses of interest are scheduled. Hon. Jesse Lawson, of Washington, D. C., will make the principal speech. In the evening, Rev. Dr. G. L. P. Taliaferre, of Philadelphia, will deliver a patriotic discourse.

TELEGRAPHERS ELECT.

Annual Meeting of Elizabeth Division of Railway Telegraphers Held.

The Elizabeth Division of Railroad Telegraphers held its annual meeting Saturday night and elected the following officers: Chief, Thomas H. Fox, Elizabeth; first assistant chief, J. J. Pendergast, Cranford; second assistant, A. L. Dolberg, Elizabeth; secretary and treasurer, H. P. Sebring, Elizabeth; assistant secretary, J. A. Connelly, Plainfield; board of adjustment, A. K. Garry, Angus Allen, John Kelly; representatives to Milwaukee convention, A. K. Gerry and Thomas H. Fox. These officers will be installed in September.

COUNTY CONVENTION.

Annual County Gathering Of The W. C. T. U. To Be Held In September.

The annual county convention of the W. C. T. U. of Union county will be held this year in Plainfield. The request for the use of the lecture room of Trinity Reformed church in which to hold the convention has been granted by the wardens of the church and the convention will be held Thursday, September 26, an all-day session.

U. V. U. Secured Headquarters.

The committee in charge of the arrangements for the annual encampment of the Union Veterans' Union, which will be held in this city in November, has engaged headquarters at the Plainfield Hotel, corner of Park avenue and Second street. Antietam Command, No. 3, will be "at home" at this hotel during the convention.

Traveling Through Germany.

A postal card from Rev. E. Eyme, formerly pastor of the German Lutheran church, on Grove street, but who is now traveling through a portion of Germany, near Harz Mountains, states that Mr. and Mrs. Eyme and son, Herbert, are well and enjoying the beautiful scenery and delightful weather very much.

Juniors' Excursion.

Just remember that the annual excursion of Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., will be held Thursday. Asbury Park is the destination and a good time is in store for all who go.

Going To Convention.

Chief T. O. Doane, of the fire department, will attend the annual convention of fire chiefs, which will be in session the last week of August, at Indianapolis, Ind.

Miss Elizabeth Combs, of York, Pa., is visiting her sister, Miss Caroline Combs, of Linden avenue.

ELIZABETH IS REDISTRICTED.

COMMISSIONERS MADE THEIR REPORT YESTERDAY AFTERNOON.

Four Wards Are Republican, Four Democratic and One Debatable Ground.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, August 13—The commissioners who were appointed by Governor Voorhees to redistrict the city filed their report yesterday afternoon in the office of City Clerk Manning. Accompanying the report, which describes the boundary lines, is a map.

The commissioners have made nine wards. The division lines of wards only are indicated in the report and maps. The dividing of wards into election districts will be done by the City Council.

The commissioners state that they have divided the city into wards containing as nearly as practicable an equal number of inhabitants, and consisting of convenient and contiguous territory in a compact form.

Those familiar with the voting districts are of the opinion that in this division four of the wards will be Republican and four Democratic, while the fifth will be what the politicians call good "fighting ground."

ALL BIDS REJECTED.

None Within Somerset County's Appropriation for Company M's Proposed Armory.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, August 13.—The Board of Freeholders met yesterday at the Court House to receive bids for building a new armory. The lowest bid was between $12,000 and $13,000, and as the Board had limited the cost to $12,000, all bids were rejected.

It is rumored that this ends the armory business for the present, and that the sentiment of the board is in favor of building a new Court House instead of an armory.

DOCTOR OF OPTICS.

Hard Study Won Coveted Degree for J. Hervey Doane, of This City.

J. Hervey Doane, the Park avenue jeweler and optician, has just received a diploma from the South Bend College of Optics, at South Bend, Ind., in recognition of a year's hard study. The degree of doctor of optics is conferred upon him. He has completed the prescribed studies and passed the regular examinations of that institution in a course of physiological and opthalmic optics. The South Bend College of Optics is considered one of the best of its kind in the country and the opticians, which possess its diploma, are among the best in the land. Only hard and conscientious study can win the degree. Mr. Doane is now one of the best prepared opticians in this part of New Jersey.

IN THE KING'S DOMAIN.

Thomas MacNabb Muir Sets Out in Search of Adventure.

The Pan-American Exposition was built for the entertainment of the bankers and brokers of Wall street, says Thomas MacNabb Muir, of the Daily Press reportorial staff, in a letter to a friend. Tommie has shaken the dust of Buffalo from his feet and is now enlightening the British subjects in Ontario, Canada, on the magnificence of Plainfield and its environs, Scotch Plains and Dunellen.

Special Service.

The Sunday-school of the Park Avenue Baptist church held a special service Sunday morning in which Miss Florence Hawkins, T. L. Bunyon, D. M. Bunyon and Mrs. D. M. Bunyon took part. Superintendent George E. Hall was in charge, and he presented everyone at the service with a pretty fan on the back of which was the programme of the service. A vocal duet, "Saved by Grace," was given by Miss Elsie Giles and Miss Adelia Runyon.

In Interest of Camp.

In the interest of the Westfield Fresh Air Camp, a meeting will be held at Warren chapel, Tuesday evening, August 20, under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society. Addresses will be made by speakers who have consented to be present on this occasion.

Will Gather At Alfred.

The annual conference of the Seventh-Day Baptist church will be held at Alfred, N. Y., commencing Wednesday, August 28, and continuing for the balance of the month. The indications are that there will be a large representation from the local church.

Church Picnic

The picnic of the congregation of the Evangelical Lutheran church will be held at the country place of Mrs. Koch, at Watchung, Thursday, Aug. 22.

Morris V. Brokaw, of West Front street, is spending a week with his cousins in Harlem, New York.

SOLD BOROUGH BONDS.

Edwin S. Hooley Bid The Bonds In This Morning At One Per Cent. Premium.

In pursuance of an ordinance of the Borough Council, passed some time ago, nine bonds representing $1,000 each were sold at public auction, yesterday, in the councilmanic chamber by Borough Clerk Frank Rowley. The entire lot was knocked down to Edwin S. Hooley, of Rockview avenue Mr. Hooley offered a premium of one per cent. for them, which was considered a desirable bid by the borough authorities.

The bonds are issued for the purpose of raising a sufficient fund with which to pay off the principal and interest of the Watchung avenue bonds. The latter bonds mature during the present month, and are eleven in number representing $1,000 each. The new bonds draw a yearly a dividend four per cent. One bond will mature February, 1903, and one each thereafter for each consecutive year.

CARR'S ANSWER NOT READY.

HAMILTON F. KEAN DOES NOT SEE WHAT IT WILL BE.

Mr Kean Has Returned to Elizabeth, But Has Nothing New to Say On the Subject.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, August 13—Frank Bergen, counsel for W. C. Carr, in the election board controversy, said the answer of Mr. Carr to the quo warranto proceedings begun by C. Addison Swift was not filed yesterday.

Hamilton F. Kean, chairman of the County Republican Committee, returned yesterday morning from Elberon, and when asked about the Swift-Carr case, said there was nothing new that he could say. Gov. Voorhees admits that the name of Mr. Swift was sent to him in June by Franklin Murphy. As to the story that Mr. Murphy named two for the election board, Mr. Kean is quite sure that it is not true. Mr. Kean has met Mr. Murphy at Elberon during the past week. He is satisfied that the State chairman respected the action of the county committee, and presented Mr. Swift's name only.

Mr. Kean said he could not see what answer Governor Voorhees can make, but he had been told that in Carr's reply his counsel is likely to dispute the right of any committee or person to force the Governor to make a specific nomination, and that he will contend that the clause in the election act directing the chairmen of the state committees to submit names to him is only advisory. If the act means that the Governor must appoint the man who is nominated to him, he will resist it as being an unconstitutional invasion of the executive function by the legislative branch of the government.

C. J. FISK A DIRECTOR.

Miss Kaufman One Of The Winners At Waumbek Golf Club.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Jefferson, N. H., August 13—The annual meeting of the Waumbek Golf Club was held last evening and the following officers were elected: President, Isaac F. Richey, Trenton, N. J.; vice-president, Samuel O. Prentice, Hartford; secretary, Harris E. Adriance, New York; treasurer, William G. Schauffler, Lakewood; governors Charles J. Fisk, Plainfield; Henry A. Blair, Chicago; John E. Adriance, Poughkeepsie; James O. Church, New York; greens committee, Cyrus H. Adams, Chicago; S. O. Prentice, J. E. Adriance, J. O. Church, H. A. Blair; handicapping committee, Adams, Prentice and J. E. Adriance. The club's August tournament begins Monday and includes a five-day series for men, with a similar programme for women in the week following. In September the club will hold an open tournament for all golfers in the White Mountains, which will be the first event of the sort held in northern New Hampshire. In a candle-light putting contest, last evening, first prizes were won by H. L. Edwards, of New York, and Miss Kaufman, of Plainfield.

Will Discuss Field Day.

Captain W. K. Browning announces that a meeting of Company K., will be held Wednesday evening at 8 o' clock at Washington Hall. Business concerning a batallion field day will be discussed. All members, who have not returned their rifles and haversacks, are requested to do so on this occasion.

Steel Chip In His Eye.

A steel chip flew into Benjamin Evans' eye while he was engaged at his work in the Potter Press Works, Friday. At first the accident caused him little inconvenience, but yesterday the eye became inflamed and troublesome. Mr. Evans is confined to his home on Grant avenue.

MANY KNEW WM. TRUST WHO HAS JUST DIED.

His Face Was Familiar On Plainfield Streets For Many Years.

DIED AT HIS SISTER'S HOME.

CAME HERE FROM NEW YORK SIXTEEN YEARS AGO.

Lived In Retirement Most of the Time—Was Unmarried—Leaves Three Sisters and One Brother—Died This Morning.

At an early hour this morning, Wm. Trust, one of the most familiar figures in this vicinity, passed away peacefully at the home of his sister, Mrs. Adam Fritz, on Somerset street. Having lived practically in retirement for a number of years past, he had much spare time in which to form a large acquaintanceship, and he was known in all the country round.

Death was caused by spinal meningitis.

Mr. Trust led in the main a life of leisure. He was born in New York city forty-four years ago and was the son of George Trust, a prosperous business man of the metropolis. Graduating from the Wyoming Seminary, at Kingston, Pa., at an early age, he equipped himself for a business career. He secured a position as shipping clerk with the firm of James Lee & Company, who conducted an extensive business in importing goods from Europe to New York city.

On the death of his father some sixteen years ago, Mr. Trust retired from active business and subsequently removed to this city. For the past year and a-half Mr. Trust has resided with his sister on her country place. He was unmarried.

Being of a congenial and sociable disposition, he allied himself with a number of fraternal organizations, among which were the lodge of the Order of Elks, in Elizabeth, and the Miantonomo Tribe, No. 118, I. O. R. M., in this city. Mr. Trust was of German descent and, although not a regular church member, he frequently attended the services at the German Reformed church.

No arrangements have as yet been made for the funeral, but it is probable that the services will be held at the residence of Mrs. Fritz, on Somerset street, Thursday morning at 9 o'clock. The obsequies will be of a private nature, only the family and immediate friends attending. Interment will be made in the Lutheran cemetery, at Williamsburg, L. I., at the convenience of the family. Rev. G. Hauser, pastor of the German Reformed church, will officiate at the funeral services.

Surviving Mr. Trust are three sisters and a brother: Mrs. G. A. Wiedenmayer, of Newark; Mrs. Victor Cook, of Scranton, Pa.; Mrs. Adam Fritz, of North Plainfield, and August O. Trust, of East Arcadia, N. C.

NEW FIRE ALARM.

Has Been Ordered for Somerville by the Town Board of Commissioners.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, August 13—The Board of Commissioners met last night. Drs. J. P. Hecht and A. L. Stillwell were elected members of the Board of Health. An invitation from Lincoln Chemical Company, to attend a reception at its new house and inspect the new chemical engine, was received and accepted. The reception takes place tonight.

The committee on fire apparatus was empowered to purchase an automatic fire-alarm blower from the Gamewell Company at a cost of $525. The committee on sewers were instructed to have the applications properly signed at the next meeting, when sewers will be ordered at the western and northern end of town, which will cover all the streets not now sewered.

A Short Summer.

Although you may desire to close your house or leave town for only a few days during the remainder of the season, yet the necessity of the proper disposal of silverware and other valuables is as great as if it were for all summer. The City National Bank offers in its safe deposit and storage vaults security and protection and will receive for safe keeping articles of any description at reasonable rates.

LITERARY.

The sale of thousands of copies of a ten-cent magazine at one dollar apiece was a very curious happening at the time of the Chicago World's Fair. The Cosmopolitan prepared a World's Fair number, contributed to by many famous writers, and so thoroughly illustrated that it surpassed even the most expensive book which had up to that time been issued. The Cosmopolitan will endeavor to repeat its past success, with a Pan-American Exposition number, which will be even more attractive, if possible, than its World's Fair predecessor. The most famous writers of the country have been invited to take part in the preparation of this issue. After many days' careful study of all the wonderful scenes of the Exposition, more than a hundred photographs have been prepared, which, taken as a whole, give a thorough conception of the marvels of this Exposition.

Ants, Cockroaches, Bed Bugs.

Mix, say, a 25c. box of "Rough on Rats" carefully with a pound or so of mashed boiled potatoes, or with a loaf of finely crumbled dampened bread, or two tin cups of fine powdered sugar, and place about their haunts, out of reach of children or pet animals. Even the hardier Black Cockroaches, Beetles, Wood or Water Bugs, in one or two applications will be completely annihilated. "Rough on Rats" is the only thing that will effectually and permanently annihilate Bed Bugs, and it stands unrivalled the world over for the prompt and effective extermination of Rats and Mice. 15 and 25 boxes at druggists.

—Adolph Fleischman, recently employed in Wm. Feiring's barber shop, has accepted a position in a tonsorial shop at Garwood.

—Don't be satisfied with temporary relief from indigestion. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure permanently and completely removes this complaint. It relieves permanently because it allows the tired stomach perfect rest. Dieting won't rest the stomach. Nature receives supplies from the food we eat. The sensible way to help the stomach is to use Kodol Dyspepsia Cure, which digests what you eat and can't help but do you good. L. W. Randolph.

EMPRESS' FUNERAL.

The Body Taken to Train by Torchlight.

CRONBERG, Aug. 13.—The body of the dowager empress was removed by torchlight last night from the church to the railway station with a ceremony similar to that of Saturday. The coffin was borne from the church by 12 non commissioned officers, the organ meanwhile playing "Vale Will Ich Dir Geben."

Following the coffin were the Crown Prince and Princess of Greece, Prince and Princess Charles of Hesse and a number of court officials. A crowd of townspeople closed the procession. The cortege was accompanied on either side by torchbearers, and troops lined the whole route.

The coffin was deposited in a car specially prepared and draped for its reception. This done, the drums sounded a muffled roll, the troops presented arms and the funeral train started for Potsdam at 9:50 p. m.

The Saratoga Races.

SARATOGA, Aug. 13.—The attendance at the races was large and the track fast here yesterday. The stake feature was the Ballston Hunters' steeplechase, which resulted in a hollow win for the second choice, Hacklet, who won, pulled up, by 20 lengths, the favorite, Lost Chord, being second, a like distance in front of Bacchanal. John E. Madden's Futurity candidate, Yankee, again won his race with the greatest of ease, beating Chilton and several other promising 2-year-olds. The handicap at a mile and sixteenth went to Decanter, who beat the favorite, Terminus, a length and a half in a hard drive. The western 3-year-old Sarner won his third consecutive victory in the six furlong dash. Royal Sue was the favorite for the opening dash for 2-year-olds, but lacked speed and was beaten off. The race went to the 15 to 1 shot, Keynote, who got up in the last stride and beat the 20 to 1 shot, Destitute, a head.

Cycling In the Stadium.

BUFFALO, Aug. 13.—The international grand circuit meet of the National Cycling association was continued in the Stadium at the Pan-American grounds, the programme being divided between professionals and amateurs. The professional events were the quarter mile circuit championship and the two mile handicap. Four preliminary heats and two semifinals of the quarter mile were run off, Frank L. Kramer, Iver Lawson, "Major" Taylor and H. B. Freeman qualifying for the grand semifinals, which will be run off today. Sidney Jenkins and T. J. Gascoyne, the English riders, failed to get places in their trial heats. In the two mile handicap for the Iroquois purse of $400 three trial heats were finished in slow time, Kramer, Alexander, Wilson, Cooper, Muss of Milwaukee, "Major" Taylor, Lawson, McFarland, Fenn, Fisher, Freeman and Ruth qualifying for the final.

Grand Circuit Races.

GLENS FALLS, N. Y., Aug. 13.—Lowering skies giving promise of rain reduced the attendance at the opening day of the grand circuit meet of the Northern New York Trotting Horse Breeders' association, but notwithstanding this a good sized crowd filled the stands and paddock when the first race, the American, for 2:12 pacers, with a purse of $1,500, was called, with six starters. It took seven heats to decide this race. At the opening Armorel was favorite in the betting, but Balmy L soon came to the front, after which she and Armorel were about even. Both of these horses were skillfully driven in as hard a fought race as has been seen here in years. The 2:24 pace called out nine starters, but two got the flag in the first heat. New Richmond won the heat and race in easy fashion.

New Bicycle Record.

HARTFORD, Aug. 13.—Bobbie Walthour of Atlanta easily defeated Bennie Munroe in a 20 mile motor paced race at the velodrome track last night. Walthour established a new track record, covering the distance in 30m. 51 2-5s. He was over a mile ahead of his opponent at the finish.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

The cup challenger Shamrock, in good condition, anchored off Stapleton, N. Y.

A bookkeeper's errors made the George H. Phillips company appear worse off than it really was by $134,000.

Governor Odell sent his private secretary for a copy of the confession of police corruption in New York city made by Edgar A. Whitney.

Waidman George Bissert was sentenced in New York city to five years and six months' imprisonment and a fine of $1,000. His lawyers secured a stay.

SIXTY THOUSAND OUT

New Call Obeyed by but Fourteen Thousand.

STRIKE LEADERS DISAPPOINTED.

However, They Are Keeping Up the Fight In a Spirited Manner and Claim They Have Surprising Strength In Reserve.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 13.—The struggle for mastery between manufacturers and men in the steel industry is now fairly launched, and on the first show of strength advantage is with the former. The general strike order issued by President Shaffer of the Amalgamated association has so far been obeyed by only about 14,000 men according to the best figures obtainable here.

The first two preliminary calls were answered by about 45,000 men, so that the total number now out is in the neighborhood of 60,000. The strikers made gains here yesterday over the showing of Sunday night, and their prospects for farther accessions at both McKeesport and Wheeling during the week are very favorable.

The action of the Amalgamated men at Chicago, Joliet and Bay View in refusing to come out and their failure to secure any recruits in the Carnegie group throughout the Kiskiminetas valley and the big plants at Youngstown and Columbus, O., have been markedly disappointing to them.

They are keeping up the fight, however, in a spirited manner and claim that they have strength in reserve which will surprise their opponents. They assert that they have gained a foothold in the Carnegie mills in this city and at the time desired the men will come out. They are pressing their advantages at McKeesport and Wheeling, and their organizers are still at work in those two cities.

President Shaffer has decided to personally visit Wheeling and will go there tomorrow to address a mass meeting of his followers. He is here today directing the fight and conferring with his assistants as to plans for the future. An appeal for financial aid has been made to organized labor and the general public, and it is expected that the response to it will be liberal.

The Amalgamated leaders are not disposed to do much talking. They would not discuss the desertion of their western fellows, although Mr. Shaffer made what was evidently intended for a brief reference to them in a short statement he gave out at noon. Another declaration in the same interview was regarded as highly significant here. It was to the effect that no effort would be made to call out members of the American Federation of Labor and that any action on their part must be voluntary.

The appeal for financial assistance was prepared on Friday last, but was not sent out until yesterday.

The men who are directing the fight in the field for the steel corporation and its constituent companies would give no indication of their plans for the future and would only discuss the situation generally. A statement alleged to have been given out officially by them at noon was repudiated by them later in the day.

Their reports showed that the Carnegie group, Chicago, South Bayview, Joliet, Youngstown, Columbia, the Kiskimetas valley group, Wellsville and Monesson were going along full handed. Bellaire, their advices showed, was badly crippled, but had held on until 5 o'clock in the afternoon and would be started up again today. They admitted the loss of the National rolling mill at McKeesport, which they had expected to hold, and that the Boston mill and Monongahela Steel works at McKeesport and the Republic and Elba here were tied up.

Their tube workers at McKeesport and here were still at work, but menaced by a possible shortage of material. Their tube men at Wheeling were out, but the furnace and coke men there were at work, and their steel men there showed an inclination to stay on unless intimidated. They also claimed that many of their men at McKeesport desired to work, but were being terrorized by the disorderly element.

They also charged that many of their men were being frightened from their places at Wheeling and insisted that adequate protection for the men there would insure continued operations. It was also stated by the steel officials that Clark's mill here was moving along with its nonunion crews engaged last week and that another mill manned by old Amalgamated men had started up at Wellsville, representing a gain of one there since Saturday.

Officials of the National Tube company and Mayor Black clashed yesterday over the question of protection for nonstrikers and property. A large crowd of strikers assembled around the works in the morning, and their pickets intercepted tube workers on their way to the mills. There was some excitement, and the mill officers claimed that their men were being threatened and in danger of violence and called on Mayor Black to clear the streets and protect them.

The mayor said that he would only interfere to stop actual rioting and assault. Two other appeals were made to him later in the morning, but he insisted that there was no danger of an outbreak.

Another crowd gathered at noon when the tube men were leaving the plant, and while the workers were jeered no violence was offered. The strikers say that it is only a qustion of time when material will give out and the tube men must quit. Otherwise it is believed that there would be serious trouble in McKeesport.

Reports from Wheeling and Bellaire indicate that there may be trouble there. At the latter place an attempt is to be made to keep the plant in operation, and the mill officials say that if they or the men who did not go out are interfered with they will ask for state militia to protect them.

At Wheeling reports that men were to be imported have brought out crowds bent on preventing their admission, and it is predicted that there will be serious clashes there before the strike is settled. Most of the strike centers and Pittsburg in particular are very orderly, however.

The strikers at Canal Dover, O., have men watching the mills on the strength of a report that nonunion workers were to be brought there. Superintendent Harris of the tin mill has notified the men that unless the plant is reopened within a reasonable time he has orders to commence dismantling it. Manager Warner has made the same announcement to the men who went out of his service.

THE NEW SHAMROCK

Challenger Is a Fine Looking Yacht.

IT IS CALLED THE BEST YET.

Far Outclasses Boats Which Have Heretofore Tried to Lift the Cup. Shows Effect of Its Builder's Study of Herreshoff's Model.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—Shamrock II as she lay at her anchor off Stapleton, Staten Island, had many visitors. She was examined by the critics and nautical experts, and the general verdict was that she looked handsome. More than that it would be undiplomatic to admit. The easy graceful lines of a racing yacht above the water line are not the factors that produce the speed that wins prizes. It is the form of the craft below the water line—the shape of the underbody, in fact—that does successful work in the way of "lifting" cups.

That Shamrock II is by far the handsomest and most graceful yacht that has ever challenged for the America's cup must be conceded by the most strenuous Anglo haters. She outclasses Shamrock I like a triton among the minnows. Shamrock I had an ugly, coarse bow that used to pound and batter the water whenever the slightest semblance of a head sea was raised. The bow of Shamrock II reminds one of that of the Columbia. It has vast penetrating power. It will divide the water with ease.

It cannot be denied that Mr. Watson, the designer of that wonderful bow, learned much from the intelligent study of the bow of the Gloriana, that marvelous Herreshoff production that revolutionized racing yachts. The whole fore body of the challenger, in fact, shows a clever adaptation and skillful modification of the forward sections of all the good parts of the Watson and Fife and Herreshoff creations.

The stern, too, tapers beautifully. Mr. Watson is nothing if not artistic. The curves of his boats are admirable indeed. The graceful way in which Mr. Watson has disposed of the great beam of the challenger, the factor which in combination with her 90 tons of lead gives her immense sail carrying power, is indeed a wonder of naval architecture. The sweetness of the lines and the facility of the curves lead one to believe that the underbody has some surprises in store. It is, however, granted only to a naturalist of eminent renown to give the image of a mastodon from the scrapings of a toe nail.

From the water line to the rail, or, rather, the covering board, for rail she has not, Shamrock II has all the attributes of a racing yacht. She will cut the water cleanly, and she will leave little fuss behind. That is all that can be predicted of a boat whose mysteries of underbody have been concealed from the vulgar gaze. When she was launched, a pontoon disguised her. Ever since special efforts have been made to hide her from profane vision.

There are a few things, however, that cannot be hidden. She has the same powerful fittings that characterized the two Valkyries, the same deck purchases for flattening in sheets, the same turnbuckles for setting up the standing rigging that have been features of the Watson boats from the day of the Thistle down to date. She steers with a tiller, and from all that can be gathered from the conservative men aboard she is an excellently balanced boat, always under her helmsman's control and never showing a tendency to take charge of herself in a brisk squall.

Captain Sycamore says she has been improving all along. The skipper is a modest man, and when the tug Lawrence towed Shamrock II into the Erie basin at a little after 4 o'clock a big crowd welcomed the Irish yacht. Mr. Barrie, who looks after Sir Thomas Lipton's interests in the United States, was in charge of the challenger.

Arrangements were made for taking out the jury mast of the Shamrock. Then the racing mast will be stepped—that gigantic spar, lower mast and topmast combined, the like of which never before has been seen on a single masted craft. After this the yacht will be put into drydock and the accumulation of seaweed and barnacles removed. Judging from superficial observation there is little marine growth on her hull. On her starboard bow there is a big patch where the bright green paint of her top side has slipped off as clear as though a sharp scraper had been at work. Otherwise the craft seems to be clear.

The jury rig under which the yacht crossed was evidently intended for towing. The gaff topsail, loose footed at that, had very little pulling power. The stump topmast was only capable of setting a mere rag of a sail, and the square sail yard lashed on the port side of the deck had never had a sail bent to it. No bowsprit and no jigger mast were there to offer obstacles to the crew. All sails were set and taken in without difficulty. After the steam yacht Erin has been put in drydock the Shamrock will be hauled out for cleaning. Then and not till then will the shape of the challenger be revealed to the public eye.

Torpedo Boat Disabled.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—Admiral Melville, chief engineer of the navy, has received a telegram announcing that the torpedo boat Cushing was disabled while engaged in the maneuvers of the torpedo boat flotilla off Newport Saturday, breaking her piston, piston rod and cylinder head.

Side Path Law Unconstitutional.

SCRANTON, Pa., Aug. 13.—Judge Edwards has decided that the bicycle side path act of assembly of April 11, 1899, is unconstitutional. The act sought to tax bicycle riders to make a fund for building bicycle paths under the direction of commissioners appointed by the local courts.

King Edward at Potsdam.

POTSDAM, Aug. 13.—King Edward and Queen Alexandra arrived here last evening and were met at Wild Park station by Emperor William, the empress and their eldest three sons. Prince and Princess Henry of Prussia have also arrived.

Fire In Mechanicstown, N. Y.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Aug. 13.—Fire at Mechanicstown, near here, destroyed Holden's glove factory, the postoffice and the town clerk's office. This, the third fire at the place in the last few days, proves a hard blow to the village.

Weather Probabilities.

Cloudy, with showers; fresh northeasterly winds.

GOMEZ DECLINES.

He Does Not Want to Be President of Cuba.

HAVANA, Aug. 13.—General Maximo Gomez has addressed a letter to the local committee of the National party in Havana, who had chosen him as a candidate for the presidency of Cuba and Senor Estrada Palma as a candidate for the vice presidency. The communication runs in part a follows:

"On hearing what the committee has done I hasten to say that I must refuse to undertake such high office under the republic. So far as candidates are concerned, I look upon Senor Estrada Palma and Senor Maso as the best selections that could be made for the presidency and vice presidency. Let all Cubans agree upon this important matter, and Cuba will have a strong and stable government entirely fitted to deal with the external relations in which Cuba will have to exist as a republic."

A movement backed by a number of the revolutionary generals was started some time ago to endeavor to make Senor Palma the unanimous choice of the people for the presidency. Simultaneously overtures were made to Senor Maso with a view of persuading him to accept the vice presidency. It is asserted, however, that thus far Senor Maso has declined to fall in with this plan, as he relies upon the negro vote to elect him president.

New Mayor of Cienfuegos.

HAVANA, Aug. 13.—The ayuntamiento of Cienfuegos, in the presence of the civil governor of Santa Clara, has elected a new mayor, Senor Esquerra, to succeed Senor Vieta, who ceased to be mayor owing to his refusal to obey order 156, which places the police in the regular civil service. Senor Vieta had dismissed the police and had refused to carry out the order of the military government directing him to reinstate them and to comply with order 156. The new police are being enrolled from among those dismissed by Senor Vieta. Their number will not be so large, as the municipality now pays the cost of the police and cannot afford a force so numerous as the former force, the expense of which was maintained by the state.

More Selby Gold Recovered.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 13.—It was stated at the office of the Selby Smelting company that a force of divers under the management of the Pinkertons had taken $65,000 worth of gold from the spot where it was hidden by Winters, making $200,000 already recovered. It is expected that the remainder of the stolen treasure, amounting to $80,000, will be recovered inside of 24 hours. Winters is still detained by the officers, but has not been formally charged with the crime. The fact that he has not been charged with any crime lends additional weight to the belief that he will be leniently dealt with for confessing the crime and pointing out the spot where he secreted the bullion.

Prominent Jersey Lawyer Dead.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—Flavel McGee, an eminent attorney of New Jersey, has died at his residence in Jersey City of acute gastritis after an illness of several weeks. He was a native of New Jersey and was born in 1844. From Revolutionary times the McGee family has been prominent in the state. Mr. McGee was a graduate of Princeton, as were his forbears, and began the practice of law in Jersey City in 1868. At the time of his death he was local counsel for the Pennsylvania railroad. His second wife and several minor children survive him.

Fire Fighters Have Narrow Escape.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Aug. 13.—Desperate efforts are being made to conquer the fire in the Jersey mine of the Lackawanna Coal company at Plymouth. The fire has been raging now for six weeks. A company of fire fighters while at work had narrow escapes. Two of the men were caught under a fall of roof. One escaped unhurt, but Buckley Allabaugh was dug out from the debris in an unconscious condition. At first it was thought he was dead, but doctors say there is a chance that he may live.

To Save Steamer Halifax.

BOSTON, Aug. 13.—The Boston Towboat company has contracted to float the steamer Halifax, which was beached on George's island after striking a ledge off Minots yesterday morning. A wrecking fleet was sent down to the stranded steamer shortly after noon. The broken plates will be plugged up, and when this is completed the steam pumps will be put in operation on board the vessel to pump her out.

Date of Crispi's Funeral.

NAPLES, Aug. 13.—Signora Crispi has received a telegram of condolence from King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helena, saying, "Your husband was a venerable and valiant patriot, and he will always be remembered as one of the founders of Italian unity." The funeral will take place Aug. 15, and the interment will probably be in the pantheon of San Domenico in Palermo.

Big Fire at Carrier, Pa.

DUBOIS, Pa., Aug. 13.—The large sawmill and planing mill and 50,000 feet of lumber owned by R. L. Buzard at Carrier, near here, have been destroyed by fire. The loss is between $55,000 and $60,000 and the insurance small.

CHINESE PROTOCOL.

Cereals and Flour Placed on the Free List.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—The state department has received a cablegram from Commissioner Rockhill at Peking reporting that the draft of the final protocol has been agreed upon.

A tariff of 5 per cent ad valorem, effective, will be put in force two months after the signing of the final protocol, excepting on goods shipped within ten days after signing, and will continue until the conversion to specific rates has been effected by the expert commission.

The Chinese free list will include rice foreign cereals and flour, gold and silver bullion and coin.

Mr. Rockhill's advices that cereals and flour have been included in the free list of the new Chinese tariff is regarded as an important provision owing to the growth of American exports of wheat and flour to China. In 1899 these amounted to $2,298,033, which was almost double the shipments of the preceding year. The trade has continued to increase, and the Pacific coast interests have looked forward to supplying China with a considerable part of her consumption of wheat and flour, most of which heretofore has gone from Atlantic ports around the Horn.

Recently the commercial organizations on the Pacific coast forwarded representations to Washington showing that a 5 per cent effective tariff on flour would work considerable injury to this trade. It appears now from Mr. Rockhill's dispatch that the 5 per cent tariff on this article has been wiped out, and hereafter it will go to China free of duty.

The American shipments of rice and the other articles mentioned are not very large, and the inclusion of rice on the free list is chiefly due to China's needs of this staple food. Owing to the frequency of drought and famine in China the local product of rice often has been curtailed, and it has been necessary to meet the tremendous demand by allowing rice to come in free of duty from Siam and other rice producing countries.

Three Drowned In Galoup Rapids.

OGDENSBURG, N. Y., Aug. 13.—Charles White, James Whitney and Edgar Lane were drowned in the Galoup rapids yesterday afternoon by the sinking of the private yacht Rhea. Whitney, who was the owner of the yacht, had as guests on board the boat Lane and White, Hugh Raney, the Misses Whitney and the Misses McPherson. The four ladies and Mr. Raney got out at the head lock to walk to the foot of the rapids. The other three men remained on board the yacht, which, after passing the first swell of the rapids, entered what is known as "The Cellar" and disappeared, carrying the three men down with her. The bodies have not been recovered. All of the parties resided at Prescott.

Kitchener Reports Successes.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—In a long dispatch issued last night reporting the operations of various columns Lord Kitchener said: "I am glad to be able to send you the largest return I have yet had for one week. Since Aug. 5 the columns report 39 Boers killed and 20 wounded, including Commandant Moll, dangerously; 685 prisoners, including Wolmarans, late chairman of the first volksraad; 85 surrenders, including Commandant Devilliers, and the capture of 24,400 rounds of ammunition, 754 wagons, 5,580 horses and large quantities of stock. Most of the captures were made in Orange River Colony."

Scientists Win Rich Prizes.

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 13.—Two of the prizes created under the terms of the will of the late Alfred Nobel, the Swedish engineer and chemist, who left $2,000,000 of a fortune of $10,000,000 as a fund to provide prizes for the advancement of science, will be awarded respectively to Professor Finsen of Denmark for founding the light treatment of lupus and Professor Pavloff, the Russian physiologist, for his researches in nutrition. Each is of the value of 200,000 Danish crowns.

Drowned Trying to Save Son.

FREDERICK, Md., Aug. 13.—James Birch and his 5-year-old son were drowned at Grove's limekilns. The boy started in advance of his father to water a horse at a deep pool in the quarry. When the father arrived, he saw his son's hat floating on the water. He jumped into the water to rescue the body of the boy, but sank and was himself drowned. It is supposed that the boy rode the horse in the pool to the edge of the deep water and was thrown off.

To Succeed Admiral Sampson.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—The navy department has selected Rear Admiral Mortimer L. Johnson, now in command at the Port Royal naval station, to succeed Admiral Sampson in command of the Boston navy yard when the latter officer shall retire. The formal appointment has not been made, as it is not known how soon Admiral Sampson may wish to be relieved or whether he will wait until his retirement from the service next February.

Newell's Body Removed.

TRENTON, Aug. 13.—The body of ex-Governor Newell was taken from the statehouse at noon yesterday to a receiving vault at Riverview cemetery. Governor Voorhees and Adjutant General Olyphant rode in the only carriage that accompanied the remains. Mrs. Jordan, the dead man's daughter, has not yet arrived in Trenton, and the funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

Boer Prisoners Try to Escape.

JAMESTOWN, St. Helena, Aug. 13.—Two Boer prisoners, Hollanders, made a desperate attempt to escape Saturday evening. They swam to a fishing boat far out in the harbor, captured her and set sail. All their clothing was lost, and they were recaptured Sunday in a nude condition by the British war sloop Beagle. They were returned to the prison camp clothed in coffee bags.

Edward Decorates Von Waldersee.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—The Court Circular announces that King Edward when receiving Count von Waldersee in audience at Homburg invested him with the military grand cross of the Order of the Bath.

Starved to Death in Garret.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Aug. 13.—In the foul smelling garret of a hovel in Factory street Mrs. Ann McGuire, aged 57 years, was found dead. She had starved to death, it is believed.

THE NEWPORT RACES

Columbia and Constitution Have a Close Finish.

FORMER WINS ON CORRECTED TIME

New Cup Defender Crossed the Line a Full Minute to the Good, but Had Started Twenty-seven Seconds Ahead.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 13.—The Constitution covered the triangular course of 30 miles yesterday in 33 seconds less time than the Columbia. The champion of 1899, however, won the race on time allowance by about 30 seconds. No corrected time can be given, as the boats have not yet been remeasured as requested. In previous races the Constitution had allowed the Columbia 1 minute and 17 seconds. What change in measurement the new rig of the Constitution has made is not known, but it is estimated that she now allows the old boat only a few seconds less time, if any.

The finish was the noteworthy and only exciting feature of the contest. When within a mile of the line, the Constitution made a short tack that undoubtedly lost her the race. Both boats were coming in close hauled on the starboard tack, the Constitution fully two minutes in the lead. The light wind had headed them a bit, and it was found that they could not fetch between the committee boat and the lightship.

The Constitution was pointing fairly well and making good speed with a No. 2 jib topsail. The Columbia, with a smaller jib topsail, was also coming fast directly astern and for the last 40 minutes had been slowly creeping up. But the line was now near at hand, and, barring mistake, the Constitution looked a sure winner well within the allowance. Not willing to leave well enough alone, however, Captain Rhodes suddenly put the Constitution about on the port tack, crossed the Columbia's bow and immediately tacked again on her weather.

It was only a short board, and while the new boat's sails were twice shaking in stay the Columbia, with a good full, still on the starboard tack, was bowling along at good speed, headed only a few hundred yards to the lee of the line. The short time that the Constitution was gathering headway after the last tack the Columbia reached through her and went ahead, though still slightly in the lee of the new boat.

It was an exciting moment, and every eye was strained to watch what promised to be a finish full of sensation. Nor could the Constitution fetch the line. A quick change was made from the large jib topsail to the baby, and for a few moments Captain Rhodes worked up on the weather quarter of the Columbia. Captain Barr could not come about until allowed by his rival, so both boats overstood the mark, Rhodes slowly coming down on his weather and thus regaining part of his lost advantage. Suddenly the Constitution put about and made for the line.

The Columbia followed at once, but the new boat, having a better speed at the time, was quicker in stays and was well away while the old boat was tacking. She luffed under the bow of the committee boat exactly a minute ahead of the Columbia, but she had started 27 seconds ahead and thus in actual time only beat the old boat 33 seconds. In corrected time she was a loser, however, and it is the opinion of many experts that the fatal tack just before the finish cost her the race. On the contrary, the people on the Constitution are inclined to think that the tack made little difference and attribute her failure to win to shifting winds and an error of judgment of carrying the large jib topsail on the last and windward leg. Mr. Duncan said on coming ashore that he thought the Constitution would allow the Columbia about 1 minute and 5 seconds on the new measurement, which would give the race to the Columbia by about 30 seconds.

The Tampa Strike.

TAMPA, Fla., Aug. 13.—The Resistencia Cigar Makers' union, now on strike here, shows evidences of almost total collapse. Two of its souphouses are closed because they cannot buy food. One was on half rations all day yesterday. Delegates made overtures to the international union, it is said, but the latter union declined to consider them. After the deportations 2,000 strikers registered their desire to leave the city, and an agent was sent to Havana to secure a vessel. The boat was to have been here Saturday, but has not arrived. An indignation meeting was held by them last night on the supposition that they have been deceived by new leaders.

Machias Ready to Sail.

NORFOLK, Aug. 13.—The gunboat Machias, en route for Colon, has been loading coal, provisions and ammunition in Hampton Roads since Saturday. A large part of the supplies came from the Brooklyn navy yard, and a great deal of the ammunition was prepared at the St. Helena magazine here. The vessel is likely to sail at any moment. She will carry a full complement of men. A number of graduated apprentices from the training ship Lancaster, now in here, have been transferred to the Machias. It is not probable that the boat will put in at any other port between here and her destination.

Condition of the Treasury.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—The condition of the treasury, divisions of issue and redemption, at the beginning of business yesterday was as follows: Reserve fund, $150,000,000; trust funds, division of redemption, $773,793,689; division of issue, $773,793,689; general fund, $266,651,986; current liabilities, $90,933,083; available cash balance, $175,718,952.

Odell In Albany.

ALBANY, Aug. 13.—Governor Odell arrived in this city last night. He has the New York city police situation under consideration, but has not reached any determination as to what action he may take. He stated that he did not come to this city for the purpose of taking any action on that matter and that he did not know what might be done.

Woman's Dress Betrayed Him.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Aug. 13.—Attired in the complete garb of a woman Thomas Carson, aged 18, of Kingston, Ont., arrived in this city. His action excited suspicion, and he was arrested. On his person was found $200 worth of jewels, the property of his sister, who lives in Kingston.

Making a Choice.

It is characteristic of some people to be continually maligning whatever city in which they may happen to reside. The majority of Plainfield's people are not, and ought not to be, of that kind. Plainfield possesses certain advantages of which no other city or town in New Jersey or in the near neighborhood of New York can boast. These have combined to make it an ideal place of residence for many.

Just at present Plainfield's claims are being considered by the Ingersoll-Sergeant Drill Company in its choice of a location for its new factories. This selection of a site is a very important matter for the capitalists and they are going over the ground very carefully. It is not merely a question as to which city can make the best offer of land. That will be more of a minor consideration. The railroad facilities, nearness to the markets and base of supplies, and the cost of labor and materials will all be far more important features. Then, too, with such a vast army of employes, the interests of the men and their families have to be considered.

If it were merely a question of the latter, there is no doubt but that Plainfield would secure the new manufactory without delay. The other questions, however, are now being carefully investigated and a decision will not be reached until a full and fair comparison is made.

Just how Plainfield compares with other cities of the State along these lines it is impossible to say without careful investigation. These are facts which have never been compiled but which, if secured, would be of great interest to every manufacturer and property owner in the State.

It would seem, however, that Plainfield possesses a very favorable location and is near enough to the chief markets of the land to make a location here a desirable one. Plainfield lacks, of course, a waterway and that is, in some measure a disadvantage. As far as materials are concerned there is little or no difference between Plainfield and its neighbors. There is plenty of labor and at the usual prices.

Every citizen, who is at all interested in the welfare of Plainfield, will hope that the Ingersoll-Sergeant Company decides to come here for there is no doubt but that the location of those factories in Plainfield would be of lasting benefit to the community.

The steel workers in the west have decided not to strike despite the orders of their president. They have no grievance and feel that they are in duty bound to keep their contract with their employers. This action is significant on the part of organized labor. It is what the gang bosses at the Pond Tool Works desired the machinists here to do when the great machinists' strike was first started. The ultimate results of this action will be of great importance to the cause of labor unions throughout the country.

Here it is almost the middle of August and not a single tale of a sea serpent emanating from any of the coast resorts. With such a formidable rival as the Pan-American Exposition in the field, there would have been nothing surprising in a whole school of them off the Jersey or Long Island coasts long before this.

The fact that C. M. Burt, general passenger agent of the Jersey Central Railroad, has selected Plainfield as his place of residence, is only another evidence of the fact that there is no suburban city in Jersey which can offer the combined attractions that Plainfield does.

The anti-Seymourites of Essex county are hustling to get a solid delegation from that county to oppose the Mayor of Newark for the gubernatorial nomination at the Democratic State convention. With the rank and file of the Democratic party, however, Mayor Seymour is a wonderfully popular man.

Shamrock II is here ready to meet America's best yacht for that famous old trophy. While no American wants to see the cup cross the water, Sir Thomas Lipton has proved by far the most popular of any of the challengers.

The Brooklyn boys, who came to Plainfield looking for "easy things" in the baseball line, have discovered that this city can support two very clever teams of amateur players.

The national lawn tennis tournament, which has just started at Newport, has assumed an importance which similar events have not won for several past years.

Belleville, one of Newark's suburbs, has just adopted an ordinance similar to Plainfield's new one regarding expectorating in public conveyances and places.

What particular political plum will fall to the share of the Plainfield Republicans this fall? There should be one Assemblyman and something more.

The last revelation of the methods of Tammany Hall has disgusted even some of the members of that famous political organization.

Although you don't hear a great deal about him now, St. Swithin appears to be getting in his work with much regularity.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short and Gossipy Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

An unique method of warding off mosquitoes prevails in this vicinity. It has become the custom of residents, who make use of their piazzas in the evening, to drive off these pesty insects by keeping lighted Chinese incense tapers near them. In the darkness, the twirling about of the tapers makes a very pretty effect and much amusement is afforded those who spin them around in the air. Unfortunately as far as the amusement is concerned, and fortunately as respects the persons themselves, the only time when the tapers are available is when the wind comes from the east, as it is only then that mosquitoes become troublesome in this region.

Dunellen, August 13—The New Market baseball club met defeat at the hands of the local amateurs Saturday. The game was played on the Lincoln avenue grounds. The visiting boys put up a good game and were ahead until the last inning, when the local team bunched the hits and went by with a rush. There was a large attendance of enthusiasts, whose interest in the contest was held until the last man crossed the plate. The score was 18 to 17.

A. F. Sampson has returned home from Bloomsbury, where he purchased a valuable road horse, which has been marked for the mile at 2:09½. Mr. Sampson now has one of the speediest horses in this vicinity, and it will not be necessary for him to take the dust from any one who comes over the pike.

Harry C. Gaskill, who has a serious attack of typhoid fever, is not improving as rapidly as his friends would desire. Mr. Gaskill had a slight turn for the worse yesterday, and it became necessary to send for the physician.

HUYLER'S CANDIES FRESH

NEW MARKET

(Special Correspondence.)

New Market, August 13.—Martin Harret is slowly recovering from injuries caused by falling down the cellar stairs at his home, Saturday. He is under the care of Dr. Brakeley.

Miss Lilly Waglow has returned home after a visit at the home of her brother, Casper Waglow, of Elm place, Plainfield.

A. E. Curtis is entertaining his sister, Miss Winifred Curtis, of Westerly, R. I.

Frederick Ward, of Newark, is spending a few days with local relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Burdick is entertaining Mrs. Bullock, of New Brunswick.

Mr. and Mrs. Adam Waglow spent Sunday with relatives in Orange.

Miss S. L. Jenner is confined to the house by an attack of illness.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

(Special Correspondence.)

Scotch Plains, August 13—The only topic of absorbing interest in the Plains is the great ball game of Saturday. Each man on both teams played his best game, and but for the unfortunate misplay in the twelfth inning the outcome would, without doubt, have been different. Lee, the first baseman, generally plays an errorless game, but the best of players have their off-days. Harvey, pitcher for the local team, is a wonder. He not only gave no one a base on balls, but had the skill to place the ball where it could not be effectively hit. The Forest Hill boys are great with the stick, and have been trained for several weeks by two crack coaches, but they were kept on the anxious seat Saturday.

Henry Angerbauer, with several others interested in athletic meets, are arranging for an eight-mile bicycle race over the Fanwood course. They have also scheduled a one-mile handicap foot race and a 100-yard dash. The events are to take place August 21.

Jackson Nester, William Traynor and Edward Barrity have returned home after a fishing trip to Tremley Point. That the fishing was good is shown by the fact that they brought home 375 crabs.

The Anderson Hotel has secured Walter Overbaugh, of West Front street, Plainfield, for bartender to fill the place recently vacated.

Robert Walpole has returned home from a fishing trip at Sewaren. He made any amount of trouble for the weakfish of that place.

Richard Hayes, bartender at Anderson's Hotel, has resigned his position and will secure employment in Plainfield.

Mrs. John Walker, Miss Walker and Mrs. Grant, of Plainfield, spent yesterday at the home of Mrs. Thomas Paff.

Mrs. P. L. Sandford, of Vernon, N. Y., has returned home after a visit with local friends.

Dr. F. W. Westcott is entertaining Mrs. Strong, of Boston.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

(Special Correspondence.)

South Plainfield, August 13—The Italians, employed on the Lehigh Valley Railroad, are to change their living quarters from their present position near the depot to a site near the coal storage grounds. After their day's work is completed they become hilarious and sing any number of songs. The music is not appreciated by passengers on the road who are compelled to wait several minutes at the station.

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Phillips was buried yesterday in St. Mary's cemetery, Plainfield. The child was taken sick Saturday and lived but a few hours. The funeral was held at the house. Four little girls acted as pallbearers. Rev. P. E. Smyth preached the funeral sermon.

Thomas Hurly, ice man on one of McDonough's wagons, partially crushed his foot, yesterday, while filling the ice box at Snaval's Hotel. It is expected that Mr. Hurly will be around again within a few days. Antonie McDonough is filling his place on the wagon.

Mrs. Tallerfio and Mrs. VanDorn, of Illinois, have been spending a few days at the home of Mrs. R. B. Manning.

The Misses Euna and Edna Eckert have returned after a visit at the home of Mrs. Charles Soper, of Newark.

Miss Ella White has returned to her home in Elizabeth after spending a few days with local relatives.

Miss Plainstella White, of Elizabeth, returned home today after a visit with relatives in town.

No P. O. of A. meeting was held last night because of the inclement weather.

Mrs. T. Laing has been entertaining friends from Brooklyn.

Mrs. W. E. Smith and family spent yesterday at Coney Island.

Mrs. Henry Teeple is entertaining friends from Newark.

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I.—Billy Gray, young college student, secures a lieutenant's commission on breaking out of Spanish-American war. He meets a Mr. Prime, Miss Prime and Miss Amy Lawrence.

CHAPTER II.—After a conference in his official tent, Gen. Drayton joins a gay company in his personal tent—Mrs. Garrison doing the honors as hostess.

CHAPTER III.—Lieut. Gray is invited to join the Prime party, to go over in Mr. Prime's carriage to see the review, but is denied leave by Col. Canker, whom the regiment had nicknamed "Squeers." Vacant seat in carriage is given Col. Armstrong.

CHAPTER IV.—On the way to the review the Prime party witnesses the capture of two soldiers suspected of having been accomplices in the stealing of stores intended for the soldiers—even of dainties contributed by the Red Cross.

CHAPTER V.—Gray receives a note from a prisoner, who is suspected of having been a large recipient of the stolen goods, but who declares his innocence, begs Gray's help and signs himself "George Morton," adding the Greek letters of the same fraternity Gray had belonged to in college. Gray had planned a night in town, expecting to meet the Prime party. In spite of the fact that this might be his last chance for a chat with Amy Lawrence, Gray manages to secure duty as officer of the guard, that he may have an opportunity to have an interview with Morton.

CHAPTER VI.—Preparations are made for sending part of command to Philippines. For some reasons Red Cross officials wish their tables, where they have been lunching departing soldiers, moved across platform directly under the side of the transport, but the officer of the guard has orders to allow no one to intrude on that space. However Mrs. Garrison overhearing wish of Red Cross official accomplishes the end by scrawling a note to the officer. The colonel of the regiment about to leave arrives and is surprised to see his reserved space occupied. Joining Armstrong at this moment he shows him Mrs. Garrison's note. Armstrong turns sharply to where Mrs. Garrison had been, but she had vanished. Armstrong now learns an important package has been taken from Gen. Drayton's tent. The night before an important prisoner, Morton, had escaped, and Billy Gray, officer of the guard, placed under arrest.

CHAPTER VIII.

Social circles at West Point at long, rare intervals are shocked by a scandal, and at short ones, say every other summer—are stirred by some kind of a sensation, and the "Fairy Sisters" were the sensation of the year '97. They came in July; they went in September, and meanwhile they were "on the go" as they expressed it, from morn till late at night. Physically they were the lightest weights known to the hop room. Mentally, as their admirers in the corps expressed it, "either of them can take a fall out of any woman at the Point," and this was especially true of the elder—Mrs. Frank Garrison—whose husband was on staff duty in the far west. Both were slight, fragile, tiny blondes with light blue eyes, with lighter, fluffy hair, with exquisite little hands and feet, with oval, prettily shaped faces, and the younger, the maiden sister, had a bewitching mouth and regular, snowy dots of teeth of which she was justly proud. Yet, as has been previously said of Mrs. Frank, while the general effect was in the case of each that of an extremely pretty young girl, the elder had no really good features, the younger only that one. They generally dressed very much alike in light, flimsy gowns and hats, gloves and summer shoes all of dazzling white—sometimes verging for a change to a creamy hue—but colors, except for sashes and summer shawls, seemed banished from their wardrobes. They danced divinely, said the corps, and preferred cadet partners, to the joy of the battalion. They rode fearlessly and well, and had stunning hats and habits, but few opportunities for display thereof. They came tripping down the path from the hotel every morning, fresh and fair as daisies, in time for guard mounting, and at any hour after that could be found chatting with cadet friends at the visitors' tent, strolling arm in arm about the shaded walks with some of their many admirers until time to dress for the evening hop, where they never missed a dance, and on rainy days, or on those on the Mary Powell and spend Sunday at the Point—Wall street men of 50 years and much lucre. "Dear old friends of father's," Mrs. Frank used to say, "and I've simply got to entertain them." Entertained they certainly were, for her wit and vivacity were acknowledged on every side, and entertained not only collectively, but severally, for she always managed to give each his hour's confidential chat, and on the Sundays of their coming had no time to spare for cadet friends. Moreover, she always drove down in the big 'bus with them Monday morning when the Powell was sighted coming along that glorious reach from Polopel's island and stood at the edge of the wharf waving her tiny kerchief—even blowing fairy kisses to them as they steamed away. No wonder Nita Terriss was frivolous and flirtatious with such an example, said society, and its frowns grew blacker when the White Sisters, the Fairy Sisters—the "Sylphites," came in view. But frowns and fulminations both fell harmless from the armor of Mrs. Frank's gay insouciance. Nita winced at first, but soon rallied and bore the slights of the permanent and semi-permanent residents as laughingly as did her more experienced sister. Nita, it was explained, was only just out of school, and Mrs. Frank was giving her this summer at the Point as a great treat before taking her to the far west, where the elder sister must soon go to join her husband. Everybody knew Frank Garrison. He had long been stationed at the academy and was a man universally liked and respected—even very highly regarded. All of a sudden the news came back to the Point a few months after his return to his regiment that he was actually engaged to "Witchie" Terriss. Hot on the heels of the rumor came the wedding cards—Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Terriss requested the honor of your presence at the marriage of their daughter Margaret to Lieut. Francis Key Garrison, —th U. S. Cavalry, at the Post Chapel, Fort Riley, Kansas, November —, 1894—all in Tiffany's best style, as were the cards which accompanied the invitation. "What a good thing for old Bill Terriss," said everybody who knew that his impecuniosity was due to the exactions and extravagancies of his wife and "Witchie"—"And what a bad thing for Frank Garrison!" was the echo. His intimates knew that he had "put by" through economy and self-denial about $2,000, the extent of his fortune outside of his pay. "She'll make ducks and drakes of it in the six weeks' honeymoon," was the confident prophecy, and she probably did, for, despite the fact that he had so recently rejoined the regiment, "Witchie" insisted on a midwinter run to New Orleans, Savannah and Washington, and bore her lord, but not her master, over the course in triumph. To a student of human nature—and frailty, that union of a faded and somewhat shopworn maid of 27 to an ardent and vigorous young soldier many moons the junior was easy to account for. One after another Witchie Terriss had had desperate affairs with half a dozen fellows, older or younger, in the army and was known to have been engaged to five different men at different times, and believed to have been engaged to two different men at one time. Asked as to this by one of her chums, she was reported to have replied: "Do you know, I believe it true; I had totally forgotten about Ned Colston before Mr. Forman had been at the post a week. Of course the only thing to do was to break with both and let them start fresh." But this Mr. Colston, whose head had been somewhat cleared by a month of breezy, healthful scouting, accepted only in part—that part which included the break. Forman had the fresh start and the walk over and held the trophy just two months, when it dawned upon him that Margaret loved dancing far more than she did him—a clumsy performer, and that she would dance night after night, the lightest, daintiest creature in the hop room, and never have a word or a look for him who leaned in gloomy admiration against the wall and never took his eyes off her. He became jealous, moody, ugly-tempered and finally had the good luck to get his conge as the result of an attempt to assert himself and limit her dances. She was blithe and radiant and fancy free when Frank Garrison reached the post, a wee bit hipped, it was whispered, because of the failure of a somewhat half hearted suit of his in the far east, and the Fairy bounded into the darkness of his life and fairly dazzled him. Somebody had said that Frank Garrison had money.

There is no need to tell of the disillusion that gradually came. Frank found his debts mounting up and his cares increasing. She was all sympathy and regret when he mentioned it, but—there were certain comforts, luxuries and things she had always been accustomed to, and couldn't live without. Surely he would not have her apply to papa. No, but—could she not manage with a little less? He was willing to give up his cigars (indeed, he had long since done so) and to make his uniforms last a year longer—he who was in his day the most carefully dressed man at the Point. Well—she thought perhaps he ought to do that—besides—men's fashions changed but slowly, whereas women's— "Well, I'd rather be dead than out of style, Frank!"

And so it went.

But if she did not love her husband there was one being in whom her frivolous heart was really bound up—Nita—her "baby sister," as she called her, and when Terriss, the colonel, went the way of all flesh, preceded only a few months by the wife of his bosom, the few thousands in life insurance he had managed to maintain went to the two daughters. Not one penny was ever laid out in payment of the debts of either the father or husband. Nita was sent to an extravagant finishing school in Gotham, and along in May of the young girl's graduating year, blithe little Mrs. Garrison arrived, fresh from the far west, and after a few weeks of sight-seeing and shopping the sisters appeared at the Point, even half-mourning by this time discarded. Thirteen years difference was there in the ages of the Fairy Sisters, and not a soul save those who knew them in former days on the frontier would have suspected it. Mrs. Frank in evening dress didn't look over 20.

Kruger Sticks to Beer.

Paul Kruger's daily tipple is beer, and he rarely takes alcoholic spirits. He once drank a glass of champagne at Bloemfontein, after the signing of an alliance with the Orange Free State. He looked surprised as he drained the glass, then snorted disgustedly, and champagne has not passed his lips since that day.

Peculiar Swiss Regulation.

When doubts arise regarding the ages of children on cars or steamboats in Switzerland, they are measured. All children under two feet in height are to have free passage; those between two and four feet are to pay half fare, and full fare is charged for all over four feet in height.

Paternalism in Russia.

The prices of medical prescriptions in Russia are regulated by the government. No druggist is permitted to combine three ingredients in a prescription, the cost of which is but one cent, and charge for it from 30 cents to a dollar.

The Largest Known Plant.

The largest plant in the world is probably the giant sea weed, called by scientists nereocytis. This plant often grows to a height of 300 feet. It grows around the South Sea islands where the natives use it for rope.

BLOCKADED.

Some In Every Household In Plainfield, But They Are Growing Less.

The back aches because the kidneys are blockaded.

Help the kidneys with their work;

The back will ache no more.

Lots of proof that Doan's Kidney Pills do this.

It's the best proof, for it comes from Plainfield.

Mr. Richard Day, of 134 East Front street, says: "I had a miserable pain across my back and a sort of lame feeling over my kidneys. Standing any length of time, or walking any distance aggravated it greatly. I was never sick much in my life and consequently never took much medicine, so when I first began having these attacks I paid but little attention to them. They, however, grew worse instead of better, so I had to look about for a remedy. I read quite frequently in our papers about cures brought about by the use of Doan's Kidney Pills, so I got a boxt at L. W. Randolph's drug store and after taking them I felt greatly relieved. I have recommended them to my friends and those who have used them speak very highly in their praise."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name, Doan's, and take no substitute.

No Doubt About It.

"You seem," said the author's irritable friend, "to think you know more than anybody else."

"I seem to think so?" was the serene rejoinder. "Not at all, my dear boy; I know it!"—Tit-Bits.

The Limit.

My little girl, almost since birth, and she is now three years old, was troubled with a breaking out all over the body. I tried both homœopathic and old school doctors, but none of them did her any good. I gave her all kinds of spring medicines, and at last commenced to think they did her more harm than good. She seemed to be worse at the change of the season, especially springtime, and would break out on her lips, back of her ears, inside of her nose, on her chest, and in fact all over her body, and then the breaking out would turn into sores, forming a hard scab which would continually bleed, and it was disgusting. A friend of mine, Mrs. Knouls, told me to try Ripans Tabules, and I did, and after using three boxes you will know how much good they did her when I went to work and threw all the other medicines I had out, as I had no more use for them. It is three months since I gave Ripans Tabules to my child, and she is entirely well now. I will never be without the Tabules in the house, for they are a blessing.

THE BOOK OF NATURE.

It Is the Greatest of All—Study It, Love It.

Dear girls and women in the country, can you name at sight every tree about your home? When you see the leaf or the wood of one of them, do you know the variety it came from? Which of the trees you have seen all your life puts out its leaves first in spring and sheds them last in autumn?

Did you ever observe how even so homely a thing as the potato grows—how it has a root end and a foliage end, and that never by any possibility does the sprout come from the end which is to produce the roots? Do you know a snake's egg from a quail's egg? Can you name and classify botanically every wild flower and weed that grows upon hill and plain in your neighborhood? Do you know that some of the commonest, meanest weeds, so called, have rare medicinal virtues and that in great laboratories these plants are distilled and their healing essences carefully preserved?

Do you know that the weeds, the insects and the grain and fruit blights in your region today are in some cases quite different from those your ancestors were acquainted with in pioneer days, and they are more destructive than the pests of that time were?

Can you name at sight all the birds that are common in your neighborhood, and do you know their habits of nesting and bringing up their young? How many of them are singers? How many of them go away in winter and return in summer? Which ones stay the year through? How many species of these beautiful feathered creatures has man wantonly destroyed since the pioneer days, and how many has the English sparrow driven out? Did you ever sit quiet in a nook in the bushes and wait till the shy birds wore off the terror of your presence and skipped to and from their nests, fearlessly feeding their young and teaching them to fly? One of the most interesting stories ever written is that of a naturalist who used to watch for hours the wild birds, humming birds among others, till at last their fear of him was overcome, and they would alight upon his shoulder and arm and eat food from his hand. Then he photographed them and has given to the scientific world the most reliable bird pictures ever made. Perhaps you, too, make photographs. Have you ever done anything of this sort?

Once more, did you ever go into the fields or into the heart of the grand wood and sit still, doing it week after week till the wonderful wild little animals came to be familiar with the sight of you and looked on you as their friend? Once I knew a little western girl who had no playmates but young Indians, and she used to wander in the woods alone, all day sometimes. The squirrels skipped around her fearlessly, and sometimes she came into camp with the wild birds upon her shoulders or flying around her. The ignorant thought there was something uncanny about the child, but it was only that she loved all life and these living things knew it.

No doubt you have seen the long furrows plowed just under the earth by the mole, which, possibly you are aware, is a great pest to garden truck. But that poor purblind mole knows a scientific fact with which certainly not more than one person in ten thousand is acquainted. A favorite food of the mole is earthworms. Now, if you cut an earthworm in two each half of him will grow again and produce two earthworms where one was before. But another head will only grow in warm weather, though the thing remains alive. In the autumn, before the ground is frozen fast, the mole makes in the earth a storeroom, a round hole. Then he catches a great supply of angleworms, snips their heads off and stores them in his pantry. They do not die, so that he has fresh meat all winter. But their heads do not grow, and therefore they cannot get away. You see what a cold storage scientist the despised mole is.

Did you ever stand beside a beautiful cornfield after a warm rain in early summer and hear the popping of the tender green blades as they burst open their sheaths to have room to grow? Did you ever watch a fern unfolding its majestic fronds, like the antlers of a stag, to the light and air? How many varieties of fern are there in your part of the country anyhow?

You have not time for these studies? You have time for novel reading and for much nonsense profitable to neither man nor beast. Throw it aside. All around you are creations glorious in beauty and wisdom, splendid in utility.

Congo Free State Soon to Be Annexed to Belgium.

Country Now the Personal Property of King Leopold—Produces Rubber Enough to Supply the World.

[Special Correspondence.]

"TALL trees from little acorns grow." England has demonstrated that a country limited in area may be of great consequence in the map-making of the world. Belgium has always been of considerable diplomatic importance, and probably will soon rank among great colonial nations. The Congo Free State will be a center of political interest within a short time. If it be annexed to Belgium as a colony, as existing conditions would seem to indicate, it will mean much, not only to the peoples directly concerned, but other nations as well. When the Belgians first explored the country, cocoanuts, ivory and palm oil were the only products exported. Many other articles are now added to this list, and a newly-completed railroad will ship at low rates.

The rubber trade has been carried on for about 40 years, but it first attracted the attention of the Belgians a few years ago. Now it is prophesied that it will furnish the great future wealth of the state, as it has developed so rapidly that among the rubber producing countries of Africa the Free State now holds the first place, annually furnishing to the world more than 3,000 tons. During the time of his first expedition, Stanley said that on the islands of the Congo river alone enough rubber could be secured in a year to pay the expense of a railroad. There are several varieties of rubber in the Free State.

It also ranks first among the countries from which ivory is exported. About 700 tons of ivory are annually produced in the world. Of this 600 tons come from Africa. The African ivory is considered far superior to that produced in Asia, on account of its greater density and waxy softness. A small stock of fossilized ivory comes from India and Siberia. According to Holtzapffel, fossil tusks from the north Siberian rivers have weighed 186 pounds. The average in Africa is said to be from 20 to 50 pounds. Those from the Congo are very large, weighing on an average 60 pounds. A pair, each weighing 156 pounds, were shown at the Brussels exhibition.

In the dense, almost unexplored, forests of the central Congo many herds of wild elephants are still roaming. These are hunted by the natives for their flesh, which they prize much more highly than they do their tusks. But what they term "dead ivory" forms the greater proportion of what the Free State sends out annually. The natives have collected elephants' tusks for hundreds of years for purposes of exchange, considering them of little value. In the Upper Nile region, the Khartoum merchants first discovered an accumulation of these treasures. Dealers finally advanced to Katanga, thence to the Congo, after which the ivory trade steadily increased. On July 31, 1888, an ivory market was started in Antwerp, selling 15 tons. In 1890 its sales exceeded those of the Liverpool market, and in 1895 those of London. In February, May, August and November of each year, great sales are held there. There were sold in Antwerp, in 1899, 21,446 tusks from the reserves and only 8,539 from newly-killed animals. The government confiscates all carcasses of elephants killed without especial permission.

The latest methods of treating the natives of the Congo Free State have brought out the fact that by proper management they may be utilized successfully as laborers. This means the possibility of a rapid development of the country. The building of the first 25 miles of railroad from Matadi to Leopoldville required five years. The negroes were treated like slaves, the Belgian overseers whipping them unmercifully. The results were so disappointing that they were afterward employed like the Belgian laborers and paid in accordance with the amount of work performed. They were so impressed by the fact that increased effort brought payment in proportion that the remainder of the road, 216 miles, was completed in four years, proving that "a man's a man for a' that."

Their being amenable to religious teaching to a remarkable degree goes to prove that the members of the Congo tribes may yet be made useful members of society. People who have inherited their Christianity might even profit by their example. A missionary states that in one of their villages a school had been formed and they had erected a church. They so rejoiced in their newly-found religious experiences that they began to consider the condition of their regenerate neighbors, of the heathen natives across a great river who had not, like themselves, been blessed by Christian teaching. They said: "Those people know nothing of Jesus, while we are saved. What shall we do?" In order to find a fitting answer to this query they held a special meeting and gave the matter long and careful consideration. The river was full of crocodiles, the crossing dangerous, the distance too great for an easy return journey. Several days must be spent among those "heathen" who would, very likely, treat them with great violence. Yet 50 Congo church members crossed the river and preached during three days so earnestly that they left converts behind them on their return. Now a church of 20 members is established in that village, who are working with excellent results among their neighbors. The negro temperament is emotional and responds quickly to religious teaching. The railroad experience seems to indicate also that they are not indifferent to the "main chance." But it would take a long and optimistic look into the future to discern in them theologians, financiers and politicians.

It is very hard to obtain anything approximating correct figures regarding the population of this territory, which possesses a five times larger area than France. The number of inhabitants was estimated by Stanley to be 29,000,000. That this is a minimum is the opinion of Gov. Gen. Wahis, who visited the Upper Congo and obtained statistics from government agents stationed there. The people are unevenly distributed. Tracts almost destitute of population are adjacent to crowded districts. The largest village in the Free State is Nmtomba, with a population of 10,000. The general preference seems to be for the forests rather than the river banks as dwelling places.

During its course the Congo river changes its name many times, but Mr. Stanley traced and identified it all the way. The Lualabo-Kongo, interrupted by cataracts and rapids, flows northward from the lake region to about two degrees north of the equator, where many islands stud the broad stream, ten miles wide. Then its course changes many times. In the great basin between east longitude 26 degrees and east longitude 17 degrees, through which it flows, the river has an uninterrupted course of 1,400 miles, with magnificent affluents. From here it descends by about 30 falls and flowing rapids to a great river between the falls of Yelala and the Atlantis. From the Chibale mountains to its mouth the length is 2,900 miles. Stanley states that by its numerous great tributaries it drains 1,300,000 square miles. It has no delta and but one mouth. Only the Amazon exceeds the volume of water it brings down. A steamer drawing 12 feet can steam 110 miles from its mouth, where it is nearly ten miles wide and 160 fathoms deep.

The Free State is now the personal property of King Leopold of the Belgians, and an absolute monarchy. This form of government is, however, only temporary. Belgium has had the right to annex the state since 1890. It is well known that King Leopold, in making his will, instructed that the state become the property of Belgium in the event of his death before its annexation was finally voted upon by the Belgian parliament. It seems outside the limits of possibility that such a magnificent gift will be refused, but in such an event it can be bequeathed to anyone whom the king desires to name as his legatee. His successor, however, must, before accepting the gift, be authorized to do so by parliament. The king's nephew, Prince Albert, son of the count of Flanders, will probably succeed him on the throne.

AN ORDINANCE

for the permanent Improvement of certain Streets and Portion of Streets, of the City of Plainfield, with permanent and durable Macadam Pavement, and to provide the the necessary funds in advance of the collection of assessments for benefits.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That the following streets and parts of streets of the City of Plainfield, shall be permanently improved with durable macadam pavement to be completely laid and constructed on or before the thirtieth day of October, A. D., 1901, said macadam pavement to be of the depth and width hereinafter specified, and to be in every respect equal to the macadamizing on Madison Avenue between West Sixth Street and West Seventh Street, in said City, and all work to be given out upon contract to the lowest responsible bidder, and only after bids therefor shall have been solicited and received according to law, all bids to specify prices for each of said streets or parts of streets separately:

First Place;
Second Place;
Third Place; each from the Northerly curb line of East Ninth Street to the Southerly curb line of Crescent Avenue.

West Sixth Street, from the Southwesterly curb line of Park Avenue to the Northeasterly curb line of Plainfield Avenue.

Orchard Place, from the Southwesterly curb line of New Street to the Northeasterly curb line of Liberty Street.

Carlton Avenue, from the Northerly curb line of Watchung Avenue to the Southerly curb line of Putnam Avenue.

Sec. 2. That said streets and parts of streets described in section 1 shall be macadamized for a width of sixteen feet, that is to say, eight feet on each side of the center lines thereof, and a depth running from six inches in the center to four inches at the sides and the macadamizing preparation shall be laid down to the grades already established by ordinance for said streets or portions of streets respectively.

Sec 3. That for the purpose of obtaining money by the sale of bonds hereinafter specified for the permanent improvement of said streets and parts of streets as aforesaid, in advance of the collection of assessments for benefits, the Common Council of the City do hereby, pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, authorize the issuing of five registered municipal bonds of the City of Plainfield, of One Thousand Dollars each, amounting in all to Five Thousand Dollars, which bonds shall bear interest at the rate of five per centum per annum, payable semi-annually and be payable three years from said date of issue with the option of the City to redeem or pay off the said bonds, or any one or more of them, at any time after one year from date of issue, and before three years from said date of issue, on giving personal notice to the said holders of said bonds, or thirty days' notice by advertisement in the official newspapers of the City, of the intention to make such redemption or payment, which bonds may severally or collectively be sold for an amount not less than par value, and the interest on said bonds shall be raised annually by taxation and the principal be paid by the City at maturity, and the money derived from the assessments upon the property benefitted shall, when collected, be held as a fund toward the payment of said bonds.

Sec. 4. That after said improvements shall have been completed the Common Council shall, pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, apply to the Court of Common Pleas of the County of Union for the appointment of Commissioners to estimate and assess benefits upon the owners of the lots or parcels of land and real estate peculiarly benefitted by such improvements, in proportion, as near as may be, to an amount equal to the amount of benefits actually acquired by the lands and real estate bordering on said streets or portions thereof respectively, by reason of such improvements respectively; and in case the costs and expenses aforesaid shall exceed the amount of said benefits, the excess thereof shall be paid by the City at large and raised by general tax; no property or owner thereof to be in any case assessed beyond the amount of benefit actually derived from said improvements.

Adopted by the Common Council Aug. 5, 1901.

Approved by the Mayor Aug. 5, 1901.

A GREAT UNIVERSITY

Its Foundation Earnestly Advocated by George Washington.

Part Taken by the Late Senator Kyle in Carrying Out the Disinterested Wishes of the Father of His Country.

[Special Washington Letter.]

THE late Senator James H. Kyle, of South Dakota, was quietly and unostentatiously engaged in seeking to promote legislation for a truly national university, such as Washington contemplated. He formulated and introduced a bill six years ago, providing for a national university, with thousands of students, with buildings that shall eclipse the new library, set in the midst of a beautiful and spacious campus, with resources practically unlimited, and with all the treasures collected here at the command of graduates of the highest colleges.

The plan for a national university originated in the patriotic mind of the first great American general and statesman who is honored with the name Father of his Country. He observed that American youth of parts and means were usually sent abroad to the English universities, or to the great schools of the continent, and he feared the effect upon the country of their coming to hold in contempt the plain and hard life of pioneer days. He feared also the false political teachings of foreign lands. For this reason he strongly urged the establishment of the school, and remembered it in his will. The failure of the nation to execute his wishes is partly explained by two facts. The country has never till now felt unanswerably the demand for it, and there has been a jealousy against it by existing colleges; the higher the grade the more vehement the opposition.

Senator Kyle's bill provides for a university in which instruction shall be given in the higher branches of practical as well as literary and scientific departments of knowledge, and facilities furnished for research and investigation.

The governing power is placed in a board of regents, 13 in number. Eight are to be appointed by the president with the consent of the senate. No two are to be from the same state. The other seven are the president, vice president, chief justice, speaker, commissioner of education, secretary of the Smithsonian, and the president of the university. The scholastic work of the institution is to be directed by a council of faculties consisting of the deans of faculties, presided over by the president of the university. The school will, of course, be wholly unsectarian and non-partisan.

Endowed chairs are provided for, and also fellowships. No chair is to be endowed with less than $100,000. None but graduates of colleges with the degree of bachelor of arts or the equivalent are to be admitted. Free scholarships are to be given to as many from each state as there are in its congressional delegation.

"University square," where the national observatory was originally located, is set apart for the site of the school. This is the tract originally selected for the purpose by President Washington. One-third of the net proceeds of the sales of public lands for ten years is given for an endowment. Half of the amount is to be held by the treasurer of the United States for the buildings and equipments and for current expenses.

The other half is to be allowed to accumulate in the treasury as a permanent fund for the support of the institution. As such a fund it is to draw five per cent. interest. The students are to have access to all institutions, collections and opportunities for study and research under control of the government so far as possible without detriment to the public service. The heads of all bureaus and departments are to cooperate with the officers of the university in securing the desired advantages for the students.

JAMES H. KYLE.
(Late Senator from South Dakota and Friend of the University.)

It was the hope of Senator Kyle that a complete report in favor of this bill might be made early in December next. He hoped that by having the report thus early in the session an act would be passed creating the much-talked-of institution and putting in a way to realization the hopes and plans of President Washington. There have been several favorable reports on such a bill, but always so late in the session that nothing could be done.

The president of Harvard university was antagonistic to the idea of a national university. One objection urged by him was that the climate will not permit study to continue longer each year than from the middle of October to the middle of May. Second, the political atmosphere would be a damper on educational work. Finally, the scheme for a governing board with the president as a member was absurd. "A big university," he said, "needs management, and that requires time and care such as any who would be appointed to the governing board of a great national university would not have time to give." The latest objector of note to the national university plan is President William R. Harper, of the University of Chicago, who spoke against it at the recent meeting of the National Educational association at Detroit; but in spite of his arguments the association passed resolutions favoring its establishment.

The objections of all men and of all time were anticipated by Washington,

WILLIAM R. HARPER.

Jefferson, both the Adamses, Madison, Monroe, Jackson, Grant and Hayes; by Benjamin Franklin, Edmund Randolph and Justice Lamar, as well as a long line of able but less famous men.

After a consultation with James Madison and Edmond Randolph, Washington announced to the commissioners of the District of Columbia his purpose to contribute a large sum to the establishment of a national university. He carried out his purpose by giving securities, which, it is estimated, if held to the present day, would have been worth $4,000,000. In the preparation of his final address he set apart the 19 acres of land known as University square, at the foot of Twenty-fifth street, where the National observatory was first located. In his last message to congress he said: "I have heretofore proposed to congress the expediency of establishing a national university and also a military academy.

"The desirableness of both these institutions has so constantly increased with every new view I have taken on the subject that I cannot omit the opportunity of once for all recalling your attention to them. Among the motives to such an institution, the assimilation of the principles, opinions and manners of our countrymen, by the common education of a portion of our youth from every quarter, will deserve attention."

President Jefferson wanted to bring a faculty from Geneva for the institution, and proposed the use of the treasury surplus for its endowment. President Madison urged in three messages, saying in his last: "The importance which I attach to the establishment of a university in this district on a scale and for objects worthy of the American nation, induces me to renew my recommendation of its favorable consideration." President Monroe said: "If it receives hereafter the proper encouragement, it cannot fail to be eminently useful to the nation."

President John Quincy Adams lamented that "in surveying the city, which has been hon

SPORTING.

ON THE DIAMOND.

Percy Hand, the clever right fielder of the Hope chapel nine, has resigned his position on the team. His resignation at this season of the year causes a serious loss to the Hope aggregation. No one has been selected to fill Hand's place, but it is probable that Cose will be put in the position temporarily.

The Plainfield Police nine will cross bats with a team representing the police force of Elizabeth tomorrow afternoon on the Plainfield avenue grounds. The game commences at 2:30 o'clock sharp and a large attendance is expected to be present when the umpire calls "play ball." Elizabeth has a star aggregation of players, but the local cops have been practicing of late and they intend to spring a surprise on their opponents.

The deciding match between the baseball teams of the Plainfield and Perth Amboy works of the Hibbard-Rodman-Ely Sale Company will be played off Saturday afternoon, August 24, in this city. Several weeks ago the teams met here and Perth Amboy won. Then Saturday, the Plainfield employes turned the tables at Perth Amboy. Now comes the deciding game. Both teams expect to practice steadily until that time and there promises to be the hottest kind of a game when they meet.

GOLF.

Six members of the Cranford Golf Club came up to Westfield Sunday morning and arranged an impromptu team match with the Westfield Golf Club. The Westfield team won by a score of 35 to 17. N. P. Rogers, Jr., who was No. 1 on the Westfield team, swamped his opponent, beating him twelve up. It is expected that a return match will be played in a week or two.

A trophy, called the President's cup, has been offered for a closed competition at the Westfield Golf Club and the first play was held Saturday afternoon. It is expected that it will be played for every Saturday afternoon. Some of the members were anxious that the play should be changed until Sunday morning as that is the time when the largest attendance is to be found at the club links.

CYCLING COMMENT.

ABOUT CONVINCED.

It is hoped that you are about convinced to let me stop at your home regularly with a nice clean piece of Hygeia Ice. I have been hammering away at you for some time to bring you around to this point. I believe it is economy for you to use ice. I believe also that you should use Hygeia Ice in preference to any other ice. Because it is a pure ice, a healthful ice and an ice that lasts longer than others. No dirt. No impurities—nothing in it that shouldn't be.

LOVE'S LIVERY STABLES.

Brand New Equipment Just Purchased For Roberts' Old Stable.

Andrew Love, Jr., has purchased the livery, boarding, sale and exchange stables at 115 East Second street, formerly owned by D. S. Roberts. Having disposed of all old stock and purchased new, he is prepared to conduct a first-class place.

Mr. Love has several fine horses, all gentle and good travelers, any one of which can be driven by a woman. He also has a number of new wagons, including traps, runabouts, surreys, etc., and when a person engages a rig at this place they are sure of having something up-to-date.

Mr. Love has made a number of improvements about his place, all of which add to the efficiency of the service he will give. No loafing will be tolerated about the office or stables and no one need hesitate about calling at the place on this account. Mr. Love is a thorough horseman, knows how a livery should be conducted and proposes to give the people the best to be had. His telephone number is 1474 and all calls will be promptly attended to day or night. Competent and reliable drivers will always be furnished.

Guest at Headquarters.

David Benedict, of Newark, who represents a large fire department supply house, was a guest of Chief T. O. Doane, at the fire department headquarters yesterday. Mr. Benedict was at one time chief of the Newark fire department, in the days when that city had a volunteer organization.

Auction Sale.

There will be an auction sale of household furniture, horses, etc., tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at 125 Columbia avenue, Netherwood. P. H. Latourette will be the auctioneer. The goods belong to George V. Staats.

Will Be No Exception.

The members and friends of Hope chapel will go to Asbury Park on their annual excursion Saturday. It is always planned to make this outing highly enjoyable and this year's event will be no exception.

—Eruptions, cuts, burns, scalds and sores of all kinds quickly healed by DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. Certain cure for piles. Beware of counterfeits. Be sure you get the original—DeWitt's. L. W. Randolph.

ADDITION TO SAENGER HALL.

CONTRACTS SIGNED AT MEETING OF COMMITTEE LAST NIGHT.

Hermann Hansen Gets Contract For $3,500—Expected Improvements To Be Made.

The building committee from the Gesang and Turn Verein met the contractor, Hermann Hansen, last evening, and signed the papers calling for the proposed addition to the building, which has been talked about for several years past. Lawyer R. M. Clark prepared the papers and was present when the contract was signed.

The addition is to be built on the rear of the present structure and will extend back a distrance of twenty fee', the extent of the property owned by the society. It will be one story and a basement, but it will be a trifle higher than the present building. In the new part there will be a stage of the most approved pattern, on either side of which will be dressing rooms. New and improved toilet rooms will also be added. The entire depth of the building, with the new part, will be a little over 160 feet. The estimated cost of improvements will be $3,500. The work is to be commenced at once. According to the agreement the new addition will be completed by November 1.

The committee in charge of construction consists of Carl Feiber, chairman; Henry Haurand, treasurer; Emil Dembroosky, William Beiter and Henry Rummel. It is the intention of the committee to thoroughly overhaul the original structure.

PERSONAL.

Steward Ivamy, of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club, is now on his way to Europe to meet his wife, who has been abroad some time. He will return to this country by September 1.

Mrs. William Tallamy and daughter, Miss Lia May Tallamy, of West Front street, in company with Miss Dorothy Phillips, of Netherwood, are enjoying a two week's stay at Ocean Grove.

Harry V. Miner, who has been visiting his brother, Ralph K. Miner, of LaGrande avenue, has accepted a position with the Pierce Motor Vehicle Company, of Bound Brook, and has taken up his residence in that place.

PREPARED HIS CASE.

Was to Answer Charge of Being Drunk so He Tried it Over Again.

John Smith, residence unknown, was arrested one week ago by the borough police on a charge of drunkenness. On the request of his counsel, the defendant was allowed a week's time to prepare his case, and this he did by becoming intoxicated again yesterday. He was taken in charge by the Chief Marshal, who furnished him with free lodging over night.

This morning Borough Recorder Thomas Doud disposed of the case by imposing a fine of $10. Sometime ago Smith was arrested on the same complaint and upon the trial sentence was suspended on the understanding that a heavy penalty would be inflicted should he repeat the offense.

NO TROUBLE.

H. G. Hummer Says That Story Of Trouble With Township Committee Is Not True.

H. G. Hummer, overseer of the poor at the Piscataway Township poor farm, called at The Press office this morning and made a denial of the statement that the relations between himself and the Township Committee were in any way strained and as was stated in the paper several days ago. Mr. Hummer said that he had purchased a bull, but his action was not criticized by the committee.

NO CRAP PLAYING.

George Grader Says That He Did Not Play Sunday as Police Charged.

George Grader, of Farragut road, called at The Press office this morning and declared that he did not play crap, as alleged, on Sunday at the corner of Norwood and Brook avenues.

He said that he and a party, including Charles Dean, Martin Duffy and Louis Bentford, had been arrested by the chief marshal of the borough, at that locality, on Sunday, on a charge of disorderly conduct, but that at the trial Monday morning no case was made out against anyone of them.

His explanation is that he happened to be in the vicinity at the time the arrests were made and he was taken into custody with the rest.

Acting In Dr. Richard's Absence.

Rev. G. Kennedy Newell, of Hope chapel, may be called upon for pastoral service, until further notice, during the absence of Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, of the Crescent Avenue church.

SHOULD LOUIS ROESEL HAVE BEEN HANGED?

Was Betrayed By George Manshande, Who Struck the Blow Which Proved Fatal.

THUS SAVED HIS OWN NECK.

BUT MANSHANDE'S LATEST ACT WILL KEEP HIM IN FULL TERM.

Attempt to Kill a Keeper Brings the Whole Story to Mind—How the Crime Was Committed—Story of the Trial

Of all the hangings which ever took place in Union county, there was none which excited so much sympathy for the offender as that of Louis Roesel, who was hanged at Elizabeth county jail for the murder of Farmer Pitts, near Summit. The circumstances of the case and what is considered by many as a miscarriage of justice is called to mind at this time by the attempt of Roesel's companion in crime, George Manshande, to kill one of the keepers at States prison.

A readable novel could be written around the hanging of Roesel, in the jail corridor of the Union county jail March 10, 1899 That he was innocent of the actual murder was admitted even by County Prosecutor Frederick C. Marsh, then in the heyday of his fame, and Supreme Court Justice Bennet C. VanSyckel faltered in passing the death sentence. Four times the venerable judge sentenced the young man to be hanged, until even the prisoner pleaded weariness.

At the execution Sheriff Wm. T Kirk nearly broke down while placing the rope around the condemned man's neck, while Rev. Ods A. Glazebrook, rector of St. John's church, Elizabeth, and jail chaplain, declared it was the most painful sight he had ever witnessed.

Louis Roesel, who was nineteen years old at the time, met George Manshande in New York in a saloon in Third avenue frequented by crooks, when both were out of work. Manshande was a professional criminal with a record, while Roesel was a country lad with a leaning toward an adventurous life.

The two fraternized and Roesel told his companion he knew of a good crib to be cracked near Summit, where Pitts lived. The latter was supposed to be a miser and in the habit of keeping considerable money about the house.

When Manshande, who was a man of thirty-five years, heard of it he planned the subsequent raids. The pair left New York on the afternoon of September 9, 1897, and, traveling by freight trains, reached Summit about 8:30 that night. As Roesel told it in his cell, months afterward, there was no idea of violence in the minds of either man. Pitts came to the door in answer to a knock, and Manshande hit him a murderous blow over the head with a hickory stick, Roesel in the meantime hovering in the background. No money was secured, the pair being frightened off after the blow was struck.

Roesel was arrested in Staten Island October 2, and Manshande fifteen days later in Irvington. Both pleaded not guilty, but later Manshande turned State's evidence. It was on his evidence that Roesel was hung, as both men would have escaped with light sentences if Manshande hadn't "squealed."

The case of Roesel was tried in the May term of court in Union county and the prisoner was found guilty. His counsel, Frank Bergen and Edward Nugent, fought desperately to secure his release on technical points. On four occasions Justice VanSyckel sentenced Roesel—June 3, 1898; August 26, 1898; October 28, 1898, and for the last time, February 25, 1899. At last even the prisoner became disgusted and remarked that he was tired of hearing that he would be "hanged by the neck until he was dead."

Roesel was in the Union county jail over eighteen months before he was hanged and became a great favorite of the officials. A photograph of him, taken the day before he was hanged, is in the office of Warden Dodd today. He always claimed he was only technically guilty of the murder of Farmer Pitts and that Manshande was the man who ought to have been hanged.

Personally Roesel was short and slight, with big black eyes that grew larger as the day of his execution neared. He was a soft-spoken, pleasant mannered chap, of more than SANG WRONG WORDS.

Angry Crowd of Canadians Nearly Mobbed Thos. MacNabb Muir for Mixing National Hymns.

Surrounded by an angry crowd of Canadians in a theatre at Woodstock, Ontario, Monday evening, Thomas MacNabb Muir, of the reportorial staff of The Daily Press, who was standing in the middle aisle of the orchestra, at the time, had a thrilling experience.

According to a letter written by him to a friend, Mr. Muir writes that while a patriotic play was being enacted the actors waved wildly the flag of His Majesty, Edward VII, and the audience cheered vociferously. Being wrought up to a great state of excitement it seems that Mr. Muir lost control of himself and joined in the demonstration, although unfortunately in his absent-mindedness, he sang "My Country 'Tis Of Thee" instead of "God Save The King," the music being the same.

Luckily the Plainfielder worked his way past the mob and escaped from the theatre uninjured, save some torn garments.

NOAH RABY IN GOOD HEALTH.

HAS FULLY RECOVERED FROM HIS RECENT INDISPOSITION.

Although So Old, He Still Possesses Wonderful Vitality and Can Even Crack a Joke.

Noah Raby, who for forty years has been living at the poor farm in Piscataway township, is as well today as any time in recent years. Poormaster H. G. Hummer, in his customary genial way, looks after Noah and sees that he wants for nothing. Recently, he shut down on the frequent visitations of New York reporters. They had a habit of calling on the old man and remaining with him too long. They would bring him liquor, which he would drink of freely. It would then require a week's time to get the old man straightened out. His mind would be upset and he would talk incessantly.

Noah enjoys acute hearing, a clear mind and is able to converse freely on all important subjects of the day. He can tell one about things that happened when he was a mere lad and his memory concerning these matters is remarkable.

Mr. Hummer enjoys many happy moments with Noah, the latter being able to appreciate a good joke. Often, Mr. Hummer will ask him if he will go out and saw a cord of wood. The old man will reply that he would like to, but hardly feels able. According to present indications, Noah will probably live several years, as he is neither sick at heart nor physically ill.

BUSINESS INCREASING.

Prosperity Shines On a Former Plainfielder Now At Hartford, Conn.

The Hartford Times speaks highly of the Johnstone Advertising Agency of that city. Owing to the increasing business of the concern, Charles T. Johnstone has resigned his position with the Hartford Sunday Globe. Paul Ackerly, the other member of the agency, has been in newspaper business for ten years. He was on the staff of the Plainfield Daily Press, 1893-94, and later was editor of the Rockville, Conn., Journal. Mr. Ackerley has spent six years in Washington, serving five years as secretary to Congressman Henry, and subsequently as the representative in the press gallery of The Hartford Times. His recent success is the result of earnest and sincere effort.

WILL ENTERTAIN.

HE WANTED TO SPEAK ON LABOR QUESTION.

Larry Wallace Attempted To Take a Hand In Socialistic Meeting Last Evening.

BUT POLICE INTERFERRED.

DESPITE STRENUOUS OBJECTIONS WALLACE WAS LOCKED UP.

Will Spend the Rest Of the Summer and Part Of the Autumn In Jail—Interferred With Socialist Speaker On the Street Corner.

Unless he pays the fine imposed, Lawrence Wallace, who was arrested last evening for disorderly conduct, will sojourn at Dodd's Inn, Elizabeth, for the remainder of the "heated spell" and a good part of the "cold snap" as well. Larry Wallace, as he is familiarly called, needs no introduction to the public. He has figured in the realm of police doings more than once in the past, but matters have now taken such a shape that his society will be missed for a time by officers of the law.

Robert Dalton, the socialist, who addressed his heart-rendering pleadings to a mixed audience, at the corner of Park avenue and West Second street, last evening, occupied the attention of Larry for a few moments. Larry did not wait to hear what the gentleman who spoke after Mr. Dalton had to say in regard to the local "so-called newspapers" and local "capitalistic sheets," but with others preferred to take issue with the first orator at the outset. He really disturbed the tranquility of mind which was essential for the speaker to have on that occasion.

Sergeant Frederickson and Patrolman Overbaugh, who enjoy a speaking acquaintance with Larry, warned him to desist in his remarks. However, Larry had imbibed more "Jersey lightning" than was good for him, and insisted on pursuing his boisterous conduct. The patience of the officers becoming exhausted, Larry was taken in custody, and a grand march, something that the prisoner attempted to turn into a cake walk, was commenced. Police headquarters was the destination. As usual, Larry tried to make the scene a lively one, but the plucky officers were too much for him. The line of march was a brief one, but nevertheless nearly 100 citizens joined in the parade.

Meek and humble, Larry stood before His Honor, City Judge Runyon, at the police court this morning. His customary bravado had not deserted him. The officers of the law filed a verbal statement of the complaint against the prisoner at the bar, and the Court was not slow in imposing sentence. His Honor brought to Larry's attention vivid recollections of the prisoner's past escapades. A strong remedy was now necessary.

"I told you that the next time you would come before me, you would get 'the limit'," said the City Judge in a stern manner. And get 'the limit' he did, for the sentence of the Court was $100 fine and fifty days' imprisonment.

NEARLY LOST AN EAR

John Myer Fell From Load of Wood at Elizabeth Last Week.

John Myer, an employe of the Watchung Kindling Wood Company, who resides with his sister, Mrs. S. Coddington, of Grove street, came near losing his ear Thursday.

At the time the accident happened Mr. Myer was standing on top of a load of wood, which he had taken to Elizabeth. Someone thoughtlessly drew a piece of wood from beneath the pile, causing the whole load to settle. Mr. Myer lost his balance and fell heavily to the ground. One of his ears was almost torn off and he was otherwise bruised. Dr. Lufburrow took ten stitches in the maimed ear.

Held a Meeting.

A number of members of the Christian Endeavor Society of the First Baptist church went to Westfield by trolley Monday evening and held an open air meeting at the Fresh Air Camp. Robert Love led the service and the guests at the camp took a decided interest in the meeting.

Justice Nash's Court.

To Preach Sunday.

Rev. John Paul Egbert, D. D., of Flushing, N. Y., will occupy the pulpit at the Crescent Avenue church next Sunday.

Will Give a Picnic.

Dewey Park has been engaged for Saturday by a crowd of Plainfielders who propose to hold a picnic there.

DEATH OF RAILROAD MAN.

HAD BEEN FREQUENT VISITOR OF RELATIVES IN THIS CITY.

C. E Miner, of Mexican Central Railroad, Died Suddenly at St. Louis Monday.

A telegram was received in this city yesterday afternoon telling of the sudden death of Charles Emory Miner, general western passenger agent of the Mexican Central Railroad, at the Laclede Hotel, St. Louis, Monday. Mr. Miner was a frequent visitor at the home of relatives in this city. His home was at Rockford, Ill., where he leaves a wife and daughter. He also leaves two sisters, Mrs. Joseph E Morse, of Franklin place, this city, and Miss Ellen L. Miner, of Oriskany Falls, N. Y., and two brothers, Willard M. Miner, of LaGrande avenue, this city, and E. Burdette Miner, of Oriskany Falls, N. Y.

Mr. Miner was fifty-two years old and was born at Oriskany Falls, N. Y. He went west when a young man and passed an adventurous life sheep herding and cattle raising. He was one of the guides for the party of engineers who laid out the Southern Pacific Railroad and afterwards went into the employ of that company. He was with the Pullman Car Company for a time and then went with the Mexican Central Railroad almost at its beginning. Mr. Miner grew up with that railroad and became of its most trusted officials. He had a large acquaintance with railroad men throughout the country and was greatly respected by all who knew him.

Willard M. Miner left Plainfield evening, via the Lehigh Valley Railroad, and, by traveling rapidly, will reach Rockford in time for the funeral tomorrow morning.

DREADED FEVER WAS FATAL.

H. C. GASKILL, A LEADING CITIZEN OF DUNELLEN, DIED TODAY.

Caught Typhoid Fever From Drinking Water and Could Not Rally After a Long Illness.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, August 14.—Henry C. Gaskill, one of the most prominent citizens of the borough, passed away at his home on Prospect avenue at 4:15 o'clock, this morning. He was in his forty-sixth year, and has been suffering for the past six weeks from an attack of typhoid fever, which it is supposed he contracted from drinking impure water from a well on a farm near New Market, where he was overseeing the erection of a barn. The best of medical skill was immediately summoned and a trained nurse procured. The sick man appeared to be slowly improving until Monday, when he became very weak and passed a sleepless night. From then he rapidly sank.

Clarence Lines and Cornelius Ryno, who were working for Mr. Gaskill just before he was taken sick, also contracted the fever. Lines has nearly recovered, but Ryno is still very low.

Henry Gaskill has been a resident of the borough all his life, and after learning the carpenter's trade, he soon enlarged his business, and became a successful contractor and builder.

He was a typical Christian man and a prominent member of the First Baptist church at New Market. His well-trained bass voice made him an invaluable member and leader of the church choir. He was also president of the Christian Endeavor Society.

In 1899 he was elected to the Dunellen Borough Council, and his fellow-members, recognizing his superior executive abilities, made him president. In the Council Chamber his opinions were listened to with great respect and his advice nearly always followed. As a member of the Board of Education and chairman of the teachers' committee, he has been foremost in raising the standard of the local schools.

Mr. Gaskill was a member and officeholder in the Jr. O. U. A. M. and of the Dunellen Building and Loan Association.

He is survived by a wife and a son and daughter, Chester and Ethel. A brother, Randolph Gaskill, and a sister, Mrs. Sarah Coriell, mourn his loss. His father and mother died several years ago.

The death of Mrs. Gaskill is a great loss to Dunellen, and hosts of friends will sorrow at his death.

The funeral services will be held at his late home at 2 o'clock and 2:30 at the New Market Baptist church Friday afternoon. Rev. Frank Fletcher will preach the sermon.

Deputy Grand Master Workman Davis, of Elizabeth, will visit Columbia Lodge, A. O. U. W., Friday evening.

HALF OF TASK DONE; SINGLE CHANGE MADE

Borough Councilmen Began Work Of Examining Assessor's Books Last Night.

OTHER BUSINESS DONE.

PROTEST AGAINST A WARREN CHAPEL'S PROPOSED NEW SIGN.

Sale Of Bonds To E. S. Hooley Was Approved—Assessor Shows Increase Of $40,000 In Taxable Valuations.

A special meeting of the Borough Council was held last evening for the purpose of comparing the books of Assessor Elston M. French, which is the necessary procedure ante-dating the confirmation of the annual assessment by the Councilmanic body. Half the task was performed at this sitting, and it was deemed proper in but one instance to change the assessment levied on a single property. Mr. French reported a net increase in valuations amounting in the aggregate to $40,000, which means that there will probably be collectable approximately $900 more in taxes.

Harrison Coddington was the only councilman who failed to respond to his name when the roll was called by the clerk. The reading the minutes of the previous meeting were suspended and the members got down to work. Clerk Frank Bowley submitted proofs of publication of notice of sale in the matter of the new borough bonds issued to raise funds sufficient to pay off the principal and interest of the Watchung avenue bonds, which matured August 1. He also reported the sale of the bonds to Edwin S. Hooley, of Rockview avenue, who purchased the entire nine bond at 101 per cent. Councilman Nicholls offered a resolution confirming the sale, and it was quickly passed.

The trustees of Warren chapel have sent a communication to the borough authorities asking permission to locate a sign pointing out the situation of the chapel. This sign was desired to be placed at the corner of Somerset and Chatham streets. Lawyer Robert M. Clark appeared as counsel for Edward Wortmser, who owns the property at the southeast corner of Somerset and Chatham streets, where there is, at present, a sign belonging to Warren chapel, and remonstrated against granting the privilege sought. Mr. Clark contended that the council was not empowered to grant such privileges.

The matter was referred to the street committee with power to dispose of the petition filed by the Warren chapel trustees.

Councilman Sweekhamer filed the bond of Frank Whitely, who has lately been appointed a constable. There being no other business before the meeting, the council went into an executive session for the purpose of examining the books of the Assessor.

DON'T FORGET.

The Juniors' Excursion Will Go Tomorrow, Rain Or Shine.

The great Asbury Park and Ocean Grove carnival will take place tomorrow, and it will surpass all previous years in elaborateness and competeness, special attention having been given the electrical display. Among the things most mentioned is a full rigged ship called the "Constitution." It is lighted with 300 lights and is very elaborately decorated. The two electrical fountains on the lake are especially what most of the people are going with this excursion to see. A baggage car for baby carriages and bicycles will be attached to the train. Remember they leave the station at 8:15, rain or shine, and returning leave the Park at 9 o'clock at night.

Shipping Spring Water.

The Watchung Water Company, a recently formed concern composed of local men, shipped 6,000 gallons of spring water last Monday to the Cunard Steamship Company in New York, to be used on steamers.

Associated With His Father.

Dr. Norman Hayes Probasco, having finished his hospital services in New York city, has associated himself with his father, Dr. J. B. Probasco, at 175 East Front street.

Invited To Give Oration.

S. D. Drake has received an invitation to deliver an oration at the farmers' picnic, which will be held at Flemington, Wednesday, August 21.

Council Meeting.

There will be an adjourned meeting of the Common Council, Tuesday evening, August 20, to consider some important matters.

HURT IN RUNAWAY.

Miss Clara Long Injured While Trying To Escape From a Runaway At Bound Brook.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Aug. 14—While Cornelius Bergen, of this place, and Miss Clara Long, of Plainfield, were out riding at Bound Brook yesterday, Mr. Bergen's horse became frightened at the cars while crossing the Port Reading tracks and started to run. One of the reins broke and the horse ran up the tracks.

Miss Long jumped out and struck on her head, injuring herself badly. She was taken into the Lehigh Valley station and subsequently taken to her home in Plainfield by Miss Helen Hartwell and her cousin, Miss Elizabeth Long, of Somerville, whom she was visiting, and who went down as soon as she heard of the accident.

Mr. Bergen was thrown out, his nose was broken and his head badly cut. He was taken to a drug store, where his wounds were dressed, and he was then brought home by Miss Mae Hartwell, of this place, who happened to see the accident.

VOTED DOWN COUNTY ARMORY

FREEHOLDERS ALSO FAILED TO STRAIGHTEN BRIDGE BUSINESS.

Still a Deadlock on Giraud Avenue Bridge—Estimate of Cost of Other Bridges.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, August 14.—The Board of Freeholders met yesterday and transacted considerable business. Resolutions on the death of Dr. H. G. Wagoner were passed. The finance committee reported the expenditures to date to be $21,500 50.

Mr. VanCleef asked for a reconsideration of the vote on the Giraud avenue bridge, North Plainfield, but his motion was lost by a tie vote. A motion to build a low truss iron bridge across the canal at Raritan, in front of Kenyon's shops, was carried. Bids will be received August 26, at the Court House.

The armory vote was reconsidered, and Mr. Cruser moved that the contract be awarded according to certain changes made by Architect VanNuys, the iron and mason work to M. J. Hickey for $5,821.50, and the carpenter work to W. D. Bird for $3,900; total, $9,721.50. The motion was lost, seven to three, Messrs. Logan, VanCleef and Cruser voting for the armory.

The following estimates of probable cost of bridges was presented by the members: Bedminster, $2,000; Bernards, $1,500; Branchburg, $2,200; Bridgewater, $12,000; Franklin, $2,400; Hillsborough, $4,500; Montgomery, $1,800; North Plainfield township, $2,400; North Plainfield borough, $3,000; Warren, $2,400; total, $34,200.

Mr. Mobus moved that the appropriations for the current year be fixed at $115,000 for current expenses and roads, and that the clerk certify the same to the County Board of Assessors. Carried.

Michael J. Hickey was awarded the contract for a brick arch bridge at East Cliff street, Somerville, for $625.

The board then adjourned to meet August 19 to go over the Pluckemin road.

FIREMEN ENTERTAINED.

Lincoln Chemical Company, of Somerville, Celebrated Its Own Progress Last Night.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, August 14. — Lincoln Chemical Company received its new chemical engine Saturday night, from Baltimore, and last night held a reception at its new house on Warren street, to which the town officials, members of the various fire companies of Somerville, and chiefs of Plainfield, Bound Brook and Raritan, were invited.

Previous to the reception a short parade was made on Main street by the Chemical Engine Company and various other companies in Somerville. A small building in front of the Court House, saturated with oil, was set on fire during the parade, and the chemical boys made a run for it and soon put it out with their new engine.

All hands then repaired to the headquarters of Chemical Engine Company where refreshments were served in abundance and a general good time was had.

The members of the company have just completed a handsome new house costing $4,000, have purchased a $400 team of horses, and with their new engine feel as proud as peacocks. Much credit is due the building committee, Wm. H. Cawley, Jr., John A. Maxwell and J. H. Gernert, who also managed the reception. Three hundred were entertained.

—J. H. Hughes, of Jackson avenue, has resigned his position at a local butcher shop.

SOCIALIST HARANGUED FROM STREET CORNER.

Tried To Explain To Plainfielders His Solution Of The Evils Of The Laboring Man.

SOMEONE SHOUTED "RATS."

WANTED MEN IN THE CROWD TO ASK HIM QUESTIONS.

Painted The Capitalist As the Arch-Enemy Of the Workingman and Depicted His Villiany In All Its Horror—Crowd Wasn't Impressed.

For an hour and a half last evening Robert Dalton, of New York, delivered a political harangue to a motley crowd, or rather a sparse congregation of unbelievers on the virtues of the socialist labor cure as a panacea for all political ills. "Glittering generalities," dressed up in mongrel rhetoric, were hurled at the spectators thick and fast from the top of a box at the corner of Park avenue and West Second street.

Naturally the "capitalist" was painted as the arch-enemy of the workingman, and his villiany depicted in all its horror. Mr. Dalton had not advanced far in his solution of the evils that confront the "down-trodden" toiler, when his logic caused a mechanic, whose appearance denoted that he possessed more than the average share of intelligence, to shout "rats." This remark seemed to exasperate the stump-speaker but he pursued the even tenor of his way and continued to waste his fragrance on an amused assemblage.

After Mr. Dalton had thoroughly explained, to the satisfaction of himself, the righteousness of the cause, or rather the complaint, he announced his readiness to answer all questions whether propounded by a "minister, press man, lawyer or politician."

"Vy don' yu teach us tu read," asked a bystander, whose accent gave evidence of his owner's late arrival from some "old country." This was the opportunity for which the orator would have missed his night's sleep to grasp.

"Because, my friend," he shouted "the Socialists have not gotten control of the public schools. When they do everybody will be educated. Today the schools are in the hands of the capitalist and the children are denied their rights. They are compelled to go in the mines and into the sweatshops. Some are made to go into the capitalists' private penitentiary, which you call factories." Education as well as money, above all things, under socialistic rule, is going to be absolutely free, according to Mr. Dalton.

"Why for the moon come out before the star shine," was the next question put to the human encyclopedia of learning. This query made the speaker forget his gentle manner, when he realized that the thread of his discourse had been too intricate for the spectator. With a simple reference concerning "fools," the speaker dismissed the subject.

At this stage of the game, an excited supporter of the doctrines of Eugene V. Debs, invited the man, who had shouted "rats," to the rostrum. "If you are speaking to me, please excuse yourself," was the rejoinder of the person in question. When Mr. Dalton had expended his eloquence in "arraigning" capital and "viewing with alarm" the trend of political affairs, he announced the meeting adjourned until Saturday evening when Mr. Campbell, another agitator for the free and equal distribution of wealth, will solve the question over again.

Swedish Service.

A service will be held by the members of the Swedish mission in the Congregational church edifice Thursday evening. Rev. G. Ellstrem, of Brooklyn, will make an address. At the conclusion of the service, ice cream and cake will be served. A programme of instrumental music has been arranged for the occasion. The service will commence at 8 o'clock.

CANADA CUP RACES.

Invader Wins Third and Last on a Foul.

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—William Hale Thompson, Cadillac's skipper, presented Invader with the third race of the international yachting match for the Canada cup by fouling the Canadian boat at the start in full view of the judges and most of the spectators.

Captain Jarvis of the Canadian yacht declined to fly his protest flag, but the judges steamed after Cadillac and notified Captain Thompson that they disqualified his boat, whereupon Cadillac was gibed around and left the race. Invader sailed over the course and was raced by Milwaukee, the Oshkosh boat that so hotly contested with Cadillac the honor of defending the cup, and the sailing match was followed all around the triangular course of 21 nautical miles by the usual fleet of steam and sailing yachts. Invader beat the Oshkosh boat handsomely at all points of sailing in a light wind.

Captain Jaryis said after he got ashore that he felt no satisfaction in getting a cup race in this way, but that he was pleased that his boat had had an opportunity to beat Milwaukee.

Judge Warner, speaking officially, gave it out that the unfortunate incident was Captain Thompson's own fault and that the judges had no course left open but to disqualify the Cadillac.

The Saratoga Races.

SARATOGA, Aug. 14.—The largest crowd of the meeting witnessed the races yesterday. The feature was the fine performance of the black mare Imp, she defeating the filly Smoke by a neck in the mile and 70 yard race. The stake feature was the Seneca, a selling affair for 3-year-olds, which was won by the favorite, The Musketeer, who was in front the whole journey, winning easily by a length and a half. Barbara Frietchie at long odds beating the strongly played second choice, Paul Clifford, half a length. Eleven, the largest field of the day, went to the post in the hurdle race, the nine to five favorite, Holland, winning in a hard drive by a neck from Salesman, with Kufa third. Honolulu, at short odds, scored an easy victory in the five and a half furlong selling for 2-year-olds, Playlike beating Oclawaha out for the place. The closing race went to All Gold, who beat Agnes D a head. Five successive favorites were successful.

Anaconda Defeats Joe Patchen.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—Anaconda defeated Joe Patchen in the match pacing race, the feature of the opening day of the meeting at Brighton Beach. He easily beat Patchen in two straight heats. The big free for all trot, for which a $10,000 purse was offered, was captured by Lord Derby, while Captain Sphinx won the honors in the 2:12 pacing event.

Cuba's Day at Buffalo.

BUFFALO, Aug. 14.—Cuba's day at the Pan-American exposition has been appointed for Aug. 29. Senor Don Tomas Estrada Palma will be here, and an invitation has been cabled to General Gomez to be present on the occasion also.

Mr. Gage Buys Bonds.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—The secretary of the treasury has purchased $10,000 short term 4 per cent bonds at 113.1045 and $1,020 threes at 108.4444.

Devery Starts For Home.

SARATOGA, Aug. 14.—Deputy Superintendent Devery of the New York police department left here for New York at 6:25 o'clock last night.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

The Duke and Duchess of Cornwall have reached Durban.

The town of Farsund, Norway, was nearly entirely burned.

Ware and Wright won the doubles in tennis at Newport, R. I.

The steamer Humboldt brought $500,000 in gold from Alaska to Seattle.

A local train on the Missouri, Kansas and Texas was held up near Caney, I. T.

The remains of Dowager Empress Frederick were interred in the mausoleum of Friedenskirche, near Potsdam.

James E. Bedell, sentenced in 1888 to 25 years and 4 months in Sing Sing for having stolen $296,880 from a New York law firm, has been pardoned by Governor Odell.

Helen Potts Hall, who claims the entire estate of the late George Francis Gilman, the millionaire tea merchant, obtained from Justice MacLean in the supreme court a decree of absolute divorce from her husband, Blakely Hall.

FOR GENERAL PEACE

Mr. Holls Thinks Outlook Is Very Bright.

NO EUROPEAN POWER WANTS WAR.

Effect of Hague Tribunal, Boer War and Other Elements of Situation. Attitude of Foreign Powers Toward the United States.

LONDON, Aug. 14.—Frederick W Holls, United States member of the international court of arbitration at The Hague, who is in London after prolonged visits to St. Petersburg, Berlin and Vienna, sails for New York today on the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse. In talking of his impressions of the relations between the European powers and America Mr. Holls said:

"Although my trip was of a professional and private character, I have had the opportunity of seeing leading statesmen and foreign ministers as well as numerous publicists and international lawyers. From all we have heard we believe that the outlook for peace among the great powers and for the gradual but unmistakable development of the intent of the peace conference could hardly be better. No European people wants war any more than the Americans.

"Notwithstanding all appearances to the contrary, public opinion is today the greatest European power. Of course it would be folly to say there is no longer danger of war, for popular excitement in any one quarter may upset all calculations. Still, the existence of a permanent tribunal to decide international disputes, the well recognized economic breakdown which war now means for all belligerents, the lessons of the Boer war and the frightful fiasco in China, all these elements of the situation are working powerfully for peace.

"The present feeling in Europe regarding the United States cannot be characterized in one phrase. That it is not everywhere friendly must, I fear, be admitted. But this is not strange. The strength and prosperity of the great peaceful 'unmilitary' republic is not pleasing to its opponents and critics of our institutions. Then there is natural jealousy in commercial and industrial circles of our economic progress. But it should be remembered that governments of all forms are averse to having their foreign policy dictated by theorists or even by exporters and manufacturers. Any policy which even seems to be dictated by class instead of by the highest interests of the whole people is doomed to failure by its inherent weakness. Hence I believe it is a long way from commercial jealousy and the excited articles in the press about the 'American danger' to political or even economic hostility.

"The talk about a combination of the European powers against the United States is fanciful and impracticable. They have greater causes for quarrels among themselves than any of them has against the United States. All talk to the contrary in parliaments and in the press is, in my opinion, merely a cover for an increase in tariffs by the particular powers. Of this we certainly cannot complain. It vindicates our own policy of protection. Moreover, it is a question whether it is not even desirable for us, for it will compel us to adopt a policy of reciprocity, which ought to be a permanent benefit to the country.

"The masses regard us as ever their best friends. They view the increased prestige and power of the United States in the world of politics with hope and delight. They recognize our new position as a great guarantee of peace and progress.

"Whatever objections are raised to our assertion and vindication of the Monroe doctrine in its extended form come from theorists only and, so far as my observation goes, meet with no popular approval whatever. Our claim to control and own absolutely and exclusively any and all isthmian canals is cordially recognized not only on the continent, but by most authorities and organs of public opinion in Great Britain. With skillful diplomacy on our part it ought to be easy to arrive at an agreement which should be entirely satisfactory to American public opinion without impairing in the least the present cordial relations existing between the two great English speaking nations."

Auction Sale at Lawton, O. T.

LAWTON, O. T., Aug. 14.—The indications are that the receipts from the auction sale of town lots now in progress under direction of the federal government will exceed $500,000 in Lawton. This is more than twice the estimate of the most optimistic boomers of the reservation. One 25 foot lot sold here for $140 a front foot, and the average during the day was about $55 a front foot. Two wholesale grocery companies will begin the erection of buildings at once. Two private banks were established yesterday, making a total of four for the town. The entry for claims is still being made by winners in the land lottery.

Our Exports to Germany.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—Consul General Mason at Berlin has transmitted to the state department a statement showing the value of exports to the United States from Germany for the fiscal years ended June 30, 1900 and 1901, respectively. It gives the exports by cities and shows that for the year 1900 goods to the value of $98,312,159 were exported from Germany to the United States, while for the period ended June 30, 1901, goods to the value of $99,887,013 were exported from Germany, an increase over 1900 of $1,574,854.

Americans Tried For Looting.

VICTORIA, B. C., Aug. 14.—News was brought by the steamer Olympia of the trial of three Americans, James Winn Alfred Plant and Richard Leslie Butler, who, it is alleged, looted a Chinese pawnbroker's store in a village about 30 miles from Peking on June 25. The case was tried at Tien-tsin before United States Consul Ragsdale and was still in progress when the Olympia sailed.

The Parnell Monument.

BOSTON, Aug. 14.—A letter received by friends of Hon. John E. Redmond, M. P., states that the Parnell memorial monument will be made by Augustus St. Gaudens, the sculptor, at a cost of $40,000, the work to be done in five years.

Ito Coming to America.

YOKOHAMA, Aug. 14.—The doctors have ordered the Marquis Ito, the former premier, to take a sea voyage for his health. He is consequently going to America for a short stay.

GAINS BY STRIKERS.

Bellaire Plant Is Forced to Shut Down.

BREAK IN CARNEGIE FORCES.

Ten Skilled Workmen In Lower Mill Go Out—Some Accessions to Shaffer's Ranks In McKeesport and Wheeling—To Close Bellwood.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 14.—Neither side moved decisively yesterday in the great industrial conflict between employers and employees in the steel trade, and the result is still in the balance. The strikers made gains at Pittsburg, McKeesport, Wheeling and Bellaire in the last 24 hours, but in the main the advantage is still with the mill owners. Both sides claim to be preparing moves that will bring confusion to opponents, but neither side had shown its hand. The general situation can be briefly summarized as follows:

Ten men, five of them skilled, quit at the lower Union mill of the Carnegie company in Pittsburg and joined the strikers. Their defection represents the first break in the Carnegie forces of more than 15,000 men. The strikers were jubilant over the incident, but the company claims to have filled their places at once and that there will be no more desertions at any of the plants.

The Bellaire plant at which the men struck on Sunday was finally closed down after working short handed until Monday afternoon. When another start will be made is problematical.

Several hundred boys employed at the National Tube works at McKeesport went out during the night and day, and their action materially aided the effort of the strikers to finally tie the plant up. The works are going ahead short handed, but the ranks of the workers are thinning, and the supply of material is limited.

The strikers made gains at Wheeling, and the steel officials admitted that Benwood would be closed down. Clark's mill here is moving along full handed. Lindsay & McCutcheon's is operating with a small crew, and the managers are planning to open Painter's and increase the force at Lindsay & McCutcheon's. A break in the ranks of the men who struck at Painter's is expected, but the strike managers deny that one will occur. Another break is reported as possible at Newcastle, but there are as yet no positive indications of it.

The American Tin Plate company has a small force at the Crescent plant in Cleveland and is also planning resumption at other points with nonunion men.

Both sides express their confidence in ultimate victory and are actively carrying forward their respective campaigns. President Shaffer of the Amalgamated association left today for Wheeling, where he is to address the strikers. The number of men out as a result of the general order is now roughly estimated at 16,000 and on the three orders at 62,000. Many strikers have found work in independent mills or at other occupations, and many are idle merely because the skilled men are out.

According to an authoritative announcement made to a representative of the press by officials of the American Sheet Steel company, the destruction of another plant has been ordered by the steel corporation as a result of the refusal of the men to operate it. This time it is the Chartiers plant at Carnegie that is to be dismantled. It is owned by the American Sheet Steel company, and the orders to tear it down went out yesterday. It will be removed to Leechburg, in the Kiskiminetas valley.

The strikers were called together Monday by Superintendent John Henry and preliminary notice of the company's plan served on them. Eighty strikers responded, and Mr. Henry told them that the fires would be lighted and all preparations made for a start Tuesday. He said that at 2 o'clock the whistle would be blown, and if the men failed to respond the fires would never be relighted. The programme as outlined was carried out, but when the whistle sounded the men did not respond. The fires were at once drawn, and the order to dismantle and remove the mills was given. The officials of the company said that the plant would be down and moved within two weeks.

The steel corporation held its ground at Chicago, Joliet, Bay View, Youngstown, Columbus, the Kiskiminetas valley and the Carnegie group with the exception of the instance named. The strikers are considering plans for breaking the decision of Chicago, Joliet and Bay View to stand with the steel companies, but what they plan to do has not yet been made clear. They are charging some of the western men with both dishonesty and disloyalty, and there is a general desire among members of the Amalgamated here for some form of inquiry.

There was no trouble at any of the strike centers yesterday, although it was anticipated at the points where plants are being partially operated and the men are wavering on the question of going out. Crowds surrounded the Carnegie plants here, and the officials finally called on the police to clear them away. The officials say that the loss of ten men at the lower Union mill can be directly traced to the threats of the strikers, who intercept the men on the way to and from work. They make the same complaint as to Bellaire, Wheeling and McKeesport.

They say that the strikers at Riverside went to Bellaire and literally bluffed the remaining men into going out. They also claim that the same tactics gained the strikers the steel workers in the National Tube plant at Benwood and also forced out hundreds of loyal employees at McKeesport. They say they have given up hope of getting protection from the local authorities at McKeesport and Wheeling, but have given no indication that they intend to ask for state aid in either Pennsylvania or West Virginia. The strike leaders, on the other hand, insist that they are proceeding entirely within their rights and the law and that any recruits won by them have been obtained by means entirely fair.

Mayor R. J. Black of McKeesport last night gave out the following statement in reply to the numerous criticisms of his course in not dispersing the crowds of strikers at different times during the strike:

"At a time like this in McKeesport, when so many men are idle, they are bound to come out on the streets and crowd them more than usual, and, like every other crowd, will gather where there is an excitement, but so far there has been little or no disorder, and in all cases the police have handled the situation admirably. There is no more orderly set of men in this country than the men who are idle in this city today. In the instances in which the tube company requested me to send men to disperse the crowds the chief of police was on the ground at the time and reported that there was no disorder. We cannot order a man to go home and stay there when he is doing no harm and only standing on the street. As far as the tube company is concerned it has taken and appropriated to its own use a street of this city to which it has no legal right whatever, and this is the very street on which it was complained that the strikers had congregated. If I allow a private corporation to take up and appropriate to its own use a street, how can I consistently refuse a private citizen the right to stand upon it? I do not consider talking to nonunion workers disorder in any sense, and the men have a perfect right to attempt all kinds of arguments as long as they do not resort to positive physical coercion."

A telegram from Youngstown says that the furnace workers have decided not to strike. The executive committee of the Furnace Workers' union of Mahoning and Shenango valleys met in that city today to receive and take action upon the report of the subcommittee appointed to investigate the rumored sale of the output of the furnaces of the two valleys to the United States Steel corporation. The subcommittee's finding was to the effect that the rumor was correct, but the executive committee, after a long discussion of the situation, in view of the fact that the steel corporation has furnace capacity of its own sufficient to supply its present needs and the further fact that the furnace owners involved have given the men assurances that if they will continue at work no pig iron will be shipped under the contract with the steel corporation, decided that a strike at this time is unadvisable. Meantime it was decided to organize the stockmen and other employees of all the furnaces of the country, effecting a national organization, which shall be affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

BIG GUNS STOLEN.

Two Six Inch Rifles Carried Off In Santiago.

SANTIAGO, Cuba, Aug. 14.—Several days ago it was discovered that the two modern six inch Spanish guns comprising the Punta Gorda battery, which commands the entrance to the harbor of Santiago, were missing. This battery and the guns of the Sacopia battery were the only modern cannon employed by the Spaniards against the United States warships, with the exception of those landed from the Spanish cruisers.

Yesterday the harbor police discovered the guns, which had been carried to a forest on the other side of the bay and been broken by explosives, ready for shipment as old metal.

Several Spanish ships had been searched by the police, who had expected to discover that the guns were being shipped by the Spaniards to Spain. The sentries guarding them were removed six months ago. It was considered impossible to carry off the guns, and there was no fear of malicious destruction. The thieves are now in jail.

Independent Order of Red Men.

BUFFALO, Aug. 14.—The thirty-fourth grand council of the Improved Order of Red Men of the state of New York opened here with a large attendance of members of the order and a fair sized representation of the Daughters of Pocahontas, which organization is affiliated with the sons of the forest. Great Representative Joseph Nathan called the convention to order and introduced Mayor Diehl, who extended the freedom of the city to the visitors. Great Sachem Orr of Orrs Mills responded. After addresses by Great Senior Sagamore William H. Barkley of Fort Hunter and Charles C. Conley of Philadelphia, representing the great council of the United States, the convention went into executive session. The past sachem degree was administered to 275 candidates.

Striking Machinist Fined.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Aug. 14.—Robert Jenkins, the striking machinist of Drifton who violated the court's order in committing an assault on a nonunion man after Judge Halsey had granted an injunction preventing the strikers from interfering with the nonunion men, was taken before Judge Halsey. Jenkins gave himself up voluntarily to Sheriff Harvey. The sheriff had an attachment for him. This action on Jenkins' part probably saved him from a term in prison. Judge Halsey imposed a fine of $25 on the prisoner and also exacted from him a promise that he would not again interfere with the nonunion men.

Wants Reciprocity.

BERLIN, Aug. 14.—The Kreuz Zeitung publishes an article by Paul Dehn warmly advocating a reciprocity arrangement with the United States. The writer, who believes this to be feasible because the Americans "have a sharp eye for self interest," says: "If Germany and the United States should enter upon a war of tariffs, other nations would only rejoice, inasmuch as their interests would be promoted, but other nations would be compelled to reckon with Germany and the United States if a treaty of reciprocity existed."

Nicaragua Seizes Canal Property.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Aug. 14.—By order of the government of Nicaragua the machinery and other materials are being removed from the dredges belonging to the Maritime Canal company of Nicaragua and will be used on a tug or transport boat owned by the government. The dredges are now at the port of San Juan del Norte.

Drowned Trying to Escape.

EASTON, Pa., Aug. 14.—Joseph Gumelak, a Hungarian, while trying to escape from a constable in Phillipsburg plunged into the Delaware river and was drowned. The Hungarian had been convicted of perjury and slipped out of the justice's office while his friends were arranging to have him kept out of jail.

S'SH SLEEP AT LAST

LAXAKOLA DOES IT

NO ONE BUT A MOTHER can appreciate the benefit that sound refreshing sleep gives to an ailing, teething, feverish, colicky, fretty infant.

Almost distracted by its constant crying, and worn out with weary, anxious care and watching, she tries everything possible to obtain even relief for the little sufferer.

With what comfort and delight she sees her little one drop off into a deep peaceful health-giving slumber, after its little clogged bowels are cleared of their poisonous burden by a single dose of Laxakola, the great tonic laxative and mother's remedy.

Laxakola is a pure, gentle and painless liquid laxative, and contains valuable tonic properties which not only act upon the bowels, but tone up the entire system and purify the blood. A few drops can be given with safety to very young babies, which will often relieve colic by expelling the wind and gas that cause it. Great relief is experienced when administered to young children suffering from diarrhœa, accompanied with white or green evacuations, as it neutralizes the acidity of the bowels and carries out the cause of the fermentation. LAXAKOLA will aid digestion, relieve restlessness, assist nature, and induce sleep. For constipation, simple fevers, coated tongue, or any infantile troubles arising from a disordered condition of the stomach it is invaluable.

Laxakola, the great tonic laxative, is not only the most efficient of family remedies, but the most economical, because it combines two medicines, viz.: laxative and tonic, and at one price. No other remedy gives so much for the money. At druggists, 25c. and 50c., or send for free sample to THE LAXAKOLA CO., 132 Nassau Street, N. Y., or 358 Dearborn Street, Chicago.

THE COLOMBIAN REVOLT.

State Department Receives Important Advices.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—The state department yesterday received mail advices from three different quarters in Colombia, all showing revolutionary movements in progress and a rather serious condition of affairs. Both termini of the Panama railway route were heard from, Consul General Gudger writing from Panama as to a revolutionary attack on nearby towns and Consul Malmros, at Colon, reporting that guerrilla fighting had been going on at different points between Colon and Panama.

At the same time Minister Hart wrote from the capital of Colombia as to the arrest and imprisonment of prominent adherents of the former president, Dr. Sanclemente, as they were suspected of seeking to have the Nationalist organization join with the Liberals, who are said to be showing increased strength and activity in a revolutionary movement.

Although these letters have taken some time to come forward, yet they give the state department about the best and the only definite information which is at hand as to the condition of affairs. Mr. Gudger's letter speaks of a revolutionary raid on the 26th and 27th of July, in which an alcade and several policemen were made prisoners and some arms and provisions captured. This is not the holding up of the train at Matachin reported by him by cable, as that happened later and did not result in any looting.

The navy deparment has received word of the departure of the Iowa from Puget sound for San Francisco, whence she will go to Panama if her services are required there.

PENNSYLVANIA DEMOCRATS.

Making Preparations For the State Convention.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 14.—Chairman Creasy and his assistants were busy yesterday arranging the preliminaries for tomorrow's Democratic state convention. The executive committee met at noon today to select the temporary officers, and in the evening a conference of the leaders will be held to prepare a platform.

There is no contest for places on the state ticket, and the indications are that Judge Harman Yerkes of Doylestown will be the nominee for supreme court judge and Representative Andrew J. Palm of Meadville for state treasurer. The selection of a ticket is apparently a secondary consideration to the contest between the rival Philadelphia factions for seats as delegates.

The city committee, of which ex-Governor Pattison is chairman, has certified a full list of what are known as Donnelly-Ryan delegates, whose seats are contested by the committee of which Magistrate Eisenbrown is the head. National Committeeman Guffey is anxious to restore harmony in the party in Philadelphia.

Ex-Judge David L. Krebs of Clearfield, the leader of the opposition to the Donnelly-Ryan faction in Philadelphia, gave out a statement last night that he was in favor of fusion between the independent Republicans on the state ticket.

Charged With Criminal Negligence.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 14.—George B. McClemmy, proprietor of the grocery store at Tenth and Locust streets, in which on Monday of last week an explosion of gasoline occurred, resulting in the death of eight persons and the injuring of about 40 others, has been arrested on a warrant issued by Coroner Dugan. McClemmy is charged with criminal negligence in keeping explosive oil in the cellar of his store. He was injured in the explosion and is at present confined to his bed. He will be kept under police surveillance until he is able to appear at the inquest, the date of which has not yet been decided.

Rockhill to Leave Peking.

LONDON, Aug. 14.—"Mr. Rockhill, the United States special commissioner, will leave Peking in a few days," says a dispatch to The Times from the Chinese capital. "The French government, with characteristic courtesy, has offered the cruiser Pascal to convey him to Japan, whence he will proceed by steamer."

Odell Leaves Albany.

ALBANY, Aug. 14.—Governor Odell, accompanied by Mr. James G. Graham, his private secretary, left Albany at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon for Newburg. "I have nothing to announce concerning the New York police situation," said the governor to a press representative as he boarded the train.

WORK ON SHAMROCK

Refitting New Yacht In Erie Basin.

BIG MAST PUT IN POSITION.

Challenger Will Soon Be Ready to Go Into Drydock For the Scraping of Her Hull—Novel Features of Lipton's Boat.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—Work went on admirably in the Erie basin yesterday so far as the fitting out of the Shamrock II was concerned. Early in the morning the gear which was utilized in the towing of the yacht over the ocean was sent ashore. At the same time the fore and aft rigging and the shrouds and backstays that held in position the sturdy lower mast and the stump topmast were sent down. In a little while the jury mast was ripped out of her, the thick and unwieldy spar opposing little or no obstacle to the machinery of the derrick. The spar was hoisted out of the challenger in almost magic time. It was dragged out of the mast step and landed safe and snug on the dock in a few minutes. The yacht without her mast looked as helpless as a sampan. A large crowd gathered. Some of its constituents were so curiously impressed that they sought to make rude and crude measurements of the mast.

The combination lower mast and topmast, which is the first of its kind to be used in a racing yacht, has caused much admiration among yachtsmen. There were only two occasions in the history of the battles for the America's cup when it became necessary to clew up and haul down topsails and eventually to house topmasts. Thus, while the Constitution and Columbia are each provided with a telescopic topmast that is supposed to come down deckward with more or less alacrity, the lower mast and the topmast on each of the above mentioned craft are always subjected to unusual stress and strain aleft. For instance, if a preventer backstay parts the sudden jerk might imperil the lower mast. The spreaders in the cup defenders, it is said, seem to be depended on too much. When one spreader breaks, the mast goes over the side. By such a contingency the America's cup may be either won or lost. The combined mast of the Shamrock II is constructed as nearly as possible after the model or design of the bamboo so far as that design could be carried out in imitation of nature.

The hollow spars were ready for shipment yesterday afternoon, and the great derrick Century, like a giant handling a toothpick, landed the enormous mast of the Shamrock on dry land. Then a crew of riggers, aided by a gang from the yacht, lent a hand. First the cleats, spreaders of teak and steel were placed in position. Next the steel wire, stays that support the mast fore and aft and athwartships were got over the mast head. All this took time and trouble. The derrick answered to every signal. The massive mast slung about amidships by a heavy purchase was so controlled by guys and braces that its heel was compelled to seek its step with commendable promptitude. It was a seamanlike job, reflecting credit on all concerned. By 6 o'clock the mast was in position and was steadied temporarily by shrouds and fore and aft stays. When the mast is completely stayed, the Shamrock will take the place of Sir Thomas Lipton's steam yacht Erin in drydock and will have her hull scraped for the numerous impending trials.

The crew of the Shamrock slept last night aboard the big and handsome tender Porto Rico. They are ambitious and willing. All hands aboard the Shamrock II and the flotilla that exploits the green flag are confident of victory.

New Sails For Constitution.

BRISTOL, R. I., Aug. 14.—The new suit of sails being made for the Constitution will be completed this week, and it appears to be the intention to have the mainsail bent on the Constitution before she leaves for the races in Long Island sound. If the new mainsail is ready for bending tomorrow, it is the intention to bring the Constitution here from Newport and as soon as the change is made to tow her to Larchmont. The new mainsail will be a trifle longer on the leach than the old one, so that the main boom will not top up so high when the sail is set, and the peak of the sail will be as lofty as at present. This means a trifle more area of canvas for the Constitution in the coming races than she had in those of the past month.

Lipton Confident of Success.

LONDON, Aug. 14.—The morning papers publish interviews with Sir Thomas Lipton, in the course of which he expresses himself as confident of the success of the Shamrock II and says he believes the Columbia will be chosen to defend the cup.

Duke of Cornwall at Durban.

DURBAN, Aug. 14.—The Ophir anchored at 7 o'clock yesterday morning, and the Duke and Duchess landed at 11 by the tender Panther. The Ophir, the convoying cruisers and a Portuguese cruiser lying in the harbor had their flags at half mast in memory of the Dowager Empress Frederick. The merchant shipping was decorated, but here also the flags were at half mast. The immense crowd on the block at the end of the harbor included Zulus and Indians as well as whites, and all cheered enthusiastically, the forts meanwhile saluting.

Army of the Philippines.

SALT LAKE CITY, Aug. 14.—Several hundred former volunteer soldiers representing the volunteer regiments that took part in the campaign in the Philippines were greeted at Assembly hall by General Irving Hale of Colorado, first vice president of the Society of the Philippines, in the second annual reunion of that order. Large delegations were present from Colorado, Utah and Idaho. Kansas, Minnesota, Pennsylvania, Nebraska and Iowa were also represented. The reunion will last three days.

King Edward Leaves Berlin.

BERLIN, Aug. 14.—King Edward left last night for Homburg, and Queen Alexandra started by special train for Hamburg, where she will embark on the royal yacht Osborne, which will proceed to Copenhagen.

Protocol to Be Signed Tomorrow.

PEKING, Aug. 14.—It is expected that the protocol will be signed tomorrow. Yiu Chang, formerly director of the Tien-tsin Naval school, has been appointed Chinese minister to Germany.

It's a Shame.

Just when everybody supposed that it was a settled thing that Company M, the company of the Second Regiment located at Somerville, was to have an armory, the announcement comes from Somerville that the Somerset County Board of Freeholders has about decided to give up the project. The reason seems to be that the amount appropriated by the board will not cover any of the bids presented by the rival contractors.

It was only after much trouble that the appropriation for the armory was passed through the board and then the advocates of the plan were happy. Although Company M has been located there for many years, this is the first time that there has been such a movement to give the citizen soldiers proper accommodations. Now comes the surprising statement that the armory plan will probably be given up.

It is really too bad that the plan should fail when so near fulfillment. The amount appropriated was $12,000, while the lowest bid was less than $1,000 more. Either the Freeholders ought to be able to find some one who will get down to the required figure or else the appropriation raised the slight amount necessary to cover the amount of the bid. There is no doubt but that an armory for the local militiamen is a good thing. Now that a majority of the board have taken that view of it, they surely should not hold off for reason of a few hundred dollars.

Another Important Question.

Municipal ownership of water works is not the only problem which the officials of the borough will have to wrestle with this fall and winter. There was a committee of citizens appointed some time ago to investigate the question of proper sewage disposal in North Plainfield. That committee will settle down to work as soon as the weather becomes a trifle cooler.

As every municipality grows in size it becomes necessary to provide a practical method of sewage. The borough of North Plainfield has outgrown the antiquated system of cesspools with all its attendant menace to health. It is now time to provide something more serviceable. Since Plainfield has been struggling with the sewer question, the principal residents of North Plainfield have been watching the happenings with anxious eyes, knowing full well that the day was not far distant when they would be confronted with the same problem.

An attempt will be made to avoid any such unpleasant incident as has marked Plainfield's acquaintance with the sewage disposal business. In order to accomplish that end, the borough officials propose to go at the subject with much care. Just exactly what method will be adopted there is no means of knowing as the committee has held no sessions as yet. The sentiment seems to be against any combination of interests with Plainfield.

By inserting catchy advertisements in the newspapers, relates the Philadelphia Record, a manager of the Standard Oil Company in Minnesota has induced thousands of people to buy oil stoves for summer cooking and become regular customers of the oil company. The profits on the increased sales of kerosene in the State the first year were many times the cost of the advertisements. There is no business (except burglary) which cannot be increased by newspaper advertising.

A wild tale was given prominence in several of the New York newspapers to the effect that there was much danger to the health of the members of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club through impurities in the well water there. As a sure means of disproving the story Former Mayor C. J. Fisk, president of the Board of Health, ordered an analysis which was made and proved conclusively that the water at the club was just as pure as is the water down here in Plainfield.

What will be W. O. Carr's answer in the county election board controversy? That is what all the politicians are asking. Hamilton F. Kean says there is none to be made but Governor Voorhees seems quite confident of his ground, and some form of an answer may be expected before long.

Twice now have burglars nearly suffocated a defenceless woman while they ransacked her home. It is time that such affairs were stopped. The authorities should take prompt and decisive measures to bring the offenders to justice. Where is that famed Jersey justice now?

If you desire to learn the details of a "great steal," just watch the columns of the Democratic papers throughout the State and hear their comments on the redistricting of Elizabeth. Now the Republicans will tell you that it is positively the fairest arrangement that could have been made.

All through the State, interest is shown in the Republican attempt to redistrict the city of Elizabeth. As now divided, the Democrats have control of the City Council. Under the change, the other party will naturally win the coveted majority in the municipal legislative body.

There is no doubt but that the proposed field day of Company K in this city Labor Day would prove a very popular attraction. It would also give the people some idea of how the town boys compare with the citizen soldiers of other cities in the State.

A careful financier like Edwin S. Hooley would not offer a premium for the new bond issue over in the borough unless he had an excellent opinion of that municipality's financial standing.

Prompt measures have been taken by the North Plainfield health authorities and there need be no fear of any spread of that dread disease which has now claimed a single victim over there.

The people of Plainfield are to have another musical treat Friday night. It will be a treat all right but somebody has to foot the bill.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short and Gossipy Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

Almost every day parties of Plainfield people visit the Westfield Fresh Air Camp and take useful articles for the little ones and their mothers. The enterprise is a most worthy one and has enlisted the sympathy of a host of people in this city and vicinity. Miss Curry is now at the camp and is attending to the many duties in her usual faithful and efficient manner.

* * * * *

People in this neighborhood are realizing that New Jersey's reputation as a builder of small war vessels is well established. Lewis Nixon's yards at Elizabethport are full of business, and all manner of war craft are being constructed there. No less than nine vessels are being built now. The most pretentious is the protected cruiser Chattanooga, 37 per cent. completed, which is expected to be ready for commission in about a year. She is to be of two-masted schooner rig, 292 feet long, 44 feet beam, and will carry in her main battery ten 5-inch rapid fire guns, while her secondary battery will consist of eight 6-pound rapid-firers, two 1-pound rapid-firers and four Colt automatic guns. Then there is the monitor Florida, which is 68 per cent. done, and which is to steam twelve knots an hour, while the Chattanooga will steam seventeen. Next comes two torpedo boats, Nicholson and O'Brien, both of which are nearly completed. Besides these already mentioned are five sub-marine torpedo boats, including a new Plunger, the Adder, Moccasin, Porpoise and Shark. The Plunger is only 19 per cent. done: the Adder, 75 per cent; the Moccasin, 75 per cent; the Porpoise, 64, and the Shark, 63 per cent. Uncle Sam has no submarines in commission, and it is much to New Jersey's credit that out of the first seven to be constructed five are to come from this State.

AT THE THEATRES.

Something About the Attractions Which Plainfield Theatre-Goers May Care to Witness.

Standing room only has been the rule throughout the week at Keith's. This is undoubtedly due to the fact that you are assured of seeing the best vaudeville show in New York when you visit this theatre. The star act next week will be a sketch presented by the well-known artists, George Felix and Lydia Barry. Its title, "The Vaudeville Craze," is suggestive of its action. Second on the bill is Trovello, the ventriloquial comedian, who is without question at the head of the profession in this line of work. Other entertainers named are Guy and Guntram, eccentric acrobats; John LeClure, juggler; Fyne and Dandy, barrel jumpers; Trask and Gladden, songs and dances; Margaret Scott, violinist, and many others. The hit of the show this week was the well known and talented comedienne, Lillian Burkhart, who with her own company is presenting an entirely new sketch, "Kitty Clive—Actress." Another strong act is the offering of Laura Bennett and Sallie Stembler, a sketch entitled "Sapho and Lulu." There are many other high-class artists on the programme deserving of mention, such as W. C. Fields, the comedy juggler; the Frazer troupe of international dancers; Bertie Fowler, the dainty comedienne; Meakin and Rapier, etc. Continuous performance from noon to 11 p. m. Best seats, 50 cents.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May Be Of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

Passaic can boast of being the first city in New Jersey to enjoy a public automobile service, a line having been established running over a regular route from the railroad depot. Plainfield expects to be the next in line, the famous Silas Dewey Drake having decided to start a line of automobile 'busses.—Newark News.

* * * * * *

The suburbanites who travel on the Central Railroad of New Jersey are much exercised over the subject of card playing on the trains. Every morning the card fiends are in the habit of monopolizing the smoker by reserving seats for their friends who take part in the games. Thursday last this practice resulted in a row between one of the card players and a passenger who insisted on his right to a seat. The railroad company has ordered the card playing stopped.—Trenton Times.

* * * * * *

The decision of the New Jersey Central Railroad officials to stop card playing on the trains, on account of a recent disgraceful affray over an attempt to reserve seats, is the natural consequence of long-continued abuse of a privilege. The ordinary game of whist in the smoking car is unobjectionable, but when seats are reserved with no authority and the good American rule of first-come first-served is abandoned; or when the card game develops into systematic gambling, as is frequently the case, a nuisance is established and the prohibition of all games of cards becomes necessary. Another feature of the card playing to which objection is reasonably made is that the brakeman receives fees for providing boards and cards. Of course, it is no more than right that he should be paid for his trouble, but many of us dislike seeing the fee system introduced on American railroads, under any excuse. To fee the porter on a sleeping car is no more than feeing any waiter, but a brakeman is not in that sort of business, and is supposed to have ambitions of becoming a higher official of the company. The future superintendent of a railroad is not a proper object of tipping.—Newark Call.

Dean Denies It Too.

Charles Dean, who was arrested at the corner of Norwood and Brook avenues, Sunday, by the chief marshal of North Plainfield, declares that he was not "shooting crap," but was simply standing in the neighborhood at the time. Mr. Dean called at the office of The Daily Press last evening and requested that a denial be made of the charge.

Institute New Council.

Benevolent Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., will be instituted this evening in Washington Hall building. George H. Adams Council, of Newark, will perform the work. It is expected that several of the State officers will be present. A collation will be served after the institution.

Combined Meeting.

The Endeavor Society and midweek prayer meeting will be held this evening at the Park Avenue Baptist church. The subject will be "God's Requirements," and Thomas H. Cuming will be leader. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I.—Billy Gray, young college student, secures a lieutenant's commission on breaking out of Spanish-American war. He meets a Mr. Prime, Miss Prime and Miss Amy Lawrence.

CHAPTER II.—After a conference in his official tent, Gen. Drayton joins a gay company in his personal tent—Mrs. Garrison doing the honors as hostess.

CHAPTER III.—Lieut. Gray is invited to join the Prime party, to go over in Mr. Prime's carriage to see the review, but is denied leave by Col. Canker, whom the regiment had nicknamed "Squeers." Vacant seat in carriage is given Col. Armstrong.

CHAPTER IV.—On the way to the review the Prime party witnesses the capture of two soldiers suspected of having been accomplices in the stealing of stores intended for the soldiers—even of dainties contributed by the Red Cross.

CHAPTER V.—Gray receives a note from a prisoner, who is suspected of having been a large recipient of the stolen goods, but who declares his innocence, begs Gray's help and signs himself "George Morton," adding the Greek letters of the same fraternity Gray had belonged to in college. Gray had planned a night in town, expecting to meet the Prime party. In spite of the fact that this might be his last chance for a chat with Amy Lawrence, Gray manages to secure duty as officer of the guard, that he may have an opportunity to have an interview with Morton.

CHAPTER VI.—Preparations are made for sending part of command to Philippines. For some reasons Red Cross officials wish their tables, where they have been lunching departing soldiers, moved across platform directly under the side of the transport, but the officer of the guard refuses to allow no one to intrude on that space. However Mrs. Garrison overhearing wish of Red Cross official accomplishes the end by scrawling a note to the officer. The colonel of the regiment about to leave arrives and is surprised to see his reserved space occupied. Joining Armstrong at this moment he shows him Mrs. Garrison's note. Armstrong turns sharply to where Mrs. Garrison had been, but she had vanished. Armstrong now learns an important package has been taken from Gen. Drayton's tent. The night before an important prisoner, Morton, had escaped, and Billy Gray, officer of the guard, placed under arrest.

One lovely evening early in August, just about the time that Cadet Capt. Latrobe began to show well to the front in the run for the prize, the two sisters had gone to their room at the hotel to dress for the hop. It was their custom to disappear from public gaze about six o'clock, and when they came floating down the stairs in filmy, diaphanous clouds of white, the halls were well filled with impatient cavaliers in the natty cadet uniform, and the women waiting to see. Then the sisters would go into the dining-room and have some light refreshments, with a glass of iced tea—and no matter how torrid the heat or how flushed and dragged other women might look, they were inviting pictures of all that was ever fresh, cool and fragrant. The two fluffy blonde heads would be huddled close together a minute as they studied the bill of fare, and virtuous matrons at other tables, fanning vigorously, would sniff and say: "All for effect. They know that supper bill by heart. It never changes." All the same, at the bottom of this public display of sisterly devotion and harmony and in spite of occasional tiffs and differences, there was genuine affection on both sides, for as a child Nita had adored Margaret, and there could be no doubting the elder's love for the child. Some regimental observers said that every bit of heart that eldest Terrise girl had was wrapped up in the little one. Neither girl, even after Margaret's marriage, would listen to a word in disparagement of the other, but in the sanctity of the sisterly retreat on the third floor of the old hotel there occurred sometimes spirited verbal tilts that were quite distinctly audible to passers-by in the corridor, provided they cared to listen, which some of them did. On this especial August evening Mrs. Frank was in an admonitory frame of mind. They had known Mr. Latrobe barely three weeks, and yet as Mrs. Frank was sauntering around a turn in Flirtation Walk, leaning on the arm of the cadet adjutant, there in the pathway right ahead stood Nita, a lovely little picture, with downcast eyes, and "Pat" Latrobe bending over her with love and passion glowing in his handsome face, pleading eagerly, clinging fervently to both her tiny white-gloved hands. Mrs. Garrison saw it all in the flash of a second, the adjutant not at all, for with merry laughter she repeated some words he had just spoken as though they were about the wittiest, funniest things in the world, and looked frankly up into his eyes as though he were the best and brightest man she had met in years—so his eyes were riveted, and the tableau had time to dissolve. All the same that sight gave Mrs. Garrison rather more than a bad quarter of an hour. She was infinitely worried. Not because Pat Latrobe had fallen desperately in love with her charming little sister—that was his lookout—but what—oh, what might not happen if the charming little sister were to fall in love with that handsome soldier boy. At all hazards, even if she had to whisk her away tomorrow, that had to be stopped, and this very evening when they went to their room Margaret spoke.

"Nita, if it were only for Mr. Latrobe I should not care a snap of my finger, but it's you—you! I thought you had more sense. I thought you fully understood that you couldn't afford to lose yourself a moment, and yet if ever a girl looked like yielding you did this very afternoon. For my sake, Nita, don't let it go any further—don't fall in love—here—whatever you do."

The younger sister stood at the dressing-table at the moment, her face averted. The Mary Powell was just rounding the point, and the mellow, melodious notes of her bell were still echoing through the Highlands. Nita was gazing out upon the gorgeous effect of sunset light and shadow on the eastern cliffs and crags across the Hudson, a flush as vivid mantling her cheeks, her lips quivering. She was making valiant efforts to control herself before replying.

"I'm not in love with him," she finally said.

"Perhaps not—yet. Surely I hope not, but it looks awfully like it was coming—and Nita, you simply mustn't. You've got to marry money if I have to stand guard over you and see you do it—and you know you can this minute—if you'll only listen."

The younger girl wheeled sharply, her eyes flashing. "Peggy, you promised me I shouldn't hear that hateful thing again—at least not until we left here—and you've broken your word—twice. You—"

"It's because I must. I can't see you drifting—the way I did when, with your youth and—advantages, you can pick and choose. Col. Frost has mines and money all over the west, and he was your shadow at the seashore, and all broken up; he told me so when we came here. Paddy Latrobe is a beautiful boy without a penny—"

"His uncle—" began Nita, feebly.

"His uncle had a sister to support besides Paddy's mother. His pay as brigadier in the regular service is only $5,500. He can't have saved much of anything in the past, and he may last a dozen years yet—or more. Even if he does leave everything then to Latrobe, what'll you do meantime? Don't be a fool, Nita, because I was. I had to be. It was that or nothing, and father was getting tired. You heard how he talked."

The younger sister was still at the dressing-table diligently brushing her shining, curly tresses. She had regained her composure and took occasional furtive peeps at Mrs. Frank, now seated at the foot of the bed, busy with a buttonhook and the adjustment of a pair of very dainty boots of white kid, whose buttons gleamed like pearls. The mates to them, half a size smaller, peeped from the tray of Nita's new trunk.

There came a footstep and a rap at the door. "See what it is, Nita, there's a love—I don't want to hop."

It was a card—a new arrival at the hotel.

"Gentleman said he'd wait in the parlor, 'm," said the bellboy, and vanished. Nita glanced at the card and instantly trouble stood in her paling face. Silently Mrs. Garrison held out her hand, took the card, and one quick look. The buttonhook dropped from her relaxed fingers. The card read:

"Mr. Gouverneur Prime."

For a second or two the sisters gazed at each other in silence.

At last the elder spoke. "In heaven's name, what brings that absurd boy back here? I thought him safe in Europe."

CHAPTER IX.

One of the most charming writers of our day and generation has declared that "the truest blessing a girl can have" is "the ingenuous devotion of a young boy's heart." Nine mothers in ten will probably take issue with the gifted author on that point, and though no longer a young girl in years, whatever she might be in looks, Margaret Garrison would gladly have sent the waiting gentlemen to the right about, for, though he was only 20, "Gov" Prime, as a junior at Columbia, had been ingenuously devoted to the little lady from the very first evening he saw her. A boy of frank, impulsive nature, was "Gov"—a boy still in spite of the budding mustache, the 20 summers and the barely passed "exam" that wound up the junior year and entitled him to sit with the seniors when the great university opened its doors in October. Studies he hated, but tennis, polo, cricket, riding and dancing were things he loved and excelled in. Much of his boyhood had been spent at one of those healthy, hearty English schools where all that would cultivate physical and mental manhood was assiduously practiced, and all that would militate against them was as rigorously "tabooed."

At the coming of his twentieth birthday that summer his father had handed him his check of $5,000—the paternal expression of satisfaction that his boy had never smoked pipe, cigar or cigarette—and the same week "Gov" had carried off the blue ribbon with the racquet, and the second prize with the single sculls. It was during the "exams," the first week in June, when dropping in for five o'clock tea of some girls whom he had known for years, he was presented to this witching little creature whose name he didn't even catch. "We met her way out at an army post in Wyoming when papa took us to California last year," was whispered to him, "and they entertained us so cordially, and of course we said if ever you come to New York you must be sure to let us know—and she did—but—" and there his informant paused dubious. Other callers came in and it began to rain—a sudden, drenching shower, and the little stranger from the far west saw plainly enough that her hostesses, though presenting their friends after our cheery American fashion, were unable to show her further attention, and the newly presented—almost all women, said "so very pleased" but failed to look it, or otherwise to manifest their pleasure. She couldn't go in the rain. The butler had 'phoned for a cab. She wouldn't sit there alone and neglected. She deliberately signaled Mr. Prime. "The ladies are all busy," she said, with a charmingly appealing smile, "but I know you can tell me. I have to dress for dinner after I get home, and must be at One Hundred and Tenth street at 7:30. How long will it take a carriage to drive me there? Oh, is that your society pin? Why, are you still in college? Why, I thought—"

That cab was 25 minutes coming, and when it came Mr. Prime went with it and her, whom he had not left an instant from the moment of her question. Moreover, he discovered she was nervous about taking that carriage drive all alone away up to One Hundred and Tenth street, yet what other way could a girl go in evening dress? He left her at her door with a reluctantly given permission to return in an hour and escort her to the distant home of her friends and entertainers. He drove to the Waldorf and had a light dinner with a half pint of Hock, devoured her with his eyes as they drove rapidly northward, went to a Harlem theater while she dined and forgot him, and was at the carriage door when she came forth to be driven home. Seven hours or less "had done the business" so far as Gouverneur Prime was concerned.

THE NEW WOMAN...

By Eliza Archard Conner.

No matter how desperately bad off we are, when things reach the worst and we have gone quite to the bottom of the ladder there always will come a turn in our fortunes to give us a boost up again. All we have to do is to hang on faithful and true and do our best with the light we have. A lady now worth a hundred thousand and getting richer all the time wholly through her own brave brain and will less than 20 years ago was so destitute that she wickedly meditated suicide. I do not know what she would have done had there not been a change, but just in the nick of time came to her an offer of work, paying enough to keep her soul within its body. She grasped it as one sinking in a quicksand grasps a rope, and from that moment she went up the road magnificently. There was another woman I know of, with no genius, no trade and no bread. She had not even money to pay for a week's lodging. She was fairly ragged, she was so poor. It was proposed to her that she try to sell corsets to ladies in their homes. She caught the suggestion instantly and began her weary rounds. A number of names was given to her. One lady would commend her to others, so she widened her acquaintance, kept up heart of grace and trudged on. She happened to possess without having known it previously the selling faculty, which she developed as one whose living depends on it. Now she has a pretty flat in New York, dresses handsomely and is able to earn all she needs by taking orders for corsets in private houses. Corsets have done one woman good anyhow.

There is always something you can do to earn your living and do well. Find out what it is.

It is not an exhibition of your great heart to worry yourself ill over somebody you love. It is only an exhibition of your weak head.

It is gratifying to read that the best speech at the recent meeting of the Georgia Lawyers' association was made by a woman, Mrs. J. R. Terrell.

Ex-Sultan Murad, the deposed ruler of Turkey, says it was to escape the disgust and boredom caused him by the ignorant, squabbling women of his harem that he took to drink and thus lost his throne. Just so. "The woman that thou gavest me" did it, she did.

At last wage earning women who do manual work have established a union. It is under the wing of the International Union Labor league, and its object is to secure fixed hours of work, more freedom and better accommodations, especially for girls and women who are house servants. Girls in domestic service founded the organization, but all working women will be admitted. The name of the society is the Working Women's Union of America, and its headquarters are in Chicago.

A philosopher comments lugubriously on the fact that no women have invented any toys for children, though from being with children so much it might naturally be expected the first object they would turn their constructive genius to would be something to amuse young ones. The fact is that women who have been pinned down taking care of children all their lives naturally flee away anywhere to get relief from them.

In the old town of Augsburg, Bavaria, August Riedinger is a maker of balloons. Rather oddly, he employs only women in his factory. Perhaps he has a fancy for the sex or perhaps he can get women cheaper. At any rate, Herr Riedinger affirms before all mankind that women, because of their skill, manual dexterity and decision of mind, are better at balloon manufacturing than men and that by reason of the same qualities they are superior aeronauts. When Archduke Leopold visited the Riedinger factory, women explained to him the construction of airships, and women balloonists took him for a trip in one.

The women of Mont Clare, a suburb of Chicago, have formed a fire brigade, of which Mrs. O. E. Eames and Miss Harriet Sayre are captain and assistant marshal. The company will be drilled and prepared to fight fire in daytime, if when the men of the town are nearly all away one should suddenly burst forth.

Women are not half so helpless physically or mentally as they think they are and, what is worse, often appear to enjoy thinking they are.

Almost the best thing I have read in five years on the woman question is that report of the Chicago physicians who examined 300 young women candidates for teachers in the public schools. They were graduates of the normal college and the doctors said: "We have never before found so many women physically perfect. They are singularly free from nervous disorders and weakness of the eyes." The girls had athletic training during their college course.

NEVER IS LONESOME.

President McKinley Knows How to Attract People.

Has Ushered In an Era of Good Feeling Which Has Had No Counterpart Since the Days of President Monroe.

[Special Washington Letter.]

"I HAVE no doubt of the result; and when I am in the white house I will not be a lonesome president."

Thus spoke Maj. McKinley on the lawn beside his house in Canton, O., on the afternoon of the Sunday following the nomination of Mr. Bryan in July, 1896. Sitting under a tree with Congressman Apsley, of Massachusetts, and another friend, smoking after-dinner cigars, Maj. McKinley quietly made that statement which was then a prediction. Now it is a historic fact.

The gentlemen were adverting to the fact that of the leading men of the political party which Grover Cleveland twice led to success, very few were in the habit of calling at the white house. No unkind word had been said nor any uncharitable criticism uttered concerning President Cleveland; but the fact was mentioned that he had been deserted by many of the men who had formerly supported him, when Maj. McKinley said: "I will not be a lonesome president."

He has not been lonesome. On the contrary, he has had more callers daily since he has been in the white house than he could always find time to greet and welcome there. Leading men of both political parties have constantly called, and all of them have been on friendly missions. He has not been lonesome. He has not been austere, nor has he been repellant.

Because he has emphatically announced that he has no further political aspirations, he may now be commended with tongue and pen by men who talk and write with non-partisan conservativeness. Therefore, the people may be told that, many months before his first election, President McKinley determined that public men should always be made welcome at the executive mansion. That one fact, heretofore unpublished, will account in great measure for the president's popularity with all classes of his fellow citizens.

On the day following his first inauguration President McKinley went forth from the white house for a stroll down Pennsylvania avenue. His action was a surprise to the people. During the preceding 12 years no president had been seen alone in public in that manner. Grover Cleveland four years, Benjamin Harrison four years, and again Grover Cleveland four years, had been exclusively and reclusively incumbents of the white house without appearing on a public thoroughfare. When the narrator met President McKinley on the day following his first inauguration there were only formal salutations in passing, but the memory of the narrator vividly recalled those words: "I will not be a lonesome president."

It was strikingly apparent that Maj. McKinley was showing himself to be a man of the people from the very beginning; and he was doing it to let them all know that he did not intend to be "a lonesome president."

The reader must not erroneously suppose that any unkind reflections are directed towards the two preceding presidents in this contrast. They are not the only ones who have seen lonesome days in the white house.

Although every president has been revered and respected when his name has gone down into history, everyone of them was subjected to harsh, destructive criticism during his ascendancy; even the great and good Washington and Lincoln having been no exceptions to the general rule. It was the misfortune of Washington to have in his cabinet Thomas Jefferson, respected and adored for almost a century by a great political party, but who was one of the most selfish politicians that ever lived in high or low station in this republic. There is nothing in the career of Washington, not even excepting the cherry-tree story, which so manifests his enlightened Christianity as the fact that he called Thomas Jefferson into his cabinet and always treated him with kindness and courtesy.

When Thomas Jefferson became president he was subjected to criticism for every movement that he made; and even his great achievement, the Louisiana purchase, which made possible the expansion of this imperial republic, subjected him to all manner of violent and vile, insidious and open attacks upon the floors of both houses of the congress, as well as in the public prints.

With Monroe was ushered in the "era of good feeling." Peace had come and the country freed from war was so happy that it would not listen with any sort of patience to any party disagreements or bickerings. Even Jackson, that grim political fighter of after years, wrote to the new president and counseled him to harmony, saying: "Now is the time to exterminate that monster called party spirit," and advised him to select his cabinet and other officers without regard to party, telling him "the chief magistrate of a great and powerful nation should never indulge in party feelings." There was no antagonism between Monroe and congress during his eight years. The Missouri compromise aroused a storm of contention in congress, but no one dreamed of attacking the president under cover of it. So peaceful and harmonious had been his first term that he was reelected by a practically unanimous vote, only one ballot in the electoral college being cast against him, and that was by one of the electors of New Hampshire, who was his friend, but said he did not think after Washington that any man should have a unanimous vote, and therefore cast his for John Quincy Adams.

John Quincy Adams, like his father, had a stormy time from the very beginning. His own irascibility and dogmatism had much to do with creating the opposition he encountered. His policy, as outlined in his inaugural, split his own party and aroused a storm of opposition. He was able to secure the passage of some measures in support of his policy, but more often met with defeat, and the charge of a bargain and sale between him and Mr. Clay was reiterated again and again.

Old Hickory had enemies. Jackson, with his strong will, his own bitterness in his dislikes, might have looked for attacks. He undertook to domineer congress and force his party friends to support and defend all his measures. He met with great success in this line, but also met with determined opposition. One of the most bitter attacks made upon him during his term was that led by John C. Calhoun. Under Calhoun's political management many of the president's nominations for office were rejected by the senate. So bitter did the feeling become that when an insane painter by the name of Lawrence attempted to assassinate the president his friends charged that Lawrence had been instigated by Clay, Calhoun, Poindexter, White and others. It was during his second term that the celebrated resolution of censure was adopted.

Van Buren and Tyler both met with opposition from their own party friends, that against Tyler assuming the proportions of an open revolt. Mr. Polk went into office under the most flattering circumstances. He had defeated overwhelmingly the idol of the whig party, and was supported by a very large majority in both branches of congress, but had hardly got warmed in his seat before a war against him broke out. During the campaign he and his party had assumed the most determined attitude on the Oregon boundary question; but the new president, once installed, counseled a different line of action. His course in the matter aroused the most bitter opposition among the democrats. This opposition was voiced by Senator Hannegan, of Indiana, who in a most vehement speech said:

"So long as one human eye remains to linger on the page of history the story of his (Polk's) abasement will be read, sending him and his name together to an infamy so profound, a damnation so deep that the hand of resurrection will never drag him forth."

The first "era of good feeling" in this republic lasted without interruption only during the first term of President Monroe; while the second "era of good feeling" did not begin until the second term of the McKinley administration was fairly along. It is fair to presume and not hazardous to predict that the good will of the people of this republic and the admiration of the nations of the world will linger with McKinley during his continuance in the chief executive position of our republic.

He has not been and will not be "a lonesome president," but his personal popularity has not been because he has been a good politician alone, but because Maj. McKinley has been and is an exceptionally sincere Christian gentleman. People who have lived long in Washington know that his devotion to his invalid wife has been as beautiful an exemplification of practical Christianity as was ever shown to any people since the Founder of the religion of love was Himself upon this earth.

Corporation Notice.

Notice is hereby given that the following Ordinance has been introduced before the Common Council, read the second time and ordered engrossed preparatory to its third reading, and that it is the intention of the Council to adopt the same.

GEO. B. WEAN, City Clerk pro tem.
Plainfield, N. J., Aug. 5, 1901.

AN ORDINANCE

to Provide for the Construction of a Further Addition to the System of Sewerage already Constructed in the City of Plainfield.

WHEREAS, There has been constructed in said City a system of sewerage and such action in relation thereto has from time to time been taken as is set forth in the preamble to the ordinance of said City entitled, "An Ordinance to provide for the construction of an addition to the system of sewerage already constructed in the City of Plainfield", approved November 6, 1897, to which preamble reference is hereby made for greater certainty; and

WHEREAS, In the opinion of the Common Council the public good requires that a further addition, as herein described, to the system of sewerage already constructed, should be now constructed in and for said City under the provisions of the Act in said preamble referred to, and the Common Council has so determined and does hereby so determine: therefore,

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That the Common Council doth hereby direct and order that a further addition to the system of sewerage already constructed under said Act, be constructed in and for said City under the provisions of the Act of the Legislature above referred to, with all the appurtenances necessary to complete the same, and of such dimensions and material and according to such plan as the said Common Council may hereafter direct, in and through the following described avenue, property, land and right-of-way described, mentioned and referred to in this ordinance, to wit:

ABOUT CONVINCED.

It is hoped that you are about convinced to let me stop at your home regularly with a nice clean piece of Hygeia Ice. I have been hammering away at you for some time to bring you around to this point. I believe it is economy for you to use ice. I believe also that you should use Hygeia Ice in preference to any other ice. Because it is a pure ice, a healthful ice and an ice that lasts longer than others. No dirt. No impurities—nothing in it that shouldn't be.

SPORTING.

ON THE DIAMOND.

The Hope Chapel nine, bag and baggage, is going to Asbury Park Saturday and consequently there will be no game on its local diamond that day. The team will accompany the regular Sunday school excursion to the Park and possibly play a game there. Walter Foster, the regular scorer of the team, is now at Asbury Park and is trying to arrange a game for the Hopes. There was some talk of getting a nine of college men together to play the Plainfielders but nothing definite has yet been heard. If no game can be arranged, the Hope boys will spend the time in the surf instead. They are hoping, however, that Foster will be successful and will find them some worthy opponents.

GOLF.

By winning first honors for the President's cup at the Park Golf Club Saturday afternoon, H. G. Phillips is now tied for third place with J. H. Howell. This is the second time that Mr. Phillips has made an unexpected rally and came out for the trophy. He has a total of six points. H. D. Hibbard is second with eight and Senator Charles A. Reed leads with nine.

The many golfers now stopping at Lake Champlain, N. Y., began play Monday for the President's cup, which was first offered in 1898 by Harry G. Runkle, of this city, who is president of the Hotel Champlain Golf Club. The cup, a handsome silver affair, is still the property of the club, as the condition necessary to permanent ownership has not been made, which is, the winner must be the same in two successive years.

Edward Erickson, expert and caddy master at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club, has been very successful this year in his position. He has made a friend in every member of the club by his strict attention to business and his universal courtesy to every one. It was formerly believed that a club must go abroad to get a suitable person for such a position. This idea is rapidly disappearing, for it has been found that in this country there are persons just as capable, and even more so. They can give their brethren across the sea points in many respects. Such a person is Mr. Erickson. He is capable and thoroughly competent.

ROD AND GUN.

E. W. Mills, of the U. S. Express, expects to spend the last of the week at Barnegat, fishing.

A party, consisting of Harry Radin, Russell Giles and Garrett Mattis, caught fifty-four weak fish at Sewaren Sunday.

J. Hervey Doane and Fredrick Pope, of LaGrande avenue, are spending the day at Sewaren. They are trying their hand at deep sea fishing and are amply supplied with blue fish bait.

AMONG THE STEPPERS.

H. S. Taylor, of Westervelt avenue, has sold his pacing horse to parties from Westfield. He has also purchased a trotting colt from J. W. Johnson, of the Meadow Brook Stock Farm.

Was in a Hurry.

T. P. Neilson, an upholster, was arrested yesterday afternoon on Richmond street, by Patrolman McCarthy, for riding on the sidewalk. At the police court hearings, this morning, the defendant admitted that he was aware that he was violating an ordinance, but was in a great hurry at the time the offense was committed. Neilson was dismissed with a reprimand.

SHOULD LOUIS ROESEL HAVE BEEN HANGED?

usual intelligence, and realized his position keenly. He never for one moment, even in his last hours, relapsed from his position of innocence and bade goodby to his keepers with heart felt thanks for their kindness.

When Justice VanSyckel sentenced George Manshande to twenty years' penal servitude, he said it was the most painful moment of his life.

"I only regret," he said, "that the law allows me to give you but twenty years in State's prison. You are equally guilty with Roesel and probably more so. The blood of Pitts is on your head as well as Roesel's and only your act in saving the State the expense of a trial and assisting in the conviction of your accomplice saves you."

All those persons who stood by the gallows in the jail that frosty morning when young Roesel went to his death with words of cheer to the shaking officials on his lips, will be glad to hear that Manshande will now serve his full twenty years in Trenton and possibly four years more for good measure.

BURGLARS IN DUNELLEN.

Ransacked the Home of A. H. Burdick While the Family Was Asleep.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, August 14.—The house of A. H. Burdick was entered and burglarized by thieves Monday night. They effected an entrance through a lower window and ransacked every room on the ground floor. They secured a pocketbook containing $2, a pair of shoes, and a silk umbrella, which, strange to say, was one which had been borrowed. A few other little things were taken, but the total loss amounted to but $6.

There were seven people asleep upstairs, but they were not disturbed in the least.

It is thought that an attempt was also made to get into Dealaman's store, but the fierce and prolonged barking of a number of dogs aroused the neighbors. No one was seen and the visitors left without touching any other places.

TREAT AT THE INN.

Novel Entertainment to be Given at Mountain Park Inn Tonight.

A novel entertainment has been arranged to take place at the Mountain Park Inn this evening. Moving pictures with illustrated songs, given by Barney E. McDonald, are the main attraction. The entertainment will be funny throughout. Invitations issued in the past by the management extend to this affair also.

A rare treat of a musical nature is promised at the subscription concert which is scheduled for Saturday evening, August 24. It will be given as a compliment to Madame Cortada. High-class vaudeville will be among the features. A small admission will be charged.

AFTER THEIR CLAIMS.

Italians Have Given Their Claims Against Patsy Christmas to Lawyer Newcorn.

There was great commotion last evening in Lawyer Wm. Newcorn's office, when thirty Italians, all having a claim against Patsy Christmas for work performed, called on Mr. Newcorn to make a detailed statement regarding their claims. The Italians assembled in the hallway and, accompanied by many interpreters, had a lively time of it.

Mr. Newcorn has been engaged by Italians to collect the money they allege is due them, and it required no little effort to get affairs straightened out. It is understood that Patsy Christmas is now in Pennsylvania.

At the Camp Meeting.

Reverent attention was paid to the stirring appeal of Rev. Mr. Crudrup of Newport News, Va., who addressed the visitors at the colored camp meeting at Vail's grove, last evening. This evening Rev. Mr. Smith, pastor of the Zion A. M. E., will preach. A singing contest, between F. Morris and Henry Jackson, will also be a feature.

Went To Somerville.

Some members of the Warren Engine Company, including Charles Stahl, Frank Kesselring and Thomas McGann, spent last evening as the guests of the fire department at Somerville. The chemical engine recently purchased in that borough was given a trial test. Subsequently refreshments were served.

Ten New Knights.

Freedom Castle, Knights of the Golden Eagle, met last evening and worked the second degree on ten candidates. At the next meeting there will be several candidates to take the first degree.

Injured in Fall.

Etta Trembly, of West Fourth street, fell from her bicycle, in the rear of her home, Monday afternoon, and sustained a severe cut at the knee. The wound is not dangerous.

PERSONAL.

Miss Mary French, of West Seventh street, is sojourning at Dunkirk, N. Y.

Miss Margaret Dorgan, of Arlington avenue, is visiting friends at Hempstead, L. I.

Mrs. U. B. Kinsey and daughters are spending a month in Princeton and Asbury Park.

Miss Helen Walsh, of the West End, has gone to Philadelphia to spend her vacation with relatives.

Miss Libbey Reigle, of Albany, is visiting her cousin, Miss Libbey Reigle, of South avenue.

V. W. Nash and J. W. A. Bauersachs visited Upchurch Lodge, A. O. U. W., at Westfield last evening.

Mrs. George W. Saums, of West Front street, returns home tomorrow, after a pleasant visit with friends at Point Pleasant.

James T. MacMurray, of Westervelt avenue, left today for Ocean Grove where he will spend the remainder of the month.

Mrs. Frank Shattle, Jr., of East Sixth street, is spending her vacation at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Coffey, at Rahway.

Mrs. Geo. Pierce Elder and her little son, of Atlanta, Ga., left for home this morning after a two months' visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Smith, of 60 Washington avenue.

DOVE PARTY.

Miss Nellie Apgar Entertained At Her Home Last Evening.

A dove party was given by Miss Nellie Apgar at her home on East Front street last evening. Recitations by Miss Josie Murphy and instrumental selections by Miss Simmons made the evening pass rapidly. Refreshments were served at a late hour.

Among those who were present are: The Misses Nonan and Thompson, of Brooklyn; Miss Addie Henderson, of High Bridge; the Misses Amy Stir and Lula Van Sindron, of Flemington; Miss Elsie Zoller, of New York, and the Misses Josie Butscher, Ida Firman, Josie Murphy and Florence Simmons, of this city.

TRAIN CRASH AT AMBOY.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Perth Amboy, August 14—A Pennsylvania freight ran into a New Jersey Central paper train in a heavy fog here early today. C. Stallman, of Jersey City, and Rev. H. R. Robinson, of Trenton, were slightly hurt.

Death of an Infant.

An infant son of George Doty, of Park avenue, died this morning. No arrangements have as yet been made for the funeral.

Clinging to a Good Thing.

"My daughter," said the father of the beautiful girl, "young Mr. Milyuns will very likely propose to-night, and—"

"Father," she cried, "I cannot marry him."

"No? Well, put him off for a week. I want to borrow another thousand from him."—Philadelphia Record.

His Little Joke.

Didn't See Approaching Train—Was a Prominent Citizen of South Bound Brook.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Bound Brook, August 14—John Jennings, aged forty-five years, a well-known resident of South Bound Brook, was killed last evening on the Lehigh Valley Railroad by a fast eastbound milk train.

During the evening his wife was taken very ill, and Mr. Jennings was on his way to this place to get a physician. As he approached the railroad the Black Diamond Express going east went by. This was about 9:30. Mr. Jennings being in a hurry did not think another train might come along, and while crossing the track the milk train appeared and struck him before he realized what had happened.

The body was thrown a distance of sixty feet and landed in front of the freight-house. Death was instant. Railroad officials took charge of the body and County Physician S. O. B. Taylor was notified. He gave permission to remove the body, and this morning he granted a burial permit.

Mr. Jennings was one of the best known and most highly respected citizens of this place. He was a tobacconist. He was a prominent member of the Knights of Pythias and the Reformed church, of this place. Besides a wife, he leaves a son.

WAGON UPSET.

But the Occupants, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Ball, Managed to Escape Serious Injury.

Mr. and Mrs. George Ball, of Washington Park, while taking a pleasure drive last Saturday afternoon in the borough, narrowly escaped serious injury.

They were driving along Mountain avenue, near Hand's brick yard, where the avenue is obstructed by dirt that has been thrown there in excavating. The horse was a trifle nervous, but Mr. Ball thought he would be able to pass by without any trouble. The wagon suddenly struck a pile of dirt and upset, throwing the occupants out in the roadway. Fortunately the horse was caught before he had a chance to run away.

Mr. and Mrs. Ball did not sustain any serious injury, but they were both badly strained and somewhat bruised. Dr. Adams was called later and gave proper treatment. It is understood that some action may be taken against the proprietor of the brick yard for obstructing the street.

STOLE BOX OF PLANTS.

Taken From Yard Of E. A. Vermeule, Of Jackson Avenue, At Night.

The class of rascals, which stripped the flower beds at the Watchung School, this spring, are still continuing their practice of making away with valuable plants in the borough. The latest instance of this sort happened a few nights ago and E. A. Vermeule, of Jackson avenue, is the loser.

Under Mr. Vermeule's direction some highly prized plants in his grounds had been potted and placed in a box preparatory to arranging them for the winter. The box was placed at one side of the house in the evening. The following morning all the plants were missing. There is no clue as to who the perpetrators of the theft are.

No Meeting of Juniors.

On account of the excursion tomorrow under the auspices of Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., there will be no meeting of the Council in the evening.

Meeting of Company K.

Every member of Company K is requested to attend the meeting to be held this evening. The members will not wear their uniforms.

Judgment for Plaintiff.

The case of Leichtentritt against Laurant, in tort, was tried yesterday before Justice Huff, when judgment was given the plaintiff.

Take the Day Off.

Take next Saturday off and go with Hope chapel on their annual excursion to Asbury Park. You will never regret it.

BUYING UP PATENTS ON SEWING MACHINES.

J. Evarts Tracy, Of This City, Is Getting Control Of Some Valuable Improvements.

NEW ENGLAND INVENTIONS.

HAS BEEN AFTER NEW IDEAS FOR SEWING MACHINES FOR SEVERAL YEARS.

Most Important Patent Of All Just Granted To F. H. Richards, Of Hartford, And Has Since Been Assigned To Mr. Tracy.

Jeremiah Evarts Tracy, a wealthy resident of Plainfield, N. J., has for several years past been buying from Hartford and New Britain inventors many patents for the improvement of the sewing machine, relates the Hartford, Conn., Globe. Loopers, tuckers and novelties in the way of managing the shuttle have been acquired by Mr. Tracy through the purchase from the smart Connecticut men and nearly all of them have been for small parts of the machine.

Francis H. Richards, of Hartford has this week been allowed a patent for a sewing machine, after having prosecuted the application since January 26, 1895. This patent he has assigned to Mr. Tracy, and taken in connection with the other patents of inventions of Hartford and New Britain men which the New Jersey man now controls, the new Richards patent is the most important one. Mr. Richards' claims have been allowed on specifications to the number of thirty-two paragraphs. These paragraphs cover a sewing machine with bevel gears, and the details of the invention have been most ingeniously worked out.

Among the more important claims of Mr. Richards which have been allowed are: In a sewing machine having a vertically reciprocating needle bar, the combination herewith of a revoluble looper having sets of peripheral loop engaging hooks, the hooks of one set being oppositely disposed relatively to the hooks of another set, and each hook having a loop receiving opening contiguous thereto; driving mechanism in operative connection with and adapted for simultaneous operating the needle bar and looper at comparative velocities of predetermined ratio; and looper locking and reversing mechanism in operative connection with and adapted for changing the direction of movement of the looper, and also adapted for maintaining an operative relation between the needle bar and one of the other of the sets of the looper.

In a sewing machine an annular recessed looper having sets or series of peripheral loop engaging hooks, the hooks of one set of which are oppositely disposed relatively to and alternate with the hooks of another set, in combination with reversing driving gearing composed of members mounted on the loop taker driving shaft, and adapted for rotating the shaft and thereby the looper, in one or the other direction.

The combination, with a looper having at its periphery a plurality of sets of oppositely disposed hooks so located that the hooks of one set alternate with those of another set, and each hook of each set having a loop receiving opening contiguous hereto, of gearing effective to shift the looper to reset it and for driving the looper actuating shaft in one direction and the reverse; and means for maintaining an operative relation between the looper and the needle, whereby the hooks of one set engage the loops of the needle bar when the looper is rotated in one direction to form one kind of stitch, as a lock stitch, and the hooks of another set engage the loops of the thread when the looper is rotated in the opposite direction to form another kind of stitch, as a chain stitch or a lock chain stitch.

In a sewing machine, in combination with needle mechanism, a recessed bobbin carrying loop carrying looper having a series of sets of peripheral loop engaging hooks, the hooks of one set of which are oppositely disposed relatively to the hooks of another set, and each hook of which is separated from the next adjacent hook of the same set by a track segment, in combination with reversing gearing carried by the looper driving shaft and adapted for rotating the looper in one or the other direction as desired and also effective to shift the looper or reset it; and means for maintaining an operative relation between the loop taker and the needle mechanism.

In a sewing machine organized for

SQUARE MEAL.

Opponents Gathered At the Board and Settled Old Scores In Friendly Fashion.

A dinner was tendered the nine representing the Elizabeth police force by the members of the Plainfield force at the conclusion of the game yesterday afternoon. The "square meal," as one of the guests described it, was given at the Hotel Waldorf, and the men ate until the dishes looked lonely.

Chief Kiely presided at the function and explained from a technical standpoint "how it happened." No set speeches were made, although it is said that Nick Myers told on the quiet his early achievements on the diamond while Higgins repeated his experience as a raider of speak-easies.

JUNIORS OFF FOR THE SHORE

EXCURSION LEFT THIS MORNING IN A DRIZZLING RAIN.

There Were Enough, However, to Comfortably Fill Ten Cars—Fair Sex Largely Represented.

Members and friends of Franklin Council, No 41, Jr. O U. A. M., to a number sufficient to comfortably fill ten cars, left on an excursion this morning for Asbury Park. The start was made from the North Avenue station shortly after 8 o'clock. Members of the Bound Brook and Dunellen councils accompanied the Plainfielders.

Notwithstanding the unpleasant condition of the weather the crowd was in high spirits. The one remarkable feature was the number of young women who accompanied the members of the council on their outing. All dressed in gay attire, the colors of the council playing a prominent part, there was a brightness to the occasion which made one forget the light drizzle of rain falling before the excursionists left the city.

The train was in charge of Conductor F. O. Webster, of Duer street, one of the genial and popular employes of the Central Railroad. A flying trip will be made to the shore. There the Plainfielders will be afforded ample time to put in a good day's pleasure. In order that they may enjoy an evening by the waves the return from the Park will not be made until 9 o'clock.

BURGLARS AT WORK.

Attempted to Enter Home of Rev. B. W. Rosensans, But Were Frightened Away.

An attempt at burglary was made shortly after 1 o'clock yesterday morning at the home of Rev. B. Rosensans, on West Second street. The men first commenced their operations at a side window, which they made an effort to force open. Failing in this they tried to effect an entrance through a rear window.

Rev. Mr. Rosensans was about to retire for the night at this time and the noise made by the men could be plainly heard by him. He frightened the burglars off but secured no clue as to their identity.

Planned To Go To Camp.

It has been arranged that the Endeavor Societies from Hope and Warren chapels, as well as the members of the Sunday-school from Hope chapel, attend a meeting at the Westfield Fresh Air Camp, Wednesday evening, August 21. Two trolley cars have been engaged for the trip. It is expected that nearly everyone who goes will take a donation for the camp.

Sunday's Speaker.

The commercial traveler evangelist, Geo. F. Joly, of Philadelphia, will address the meeting at the hall of the Young Men's Christian Association Sunday afternoon at 4:15 o'clock. Madame Cortada, of New York, has been engaged to sing.

Great Council of Red Men.

The Great Council, Improved Order of Red Men, will hold its annual meeting, September 9-14, in the Eagle Room, Bon Ton Building, 117 West 23d street, New York. It is expected that fully five hundred delegates will be in attendance.

Building Car Stables.

The new car stables, being erected at Westfield by the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Street Railway Company, are progressing rapidly. The contractors hope to have their work entirely completed before cold weather arrives.

Class Photographed.

The members of the class of 1901, of the Plainfield High School, have just received their photographs which were taken several weeks ago. They are pronounced to be excellent, and every member of the class has secured one.

Hospital Governors To Meet.

There will be a regular meeting of the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital Monday evening, August 26, when important business will be considered.

DUNELLEN YOUNG FOLK WED.

MISS EVA M. NELSON AND ALBERT E. WESTON MARRIED YESTERDAY.

Ceremony Took Place At Bride's Home In Presence of Immediate Relatives and Friends.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, August 15—The home of Mrs. Lloyd B. Nelson was the scene of a very pretty wedding, yesterday, when Miss Eva May Nelson and Albert Ernest Weston were united in the sacred bonds of matrimony. The ceremony took place at 5 o'clock, and was attended by only the most intimate friends and relatives.

The rooms were decorated with beautiful cut flowers and potted ferns, while in the dining room the tables were ornamented with a pretty effect in red and white. The reception room was similarly trimmed.

Miss Nelson was attired in a becoming traveling gown of grey, offset by ecru lace. She was attended by her sister, Miss Emma Nelson, who acted as maid-of-honor. The groom's attendant was George Cook, of New York.

The bride and groom stood in a bower of ferns and roses, while Rev. Frank Fletcher pronounced the words which made them man and wife.

Following the ceremony, the guests sat down to a banquet which had been prepared by a well-known New York caterer. After a well-rendered piano duet the young couple left on the 7 o'clock train for their home at 394 Manhattan avenue, New York.

The only outside friends who were present were the G. E. Cuip, of New Market, of which Miss Nelson is a popular member.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Weston are popular young people and no better evidence of the esteem with which they are regarded by hosts of friends, could be shown than by the beautiful array of presents which were extended to them. Among the gifts was a profusion of cut glass and china ware, silver table sets and bric a brac.

Preceding the ceremony Miss Irene Day played the Lohengrin wedding march, and after the congratulations, Mendelssohn's wedding march was played by Miss Emma Nelson and Miss Irene Day as a duet.

CHASED BY COW.

Mrs Robert Pierce Received Severe Nervous Shock In the Encounter.

John Donnelly, of the West End, is the owner of a cow. This bovine has been allowed to run loose about the vacant lot opposite Hope chapel for some time past. Yesterday afternoon, Mrs Robert Pierce, also of the West End, was obliged to pass the cow and she was chased some distance by the animal. She received a nervous shock from which she had not recovered last evening. Complaints have been received concerning the cow and residents believe it is about time it is prevented from running at will over the public highway.

Vail Family Picnic.

The annual picnic of the Vail family will be held at Dewey Park Saturday, and preparations are being made for the usual good time. Last year there were nearly seventy people present at the picnic and as many are expected this year. The affair will be an all-day one and there will be a number of features to attract members of the Vail family.

Funeral Of a Child.

The funeral services of George Maxwell Homan, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. George Homan, of Hillside avenue, were held from the home Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The services were private, only the immediate relatives being present. Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis officiated. The interment took place in Hillside Cemetery.

Justice Huff's Court.

Justice Huff has issued papers in the contract cases of Sebring against Strauss, Sebring against Tingley, returnable August 23; Smith against Jones, returnable August 19; Richard Baldwin against Harry L. Carey, returnable August 23. In the last two named cases, Francis J. Blatz represents the plaintiff.

Rev. Mr. Dilts Coming.

Rev. Asa Reed Dilts, of Lowell, Mass, formerly pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church, is now visiting at his old home in Somerville. He will occupy the pulpit at the Park Avenue church, Sunday, when his many friends will be favored with an opportunity of hearing him preach.

The Last Chance.

So far as known Hope chapel excursion to Asbury Park Saturday will be the last of the season from this city. Everyone who wants to enjoy a day at the shore should therefore avail himself of this opportunity. Every arrangement is perfected for an enjoyable day.

WILBUR J. CHAMBERLIN DIED AT CARLSBAD.

News Of His Death Was Brought To His Parents In Plainfield Yesterday.

ON STAFF OF THE N. Y. SUN.

SOME OF HIS ACCOMPLISHMENTS FOR THAT METROPOLITAN DAILY.

Spent His Early Days In This City and Wedded a Plainfield Girl—Death Was Great Shock to the Aged Couple.

The sad news of the sudden death of Wilbur J. Chamberlin, only remaining son of Mr. and Mrs. O E Chamberlin, of 612 Madison avenue, reached Plainfield yesterday afternoon and was conveyed to the aged parents at their home. The news came as a terrible shock, for only a week ago they received a letter stating that he was doing well and would soon be home.

During the past year he had been acting as staff correspondent for the New York Sun at Pekin. He was taken ill in London in July and went to Carlsbad. Three weeks ago he was reported to be convalescent, but died there yesterday morning of cerebral congestion and heart failure.

Mr. Chamberlin, as well as his two brothers, Ernest O. and Walter, were well-known newspapermen. They were known in this city prior to their advent into Metropolitan journalism.

Wilbur J. Chamberlin was the son of Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Chamberlin, of Plainfield, N. J. He was born in Great Bend, Pa., on March 12, 1866. His parents lived at that place for the first ten years of his life and then moved to Plainfield. The son went to the public schools and afterward into business in New York. He did not find this attractive and went back to New Jersey and became a reporter for a Jersey City paper. His aptitude for the work soon led him to establish a correspondence with New York and Philadelphia newspapers, to which he furnished New Jersey news. It was at this time that he did his first work for The Sun for which paper exclusively he began to write in 1887. In 1890 he went to work in The Sun's New York office. From that time on he had a part in most of the important news-getting exploits of his day.

When the Spanish-American War came on Mr. Chamberlin was put in charge of the corps of men which The Sun sent to the West Indies. It was largely due to his ability as an executive and his grasp of news that The Sun's reports were such as to cause comment, especially from those familiar with the difficulties besetting the correspondents in that war. His report of the great land fight at Santiago was the only one published at the time which gave the people of the United States an adequate idea of what had really happened on San Juan Hill and at El Caney. Of course, no man could see all or a fifth part of what really occurred that day, but The Sun had many men in the field. They all sent their news back to the base at Siboney, either by messenger or brought in it person, and here Mr. Chamberlin took hold of it. He talked with the men and supplemented what he knew himself and then he boarded The Sun's yacht, and on the driving trip across the Caribbean, with the sea tossing the yacht about like a rowboat, sat in the cabin and wrote a ten-column report for The Sun that when it was printed on July 4, 1898, made every one see with the eyes of those who were there.

At the close of the war Mr. Chamberlin returned to the New York office and remained here until affairs in China became so serious that the peace of the world was threatened. Then he went to the East. He left here shortly over a year ago and remained in China until last winter was over. When the crisis was over Mr. Chamberlin started home via the Suez Canal, but on account of the illness which came upon him on his arrival in London he was unable to complete his journey.

At the age of twenty Mr. Chamberlin was married to Miss Laura Moffett, the daughter of Amos Moffett, of Plainfield. He leaves four children, Grace, aged fourteen; Georgie, aged twelve; Wilbur, aged eight, and Chester Lord, aged four. His death is the third in his family in three years. His brother, Ernest O., died at the outbreak of the Spanish-American War, and another brother, Walter, died about a year ago. He had one sister, who is living in Chicago. The body will be brought to this country.

OPENING OF NEW COUNCIL.

BENEVOLENT COUNCIL OF JUNIORS WAS INSTITUTED LAST NIGHT.

Membership Is Nearly Seventy-five—State Officers Were Present—Degrees Worked.

Benevolent Council, No. 256, Jr. O. U. A. M., was instituted last evening in Sons of Temperance rooms, Washington Hall, by the State officers, assisted by the team from George H Adams Council, No. 36, of Newark. The new council starts with a membership of nearly seventy-five, many of whom were members of Franklin Council, No. 41, of this city, and who withdrew to start the new council.

The ceremonies last evening were witnessed by Juniors from this city and many adjoining towns and cities. The large room was scarcely able to accommodate all who wished to be present. The initiatory work by the team from Newark was very fine and was highly complimented by all who saw it. State Councilor H. S. Norris, of Newark, was in charge, assisted by State Council Secretary Wm. H. Miers, of Trenton, and other members of the State Council. H. J. Martin and Geo. Hunter, from the new council, were selected as candidates and they were initiated by the team.

Besides State Councilor Norris, other prominent officials present were State Council Secretary W. H. Miers, of Trenton, Past National Councilor H. A. Kible, of New Brunswick; Past State Councilor J. A. Smith, of Newark, and H. L. VanCamp, of Elizabeth.

Upon the completion of the work of institution and installation of officers, the Juniors adjourned to Washington Hall, where a sumptuous repast was served by the members of Benevolent Council.

The officers of the new council are as follows: Councilor, J. P. E. Kirch; vice councilor, George A. Blentyne; recording secretary, H. G. Adams; assistant recording secretary, Charles Suhr, Jr.; financial secretary, T. A. Kurzhals, Jr.; treasurer, Jacob M. Higgins; conductor, Charles H. Van Middlesworth; warden, Raymond Carver; junior past councilor, J. V. Beekman; inside sentinel, Thomas Lyness; outside sentinel, Gilbert S. Martin; trustees, eighteen month, Robert M. Clark; twelve months, Arthur G. Adams; six months, Howard Woolston.

WATER QUESTION.

Four Additional Members Appointed to Westfield's Advisory Water Board.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, August 15.—Chairman John A. Dennis of the Westfield Township Committee, has appointed the additional four members to the water advisory board, to confer on the question of the advisability of the township purchasing and owning its own distributing pipes to supply water for public and private uses.

The new members of the board are A. L. Bussel, Ira C. Lambert, John Darsh and Wellington Morehouse. The other members of the committee are P. E. G. Sjostrom, G. B. Dickerson, C. F. W. Wittke, H. D. Fink, Charles D. Orth, W. E. Tuttle, Jr., and Salter S. Clark. It is expected a meeting of the entire committee will be held at an early date.

WAS NOT ADOPTED.

Child Was Brought From Children's Home For Special Treatment.

The current report that the child, which died at the home of Mrs. Casper, on Somerset street, Tuesday, had been adopted by her, is incorrect, according to a statement made by Frank Keller, who is her son-in-law. Mrs. Casper resides with Mr. Keller, and he says that the child was brought to his home a few days before its death from the Children's Home on Watchung avenue. Mrs. Casper received the child on the representation that it was home-sick and required special attention. It was subsequently discovered that the infant was suffering with diphtheria.

Tommie Turned Farmer.

In an attempt to gain a knowledge of agriculture, Thomas McNabb Mair, of the reportorial staff of the Daily Press, is spending a few days on a farm near Woodstock, Canada. Thomas longs to see the Hope chapel nine again and will return home for that purpose Saturday.

Improving Elmwood Place.

Several front fences will soon be removed from properties in Elmwood place, thereby adding to the attractiveness of the street.

WORKING ON BOOKS.

Borough Council Still Examining Books of Assessor E. M. French.

The work of comparing the books of Assessor Elston M. French, which had been begun the evening previous, was continued by the Borough Council last evening. The task is a tedious one and it will require another meeting before the work is finished.

No corrections were made in the assessments as scheduled by the assessor, and his work was found to be in its usual good form. Mr. French was not present. The members of the Council in attendance were Mayor N. B. Smalley, Charles L. Nicholls and Charles L. Lee. Another meeting will be held Wednesday evening.

WARDROBE WAS SCATTERED.

COAL TRAIN WAS RESPONSIBLE FOR THE DISTRIBUTION.

Truck Load of Trunks Fell Over on Tracks In Front of Approaching Train Yesterday Afternoon.

The wardrobe of a man, who was to sail for Europe, this morning, was spread about the landscape in the neighborhood of the North Avenue station, yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock. It was the first accident which has happened to any baggage since the fence was put up between the tracks.

A truck full of trunks was being taken across the tracks and through the gate to be loaded on an approaching east-bound train. A wheel of the truck slipped off the platform and the heap of trunks toppled over on the west-bound track. At that precise moment, a coal train, going west, was bounding along toward the station at a lively clip. The truck was dragged out of the way and part of the baggage was rescued, but several trunks remained in the way of the approaching train.

Two of the trunks plowed into the fence and sadly demoralized the appearance of the iron rods. The contents of one trunk was scattered to the winds and strewn about on every hand. The trunk itself was reduced to kindling wood. The other trunks were put out of business.

The generously distributed wearing apparel was gathered up and shipped to New York in a badly bedraggled condition. The other trunks were fastened together temporarily and shipped to their various destinations.

NO FIELD DAY.

Company K Gives Up Field Day, But Will Hold a Clambake Next Month.

The members of Company K met last evening and among other things considered was that of holding a clambake. It was decided to hold such an event at Mountainside Grove, Thursday, September 5. The probabilities are that the field day event will be given up entirely. Some other matters of minor importance were discussed after which the meeting adjourned.

A BUSINESS CHANCE.

James E. McConnell Engaged as the Manager of The Hotel Plainfield.

James E. McConnell, the popular chief clerk of the Imperial Hotel and Cafe, which closed its doors Tuesday, has been selected by the proprietor of the Hotel Plainfield to fill the position of manager of that hostelry.

By his keen business ability and pleasing personality, Mr. McConnell was largely responsible for whatever success attended the Imperial enterprise. He made a host of friends for himself while acting in the capacity of chief clerk at that resort. His engagement by the Hotel Plainfield proprietor is looked upon as a shrewd business move on the part of the latter.

GUEST FOR A MONTH.

Westerner Asked For Aid and the City Gave Him Free Board.

On the charge of begging on West Front street this morning, Patrolman Maurice Higgins arrested Thomas Andrews, who claims to be a native of Wisconsin. The westerner was given a chance to explain the circumstances to His Honor, City Judge Bunyon, at the police hearings.

A fine of $5 with the alternative of thirty days' imprisonment was the decision of the court. Not having the requisite coin to pay the penalty, the prisoner was escorted to the county seat, this afternoon, where he will spend a month at public expense.

Police Justice Here From Elizabeth.

Among the interested spectators at the baseball game between the nines representing the police forces of Elizabeth and Plainfield yesterday was Police Justice O. P. Mahon, of Elizabeth.

GREAT BALL PLAYING WHEN POLICEMEN MET.

Plainfield's "Finest" Fell Victims to the Sharks From Elizabeth's Force.

SCORE OF GAME, 19 TO 14.

AS A CONTINUOUS PERFORMANCE IT WAS A HOWLING SUCCESS.

From a Baseball Standard Some of the Officers Managed to Put Up a Remarkably Poor Game—It Was Great Fun, However.

Something like 300 spectators, gathered together on the Plainfield avenue baseball grounds, yesterday afternoon, were afforded as much entertainment, witnessing the article of ball put up in the contest between the Plainfield Police and the Elizabeth "coppers," as was ever seen on a local diamond. The bluecoats of this city were defeated, the final score being 19 to 14, in favor of Elizabeth, but that fact did not dampen in the least the spirits of the crowd, most of whom were "rooters" for the local team.

Everybody went to the game to have a good time and there was no limit to the excitement in this unique game. Andy Freedman, of the National League syndicate, unfortunatdly had not been informed of this sporting event or otherwise, possibly, the police force of this city, as well as Elizabeth, would be minus some officers and the league would have new stars on its diamonds.

There was no lack of favorites among the teams. "Maurie" Higgins, who had failed to arm himself with an ax, kept the most sedate person in an uproar of laughter, and as for Ward, the pitcher of the visiting nine, in the estimation of the small boy he was simply "immense."

Yes, and there was lots of grandstand plays, although some of them did not terminate brilliantly. McCarthy's unparalleled two base hit in the fifth inning, was something that made the bleachers go wild for the time. "Mac" did himself proud on that occasion. Overbaugh, the popular captain and second baseman on Plainfield's "finest," among other performances of a creditable nature, made a great slide to third in the same inning, such as would put the famous Kelly, of bygone days, into a paroxysm of envy. McGinley's two bagger and Myers' clever catch at left were also the "real thing," judged from the standpoint of a baseball crank.

It was after the appointed time for the game to commence when Captain Schuler led the visitors on the field and the contest was in full swing shortly afterwards. The visitors went to the bat and Overbaugh's aggregation, resplendent in their nobby new uniforms, made their first appearance in the field this season. It did not take the Elizabeth boys long to get on to McGinley's curves and before their half of the inning was closed they had piled up six runs. It was at this stage of the game that McCarthy distinguished himself by making a muff of a fly sent by Kirk, the second man at the bat. Plainfield got its turn but only scored two runs before the inning closed.

To give a detailed account of the progress of the game would be tiresome, for it was not in that that the interest lay. The "cops" from the county seat were way in the lead until the fifth inning, when Plainfield took a decided brace and every man got a chance at the bat. Six runs were scored by the local nine and at the end of the inning the score stood 16 to 13 in favor of the visitors.

In the following inning the out-of-town people added two runs to their showing, while the Plainfield nine made but one. It had been decided to play but seven innings and hence the Elizabeth "bluecoats" put all the "ginger" possible in their play during the final inning in order to increase their lead. They made one more run. Overbaugh's men could not do anything, two out of four of the batters being struck out.

Elizabeth had a fairly good all around team, its weakness being principally in the fielding. The players were a jolly lot of men. Ward in particular furnished much amusement by his sallies of wit and humor. Towards the close of the match they scented a possible defeat, and the demeanor of some of their men quickly changed. In fact, their attitude, under the circumstances of an adverse decision in the final inning, was particularly unbecoming, and was not relished by the crowd, which was, gat-

It's the best proof, for it comes from Plainfield.

Mr. Richard Day, of 134 East Front street, says: "I had a miserable pain across my back and a sort of lame feeling over my kidneys. Standing any length of time, or walking any distance aggravated it greatly. I was never sick much in my life and consequently never took much medicine, so when I first began having these attacks I paid but little attention to them. They, however, grew worse instead of better, so I had to look about for a remedy. I read quite frequently in our papers about cures brought about by the use of Doan's Kidney Pills, so I got a box at L. W. Randolph's drug store and after taking them I felt greatly relieved. I have recommended them to my friends and those who have used them speak very highly in their praise."

THE CANADA CUP.

Invader Carries the Trophy Across the Border.

CHICAGO, Aug. 15.—The Canadian yacht Invader won again in a grand race, and the Canada's cup goes back across the border, but accompanied by five challenges. So manfully was it won and so thoroughly was the victory earned that he would be but a poor sportsman who could begrudge the Royal Canadian Yacht club one iota of the joy and pride of victory.

Captain William Hale Thompson and the crew of the defeated Cadillac are crestfallen at the result of the international sailing match, and it seems to be generally felt that they have reason to hang their heads, for they were beaten at all points of the game by the more skillful Canadian skipper and sailors.

Chicago yachtsmen are not dismayed, and both the Chicago and Columbia Yacht clubs challenged immediately for the cup. Each club sent a challenge direct to Toronto immediately after the race, at the same time handing Commodore Goodeham of the Royal Canadian Yacht club a duplicate. The Rochester Yacht club also challenged at once, and so did two Detroit yacht clubs. The Canadian commodore says he cannot tell which of the five will be given preference.

Ward and Davis Still Champions.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 15.—At the close of the second day at the Newport tennis tournament the championship in doubles had been settled, going to Ward and Davis for the third consecutive time and giving them permanent possession of the national trophies, which had never been finally won before. The first round in singles was finished with the exception of the Ward and Davis match. Ware, Wright, Stevens, Larned, Clothier, Little, Hobart and Paret have all survived the early matches. Of these Stevens and Larned and Clothier and Paret meet in the second round today. The others have easy matches. E. P. Larned, the Princeton interscholastic champion, defeated Miller of Yale and will now meet the winner of the Irving Wright (Harvard) and Leroy (Columbia) match.

Grand Circuit Races.

GLENS FALLS, N. Y., Aug. 15.—The third day of the grand circuit races here was signalized by the largest attendance in years, nearly every business house in the city closing to allow employees to attend. Five horses came to the front in the first race called, the 2:06 pace, with Edith W ruling favorite in the pools. Mazette won in straight heats without much difficulty. The betting in the 2:28 trot made Eleata an out and out favorite at $100, with the field $20. Eleata won easily with speed in reserve. Before the last heat of the 2:18 trot the judges removed the driver of Susie J, placing A. McDonald in the sulky. The new driver made Charlie Mac go in 2:11¼, the fastest heat of the race.

No Race at Newport.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 15.—After a drifting match of 3 hours and 40 minutes the Columbia and the Constitution gave up the race and were towed back to the city. At that time the wind had fallen to a flat calm, neither boat had steerage way, and the outer mark was still over four miles away. The race will not be resailed, as both boats are now on their way up the sound in tow to be on hand for the Larchmont event tomorrow. When the race was given up, there was nothing to choose between the two yachts. So far as could be judged the distances to the turning buoy were about equal.

Cycling at Buffalo.

BUFFALO, Aug. 15.—There was only one final at the grand circuit meet of the National Cycling association on the quarter mile board track at the Pan-American stadium yesterday. It was the half mile handicap amateur and was won by P. W. Brown of Pittsburg. The weeding out process for the grand semifinals and finals brought out some good contests and some surprises, especially in the Pan-American circuit championship. The fight for the money in this event has narrowed down to Kramer, Fisher, Lawson and Owen Kimble.

Onward Silver Wins Bonner Stake.

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—Onward Silver won the feature event at Brighton Beach, the Bonner memorial prize of $5,000, by capturing the fifth heat in hollow fashion; best time, 2:09¾. Captain Brino won the 2:20 pace, best time 2:07½; Shadow Chimes the 2:24 pace, best time 2:10¼. The 2:08 pace was won by Hetty G; best time, 2:06½. Captain Brocken won the 2:24 trot; best time, 2:13¼.

BANDIT ROBS STAGE

Bold Hold Up In the North Woods.

MAIL AND EXPRESS BAGS RIFLED.

Lone Highwayman Then Takes to the Hills With His Booty—Six Passengers In the Wagon Were Easily Routed.

GLENS FALLS, N. Y., Aug. 15.—News was received here last night that the Blue Mountain stage was held up by a masked robber about noon at North River. The scene of the hold up cannot be reached by telegraph or telephone from this point, but the following facts regarding the robbery have been received:

The stage which was stopped connects with a train which reached North Creek, Warren county, a station on the Adirondacks and Hudson railroad, at 10:20 o'clock a. m. When it left the station yesterday, it contained seven men and one woman besides a quantity of express and mail matter for Blue Mountain Lake. When the stage was one and a half miles north of Dunlap's hotel at North River, a masked robber suddenly appeared. His first move was to shoot one of the horses. He then ordered the passengers to hold up their hands and alight. Six of the men immediately took to the woods, the remaining man staying with his wife, who was relieved of $20, but the robber failed to find a larger sum contained in another pocket.

The highwayman then proceeded to rifle the mail bags and plunder the express packages, taking everything of value. After he had done his work he disappeared into the woods, and searching parties up to a late hour had been unable to find any trace of him. The stage driver procured a horse from a nearby farmer to take the place of the one shot and returned to North River to give the alarm. It was there learned that the robber was probably a man who registered at Dunlap's hotel the night before and left yesterday morning, taking with him a rifle and fishing rod.

Can't Close Jersey Saloons.

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—Supreme Court Justice Franklin B. Fort of New Jersey, holding court at Long Branch, has handed down a decision in which he holds that what is known as the "Voorhees law," passed at the last session of the legislature, applies only to gambling houses and other forms of illegitimate business and does not apply to saloons. The decision is a sweeping one and is interpreted to mean that under the Voorhees act city or county officials cannot be considered guilty of a misdemeanor for allowing liquor dealers or saloons to violate the Sunday excise laws, but applies only to gambling houses and others, which in their very existence are a violation of the statutes. In other words, it cannot be applied to a business which is at any time legitimate.

Heavy Floods In Arizona.

EL PASO, Tex., Aug. 15.—All the southern portion of Arizona has been partially covered with water for many days, and the destruction to property, especially to railroads, has been enormous. The Southern Pacific and the smaller mineral roads have suffered many washouts. The "burro" road that runs from Benson to Nogales has been unfit for use for several weeks, and nearly every day fresh floods come that destroy parts of the tracks. In all over ten miles of the track has been swept away, and the company has all its surplus help at work repairing the damage. The El Paso and Southwestern road has suffered severe loss between Benson and Bisbee, and a dozen bridges have been swept away.

Militia Discipline Upheld.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—Justice Clabaugh of the supreme court of the District of Columbia has upheld the verdict of the court martial which recently convicted Seaman Tegeler of insubordination because he refused to obey the orders of an officer of the naval militia. Justice Clabaugh's decision establishes the fact that enlisted men are subject to the authority of militia officers when thrown in official contact. An appeal was taken by Tegeler's counsel, and Tegeler was released on $50 bail.

Wireless Telegraph Working.

NANTUCKET, Mass., Aug. 15.—Communication by wireless telegraph has been established between this island and South Shoal lightship, and the system is working to the entire satisfaction of Commander J. D. J. Kelley, who has been in charge of the installation. Numerous messages have been exchanged between Siasconset and the lightship, but nothing of importance will be transmitted until the liner Lucania approaches the vicinity of the South shoals, which will probably be next Friday.

Cornell Summer School Closed.

ITHACA, N. Y., Aug. 15.—The summer session of Cornell university, which closed yesterday, has been the most successful in its history. Nearly 500 students, mostly teachers, took advantage of the courses offered. The registration this year was nearly 100 larger than last year.

Peruvian Cabinet Resigns.

LIMA, Peru, Aug. 15.—The Peruvian cabinet tendered its resignation as a result of the resolution of censure adopted by a majority of one vote in the chamber of deputies, but President Romana declined to accept it.

Attendance at Pan-American.

BUFFALO, Aug. 15.—The attendance at the Pan-American exposition yesterday was 58,642.

BOTH SIDES SCORE.

Victories For Strikers and For the Trust.

NATIONAL TUBE PLANT CLOSED.

Largest Individual Mill In Steel Corporation Forced to Shut Down. Painter Mill at Pittsburg and Crescent at Cleveland Started.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 15.—There were victories on both sides of the great steel strike yesterday, but they furnish no direct line on the ultimate result of the conflict. The strikers succeeded in finally forcing the National Tube works at McKeesport, probably the largest individual plant in the United States Steel corporation, to finally close down.

On the other hand, the steel corporation reopened the big Painter mill in this city and also resumed operations with nonunion men at the Crescent plant of the American Tin Plate company at Cleveland. Two mills were on at the Painter plant, although one of them broke down during the day, and, according to the statement of the officials, half the mills in the Crescent plant were moving. The forces at both the plants named are to be increased, and the managers claim they will soon have them working in full. They make the fifth and sixth plants which the steel corporation has succeeded in starting with nonunion men, the others being Wellsville, Hyde Park, Clark and Lindsay & McCutcheon.

There was a great labor demonstration at Wheeling yesterday, and President Shaffer made a stirring appeal to his followers to fight on. In an interview before he spoke he said that if the western lodges did not heed the final appeal of Assistant Secretary M. F. Tighe and come out they would be expelled from the Amalgamated association and their offers of financial assistance spurned. There were few other developments of importance during the day.

Locally the strike seems to drag and interest to flag. Large numbers of the strikers have gone away either for recreation or to work, and there has been scarcely any excitement, much less disorder. McKeesport and Wheeling are stirred up periodically, but there has been no violence at either place.

Rumor again settled the strike and lent a hand to restart the stilled mills of commerce. It was related that President Shaffer had acknowledged that he could not win, that the steel corporation feared that its rivals would profit by an extended strike and that they were going to settle. No shadow of confirmation of the story was possible. The general situation is thus briefly summarized:

The spread of the strike at McKeesport and Wheeling has brought the number of men who answered the final strike order to something over 20,000 and increased the total number of men rendered idle by the three orders to about 65,000. Many of the men drawn into the movement, willingly or unwillingly, continue to accept other employment, and the exact number now idle is a guess.

The strikers are fully in control at McKeesport, Wheeling, Newcastle, Bellaire, Mingo Junction and show some strength here. The manufacturers hold South Chicago, Bay View, Joliet, Youngstown, Columbus, the Kiskiminetas valley, the tin plant at Monessen and the Carnegie group.

Of the last named property some doubt is expressed as to the Lower Union mill in Pittsburg. Some men have left their places there, and the strikers boast that they will close it down. It is running, however, and the managers say it cannot be stopped. Desertions from the ranks of the strikers are reported from Painter's mill here and the Crescent plant in Cleveland, and the managers say that it is only a question of time before there is a general break.

The manufacturers have made no effort to break the strike at McKeesport or Wheeling with nonunion men and have given no indication of their plans in those districts. Both sides express their satisfaction with the progress of the strike.

Casualties In the Philippines.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—General Chaffee, under date of July 5, reports the following casualties: In engagement near Tulampoc, Luzon, June 21, William A. Rigsby, Thirty-first company artillery, leg, moderate. In engagement at Lucban, Luzon, June 19, Joseph T. Harley, Company A, First cavalry, left chest, severe. Killed by natives near Santa Cruz, Cavite, Feb. 13, bodies recovered May 24, Thomas H. Mathias, Company H, Fourth infantry; James R. White, Company H, Fourth infantry. Killed in engagement at Bohol island June 17, Albert C. Krause, Company I, Nineteenth infantry.

Independence to Race Navahoe.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 15.—The understanding is general among the yachtsmen that Mr. Lawson will challenge Royal Phelps Carroll for the Brenton's Reef cup, thereby giving the Independence a chance to race against the yawl Navahoe. Captain Haff, who went to Duxbury, Mass., to see Mr. Clapp yesterday, did not return today as expected. There is a general hope that the report will be true, for the race would be of considerable interest.

Double Murder In North Carolina.

GREENVILLE, N. C., Aug. 15.—News has reached here of a double murder near Gardners Crossroads, in the southern section of this county. William Gardner and Mack Dixon, both white, quarreled over some small matter. Gardner drew a pistol and fired three balls into Dixon's abdomen. Then Dixon knocked Gardner down, took the pistol from him and discharged the two remaining balls into Gardner's body. Both men died in a short while.

Kaiser Disapproves Tariff Bill.

BERLIN, Aug. 15.—"In court circles," says the Berlin correspondent of the Frankfurter Zeitung, "it is said that Emperor William is little pleased with the new tariff bill. He regards as the chief task of Count von Bulow the duty of securing a renewal of the commercial treaties. Count von Bulow's fate as chancellor depends upon his success in that direction."

Shinn Goes to Prison.

TRENTON, Aug. 15.—Still declaring his innocence of the murder of Thomas F. Applegate, Samuel Shinn has been taken to the state prison to begin his 18 years' sentence. He expressed the opinion that unless he received a new trial the court of pardons would release him within a year.

YELLOW FEVER SERUM.

Mosquitoes Bite In the Interest of Science.

HAVANA, Aug. 15.—In connection with the experiments which Dr. Caldas, the Brazilian medical expert, is about to conduct here to illustrate the efficacy of a serum designed to prevent the contraction of yellow fever the yellow fever commission will supply the mosquitoes. The commission has eight insects which have bitten a person suffering with a bad case of yellow fever. Two of the mosquitoes subsequently bit two persons who have since developed well marked cases.

The eight mosquitoes will be divided into two divisions. Two persons whom Dr. Caldas will inoculate with his serum will be bitten by two mosquitoes each. The other four mosquitoes will bite two nonimmunes, two each.

As all eight mosquitoes were infected from the same person and as two of them have already given yellow fever to two persons it is inferred that the arrangement will afford a good test of the preventive value of the serum, although other experiments will probably be conducted.

Board of Investigation Ordered.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—An order has been issued at the war department convening at Havana a board of medical officers headed by Major Havard, chief surgeon of the department of Cuba, for the purpose of examining into the proposition of Drs. Caldas and Bellingachi, who will submit a cure for yellow fever and a serum designed to prevent the contraction of that disease. Dr. Caldas is a Brazilian, and his proposition was recently submitted to the war department by the Brazilian minister here. A letter was received at the surgeon general's office from Major Havard stating that two suspected cases of yellow fever had been discovered at Havana.

To Improve the Army.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—Lieutenant General Miles, commanding the army, has issued a general order intended to improve the conditions of the army. It admonishes officers and men regarding their duties and points out the essentials of a good soldier, specifically mentioning patriotism, discipline, physical development, self respect, self reliance and resourcefulness, also adding that professional knowledge is necessary at all times. The general says that on account of large accessions of officers and soldiers who have had but limited experience in the military service the instructions contained in the order are issued for their guidance as well as for others. He says that to be effective in time of war modern military training must be uniform and conform to certain basic principles.

Admiral Cromwell In London.

LONDON, Aug. 15.—Rear Admiral Cromwell is in London trying to arrange to dock his flagship, the Chicago, at Southampton. The authorities there have refused to dock the cruiser unless she discharges all her ammunition. Admiral Cromwell will not agree to this condition, and the upshot will probably be that the Chicago will go to Havre or Portsmouth. The fact that the United States cruiser Columbia docked at Southampton a year ago for repairs caused the dock authorities to impose new regulations in order to avoid responsibilities. The Southampton dock is a private and not a government institution.

Virginia Democratic Convention.

NORFOLK, Aug. 15.—The Virginia state Democratic convention has met here to name its candidates for governor and other state offices. Temporary organization was effected with State Senator W. R. Barksdale as chairman, Joseph E. Button as secretary and H. B. Nichols as sergeant-at-arms. The nomination for governor of present Attorney General A. J. Montague is inevitable, since of the 1,300 delegates enough are instructed for him to insure his nomination. This nomination is the outcome of a political revolution.

Chinese Bishop In Geneva, N. Y.

GENEVA, N. Y., Aug. 15.—Bishop F. R. Graves of China, who is visiting relatives here, says the war in China is not over and that anarchy almost exists in the northern part of the country. The people are dissatisfied with the present rule, and he thinks Kwang Su will occupy the throne as soon as a leader appears. Bishop Graves added that a civil war will probably be the result of the occupation of the foreign powers.

Alleged Indian Murderer Freed.

BUFFALO, Aug. 15.—Richard Crouse, a Seneca Indian residing on the Cattaraugus reservation near Gowanda, who was arrested last week on the charge of killing Jesse Jamison, the former Seneca chief, last Friday night, has been honorably discharged from custody. United States Commissioner Robinson, before whom he was given an examination, held that he was perfectly justified in shooting Jamison.

Bulgarian Politicians Acquitted.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Aug. 15.—The trial of M. Sarafoff, former president of the Macedonian revolutionary committee, and other prominent members of the committee, charged with being connected with the murder of an alleged Turkish spy and with the assassination of Professor Michaeleanu of Bucharest, ended in the acquittal of the accused. The result was received with popular rejoicings.

Rogers Left $5,000,000.

PATERSON, N. J., Aug. 15.—With the exception of making a formal report the appraisement of the estate of the late Jacob S. Rogers is completed. The work of the appraisers has confirmed, it is said, Mr. Roger's estimate of his wealth, a little more than $5,000,000. When the official report is made, it will not vary much from his figures.

Monitor Amphitrite Disabled.

CHATHAM, Mass., Aug. 15.—The United States monitor Amphitrite, bound from New Bedford for Boston, is anchored in Chatham Roads with disabled machinery. Word has been sent to Boston, and it is expected a tug from the Charlestown navy yard will be sent to tow the Amphitrite to her destination.

Anniversary of Capture of Peking.

PEKING, Aug. 15.—The anniversary of the relief of the legations passed almost without notice, although last night the American officers entertained the British, and the American civilians gave a banquet to the soldiers.

Georgia Postoffice Robbed.

CHATTANOOGA, Aug. 15.—The postoffice inspector here has been notified that the office at Gresston, Ga., has been robbed. The safe was blown open and a small amount of money and stamps secured.

CRISPI'S FUNERAL.

Military Honors to the Dead Italian Statesman.

NAPLES, Aug. 15.—The funeral of Signor Crispi was an imposing event. Cordons of troops lined the route, which was through the principal streets, and presented arms as the funeral car passed. The car was drawn by eight black horses with sable trappings. The cords of the pall were held by the mayors of Rome, Naples, Palermo and Ribera, Sicily, Crispi's birthplace; the vice president of the chamber of deputies and other state officials.

A caisson draped with flags was followed by cars piled high with floral tributes. The procession included King Victor Emmanuel's aid-de-camp, representing the king; the German consul, representing Emperor William; senators, deputies, ministers, generals, admirals, patriotic societies, Garibaldian veterans and military and naval detachments. Immense crowds occupied the streets, balconies and windows. All present uncovered as the coffin passed.

At the arsenal the remains were taken on board the cruiser Varese, where there was a short service, minute guns being fired in the meanwhile. The Varese sailed at midnight, escorted by the armored cruiser Marco Polo and the Etterie, conveying the family of Signor Crispi and the government representatives.

COMMANDO BREAKING UP.

Commandant and Eight Hundred and Forty Burghers Surrendered.

PRETORIA, Aug. 15.—Eight hundred and forty Boers have been accounted for during the past week.

Commandant De Villiers of the Waterberg commando, General Beyer second in command, was among those who came in. Beyer attempted to stop him, but without success. Other burghers are expected to come in within a few days. This commando is melting rapidly.

Frederick Wolmarans, lately a member of the executive council, has been captured in the Magaliesburg. Myburg, a commandant of the Boers south of the Orange river, has been killed.

An attack on the railway at Naboomspruit resulted in ten Boers being killed. An armored train arrived in the nick of time.

Increase In Hawaiian Mails.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—G. W. Carr, assistant superintendent in charge of the railway mail service in Hawaii, was in conference with Acting Postmaster General Shallenberger yesterday. He says the volume of the mails in Hawaii has increased fully 100 per cent since the American regime began. Save for himself, two inspectors and three clerks from San Francisco, the entire Hawaiian postal system is administered by resident officials and employees. The postmasters through the island beside the native Hawaiians and the Americans, who were there before the American regime was installed, include English, German, Portuguese and other nationalities. None of the 90 or 100 postoffices on the islands has had to call on the United States for employees of any kind. Mr. Carr will return to Honolulu by the 15th prox., when he will arrange transportation service for four years, beginning next year.

Tunnel Disaster In Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 15.—Five men were burned to death, four were drowned, three and possibly four were suffocated and several injured as the result of a fire which destroyed a temporary waterworks crib two miles off the Cleveland harbor early yesterday. The crib is a total loss. It was a frame building 200 by 50 feet, the sides sheathed with iron. It contained valuable machinery. It is now a charred, shapeless mass of wreckage, and mingled with the blackened timbers are blackened, rusted and twisted pieces of plates of iron and steel. The crib and machinery were the property of Shailer & Schninglau, contractors. Their loss will exceed $200,000.

Rear End Collision.

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—During the morning fog a freight train on the New York and Long Branch railroad at Perth Amboy ran into the rear end of the south bound newspaper train, No. 301, which was standing at the station at 5 o'clock. Two of the cars of the newspaper train were telescoped. Jacob Skillman of Jersey City and Henry Robinson of Trenton were slightly bruised, but not disabled. They proceeded to their destinations by the next train.

Killed by Horse's Kick.

ONEONTA, N. Y., Aug. 15.—Mrs. Charles N. Murdock was killed here last evening by the kick of a horse behind which she and her husband were riding. The horse became frightened while passing a load of lumber and began to kick wildly. Mr. Murdock jumped, and she followed, when a blow from the horse's hoof fractured her skull. The accident occurred near their farm, one of the largest here.

WAR AT HARRISBURG

All Efforts to Restore Peace Fruitless.

GUFFEY DRAWS FIRST BLOOD.

Charles J. Reilly of Williamsport Made Temporary Chairman—Donnelly-Ryan Men Placed on the Roll of Delegates.

HARRISBURG, Aug. 15.—The contest between the rival factions of the Philadelphia Democracy for recognition by the Democratic state convention is attracting more than usual attention to the gathering. Both factions have filed a complete set of delegates, and the leaders of each are prepared to defend on the floor of the convention their right to admission. Repeated attempts were made yesterday by prominent party leaders outside of Philadelphia to restore peace between the discordant elements, but all their efforts were in vain.

The list of delegates certified by the regular city committee and known as the Donnelly-Ryan men has been placed on the roll by Chairman Creasy. This places the delegates certified by the Young Democracy of Philadelphia in the position of contestants and forces them to take the initiative in the convention for recognition. Ex-Governor Robert E. Pattison is chairman of the city committee and will defend the right of the delegates to seats on the floor. Ex-Judge James Gay Gordon of Philadelphia will be substituted as a delegate to represent the Young Democracy.

National Committeeman Guffey reached here last night and will remain until after the convention. He is anxious to restore harmony in Philadelphia and is hopeful that his efforts in that direction will prove successful. Colonel Guffey is opposed to the proposition of the Young Democracy to exclude both sets of delegates from the convention and leave Philadelphia without representation. The fight on the floor promises to be most exciting, and the indications are that the opera house will be packed with spectators.

Ex-Congressman William McAleer of Philadelphia and ex-Judge David L. Krebs of Clearfield will lead the opposition to the Donnelly-Ryan delegates. Captain John B. Keenan of Greensburg and William J. Brennan of Pittsburg will aid ex-Governor Pattison in defending the right of these delegates to be seated.

There is no contest for places on the state ticket, and it is expected that the nominations will be quickly made and without friction. Judge Harman Yerkes of Doylestown has no active opposition for supreme court judge, and his friends predict his nomination by acclamation.

The nomination for state treasurer seems to be going a-begging. Captain William Hasson of Oil City and Representative Andrew J. Palm of Meadville were tendered the honor by the party leaders, and there is a proposition to effect fusion with the independent Republicans on the state ticket by nominating Representative E. A. Cors, Jr., of Luzerne for state treasurer. It is conceded, however, that the nominee for this office will be a straight Democrat and one who will not consent to withdraw in the event of a renewal during the campaign of an attempt at fusion.

A meeting of the state executive committee was held last night at which Charles J. Reilly of Williamsport was selected for temporary chairman of the convention by a vote of six to five. He was the choice of the Guffey-Pattison element. This result was accomplished after the committee had held three sessions.

The platform will be similar to the platform of the Ohio Democracy and will treat almost entirely of state issues. The last legislature will be condemned for the passage of the rapid transit bills and the capitol bill. It is expected that those Democrats who declined to vote with the anti-Quay Republicans at the organization of the house of representatives will be censured. Ex-Congressman William H. Sowden of Allentown, who has been substituted by one of the Lehigh delegates, will offer the following resolution to form part of the platform:

"That this convention hereby repudiates and condemns the action of Senators Harry G. Stiles of Lehigh, Harvey W. Haines of York, John F. Higgins of Schuylkill, Alfred M. Neely of Clarion, Albert D. Boyd of Fayette, O. R. Washburn of Crawford and Representatives Madison A. Garvin of Adams, John A. F. Hoy of Clarion, Samuel H. Rothrock of Mifflin, William J. Galvin of Schuylkill, Arthur H. Squier of Wyoming and Harry B. Shutt, John B. Kain and Paul Fake of York, members of the present state senate and house of representatives who during the last session of the legislature allied themselves with the Quay machine."

Battles In Venezuela.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Aug. 15.—Mail advices received here from Caracas, Venezuela, under date of Aug. 10, give accounts of numerous engagements in the state of Tachira between President Castro's forces and the revolutionists. It is General Castro's official bulletins he mentioned the Colombian army. He reported engagements since the battle of San Cristobal, July 29, at Pirineos, Las Felipas, La Parada, La Grita, Encontrados, Colon and Las Cumbres, all in Tachira. The Venezuelan casualities, according to Castro's official bulletins, were General Rosendo Madina and 4 colonels killed and 800 men killed or wounded. Madina was a prominent man. He was formerly a governor and senator.

Eleven Hundred Strikers Yield.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Aug. 15.—The 1,100 strikers employed at the Woodward mine of the Lackawanna company who went out two weeks ago because the officials of the company would not allow a committee of United Mine Workers to examine the working or union cards of the employees have returned to work. The men will allow their differences with the company to remain in abeyance until the convention of the United Mine Workers at Hazleton on Aug. 27.

Kitchener's Successor.

LONDON, Aug. 15.—The Daily Mail, reviving speculation as to the date of Lord Kitchener's return from South Africa and as to his successor, says it understands that he will return to England about the middle of next month, Lieutenant General Lyttleton assuming the chief command.

Ambassador White Granted Leave.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—Ambassador White has been granted leave from his post at Berlin and is expected to arrive in this country before long to attend to private affairs.

Action Is Needed.

What is the matter with those Freeholders over in Somerset county, anyway? Must the convenience of the public await their pleasure? Everybody, the Freeholders included, admits the immediate need of a proper structure over Green brook at Giraud avenue and yet these public officials, or some of them rather, lay back and refuse to give in and thus tie up all chance of making the improvement.

The Freeholders were elected to serve the interests of the public. One of their specific duties is to provide and keep in repair the bridges of the county. As a general thing, that work is attended to without delay. On this occasion there has been a hitch regarding the kind of a bridge to be built. Some of the Freeholders wanted a plank flooring and others wished to see the macadam surface continued across the bridge. There was a deadlock on the question and there the subject has since remained, despite the efforts of several of the Freeholders to secure action.

While they may not all agree on the subject at first, any body of reasonable men can come to a decision on such a simple subject as this. When certain members become what is commonly known as "pig-headed" and utterly refuse to listen to reason, then it is time for those who put them in power to express their opinion in no uncertain way.

It speaks very well for the work done by Borough Assessor E. M. French when the Borough Council made but a single change after going half way through the books of that official. Although a Democrat, Mr. French was elected by the Republican votes of the community owing solely to the fact that they believed him particularly capable of filling the office. His work seems to have justified their expectations.

When anyone walks across the railroad tracks, he takes his life in his hands and particular care should be observed. A moment of carelessness at that time is liable to have serious if not fatal results. One of Bound Brook's esteemed citizens was hurled to death because he did not observe every precaution in his hurry to cross the tracks.

Born and brought up in Plainfield, Dr. Norman H. Probasco, son of the well-known physician, Dr. J. B. Probasco, has decided to locate here having completed his training preliminary to entering upon a regular practice. The fact that he is a Plainfield boy with a host of friends will assure him a warm welcome here where he has always been well regarded.

The condition of the wooden flooring of the sidewalk on the Washington avenue bridge is such that it should receive the prompt attention of the Freeholders. There are several places in the flooring where a person's foot could go through or ankles be turned.

There isn't much talk about the water company and its unequal rates, but wait until the bills come in during October. There is one remedy and that is the adoption of water meters. A universal demand for them is the only way they can be secured.

A request has been made to Mayor Jenkins for a permit for a boxing exhibition in this city. Judging from the light of past events, it is not likely that the request will be granted. Such affairs are rather frowned upon in Plainfield.

If the weather permits, the City Park will be the scene of a large gathering tomorrow evening when the second of the series of open air band concerts will be given. More funds are needed to continue the series.

The improvement to East Front street is a worthy one and one which will be appreciated by all those who have any occasion to use that thoroughfare.

It really looked as though Somerset county had grown progressive when we heard that an armory was to be built at Somerville. But it was a mistake.

Revolutionary doctrines of the kind disseminated at the street corner the other evening find but little sympathy in a prosperous city like Plainfield.

It may be that the lack of a proper play house for a winter will cause the people of Plainfield to appreciate one better after they secure it.

That long expected sea serpent has finally appeared off the Jersey coast. This time it is Bay Head which is the first to claim the honor.

A few more weeks will see the host of summer sojourners coming homeward and the autumnal activity will begin.

Judging from the crowd at the game yesterday, baseball as played by policemen is worth going miles to see.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May Be Of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

The fact that four hams were stolen from a Hunterdon county wagonhouse leads the offensively partisan Flemington Democrat-Advertiser to remark that this proves "that instead of taking a vacation some local Republican is doing overwork." Doubtless the Hunterdon editor reasons that the thief must have been a Republican or he would have stolen the wagonhouse, too.—Newark News.

The question whether the trunk sewer system from the suburban towns will be allowed to cross Elizabeth and enter Arthur Kill will be decided by the courts, and meanwhile Judge VanSycke has appointed commissioners with power to condemn a right of way. The towns are operating under a law obtained for their own sewer, independent of the general acts passed later, in which the consent of a municipality is expressly required, and it is claimed that the construction of the outlet of the joint sewer through another town is distinctly authorized by the earlier act. If this view is sustained, there will be no sympathy with Elizabeth, where the officials have shown little disposition to consider the subject in a spirit of liberality and fairness.—Newark Call.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short and Gossipy Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

William Stanbery, of Scotch Plains, has taken an excellent picture of Geo. O. Stevens, of the Consumers' Coal Company, seated on his "doggy-mobile." Mr. Stevens' faithful canine is seen in the photograph perched on an improvised platform erected in front of the bicycle. The "doggy-mobile" has not yet been patented.

M. Leichtentritt, of West Front street, has received from a New York glove house, a beautiful souvenir card of aluminum giving a history of the results of "America" cup races between yachts. The first race was held in 1851, when the "America" won from the English cutter "Aurora." The second race was in 1870, when the schooner "Magic" won from the English schooner "Cambria." Eight races then followed in the years 1871, 1876, 1881, 1885, 1886, 1887, 1893, 1895 and 1899, and in each race the Americans were victorious. Next month another race will be held between Shamrock II and the Constitution.

A strange sight was witnessed yesterday afternoon on West Front street at Crosby & Hill's dry good's store. A dog of ordinary size and very common in appearance bounded into the store, up the stairs to the second floor, rushed to the front of the building, made a wild leap through a window. He landed on his feet on the sidewalk below, after which he ran down the street wagging his tail. Those who saw the unusual event were astonished, while the dog acted as if it was a common occurence as far as he was concerned. The presence of the dog in the store caused no alarm whatever, as most everyone was busy at the time.

Mrs. Henry Leifke, of West Front street, who has been visiting relatives at Morristown, has returned home.

Dunellen, August 15—A valuable water spaniel dog, owned by James Craig, was struck by a Central Railroad train, yesterday, and injured to such an extent that it became necessary to kill the animal.

William G. Holton Council, Jr., O. U. A. M., joined the excursion to Asbury Park today. But few members went on account of the death of H. C. Gaskill, who was a valued member.

The railroad crossing was again torn up for repairs, yesterday, and it was necessary for people, who wished to cross the tracks, to make a long detour.

Frank Martin, of West Front street, Plainfield, will supply the pulpit Sunday at the Methodist church, both morning and evening.

The Holy Innocents' Guild, of the Episcopal church, will meet this evening at the home of Mrs. Garabrant.

The Dunellen Juniors and the Clinton Avenue Juniors are scheduled to play a game of baseball today.

Fred Ward, who has been visiting Horace C. Garobrant, has returned to his home at Avon-by-the-Sea.

Garretson & Grey's stone crusher has been repaired and resumed operations yesterday.

Joseph Mair is entertaining his cousins, Miss Katherine and Miss Minnie Edere.

W. L. Larrabee has returned home from a visit with friends in Binghamton, N. J.

Mrs. John P. Cruser has gone to Muhlenberg Hospital for treatment.

John Doty, of Green Brook road, has sold his farm to L. C. Berry.

NEW MARKET

Stanley Day has purchased a new horse and wagon.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

(Special Correspondence.)

Scotch Plains, August 15.—The home of the Misses Shott was the scene of a very pretty surprise party Tuesday night. The affair was gotten up in honor of Miss Pepita Lopez and was in celebration of her birthday. Miss Lopez is a native of Porto Rico, and a student at Peddie Institute, Hightstown. After a pleasant trip to Glen Side Grove, where the photographer took some excellent photographs, the guests returned to the parsonage and partook of a dainty supper which had been prepared. After supper music and games were enjoyed until a late hour. The prominent guests were Miss Josefa Maduro, of Porto Rico; Bedeah Khar Allah, of Mt. Tabor, Assyria; Rev. Frank Malo, of Paterson; the Misses McKaskie and Mr. McKaskie, Miss Addie Johnson, Edward Johnson, Miss Mary Westcott, of Fanwood, and Chauncey Kuhns, of Plainfield.

The Orient Field Club is scheduled to play in Scotch Plains Saturday. The local team met defeat at the hands of the Orients in a previous game, but expect to get retribution Saturday. It will undoubtedly be a game worth seeing.

A large delegation from the Jr. O. U. A. M., went to Asbury Park today on their annual excursion. They also took part in the big demonstration by the visiting Juniors at that place.

At the Epworth Literary Society meeting last night, the character of Gustavus Adolpheus was studied.

Mrs. G. M. Shott, accompanied by Miss Ruth, are spending a week at Asbury Park.

Thomas Nichols has returned home from a trip to Niagara and the Pan-American.

Mrs. John Walker, of Painfield, has been visiting Mrs. Walpole.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

South Plainfield, August 15—The P. O. S. of A. will meet this evening at 8 o'clock. State Master of Forms Condit is expected to be present and address the members. After the meeting, a banquet will be spread. Smith & Manning are the caterers.

St. Patrick's Alliance will run an excursion to Empire Grove, on the Hudson, August 21. The trains will leave Perth Amboy at 8 o'clock and arrive at South Plainfield at 8:30 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Tappen, of Newton, spent yesterday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Manning.

Mrs. William E. Smith has been entertaining friends from New York City.

Miss Nellie VanNest is still confined to her bed by illness.

AT THE THEATRES.

Something About the Attractions Which Plainfield Theatre-Goers May Care to Witness.

With the opening of the Twenty-third Street and the One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street Theatres Saturday afternoon, Manager F. F. Proctor will resume his accustomed station of numerical and managerial prominence in New York city theatricals. Saturday afternoon, August 31, his Fifty-eighth Street Theatre will open its season, and Manager Proctor's practical monopoly of popular-priced amusements in the metropolis will be at full swing. Especially attractive programmes have been arranged for the Saturday afternoon opening at the One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street and the Twenty-third street, and the same bills will be continued during the week ensuing. At the Harlem house a newly-organized branch of the F. F. Proctor Big Stock Company will introduce "Forbidden Fruit," one of the late Dion Boucicault's best comedies. At the Twenty-third Street a triple bill, consisting of one-act plays, will be the inaugural attraction. The Fifth Avenue, which has been open all summer and the mecca for great crowds, will offer Bronson Howard's famous society comedy, "Young Mrs. Winthrop" during the coming week, the play being preceded and followed by vaudeville. The Fifth Avenue will remain the only house in the Proctor list where the performance is continuous, the curtain goes up on that stage at 1 p. m. and not descending until 10:30 p. m.; the amusement, meanwhile, continuing uninterruptedly. At Manager Proctor's other houses the amusement is given in two divisions, afternoon and evening, the theatres closing for two hours following the termination of the afternoon performances.

PERSONAL.

Miss Eva Lance, of Somerset street, will commence her vacation of two weeks Monday.

Gilbert A. Frazier, of North avenue, has returned from a visit with Perth Amboy friends.

Mrs. Wm. Cox, of Somerville, has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Dudley S. Miller, of Orchard place.

Miss Clara Ward, of West Front street, is spending the remainder of the month at Asbury Park.

Chester Denton, of Washington avenue who is spending the summer at Manasquan, will return home the last of this month.

Miss Agnes Ward, the daughter of Judge I. D. Ward, of Perth Amboy, is visiting her sister, Mrs. H. W. Moffett, of Watchung avenue.

Mrs. John Emmons and daughter, Miss Maude Emmons, of Jersey City, spent yesterday with Mrs. Walter C. Dobbins, of Elmwood place.

GREAT BALL PLAYING WHEN POLICEMEN MET.

ting more amusement out of the sport than it would at any performance that Keith or Proctor could devise. Ulrich was the star actor for the visitors, his two base-hit especially being a fine piece of work.

Kirk, Rabig and Sheridan were a trio of which Elizabeth should be proud. Kirkman, the shortstop, was the principal drawback. He succeeded in striking out three times out of five chances at the leather.

The supporters of the local team were too much interested in the funny situations, as a rule, to size up the material in the team of the Plainfield police. John Flynn, Nick Myers, Herb Overbaugh and McCarthy are all right on the diamond, but their efforts were spoiled by the ragged work of one or two others, who proved to be a handicap to good systematic playing. Higgins couldn't connect with the sphere, and the mob of urchins were prone to yell, "Let it hit ye, Maurie." Lunger and Totten took turns at right field and lumbered up a trifle. C. Flynn was all right at first base.

There was only one double play made by the locals. It is worth the mention. The invincible Nick Myers hauled in a fly off Ward in the sixth inning and sent the ball to Jack Flynn at third, putting out Dwyer, who had left the bag for home. In the final inning Overbaugh and Jack Flynn cornered Kirk between bases.

Conroy became so wrought up in his work that in the third inning he insisted that three of the opponents had been put out when only two were. It took some time to convince him otherwise. The only unpleasant feature of the contest was when Sheridan walked to second in the last inning when he should have run on a blocked ball. The umpire had declared him out and this angered some of the visitors, but the feeling soon subsided.

In errors the two teams split even, each making thirteen. McGinley struck seven men out while Ward's record was one less. Plainfield led in base hits. Charles W. Bunyon, who knows base ball from "A to Izard," acted as umpire and his decisions were uniformly good.

There was the usual representation of Young America in the crowd and it made itself heard throughout the contest. The yells improvised by the youngsters compelled even the visitors to laugh, and when it came to their method of coaching their favorites on the local nine, the system was unsurpassable.

The batting order and summary is as follows:

Long Distance Riding.

"It has been claimed that a locomotive engineer could not live through more than a million miles of riding on a locomotive," remarked an engineer as he mopped the perspiration from his brow. "I reckon I can beat the million mile racket by several hundred thousand," he continued. "I began working for the old La Crosse & Milwaukee Railway company in 1857, and have been with that company and its 'successors and assigns,' as the lawyers say, ever since. I began in the shops at Watertown, of course, but I have been running an engine on the road for the past 38 years. I am way within bounds when I say that I have traveled 36,000 miles a year. I have figured it out and am not guessing. Now, if you multiply that by the number of years I have held the throttle, you will find that I have traveled 1,468,000 miles."—Milwaukee Sentinel.

When Surgeons Are of No Use.

The driver of the stage, which was rolling down the Rocky mountains as fast as six mules on the gallop could keep ahead of it, may have noticed that I was, writes a correspondent, a little nervous, for after a bit he soothingly said:

"No use to grip that railing so mighty hard, stranger. We shan't come to the danger p'int for half an hour yit."

"Then it's on ahead?" I queried.

"Yes, three miles ahead, and I may say for your benefit that hangin' on won't do any partickler good."

"But I don't want to slide off."

"And you won't. If anythin' goes it'll be mewis and coach and the hull caboodle altogether, and as the drop is plump 300 feet you won't have no use for arnica or sticking plaster afterward."—Boston Courier.

The Joy of Nature.

Have you ever seen the sun rise? Have you ever heard the free birds singing in the open forest? Have you ever felt any real attachment for the forest world, for the world of nature? If you have not, then something in you is out of tune; you are not in right relationship with the world, of which the world of trees and birds and flowers is the greater half. Much of the sickness and discontent of our society is due to the unnatural relationship we establish with the free world. We creep into the cities and shut out the light by erecting high buildings, inclosed palaces of delight. We forget that beyond is a sphere of life from which we can learn much, upon which the best things of life are based.—American Hebrew.

Birds as Model Diplomatists.

The pope is a great admirer and friend of birds. In his library and in the alcoves of his reception room a number of them are kept, and their chatter always interests the pontiff. "You see," he once said to a foreign minister who had called to pay his respects, "these birds are my diplomats. Whenever I receive anyone here he can only make a report as to my amiability, and can seldom understand my words, because the chatter of these songsters drowns all that I say. The visitor often cannot tell whether I have even spoken."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Women as Sign Painters.

Sign painting is added to the list of trades practiced by women in Berlin. Women sign painters undergo a regular apprenticeship; they are taught how to use the brush and to mix paints. Gymnastic training is carefully gone into before they are allowed to ascend the scaffolding, so that they may not lose their nerve when standing on a ladder. They wear the gray linen frock and cap which are the house painter's badge, as well as his defense against paint. —British Decorator.

Painter of War Scenes Who Fought.

M. Vasili Verestchagin, whose friends argue that, by painting realistically the horrors of war, he has done much to promote peace, has seen all that he places on canvas. "It is all very well to say that war is grand and heroic," he argues, 'and that fighting is a glorious thing. So it is—to read about. But I have seen war; I have fought for my country, and I have killed a man and many men in the terror and excitement of battle. I know what a horrible, savage, inhuman thing it is, and it is my business to let the public see what I have seen. They tell me I should paint war in beautiful colors, as if an honest man could paint a lie and call it truth!"—Chicago Times-Herald.

Suspicious Prodigality.

Wigg—Why did you lose your position in the bank—playing the races?

Wagg—Nope.

"Strong drink?"

"Never drank a drop in my life."

"Poker, maybe?"

"Never play."

"Well, come out with it."

"The president caught me eating a plate of strawberries with my breakfast the other day, and they called in the bank examiner."—Philadelphia Record.

Uses of Spanish Moss.

Besides the thousands of pounds of Spanish moss sent annually from Florida and other southern states to northern upholsterers, the plant has various other uses. One of these, a use that has recently been discovered, is that of a strainer and purifier of cane sirup. It has been found that a finer sirup can be made by straining the cane juice through moss than through any other material.—Chicago Chronicle.

Natural Causes.

Juryman—Yes, we brought in a verdict of death from natural causes.

Reporter—But an iron beam fell on him from the fourth floor?

"Of course. Wasn't that natural? You wouldn't expect it to fall up to the eighth floor, would you? That's where he ought to have been at work instead of down in the basement."—Judge.

It was the boy's first wild infatuation—as mad, unreasoning, absurd, yet intense as was ever that of Arthur Pendennis for the lovely Fotheringay. Margaret Garrison had never seen or known the like of it. She had fascinated others for a time, had kindled love, passion and temporary devotion, but this—this was worship, and it was something so sweet to her jaded senses, something so rich and spontaneous that she gave herself up for a day or two to the delight of studying it. Here was a glorious young athlete whose eyes followed her every move and gesture, who hung about her in utter captivation, whose voice trembled and whose eyes implored, yet whose strong, brown, shapely hand never dared so much as touch hers, except when she extended it in greeting. He was to accompany his father and sister to Europe in a week, so what harm was there? He would forget all about it. He knew now she was married. He was presented to Nita, but had hardly a word and never a look for her when Margaret was near. He was dumb and miserable all the day they drove in the park and later dined at Delmonico's with Col. Frost. He was sick, even when mounted on his favorite English thoroughbred and scampering about the bridle path for peeps at the drives, when she was at the park again with that gray-haired reprobate, that money shark, Cashton—a Wall street broker black-balled at every decent club in New York. Why should she go with him? He had been most kind, she said, in the advice and aid he had given her in the investment of her little fortune. She told the lie with downcast eyes and cheeks that burned, for most of that little fortune was already frittered away, and Cashton's reports seemed to require many personal visits that had set tongues wagging at the hotels, so much frequented of the army, where she had taken a room until Nita should have been graduated and they could go to the seashore. She had promised to be at home to her boy adorer that very evening and to go with him to Daly's, and he had secured the seats four days ahead. Poor "Gov" had trotted swiftly home from the park, striving to comfort himself over his bath and irreproachable evening clothes that there, with her by his side, the wild jealousy of the day would vanish. Sharply on time he had sent up his card and listened, incredulous, to the reply: "Mrs. Garrison has not yet returned." He would wait, he said, and did wait, biting his nails, treading the floor, fuming in doubt and despair until nearly ten, when a carriage dashed up to the ladies' entrance and that vile Cashton handed her out, escorted her in and vanished. She came hurrying to her boy lover with both little hands outstretched, with a face deeply flushed and words of pleading and distress rushing from her lips. "Indeed I could not help it, Gov," she cried. "I told him of my engagement and said we must not go so far, but away at the north end something happened, I don't know what, a wheel was bent, and the harness wrenched by too short a turn on a stone post at a corner. Something had to be repaired. They said it wouldn't take ten minutes, and he led me out and up to the piazza of that big hotel—you know, we saw it the day I drove with you—"

("He was a blackguard to take you there!" burst in Prime, the blood boiling in his veins.) "Then we waited and waited and he went to hurry them, and then he came back and said they had found more serious damages—that it would take an hour, and meantime dinner had been ordered and was served. He had telephoned to you and the butler had answered all right."

"He's a double-dyed liar!" raved "Gov," furiously.

"And so what could I do, 'Gov?' The dinner was delicious, but I couldn't eat a mouthful. (This time it wasn't Cashton who lied.) I was worrying about you, and—and—about myself, too, 'Gov.' It had set my heart on going with you. It was to be almost our last evening. Oh, if you only didn't have to sail Saturday, and could be here next week, you dear boy, you should have no cause for complaint. Won't you try to forgive me?"

And, actually, tears stood in her eyes, as again she held out both hands. They were the only people in the parlor, and in an instant, with quick, sudden, irresistible action, he had clasped and drawn her to his breast, and though she hid her face and struggled, passionate kisses were printed on her disheveled hair. It was the first time he had dared.

And then he did not sail Saturday. Prime, Sr., was held by most important business. They gave up the Saturday Cunarder and took the midweek White Star, and those four additional days riveted poor "Gov's" chains and left her well-nigh breathless with excitement. The strain had been intense. It was all she could do to make the boy try to behave in a rational way in the presence of others. When alone with her he raved. A fearful load was lifted from her spare little shoulders when the Teutonic sailed. Even Nita had worried and had seen her sister's worry. Then no sooner did "Gov" reach Europe than he began writing impassioned letters by every steamer, but that wasn't so bad. She had several masculine correspondents, some of whom wrote as often as Frank, but none of whom, to do her justice, got letters as often as he did, which, however, was saying little, for she hated writing. "Gov" was to have stayed abroad three months, piloting the pater and sister about the scenes so familiar to him, but they saw how nervous and unhappy he was. They knew he was writing constantly to some one. Mildred had long since divined that there was a girl at the bottom of it all, and longed and strove to find out who she was. Through the last of June and all through July he resolutely stood to his promise and did his best to be loving and brotherly to a loving and devoted sister and dutiful to a most indulgent father. But he grew white and worn and haggard, he who had been such a picture of rugged health, and, in her utter innocence and ignorance as to the being on whom her brother had lavished the wealth of his love, Mildred began to ask herself should she not urge her father to let "Gov" return to America. At last one sweet July evening, late in the month, the brother and sister were wandering along the lovely shore of Lucerne. He had been unusually fitful, restless and moody all day. No letter had reached him in over a fortnight, and he was miserably unhappy. They stopped at a grassy bank that ran down to the rippling water's edge, and she seated herself on a stone ledge, while in reckless abandonment he threw himself at full length on the dewy grass. Instantly the last doubt vanished. Bending over him, her soft hand caressing his hair, she whispered: "'Gov,' dear boy, is it so very hard? Would you like to go to her at once?"

And the boy buried his face in her lap, twined his arms about her slender waist, and almost groaned aloud as he answered: "For pity's sake help me if you can, Mildred, I'm almost mad."

Early in August the swiftest steamer of the line was splitting the Atlantic surge and driving hard for home, with "Gov" cursing her for a canal boat. The day after he reached New York he had traced and followed the White Sisters to West Point, and Margaret Garrison stared in mingled delight, triumph and dismay at the card in her hand; delight that she could show these exclusive Pointers that the heir to one of the oldest and best names in Gotham's Four Hundred was a slave to her beck and call, dismayed to think of the scene that might occur through his jealousy when he saw the devoted attentions she received from so many men—officers, civilians and cadets. Old Cranton came up now as regularly as Saturday night came around, and there were others. Margaret Garrison was more talked about than any woman in Orange county, yet who could report anything of her beyond that she was a universal favorite, and danced, walked, possibly flirted with a dozen different cavaliers every day of her life. There were some few people among her accusers, demure and most proper—even prudish—women, of whom, were the truth to be told, so little could not be said.

"Gov" Prime took the only kind of room to be had in the house, so full was it—a little seven by ten box on the office floor. He would have slept in the coalbin rather than leave her. He saw her go off to the hop looking radiant, glancing back over her shoulder and smiling sweetly at him. He rushed to his trunk, dragged out his evening clothes and stood at the wall looking on until the last note of the last dance—he, a noted German leader in the younger set and the best dancer of his years in Gotham. Not so much as a single spin had he, and he longed to show those tight-waisted, button-bestrewed fellows in gray and white how little they really knew about dancing, well as many of them appeared on the floor. His reward was tendered as the hop broke up. She came gliding to him with such witchery in her upraised face. "Now, sir, it is your turn. I couldn't give you a dance, for my card was made out days ago, but Mr. Latrobe was glad enough to get rid of taking me home. He is daft about Nita, and of course she can't let him take her to more than one hop a week. Mr. Stanton is her escort to-night."

Then she placed her little hand on his arm, and drew herself to his side, and when he would have followed the others, going straight across the broad plain to the lights at the hotel, turned him to the left. "I'm going to take you all the way round, sir," she said, joyously. "Then we can be by ourselves at least ten minutes longer."

BOICE, RUNYON & CO.,
PARK AVE. AND RAILROAD

A motherly young woman living in Rockville, Conn., has found life a pretty desperate problem. "I didn't think life worth living," she says, "until the last three years; but now, thank God, everything is different. I am 35 years old, the mother of six children, and I feel better and stronger to-day than I did ten years ago, all owing to Ripans Tabules. About three years ago I sent for a dollar bottle and have been using them both for myself and my family. They have cured me both of dyspepsia and headache, from which I was a sufferer for seven years. I tried everything under the sun, but nothing gave me relief until I got the Tabules, which gave me relief from the very first. I have recommended the Tabules to all my friends and neighbors. They are a blessing in any home."

KEEPING COOL.

Don't Worry and Don't Look at the Thermometer.

It is agreeable to know there is in America at least one woman who can defy the heat. She is the Brooklyn ice woman. Yes, why not an ice woman? This one rises at 3 o'clock in the morning, harnesses her horse, with the aid of a small son, and off she goes, delivering crystal blocks to 134 customers. Her son carries the ice into the houses when he can, and when the chunks are too large his mother helps him.

The only unpleasant thing about the business for the intrepid ice woman is that she hates to have people think she is "queer," when this was the only course to take unless she let the family lose its living, for her husband, the original iceman, was laid up in hospital. Queer? Rather one envies that woman, sitting up there under a duck awning with those great ice blocks behind her, the cold air from them sweeping all around her and driving off the heat waves. We can't all be ice wagon drivers, though, so the next best thing is to keep cool in the stations of life whereunto we are called. In the matter of clothing women in summer have the advantage over men. The beautiful fabrics in cotton and linen which women can wear, both in shirt waist and skirt or in a gown all in one piece, are numberless. Infinite comfort is in these when they are kept dainty and clean, which goes, of course, for no real woman is ever anything else than dainty and clean. The most revolting object thinkable is a dirty woman, with gummy hair and dingy skin and garments. Fortunate for civilization that there are not more of this sort.

THE ICE WOMAN.

If you never knew it before, you are probably finding out this summer that there is nothing like water. With garments clean and fresh through frequent renovation, with the luxury of cold baths taken even twice a day in the hottest weather, any woman can keep herself and her family cool if, in addition, she herself only keeps cool in her mind.

One of the most important requisites for being comfortable is to keep cool in your mind, and this is how to do it: Don't fret or fume over the heat, no matter how great. Don't mention it to anybody. Don't keep saying: "Oh, dear me, I'll die! I'm roasted! I can't stand this any longer. I never slept a wink all night." Be serene in your mind. Don't think of the heat at all if you can help it, and when you must think of it picture immediately the ice woman upon the frozen crystal blocks.

SPOILED CHILDREN.

Cure Them by Teaching Them Mutual Consideration.

A summer hotel is a good place to study children's dispositions. The little troop which races around the piazzas and plays hide and seek on the lawn has all the characteristics of a circle of grown ups. You see the miniature conceited man, the tiny woman back biter and the embryo flirts of the next decade; but, above all, you are painfully aware of the prevalence of spoiled children.

For instance, the lunch bell rings. Bobby, aged 4, dashes up to his mother and tries to pull her away from a woman friend with whom she is talking. "Mamma!" he cries sharply. "Mamma, come; I want to eat!" No answer. "Mamma, mamma, m-a-amma-a-a-a! Do you hear?" (Stamp of foot.) "Hurry up!" Bobby's mother turns half around and in a mild manner remarks, "Bobby, be still."

But Bobby won't be still. He tugs, pulls, pushes and squirms until finally his mother is glad to get up and follow him into the dining room.

"What a horrid temper that child has!" a woman remarks, and another who is wiser answers: "Not a bit of it! It's a temper he is acquiring because of the way she is bringing him up. When he annoys her too much, she punishes him; otherwise she endures him as a necessary evil. At all times she is sweetly unselfish. She gives him the best of everything and waits on him like a slave. By her very unselfishness she is making him into the most selfish little brute alive."

"INTERRUPTING."

Which was only too true.

Children are being brought up differently nowadays. It is no longer the fashion to quote the proverb, "Children should be seen, but not heard." On the contrary, the tots are allowed to assert their individuality and even encouraged to that effect. Well trained children are simply brought up to act like well bred men and women. Jack is told that his mother is a lady and that he must treat her as such if he wants to be treated like a grown up man. On the same principle he is taught to be courteous to his little sister and to give up his chair to her the way men do to girls. He mustn't interrupt, not because he is a child, but because well bred grown ups never do it. And so forth and so on. This method of mutual consideration is the only right way of bringing up a child.

TOLD BY A SHERIFF.

Stories of His Experiences with Men of Evil Deeds.

Indefinable Something in a Crook's Manner Distinguishes Him from Other Men—Thief Deposits His Spoils.

A group of men sat in front of a Louisville hotel one hot night last week relating experiences. Among the star story-tellers were Dr. Albert D. Simpson, sheriff at Anderson, Madison county, Ind. The professional title of "doctor" was worn by Sheriff Simpson while living in Louisville, Ky., where he practiced medicine for ten years before entering this particular branch of the public service in Indiana.

"People wonder how criminals are so easily recognized in strange cities and picked up by the police and detectives," said he to a Courier-Journal reporter, "but an experienced officer can tell a crook anywhere. There is an indefinable something in a crook's manner and appearance that at once identifies the class. About six months ago I had occasion to go over to Richmond, Ind., and had no sooner walked in the door of the hotel there than I saw sitting in the office several men whose appearance immediately aroused my suspicions. One fellow had his hat pulled down over his eyes, and as I passed he looked up at me with a rolling glance that confirmed my first impressions.

"Without taking time to register I went out again and around the corner, where I telephoned to the police station to send four men up there at once. They came in a few minutes and I stationed one at each door of the hotel. Two windows remained unprotected, and I sent for two more men. When they were quietly put on watch the other four and myself entered the hotel from each door and corralled those fellows in a corner of the office as sleek as you please. They were so surprised they couldn't say a word and not a man drew a gun, although each one had a derringer of the latest pattern.

"We found among their baggage several kits of the finest burglar tools I ever saw. There were chisels that would cut steel and saws that would go through iron without making the least noise. And it turned out that they were a noted band of bank robbers wanted in Syracuse and many other places.

"Scenes of sorrow as well as excitement come to every sheriff, however," continued the speaker. "Not long since I took to the penitentiary an old man, gray-haired and feeble, who had been sentenced for receiving stolen goods. He had two beautiful daughters. They went to the train to tell him good-by, and I never saw such an affecting scene. Parting at the bedside of death would have been less terrible. He wept all the way to the 'pen,' and when the gates of the prison closed behind him, all hope of further happiness on this earth seemed to leave his heart and he broke down completely.

"About the strangest case that ever came to my notice was that of a young man who stole $2,800 and planted it with the purpose of simply laying up in prison and coming out that much to the good. This fellow took the money from a grocery in broad daylight, and was arrested a few hours later without resistance. At the trial he pleaded guilty, declined to accept the services of a lawyer, also refused to tell where he had hid the money and was sentenced to imprisonment for four years. As I was taking him down to the train he asked me if I would go with him to a certain street. He requested it as a favor and I did so. Arriving at a shady spot of a somewhat unfrequented street, he stooped down and pulled up a loose brick in the pavement, under which was the $2,800 in paper money, just as it had come out of the bank.

"'What are you going to do with that?' I asked, my first thought being that he intended to return it to the man from whom he had stolen it. Of course I had no authority in the matter, for the reason that the money was his own and sentence had been passed upon him. Well, sir, that fellow insisted on my going to the bank with him, and there he deposited the $2,800, where it remains to this day, drawing interest and waiting his pleasure when he shall have served sentence and be free to enjoy the profits of his prison term. Such cases are not uncommon."

Eleven Feet at a Jump.

The kangaroo has been known to clear 11 feet at a jump. The best record of a deer is nine feet six inches.

PROFESSOR'S WOOING.

Mistaken for a Horse Thief, Chased by the Sheriff and Shot At While Driving Home.

From Greensburg, Ind., a correspondent writes to the Indianapolis Press that a drama that included a good many phases of western border life was enacted there when Sheriff Davis and a deputy, both heavily armed, went out the Michigan road to arrest a horse thief that had been reported as headed for Greensburg from Shelbyville. At the city limits the officers met a horse and buggy and commanded the driver to halt. The latter lashed the horse and started on a run through the city with the officers in pursuit. The sheriff was whipping his horse, and at every jump there was a pistol shot from the pursuers. The chase occurred about midnight, and the few men on the streets were commanded by the sheriff to join in the race.

The clatter of the running horses, the shouts of the men and the firing of pistols awoke the people in the houses along the way. When the supposed thief reached a livery barn he turned the horse in, jumped from the buggy and hid in a pile of straw. The sheriff and a crowd of excited followers poured into the barn and began to search for the supposed thief. Meanwhile the owner of the barn appeared and identified the supposed stolen outfit as his own, which he had hired to Forest Edwards, the young professor of a Birmingham, Ala., college.

Edwards had driven the horse to the country to call on a young woman. From his hiding place in the straw the professor overheard the explanation and ventured into view. He was so frightened he could hardly speak. He thought robbers were chasing him through the streets. Two bullets struck the buggy, and the professor had a close call for his life. The officers claim they shot into the air, but the bullets in the buggy tell a different story.

STUDENT MOTORMAN.

Plucky Young Greek Who Recently Graduated from Yale Proves Himself a Hero.

Constantine Demster Stephanove, the plucky young Greek who, after seven years' hard work, has won his degree of master of arts from Yale, was the hero of a thrilling episode on the morning on which he won his bachelor's degree.

Stephanove has been working his own way through college.

During the past year he has been a motorman on one of the New Haven trolley lines and has attended lectures whenever his business would permit.

One morning not long ago, as his car was bowling along the street at a pretty fast rate of speed, a little child who was playing on one of the pavements, started for the other side of the street, apparently without seeing the on-rushing car.

Stephanove clanged his bell with all his might and the child, instead of heeding it as a warning, gave one frightened look at the car and stood stock still in the middle of the track, paralyzed with fear.

Immediately Stephanove applied the brakes with all their force. The car jolted and bumped and slowed down, but the motorman and the horrified spectators saw that it could not be stopped before it reached the child.

But Stephanove did not lose his head for an instant.

Letting go of the brake and the motor, he leaned far over the front of the car and just in the nick of time caught the frightened little form in his arms and lifting it from the ground held it there until the car stopped.

There was a loud shout of relief from the spectators, and Stephanove has been a hero ever since.

He takes his honors modestly.

To him it does not seem remarkable that he should work like a day laborer for seven years in order to obtain the education of a gentleman.

A KENTUCKY HERMIT

Has Not Set Foot on the Ground for Over Thirty Years.

Made a Peculiar Vow and Lives the Life of a Recluse, Although Possessed of Considerable Property and Good Health.

Living in solitude in the eastern portion of Nelson county, ten miles from Bardstown, is one of the most singular characters in Kentucky.

Now in his seventy-fifth year, he has not touched foot to the earth for over 30 years.

Basil Hayden, says the Philadelphia Press, is one of the wealthiest farmers in a district composed of 12 counties, and is descended from a family well known in the pioneer annals of the state.

Many of them have also been distinguished in the different lines of life.

One of his brothers, Raymond H. Hayden, for years held a controlling interest in one of the most famous distilleries in the United States. He, too, had peculiar ideas and lived a bachelor all his life, and at last died at an advanced age under singular circumstances.

He was found dead in his orchard a number of years ago, a bottle that had contained poison lying by his side. It was generally thought that he had committed suicide, but there were some who held the opinion that he had met with foul play and the poison bottle was placed near him for a blind.

Basil Hayden, "The Hermit," as he is known throughout the section in which he lives, in his youth was a social leader and very popular with a large circle of friends.

When the war broke out he entered the confederate army and made a good soldier to the end.

When he returned home he found his slaves free and his property greatly damaged. The emancipation of his negroes affected him seriously, and he brooded over it constantly.

He became sullen and morose, declining all overtures at friendliness on the part of his neighbors. He declared that the Lord had dealt harshly and unjustly with him in depriving him of his slaves, and out of revenge he registered a terrible oath that he would never again put his foot to the Lord's ground, and so far he has kept his vow.

Never since the registration of his vow has he appeared without his door, nor will he have converse with anyone save one or two, who are immediately connected with him, and then his words are of the briefest possible character.

His landed interests are extensive, and under the management of a competent overseer yield him a handsome income.

The overseer makes his reports to the queer old man in his darkened indoor retreat, who gives his orders and directions as tersely as possible.

He has never spoken to a woman since his self-imposed exile, nor will he allow one to be employed upon his place.

How he spends his time within his darkened room no one knows, but it is said that one employment is the counting of money, of which he is said to have a vast amount in gold and silver.

Be it as it may, a Bardstown banker twice a year visits Mr. Hayden, and through him the recluse settles his financial matters with the outside world.

Mr. Hayden is described as a fine-looking man, with a full beard and flowing hair. His confinement has bleached him until he is as white as an infant and his hands are as soft as raw cotton.

He had a sale of mules at his farm recently, and a number of animals were sold at fancy prices.

A large number of people were present at the sale, but never a glance was caught of Mr. Hayden. His instructions to the auctioneer were sent out by the overseer, written in a crabbed hand, and were very direct.

Almost Married Wrong Man.

What would have been a rather serious complication was averted by the presence of mind of a bride at Towson a night or two ago, says the Baltimore Sun. To the best man was given the honor of escorting the bride to the altar, while the groom followed with the bridesmaid. Whether the groom and his best man forgot their positions or both went into a trance, is not known. They did not exchange places, but stood, the best man with the bride and the groom with the bridesmaid, as the clergyman began the ceremony. Then the bride realized that she was about to be married to "the other man" and objected. In a moment or two she got things straightened out and the ceremony proceeded. It was a narrow escape.

ABOUT CONVINCED.

It is hoped that you are about convinced to let me stop at your home regularly with a nice clean piece of Hygeia Ice. I have been hammering away at you for some time to bring you around to this point. I believe it is economy for you to use ice. I believe also that you should use Hygeia Ice in preference to any other ice. Because it is a pure ice, a healthful ice and an ice that lasts longer than others. No dirt. No impurities—nothing in it that shouldn't be.

SPORTING.

ON THE DIAMCND.

A game of baseball was scheduled for next Saturday between St. Mary's team and the Carlton A. C., of Brooklyn. The game has been cancelled with this team and an effort is now being made to arrange a contest with another team.

"Scorer" Peter Foster, of the Hope chapel ball team, who is now stopping at Asbury Park, writes to the team that he cannot arrange a game at Asbury Park for Saturday, when the team with other members of the chapel go on the annual excursion.

GOLF.

All the low handicap men of the Park Golf Club will be much pleased at the announcement of the golf committee of the club that hereafter the handicap limit will be thirty instead of forty as heretofore. When the present committee began its duties, a new system of handicapping was begun based on the average of the actual scores made. A score of 92 was made the basis for it. At the beginning of the season, all the players were way off their game so the result was that the best men were given a handicap of ten while the "duffers" received the limit, forty. Previous to that, the best men had been playing from scratch while the limit had been thirty. The result was simply to advance every player ten on the handicap list. The limit men have, of late, been playing an occasional good game and carrying off the honors. Now that the low mark men are so near scratch, it has been decided to reduce the limit to the old mark.

ROD AND GUN.

Richard Warneck, of Duer street, went crabbing at Tremley Point yesterday. In the evening he exhibited to his friends 154 crabs, the result of his day's sport.

Albert B. Glover, the expert at the Park Golf Club, is rapidly becoming an expert fisherman. When not engaged on the greens, he is to be found searching nearby waters for members of the finny tribe. Today Mr. Glover is at Bound Brook trying his luck. He will probably return with a large mess of fish.

CYCLING COMMENT.

The boys of the Y. M. C. A. have scheduled a bicycle run to Elizabeth this evening. The start is to be made from Front street at 7:45 o'clock.

INSISTED ON WORKING.

It Made No Difference That There Was No Work to Be Had.

The action of Recorder Doud imposing a fine of $2 on him for drunkenness caused a considerable shrinkage in the finances of Michael Dongo. To restore himself to a position of wealth, Michael determined this morning that he must seek employment.

The operations connected with the construction of the additions to the Pond Machine Tool Works caught Michael's fancy and he made up his mind to obtain employment at all hazards. The kindly information, that there was no work for him, did not satisfy the Italian, and all efforts to make him leave the place proved futile.

Patrolman Higgins finally persuaded him to view the sights at police headquarters. A stern rebuke was subsequently administered the prisoner by City Judge Runyon, who in suspending sentence, admonished the man not to repeat his tactics again.

TO PLEASE BOTH SIDES.

Extension Of Time In Swift-Carr Case Has Nothing to Do With Merits of Case.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, August 15—The fact that Frank Bergen, as counsel for W. C. Carr, had made an application for an extension of time for making answer to C. Addison Swift's quo waranto proceedings has been misunderstood.

Mr. Bergen said yesterday that the extension of time in the Swift-Carr case was obtained in order to accommodate counsel on both sides and had nothing to do with the merits of the litigation. He added, that he had said nothing about the case for publication, and hoped that hereafter he would not be quoted by gentlemen of the press.

AIDED BABY CAMP.

Worthy Efforts of Young People Living in the East End.

During the past season five young people residing in the east end of the city have been giving several little entertainments for the benefit of the baby camp on the mountain. Those who have interested themselves so much in this worthy enterprise are Miss May Doane, Clyde Doane, Willie Doane and Miss Belle Smith, of LaGrande avenue, and Miss Maude VanAuken, of East Sixth street. As a result of their efforts, $1.30 has been realized. This amount has been forwarded to the proper persons, as the young folks have decided to give up further effort for the remainder of the season.

Gave Him a Name and a Fine.

An Italian was arrested in an intoxicated condition in the borough yesterday afternoon. He was allowed to dream of Sunny Italy for a few hours and in the evening was given a hearing. Recorder Thomas Doud imposed a fine of $2. Who the man was or where he came from is immaterial to the police, who are content to call him Michael Dungo.

Work Started On Addition.

Herman Hansen, who was awarded the contract to build the new addition to Saengerbund Hall, commenced work on the structure yesterday morning. As soon as the cellar is dug Mr. Hansen will put a large force of men to work and the construction will be completed as speedily as possible.

Players Will Dine.

After the Endeavor Society meeting at Hope chapel, last evening, the young women members decided to prepare and give a dinner to Hope chapel baseball team and the team they are scheduled to play on Labor Day. The banquet will be given in the evening after the game.

Should Be Punished.

A gang of colored boys have been making the rounds of the city, destroying and defacing such property as they come across. A number of store fronts show the work of these mischievous youngsters, and if the police catch them they will be taught a lesson.

Degree Team Will Visit.

The degree team of Freedom Castle, Knights of the Golden Eagle, will pay a fraternal visit to Golden Crown Castle, of Somerville, Monday evening, and work the second degree on several candidates.

In Justice Nash's Court.

Justice Nash has issued papers in the landlord and tenant case of Vail against Barrett, returnable August 20, and the contract case of Scheelein against Walker, returnable August 21.

Accepted As Pupil Nurse.

Miss Lillian Thorn, of East Third street, has successfully passed her probationary term, and has been accepted as a pupil nurse at the New York Hospital.

More New 'Phones.

Several new telephones have been installed lately by the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company, thereby increasing the service very much.

Two New Porches.

P. W. Mundy, contractor, is erecting two new porches at Hope chapel which, according to contract, must be completed before Sunday.

TO SHORE AND MOUNTAINS.

MANY PLAINFIELDERS ARE ENJOYING THEIR VACATIONS.

Others Are Entertaining Guests From Out of Town at Their Homes in This City.

Miss Jennie DeCamp, of Linden avenue, is visiting friends in Philadelphia.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Roselle, of Franklin place, have returned from a week's sojourn at Atlantic City.

Miss Sadie Elliott, of Newark, is being entertained by Miss Jennie Saxton, of East Fourth street.

Miss Jennie Osborn, of Newark, has returned home after a two weeks' visit with friends in Plainfield.

Clifford Manning, of Albert street, has returned home from Princess Bay, where he has been spending a few days.

Mrs. Eliza Martin and daughter, Miss Ida Martin, of Linden avenue, are spending two weeks at Asbury Park.

Mrs. A. Martin, of Grandview avenue, has returned home after a visit at the home of Mrs. Jenner, of New Market.

The Misses Emma and Edith Giddis, of New Brunswick, are being entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Martin, of Grandview avenue.

FUNERAL OF WILLIAM TRUST.

Funeral Held From Home of His Sister on Somerset Street

Impressive funeral services over the body of William Trust, who died Tuesday, were held at the home of his sister, Mrs. Adam Fritz, on Somerset street, this morning. The house was filled with mourning relatives and intimate friends, many of whom came from a distance.

Rev. G. Hauser, pastor of the German Reformed church, conducted the services according to the ritual of that denomination. Some handsome floral tributes lay near the casket. The services were of a private nature. When they were concluded the family accompanied the remains to Williamsburg, L. I., where interment will be made in the Lutheran cemetery at that place.

MANY PLAYED EUCHRE.

Weekly Event at The Netherwood Last Evening Well Attended.

The best attended progressive euchre, which has been held at the resort this season, took place at the Hotel Netherwood last evening. The interest taken in the contest to capture the prizes was more than is usual. The majority of the guests and a number of Plainfielders participated in the affair.

The prize winners among the women were as follows: Mrs. S. B. Carson, a brass paper rack; Mrs. H. F. Cokefair, hand painted plate; Miss L. Perine, a vase. The men's prizes were: Leopard skin cigar case, Mr. Terrell; picture, "The Echo," H. F. Cokefair; brass letter rack, Dr. W. K. Browning.

REDUCED RATES TO LOUISVILLE.

Via Pennsylvania Railroad, Account Triennial Conclave, Knights Templar.

On account of the Triennial Conclave of the Knights Templar, to be held in Louisville, Ky., August 27 to 31, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will sell excursion tickets from August 22 to 25, inclusive, to Louisville and return, at rate of one first-class fare for the round trip. These tickets will be good to return until September 2, inclusive, but if ticket is deposited by the original purchaser with joint agent at Louisville not earlier than August 28, nor later than September 2, and a fee of fifty cents is paid at the time of deposit, an extension of the return limit may be had until September 16. 8 15 2 oaw

MOVING PICTURES.

Chief Feature of Entertainment at Inn Last Night.

Moving pictures, accompanied with illustrated songs gave much entertainment to the guests at the Mountain Park Inn last evening. Barney K. McDonald, of New York, conducted the affair and received rounds of applause for his humorous efforts.

A whist party will be the feature of the attractions this evening. Arrangements have been made to furnish an enjoyable time for any Plainfielders who desire to attend. An impromptu dance in all probability will commence as soon as the card game is concluded.

More Red Men.

The report just received, covering a period of six months, gives the increase in membership in the Improved Order of Red Men in this State as 1,060. In every department there has been a corresponding growth, which is most gratifying to every member of the order.

SURPRISED THEIR FRIENDS.

Miss Florence Rugg And Lewis R. Bird Were Quietly Wedded Here Last Evening.

Quietly, and without any previous announcement of the fact, Miss Florence Rugg, niece of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin H. Rugg, of 47 Grandview avenue, was married last evening to Lewis R. Bird, of 41 Summit avenue. The couple, attended by Miss Ada VanHorn and Louis Schutt, also of the borough, went to the home of Rev. W. C. Nelson, at 95 Summit avenue, where the ceremony was performed.

Mr. and Mrs. Bird are well-known young people in this city and the borough, and the announcement of their marriage will be a surprise to their many friends. The groom is an employe of the American Express Company, at the New York office. A place of residence has not yet been determined upon, but the couple will probably reside in the borough.

DEATH OF MRS. LANE.

Unable To Survive An Operation Recently Performed.

Mrs. Laura B. Lane died at the home of her mother-in-law, Mrs. Sarah C. Lane, of West Third street, yesterday. Her home was in Philadelphia, and she has been an invalid for two years.

A month ago she came to Plainfield and was operated upon for a tumor. After leaving the hospital she improved, but it did not last.

Mrs. Lane was thirty-nine years of age, and was born in Tennessee. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Buckley are both dead and she leaves a daughter, Mildred. A husband, Chauncey A. Lane, of Stamford, N. Y., mourns her loss.

The funeral services will be held at the home of Mrs. Sarah S. Lane, of West Third street, tomorrow morning at 9:30 o'clock. They are to be private. Rev. F. D. Tildon, of Richmond street, will conduct the service. Interment is to be at Readington, N. J.

Miss Jeanne Lunger, of Fairview avenue, is visiting friends in Jersey City.

HOGS CATCHING FISH.

Washington Farmers Must Keep Their Swine Away from Rivers Because of Their Liking for Salmon.

In the state of Washington, as all school boys and girls doubtless know, are the greatest salmon fisheries in America. Every spring the swift mountain streams are fairly alive with these beautiful reddish yellow fish (three and four feet in length and weighing often 25 and 30 pounds), as they go up the river to deposit their eggs in the headwaters of the mountain streams. Then in the early fall they come down again. It is during these two seasons that what is known as the salmon run is at its full height, and this is the time to which the Washington boys look forward to all the rest of the year.

But the queerest fishers are neither Indians nor boys, says an exchange of that state. They are hogs. So fond are the hogs of this delicacy, which costs the people of London one dollar a pound, that the farmers who have pastures along the rivers have great trouble fencing the farms so that the hogs cannot get into the streams. Mr. Hog wades in or swims in, according to the depth of the stream, and then watches for the salmon. The salmon swims along unsuspectingly, Mr. Hog is ready for him. Quick as a flash he fastens his greedy jaws about the great fish and carries him ashore, there to devour him with the greatest relish. Then back he slips into the water to watch for the next traveler along that way. He will keep this up until his hunger is satisfied. This indulgence ruins the hog for pork, however, as it gives it a "fishy" taste, and no one will buy it. That is the reason the farmers keep their hogs as far from the streams as possible.

More Than Life Sentence.

One of the longest and direst sentences ever pronounced upon a criminal is probably contained in a decision of a judge in Naples, inflicted recently upon an Italian adventurer, who pleaded guilty to and was convicted of 64 separate forgeries. The judge figured up the penalties and officially sentenced the prisoner to 1,088 years of solitary confinement.—N. Y. Sun.

NO LOCAL SOLDIERS ON REGIMENTAL TEAM

Second Regiment Will Be Represented At Tournament Of National Rifle Association.

TO BE HELD AT SEA GIRT

CRACK SHOTS FROM ALL OVER COUNTRY WILL BE THERE.

New Jersey Will Have Team From Each Of Militia Regiments—Other Visitors Who Are Expected—Foreigners Coming.

The coming tournament of the National Rifle Association to be held at Sea Girt this fall is looked forward to with considerable interest by the members of the National Guard of the State. The sharpshooters in the Second Regiment will be on hand to uphold their record. Company K, which is in the Second Regiment, will furnish no marksman, inasmuch as there is a scarcity of such material in it at present. In the local organization there is only one man, who has qualified. He is E. C. Pearsall, of Westfield, who is considered a crack shot. Company K is recognized as being still in its infancy and hence is not expected to contribute sharpshooters as yet.

Teams representing the militia of the several States of the Union will participate, and skilled riflemen belonging to various clubs will attempt to make records. Some teams are expected from foreign countries.

The District of Columbia team has been in training for some time and is getting in fine shape. As New York only recently held the competition for places on her team it is too early to predict how strong a team she will put in the field, but with the excellent material at hand she should give a good account of herself. Of the teams from Maine, Vermont, New Hampshire, Pennsylvania and the Western States, little is known, which is the case, also, of the work being done by the United States Marine Corps team, which is composed of men who have had practical experience in the field.

In addition to the State competition many States are sending regimental and company teams from the infantry and carbine and revolver teams from the cavalry. Squadron A, of New York, has a team in training at Creedmoor for the carbine and revolver matches. Against them will be a squadron team from Pennsylvania, two troop teams from New Jersey, troop teams from Maryland and Atlanta, Ga. A much larger attendance of regimental teams is assured, owing to the skirmish feature having been eliminated from the conditions of the match. The Twelfth, Seventh and Seventy-first, of New York, and the Seventy-fourth, of Buffalo, are among those that will compete, with four teams from New Jersey, two from Massachusetts, three from Pennsylvania, three from the District of Columbia and several more from other States.

The entertainment committee of the National Rifle Association of America has arranged to meet the Irish and Canadian teams down the bay. Col. Robert M. Thompson, a member of the committee and an aide-de-camp of Gov. Voorhees of New Jersey, has placed his steam yacht at the disposal of the association for this purpose. The riflemen of the Argentine Republic are making big efforts to secure transportation direct to this country, and if it can be accomplished its team will be present at the meet.

Military riflemen are not going to monopolize all the interest at this tournament. All of the larger civilian rifle shooting clubs of the east will have the strongest teams they can assemble for a try at the inter-club team championship. The Massachusetts Rifle Association, Philadelphia Rifle Association, New Jersey State Rifle Associations, Manhattan Rifle and Revolver Club and the Zettler Rifle Club, of New York, Pittsburg Rifle Club, Crescent City Rifle Club, of Scranton, Pa., Iroquois Rifle Club, of Pittsburg, Ideal Rifle Club, of Brooklyn, and the Independent Schuetzen Corps, of Hoboken, will meet in a battle royal for the pennant. The New Jersey State Rifle Association team, which is to meet the team from the Ulster Rifle Association, of Belfast, Ireland, is training on the Sea Girt range, with the result that it has been found necessary to lay in a large stock of black plasters.

—Forty baskets of Delaware and thirty baskets of Jersey peaches will be on sale at Neuman Brothers, tomorrow. They are delicious in flavor and reasonable in price.

KILLED BY TRAIN.

Nephew Of Mrs. W. W. Wilson Met Death At Stelton Yesterday.

Word was received yesterday morning by Mrs. W. W. Wilson, of West Third street, of the sad fatality which occurred to her nephew, William Garrigan, of New Brunswick, early yesterday morning.

While riding on a freight train between Newark and his home, in some manner young Garrigan fell off at Stelton and his body cut in twain. The boy's step-father is Thomas Garrigan, who is employed in Wilson's grocery store.

CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATIONS TO BE HELD AT ELIZABETH.

To Fill Positions of Clerk and Carrier In Postoffice Service—Date is September 4

The United States civil service commission announces that September 4, an examination will be held in Elizabeth for the positions of clerk and carrier in the postoffice service.

All persons who have been examined for the position of clerk or carrier within the past year and failed to pass may be re-examined upon filing new applications in due time.

The nature of the examination is a test of practical, general intelligence, and of adaptability in postoffice work. The age limitations for this examination are as follows: Clerk, not less than eighteen years; carrier, between twenty one and forty years.

Applicants for male clerk and carrier must have the medical certificate in Form 101 executed. Applicants for carrier must be at least five feet four inches in height, and weigh not less than 125 pounds. Female applicants are not required to have this certificate executed.

This examination is open to all citizens of the United States who may desire to enter the service, and who comply with the requirements. All such persons are invited to apply, but attention is invited to the fact that from those certified the department usually selects for appointment eligibles who are residents of the district in which the vacancies exist. Applicants will be examined, graded and certified with entire impartiality and wholly without regard to any consideration save their ability as shown by the grade attained in the examination.

GIFT IS APPRECIATED.

Catalogues For Sunday-School at Marconnier Chapel Have Just Been Received.

The Sunday-school at Marconnier chapel has just received as a gift, 150 catalogues, giving the list of books in the school library. This library is very complete and is a source of interest and help to those who can enjoy its privileges. A well-wisher, A. J. Leader, of Duer street, recognizing that the school was in need of catalogues, very kindly donated the same to the school. The members appreciate exceedingly Mr. Leader's kindness.

An excellent second-hand hot air furnace will soon be installed at the chapel, making it possible this winter to comfortably heat the building. Heretofore there has been one register in the building. With the new heater there will be five registers, one of which will be placed in the library room, while there will be four registers in the main room. The furnace was purchased from a woman in this city, who not only sold it cheap, but contributed toward the purchase of it.

Put Wagon Out Of Business.

The rear wheel of a two-seated wagon, in which were two young men and two young women, was dished on West Front street late Wednesday night. An attempt was made to cross the trolley tracks, when the wheel went down. The quartette was obliged to walk a considerable distance before necessary repairs could be made.

Put Hand Out of Business.

In the Pond Machine Tool Works, where he is employed, Thos. Waring, of Rock avenue, met with a painful injury yesterday morning. While removing a heavy casting it slipped and fell with much force on his hand, lacerating the member. The accident will prevent Mr. Waring from continuing his duties for some time.

Valuable Dog Poisoned.

A valuable bird dog, belonging to Dr. P. J. Zaglio, of Somerset street, was poisoned last night. The animal was highly prized by the doctor. The perpetrator of the dastardly act is unknown.

Thoroughfares Improved.

Street Commissioner Gavett's work of scraping and trimming up Martine and Thornton avenues has made a marked improvement in those thoroughfares.

BAND PLAYS TONIGHT AT THE CITY PARK.

Band Concert, Second Of The Series, Will Be Held There If Weather Permits.

AN EXCELLENT PROGRAMME.

THERE WILL BE A CHANCE TO FINANCIALLY AID THE MOVEMENT.

Best Of Order Will Be Maintained—Varied Programme To Be Given—Five Thousand There Last Time—Big Crowd Expected.

Another band concert is scheduled to take place at the City Park this evening. It will be the second given there this season. An elaborate programme of music has been arranged by Ben LaVere, the leader of the band, and there is no doubt that it will be appreciated as much as the selections rendered on the first occasion.

There is ample room for all at the park, and the public in general is invited to spend the evening, listening to the music furnished by the local organization. There were fully 5,000 persons to the last concert, and they had an enjoyable time. On that occasion, looking from the bandstand in any direction, you would view a mass of people all in a jolly frame of mind. It seemed as if all Plainfield had turned out to enjoy the treat.

There is every promise that this evening as at the previous concert the best of order will be maintained. The affair that time was not marred by any boisterous conduct, but on the other hand the utmost good humor prevailed. Everyone lauded the ability of the band after hearing that concert.

Mr. LaVere makes it a rule to furnish a programme which is so varied that it will be uniformly pleasing. The music this evening extends all over the field of music. Classical tunes intersperse popular airs, and hence the programme can not become wearisome. During the musical treat anyone, being so minded, may contribute towards a fund to defray the expenses of giving concerts in the immediate future. No one will be asked personally to make a donation, but any offering for the purpose will be thankfully received. There is no fund from which to sustain these concerts, and hence the continuance of them depends entirely on the financial support given by the citizens.

The programme in full is as follows:

March—"The Maine Festival" R. B. Hall
Medley Overture—"Harvest Days" Van Tilzer
Patrol—"American" Meacham
Cornet Solo—Selected
Albert C. Sweet.
Selection—"Florodora" Stuart
Medley Waltz—"Sweet Annie Moore" Flynn
Intro. 3-3 3 in the moon.
(Intermission.)
March—"Cotton Blossoms" Hall
Selection—"Faust" Gounod
Flower Song—"Hearts and Flowers" Tobani
Intermezzo—"La Rose" Archer
Song for Baritone—"Asleep in the Deep" Petrie

Gradually subscriptions for the band concerts are received and thus the possibility of continuing them frequently throughout the season is assured to a reasonable extent. Ben LaVere, leader, of the band, reports the following subscriptions received recently: Francis Wood, $5; cash, $5; cash, $8; F. W. Butler, $2; Mason W. Tyler, $5; Andrew J. Gavett, $3; making $23 in all. Other contributions will be gratefully received either at this office or by Mr. LaVere.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF WEDDING.

Miss Wortmann and Fred Rose Were Married at Newark a Month Ago.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Linde Wortmann and Fred Rose, both of this city, which took place nearly a month ago at Newark. The bride has for nineteen years held the position of forewoman at Thorn's laundry on East Second street, while the groom is a machinist. Both are well-known in this city. They propose to go to housekeeping on LaGrande avenue in the near future.

Will Decide on Night of Meeting.

Benevolent Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., instituted Wednesday evening, will hold its first regular meeting Wednesday evening of next week in the Sons of Temperance rooms, Washington Hall. At that time a regular meeting night will be fixed upon. Some favor Wednesday evening, while many want to select Thursday evening as the time for meeting. The question of a permanent meeting place will also be decided.

ALL OF DUNELLEN MOURNED.

MANY PRESENT AT FUNERAL OF HENRY CLAY GASKILL.

Held From House and New Market Baptist Church This Afternoon.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, August 16—The funeral services of the late Henry Clay Gaskill were held this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the house, and at 2:30 from the First Baptist church at New Market. There was a very large gathering of friends, including many from Friendship Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., and the Dunellen Borough Council, in both of which Mr. Gaskill was an invaluable member. It was a very sad funeral, in that everyone was oppressed with that feeling of sorrow which comes at the death of one who is not only loved but esteemed and respected by all.

The casket rested in the front of the church, and surrounding it was a profusion of nature's fairest flowers. There were many large wreaths of lilies and galax leaves. There was a pillow from the Juniors, and a beautiful bouquet of flowers from the members of the council. There were also many other beautiful tokens of esteem from the Sunday School with which Mr. Gaskill was prominently connected.

A male quartette, composed of Charles M. Dayton, Lewis Titsworth, L. C. Barick, and Mahlon B. Dayton, sang very effectively after which Rev. Frank Fletcher took charge of the service. He read at some length appropriate Scripture selections all of which bore out the thought of the blessedness of leading a consistent Christian life.

After the reading of Scripture, Mr. Fletcher spoke concerning the exemplary life and works of the deceased. He inferred that life and death was a deep mystery which no man could explain, and offered consolation to the mourning wife and children, telling them that they should not grieve for the departed as he had only gone to Heaven, and is awaiting there his earthly friends. After the words by the pastor, the quartette again sang.

Those who acted as pall bearers were Frank Randolph, John Emmons, Z. P. Osborn, Lewis Titsworth, A. Berdick and John M. Dayton.

The interment took place at Hillside cemetery, Samptown.

ROBBED A COAT.

John Wisewiski Confessed to Stealing Sum of Money From Clerk at a Local Drug Store.

A clever game, which terminated unluckily for the perpetrator, was worked by John Wisewiski, a fifteen-year-old boy, who resides on East Third street. Under the assumed name of Harry Hoffman, he obtained employment in a drug store at the corner of North and Watchung avenues, where Thomas McGeary holds the position of clerk.

When the lad had been at work for but a few hours, Mr. McGeary missed a sum between $2 and $3, which was in a pocket of his coat, hanging in the store. The police were notified and Wisewiski was apprehended later by Patrolman McCarthy.

This morning the culprit was given a hearing by Justice Nash. He had previously confessed and refunded a part of the stolen money. The court held him to await the action of the Grand Jury. In the meanwhile the young man will be incarcerated at Elizabeth.

DESERVED TRIBUTE.

Paid to Wilbur J. Chamberlin by His Former Employers, the New York Sun.

The New York Sun says editorially this morning:

"Wilbur J. Chamberlin, who died on Wednesday at Carlsbad, was one of the best reporters that ever served this newspaper and its readers. His honesty of purpose, modest fidelity, clearness of vision and power of graphic and accurate narrative were manifest in small things and in great; and the course of his duty in the last years of his life brought him into the presence of some of the most memorable happenings in the world's recent history. Such men are the real historians. There is no higher journalistic function than that which Mr. Chamberlin performed for fourteen years on The Sun, with entire loyalty to his paper and to his own professional and personal honor."

Owner of Scattered Wardrobe.

The goods, damaged in the wreck at the North Avenue station Wednesday afternoon, were in charge of the employes of the U. S. Express Company. A majority of the goods were owned by G. M. C. Smith, of Craig place, who sailed yesterday for Germany to follow a course of two years in music.

MANY ARRAIGNED FOR NOT MUZZLING DOGS.

Vigorous Campaign Instituted Against Offenders Of The Dog Ordinance.

IN COURT THIS MORNING.

SENTENCE WAS SUSPENDED IN ALL CASES WITH A WARNING.

Geo. O. Stevens Attempted a Technical Defence, But It Didn't Go With City Judge Runyon—The Offenders.

The police department has instituted a vigorous campaign against all owners of dogs, who allow their canines to roam at large without muzzles, and as a result nine offenders against the ordinance were before City Judge Runyon this morning. More had been summoned, but those who had answered the notice kept the court busy for some time.

There were all sorts of excuses given for the neglect by the owners in this matter. Some claimed that they had no knowledge that their animals were running at will, while a few denied that their canines were not kept under restraint. It was expected that the trials would be quite lively, but with one exception, after hearing the explanation given by the defendant, a warning was served by the court and the offender was allowed to depart. A promise was exacted, or rather made, that in the future the canines would be tied on the premises or be properly muzzled.

The genial George O Stevens, of the Consumers' Coal Company, was the only one of any prominence before His Honor and he succeeded in keeping the court-room in an uproar. Mr. Stevens' trained dog was the cause of the trouble. He and the animal are inseparable companions, and they travel about in what is familiarly know as "Stevens' doggymobile." Chief Kiely had notified Mr. Stevens to appear this morning.

In a profound manner the defendant at the bar outlined his defence, which was in substance, "not guilty." In an ingenious argument he claimed that the dog was not running "at large," inasmuch as he was always under the control of his master. Mr. Stevens cited Noah Webster and others on the definition of "restrait" and "at large." When Mr. Stevens was informed that his technicality "would not go" and was given the customary warning, he produced the necessary muzzle.

Those who were brought up by Policeman Higgins were David Bowden, of West Fourth street; Jefferson Davis, of West Third street; Robert Fetman, of West Third street; Morris Morowitz; John Cavanaugh, of Grant avenue, and Doctor Moore, of the "Diamond Jack Company." Mrs. Gideon Polen, of "Paradise alley," who had previously informed the Chief that when sent after, she would be "yours truly" to the officer, was another offender, as was also Mrs. Thomas Bowser, of Richmond street.

Cause of Delay.

The delay in placing the street signs in position in the borough is caused by the fact that it was found necessary to provide wood backs to tack these signs to before erecting them. This work is being done by Walter Apgar, of Somerset street, and as soon as he completes the job, the placards will be put in position.

Met a Tree in a Hurry.

Orissie Mobus, of Manning avenue, while riding his wheel down Stiles' hill Monday, lost control of the bicycle and plunged into a tree by the roadway. A badly cut forehead and a blackened eye were the extent of his injuries. Dr. J. B. Probasco dressed the wounds. Mr. Mobus' wheel was wrecked.

Gear Fell On His Foot.

Harry Drake, of Richmond street, while at work in the Pond Machine Tool Company's plant, Tuesday morning, sustained a severe injury. A heavy gear fell on his right foot, bruising it to a great extent. Mr. Drake is confined to his home as a result of the injury.

Injured His Hand.

Edmund Pack, who is employed by Johnson & Barnes, of West Front street, tore off a nail and bruised a finger of his right hand last evening, while fixing a grating in front of the firm's place of business. The grating slipped and caused the injuries.

In Interest of G. A. R.

The committee on soldier and sailor work from the W. C. T. U. is arranging a meeting to be held soon in the interest of the Grand Army men.

REPAIRING ROOF.

Wm. Claassen Has Contract For Tarring Roof At Pond Tool Works.

The roofs of the various shops of the Pond Machine Tool Company are being repaired. Recently during the heavy rains some damage, as well as much inconvenience, has been caused by the defective condition of the roofs.

A heavy coating of tar is being spread on the roofs. William Claassen has the contract and is rushing the work. The smell of the fresh tar is not relished by the large number of employes who are engaged in the works.

'TWAS GREAT GAME OF BALL.

PLAYED AT PICNIC OF MT. ZION A. M. E. SUNDAY-SCHOOL.

No One Knows Who Won or What Was the Score but It Was a Great Game Anyhow.

The members of the Mt. Zion A. M. E. church Sunday-school, chaperoned by E. B. Maynard, the superintendent, enjoyed their annual outing at Recreation Park, Wednesday. The trip was made by trolley early in the morning and the entire day was spent at the park.

There were many forms of amusement to take the attention of the excursionists, not the least of which was a baseball game played during the afternoon by men and women. This caused no end of fun for all. A man was engaged to pitch for the women, while Mrs. Henry played behind the bat, catching everything that came near her. Those who saw the contest declare it was equal to most games that are played nowadays. The women played as though they had had plenty of practice and astonished the onlookers.

Miss Olden was the heavy hitter for her side. In the forepart of the battle, she drove a liner straight for centre field, where Mrs. E. B. Maynard stood waiting to capture a fly. The fielder was a little bewildered and before she could recover her presence of mind, the ball struck her on the head. For a minute she was stunned, but her recovery was quick and the game continued.

No one can tell exactly how many innings were played nor the score. While the teams were trying to ascertain the score, the trolley car appeared and everyone rushed to get a seat, forgetting to finish the count. The women declare they won while the men, not willing to cause any ill feeling, are satisfied in letting the sisters believe that they were winners. There is some talk of playing another game in the near future.

BOTH CLAIM GOODS.

Legal Complications Have Arisen Over Property Of Mr. And Mrs. Geo. W. Rowley.

Legal complications have arisen over some goods owned by Mr. and Mrs. George Rowley, of Ninth street and Arlington avenue, for an alleged debt on contract.

Some time ago W. D. Manning secured judgment in Justice Nash's court against the Rowleys for a coal bill. Yesterday Constable Mattox, who has served a tax bill on the Rowleys, gave instructions to have the goods moved to Hand & Son's storage rooms. Constable Gjettiesen, who served the papers in the first case, interposed but with no avail. In the first case the goods were appraised at $275, which amount is claimed as excessive. They were advertised to be sold, but several times an adjournment was taken.

WHO WILL SUPPORT IT?

A Question of Law to Be Decided By County Attorney.

A baby was born to Miss Sarah Spiers and James Simpson, July 22, at Elizabeth, and as the woman formerly worked in this city, a question has now been raised by the Elizabeth authorities as to who should pay for the support of the child, the board bill at the General Hospital amounting to $2 per week.

The mother is in the county jail, as is also the father, and so neither one can support the child. The matter will probably be settled by the county attorney. The parents of the child were implicated in a robbery at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Burnett, Sandford avenue, several months ago.

Handy Machines.

New Century typewriters have been placed in the offices of the Hygeia Ice Company and Tapscott & Hardingham, insurance brokers. Jas. A. Stafford represents this excellent typewriter.

Reunion of Vails.

There will be a reunion of the Vail family at Dewey Park all day tomorrow. This will be the second annual affair of the kind and much pleasure is anticipated by those who expect to attend.

MAY BUILD RAILROAD IN WASHINGTON VALLEY

Survey Being Made for Extension of New Orange and Four Junction Railroad.

IT RUNS THROUGH SUMMIT

MAY EVENTUALLY BE CONTINUED THROUGH TO THE WEST.

New Starts at Aldene—Will First be Continued Through to Pennsylvania—Crossing Picturesque Part of This State.

Surveyors are now at work laying out a route for the New Orange and Four Junction Railroad to run through the southeasterly end of Summit. As originally intended the road was to have run through Irvington, Milburn, passing over the Morris turnpike, and running through the northern part of Summit, taking in Chatham, Madison and Morristown, where it was to connect with the Lackawanna Railroad. The present terminus of the railroad is at Aldene, where it connects with the Jersey Central Railroad.

This route was abandoned some time ago, and it is now proposed to run the line from Aldene, through a portion of Irvington, Hilton, Union and Springfield, from which point it will pass just north of the Baltusrol Golf Club grounds, over the Springfield mountain to the Summit city line. It is then proposed to run the road through East Summit, along the Feltville road for several miles, through Washington valley and terminating at a point in Pennsylvania.

This route is particularly desirable owning to the fact that from the boundrry line of Summit and Springfield there is but little grade to be overcome until Washington Valley is passed. It would also provide a shorter route between Dover, Morristown, Summit and Elizabeth and would pass through a picturesque part of New Jersey.

At present there is no way of determining the western terminus of the road, but there is a rumor that capitalists intend to build a line which will eventually end in Chicago, and which will be much shorter than any of the existing lines running west.

LEFT SATCHEL BEHIND.

Yesterday's Trip To Asbury Park Cost Mrs. Clarence Leland The Sum of $20.

Among the Plainfielders who will always have occasion to remember the Junior excursion to Asbury Park, yesterday, is Mrs. Clarence Leland, of West Second street, daughter of Justice and Mrs V. W. Nash, of Prospect avenue.

She and her young son went to the shore for the day. She carried a satchel in which was a quantity of medicine for her son and $20 in money. When the train reached Asbury Park, Mrs. Leland left the car in which she had been riding, never thinking of her satchel. Soon afterwards she missed it and immediately returned to the car, thinking, of course, the satchel was where she had left it. To her surprise it was not there and there seemed to be strong evidence that some boys had been running through the cars picking up whatever they could find.

Diligent inquiry among the trainmen and railroad officials failed to bring back her satchel, and Mrs. Leland was obliged to give up all hope of getting her stolen property back again.

DELEGATES NAMED.

Will Represent Borough Firemen's Relief Association at State Convention.

The Firemen's Relief Association, of North Plainfield, has selected delegates to represent the organization at the annual convention of the State Association, which meets in September. The men chosen are: Jacob Higgins, David Bodine, J. J. Stahl and Charles Keller.

The convention will hold its sessions at Atlantic City, September 11 and 12 are the dates of the meeting, which it is expected will be of unusual interest. Delegates from all parts of the State will attend and the assemblage will be a large one.

Studying Music.

For the purpose of pursuing a course in music, George C. M. Smith, of Craig place, left yesterday for Germany, where he will reside for the next four years. Mr. Smith sailed on the Augusta Victoria, the great ship which touches at Homburg. He graduated from the North Plainfield High School this spring and proposes to make music his life work.

JUDGE YERKES NAMED.

Pennsylvania Democrats Settle Their Differences.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 16.—The Democratic state convention has nominated Judge Harman Yerkes of Doylestown for supreme court judge and Representative Andrew J. Palm of Meadville for state treasurer. The platform makes no reference to William J. Bryan or national affairs, being confined entirely to state issues. In the closing moments of the convention resolutions were adopted without debate and by a practically unanimous vote which will have the effect of blocking any effort that may be contemplated looking to the withdrawal of the candidate for state treasurer and the substitution of an anti-Quay Republican on a fusion ticket.

The contest between the rival Philadelphia factions for recognition by the convention resulted in a harmony agreement between the recognized leaders of the two elements. A committee was designated to co-operate with ex-Governor Robert E. Pattison, chairman of the regular city committee, in adjusting the differences that may arise in reorganizing the party in Philadelphia. The action of the convention was indorsed in vigorous speeches by Mr. Pattison and ex-Judge James Gay Gordon, the leader of the Young Democracy of Philadelphia.

Following the ratification of the harmony programme an effort was made by J. O. Ulrich of Schuylkill to expel the Philadelphia delegates. He made a speech criticising the harmony resolutions and condemning the leaders of the Philadelphia Democracy. An assistant sergeant at arms tried to force Mr. Ulrich to take his seat, and there was almost a riot. The police interfered, and after much excitement the Ulrich resolution to expel the delegates was rejected. The decision of Chairman Keenan was appealed from and was sustained.

Changes were made in the party rules whereby the state executive committee is authorized to examine the rules of the city and county organizations and federal and state officeholders are made ineligible to the office of chairman or member of any Democratic district, city or county committee.

DAILY RAIDS.

Military Fails to Protect the Isthmian Line.

COLON, Colombia, Aug. 16.—Raids continue almost daily or nightly along the line owing to the entire absence of military protection. Wednesday night Matachin was again raided, and cattle belonging to sympathizers with the government were stolen. Two women were kidnaped at Gorgona station Sunday night, and the Chinese there were pillaged. On most occasions of this character the Chinese are the chief sufferers. Consequently they are daily transferring provisions and merchandise to Panama, thus intensifying want and suffering all along the line.

Armed guards consisting of about 50 still accompany each passenger train. The presence of the French cruiser Suchet tends to allay uneasiness, and the arrival of the United States gunboat Machias is anxiously awaited. It is hoped that she may get here by Sunday.

Beyond the loss of dynamite and powder the railroad has sustained no injury, and traffic across the isthmus continues without interruption, although few local passengers are now crossing.

The government is concentrating troops from the more remote provinces. Telegraphic communication with coast points is interrupted, and hence nothing is known here regarding the situation at Cartagena and Barranquilla. General Alban has not yet returned to Colon, but he is expected at any moment with reenforcements. Troops continue to patrol both ends of the isthmus at night.

Creeks Protest.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—A delegation of full blooded Creeks from Indian Territory conferred with Acting Secretary of the Interior Ryan yesterday and protested against the division of their lands in severalty and other work now being done by the Dawes five civilized tribes commission. They insisted that the treaty which gave them their lands and a government gave these "as long as the grass grows and the water runs." Acting Secretary Ryan explained to them that their own people by agreement with the United States government had made provision for this division of their lands into severalty and the other work now going on and that the treaty of 1832, on which they mainly relied, had been changed very materially by consent of the Creek Nation in that agreement. The department, he told them, had no discretion in executing the agreement and the laws of congress applicable to them.

Adirondack Bandit Still at Large.

SARATOGA, Aug. 16.—A report received from North Creek said that the masked highwayman who held up the Blue Mountain stage was still at large, and doubt was expressed as to his ultimate capture. Search for the bandit has been continued since the hour of the Coon hill episode. Early yesterday a suspect was shadowed for some distance, but he proved to be a harmless traveler. Some berry pickers claimed that a strange man whom they approached near North River drew a revolver and ordered them to move in another direction, but no special importance is attached by the authorities to their statement.

Receiver For Grain Company.

CHICAGO, Aug. 16.—Under proceedings in voluntary bankruptcy the Chicago Title and Trust company was last night appointed temporary receiver for the George H. Phillips Grain company. Bond in the sum of $100,000 was given. John S. Goodwin, attorney for Mr. Phillips, states that the latter will not oppose the receivership.

JOLIET MEN STRIKE.

Reconsider Their Vote to Disobey Shaffer.

THREE THOUSAND MEN GO OUT.

This Latest Development Will Have Decided Effect on General Situation—Secretary Tighe Goes to Milwaukee.

JOLIET, Ills., Aug. 16.—The four lodges of the Amalgamated association employees of the Illinois Steel company at the Joliet mills by a unanimous vote decided last night to obey the strike order of President Shaffer. The conference was in session from 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon until 9 o'clock last night before the decision was reached. The steel mills were closed at noon to enable the members of the association to attend the meeting, which was called by National Assistant Secretary Tighe after his arrival here in the morning. He was accompanied by Vice President Davis of the Fourth district. Both men presented the side of the association to the local members. It was argued that in order to secure the organization of nonunion workers in the east it was essential that the western men would have to join the strike movement.

Mr. Tighe also appealed to the fealty of the men to the association. He urged them to be men and stand by their union. His remarks were received with enthusiasm and presaged the vote that followed.

This action will close the entire steel plant here, throwing out of employment nearly 3,000 men. Fires were drawn last night.

The Joliet men had the same contract with the Illinois Steel company as the South Chicago workers, who on Wednesday night refused to listen to the arguments of Secretary Tighe. Mr. Tighe left for Milwaukee last night.

TO SETTLE TROUBLE.

Another Peace Movement Said to Be Afoot.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 16.—Once more there are efforts afoot to settle the strike being waged against the United States Steel corporation by the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, but their success is problematical. Neither side will admit that there has been a single step toward bringing about a rapprochement or that there is any prospect of an exchange of peace proposals.

B. M. Caldwell, formerly a mill owner of Mingo Junction, is known to have conferred with the strike leaders with a view to sketching a basis of settlement which he plans to place before the officials of the steel corporation. He is believed to be the mysterious man who conferred with President Shaffer for more than two hours at the strike headquarters yesterday, although the latter said later that he had not seen Mr. Caldwell for months.

Both sides vigorously denied yesterday that they had either made overtures or received proposals, but it is known positively that the plan is under consideration. Mr. Caldwell is acting independently and does not represent either the manufacturers or the men. No statement from him was obtained, and no line on the terms that have been considered can be had. It is believed here that under certain circumstances the contending sides could be brought together and a settlement effected, but whether such will come to pass remains to be seen. President Shaffer in a significant statement said that personally he was for peace and that he was fighting only because he was on the defensive and forced to fight.

There were few developments in the local situation.

The trust seemed to be somewhat stronger at the lower Union mill of the Carnegie company in this city, although the strikers are still working hard to cripple or close it. The corporation also added to the force at Wellsville and announced that at last it had the plant running to its full capacity. It had been anticipated that the day would show some move on the part of the American Tin Plate company toward opening one or more of its plants with nonunion men, but nothing was done, and there were no attempts at extensions in other directions.

Three hundred men employed at the seamless tube plant at McKeesport, an auxiliary of the National Tube company, threw down their tools and joined the strikers. It is said that they quit because they would not handle nonunion made material. During the day the strikers kept a close watch on the plants that are being operated with nonunion men and also kept alert pickets around the Carnegie plants and the works that are completely closed down.

Groton Bridge Mills to Close.

ITHACA, N. Y., Aug. 16.—The Groton Bridge company of Groton, which was recently absorbed by the big United States Steel corporation, has posted a notice to the effect that the mills will be closed down indefinitely tomorrow night. Men have been put to work to remove some of the machinery, and all the material on hand will be shipped to other plants of the corporation. Manager Landon says the plant will be closed for at least three months, but he is of the opinion that it will be reopened again, though he can give no positive assurance of this. The plant employs 400 men and for 14 years has been the sustaining industry of Groton. Most of the employees have built themselves houses, and if the mills are removed it will be a severe blow to the men. Until the time the plant was absorbed by the corporation the plant had all the work it could handle.

Herkimer County Primaries.

LITTLE FALLS, N. Y., Aug. 16.—The Republicans of Herkimer county held primaries to elect delegates to the county nominating convention. The principal contest was over county judge and surrogate. It lay between I. R. Devendorf, the present incumbent; A. D. Richardson of Ilion and C. D. Thomas of Herkimer. Both Devendorf and Thomas reside in Herkimer, and the caucus in that town resulted in a majority of 198 for Devendorf. The returns show that S. D. Allston will be renominated for the assembly.

Fourth Class Postoffices Advanced.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—The following fourth class postoffices will be advanced to the presidential grade on Oct. 1: Sykesville, Md.; Marionville, Mo.; Penn Grove, N. J.; Cresson, Pa.; Charleston, Troy and Walpole, N. H.; Welch and Williamson, W. Va.

CRESCEUS IS VICTOR

Defeats The Abbot In Great Race at Brighton.

EVENT WON IN STRAIGHT HEATS.

Scannell's Horse Distanced In the Second—New World's Record For Trotting Mile In Contest—Trial Against Time Unsuccessful.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—The trotting interests of the Empire City have not received such a boom in a quarter of a century as was developed at the Brighton Beach track when, under the auspices of the New York Trotting association, the champion stallion and champion gelding, Cresceus and The Abbot, came together for a purse of $12,000. The Abbot, with his record of 2:03¼ of last season, and Cresceus, with his mark of 2:02¼, made at Columbus, were to decide the question of which was the one to go down in history as the fastest trotting horse now living.

There was a larger crowd present than ever seen on a New York track under the old conditions, and this has been only exceeded a few times since the existence of the old track by the seashore. The grand stand was simply packed, and this despite the fact that reserved seats, with admission, cost $4, while boxes holding four persons were all disposed of at $30 each in addition to the regular admission. While the seating capacity is but 3,500, it was undoubetdly the fact that close to 5,000 persons were jammed into the structure.

Every available space between the stand and track was packed to its utmost capacity, as was the lawn at the west, and the paddock, infield and cheaper admission field contained a legion of people. It was estimated that fully 15,000 people were present.

The weather was simply perfect for the great trial, and the track was like velvet, though probably a second slow. Several times during the afternoon both horses put in some preliminary work, and each time they passed the crowd there was enthusiasm galore.

It was about 3:30 o'clock when the drivers, Ketcham and Geers, appeared before the grand stand and obtained their positions for a start by the flip of a coin. Luck was with the driver of Cresceus, as he secured the pole, a decided advantage when two horses so nearly equal in point of record are considered. When, a little later, the horses came from the paddock, they were wildly cheered, and they looked fit for the work before them. Fortunately, too, the wind had died down to a dead calm, so there was no obstacle in that line.

Each was driven up and down the stretch for a warming up, and when they reached the starter Cresceus was slightly in the lead, and they were called back. The next time down, however, they were nose and nose and skipping along like birds over the fields. Then, like a shot from a gun, Cresceus rushed to the front and had a lead of a length, which he held to the quarter in 0:30¾. This lead The Abbot had slightly reduced at the half in 1:01¼, and he was a very close second at the three-quarter pole in 1:32¼.

The vast crowd realized that a world's record was about to be made, and the grand stand arose to its feet, while the multitude which was in the space between the stand and the track cheered wildly. Coming down the strtech it was a battle royal, with The Abbot very close up, but Cresceus, with his bulldog grip, kept on, with nostrils extended, and just managed to beat his opponent by half a length in 2:03¼, the world's trotting record in a race. To say that the announcement created tumultuous applause only faintly conveys the meaning of the expression.

A little over half an hour had expired when the two grand horses came out for their second trial and were started under the same conditions that existed in the first heat. They were sent away beautifully, but The Abbot had not traveled a hundred yards before he made a disastrous break, and before he could recover his gait Cresceus was in front. The Abbot, once settled, made a grand effort to overtake his opponent, but the son of Robert McGregor was out for victory and kept on, passing the quarter in 0:31¾, the half in 1:02½, the three-quarters in 1:35 and came rushing home the last quarter in 0:31¼, doing the mile in 2:06¾, with The Abbot back of the flag.

As the race was best three in five Ketcham consented that Cresceus go another heat. This he did shortly before 5 o'clock, accompanied by a runner for the first half, where he was joined by another runner, and he did the mile in 2:05, the quarter in 0:30½, the half in 1:01½ and the three-quarters in 1:34. To the credit of The Abbot it should be said that not only was this his first race of the season, but that he has also been sick, and his best mile since his recovery was in the vicinity of 2:09.

The betting before the race was $100 to $30 on Cresceus, and it was lively, there being many of the followers of The Abbot and of his driver, Geers, who were willing to take the little end at 1 to 2 on and near these figures.

Grand Circuit Races.

GLENS FALLS, N. Y., Aug. 16.—The fourth and last day of the circuit meet here was somewhat marred by rain after a heat of each race had been run, but a large crowd attended to witness the star race of the meet, the free for all pace. Coney was ill and scratched, leaving only Royal R. Sheldon, Connor and Indiana. Connor was not well, and his sickness was announced by Starter Merrill, but he started nevertheless and took second money. He ruled favorite at the opening at $50 to $40 for field. The first heat of this race by quarters was 0:31, 1:01, 1:33½, 2:04¾. Audubon Boy was a prohibitive favorite in the 2:18 pace, selling for $50 against $20 for the field, and won as he pleased.

Cycling In the Stadium.

BUFFALO, Aug. 16.—Every seat in the spacious Stadium was filled with spectators when the international grand circuit races of the National Cycling association began yesterday afternoon. At times hundreds were standing or sitting on the upper railings and in the aisles. Fully 15,000 of the exposition crowd witnessed the races. The card was a good one, including the finals of the one mile 2:10 class professional, the Pan-American circuit one mile championship professional, the half mile handicap professional and an hour's contest between Harry D. Elkes of Glens Falls, Edouard Taylore of Paris and Ray Duer of Buffalo for the one hour exposition invitation middle distance championship and a purse of $1,000. The race became a procession after the fifth mile, for Elkes had both men at a safe distance, having lapped the Frenchman four times and Duer once. Kramer won the mile championship professional by two lengths. Wilson won the half mile handicap. "Major" Taylor, scratch, got second money.

Saratoga Races.

SARATOGA, Aug. 16.—The Kenner stakes, one of the old time classic events of the Saratoga association, was won by the extreme outsider in the betting, Baron Pepper. There were only four starters, The Rhymer being favorite, while All Green and Black Fox were strongly played. Baron Pepper was at 20 to 1. Nasturtium was worked five furlongs before the races began in 1:01½. He will not go to the post until the Futurity, for which race he is now the favorite.

Burial of Crispi.

PALERMO, Aug. 16.—At the funeral of Signor Francesco Crispi in Palermo there was a repetition of the scenes of universal respect and mourning witnessed yesterday in Naples. The Italian armored cruiser Varese, bearing the body, the members of the Crispi family and representatives of the government, entered the harbor with the escorting cruisers early in the afternoon and fired 19 guns, the forts replying. The coffin was landed in a small boat. While the procession traversed the principal streets the Varese fired minute guns. The procession was virtually identical with that which followed the funeral car in Naples, and the gathering of spectators was enormous. Many flowers were thrown from windows along the route to the Church of Albergo delli Poveri, where the coffin was placed.

Porto Ricans Want Coffee Tariff.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Frederico Degatau, resident commissioner from Porto Rico, has filed with the secretary of the treasury a brief in support of his contention that under the provisions of the Foraker act a duty of 5 cents a pound should be imposed on all coffee imported into Porto Rico. In the course of his argument Mr. Degatau says that section 2 of the Foraker act places the territory of Porto Rico in its relation with foreign commerce in our general tariff system and immediately follows with three provisos establishing the exceptions peculiar to the island. The first proviso directed that upon all coffee imported into the island a duty of 5 cents a pound should be collected.

Colonel Jessup Strangely Disappears

LYONS, N. Y., Aug. 16.—Colonel John H. Jessup has disappeared mysteriously, leaving no traces of his whereabouts. He was agent of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company and drew a large pension for the loss of his right eye. He has a wife and one child, and his age is about 57. His accounts with the company are straight. He transacted some business in the railroad yards yesterday afternoon, after which he sat down beside the track near the Clyde river, complaining of his head. He has not been seen since. Colonel Jessup came here from Binghamton 15 years ago. He belonged to the Masons, Red Men and Haymakers.

Flagships at St. John's.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Aug. 16.—The Charybdis and Isly, flagships of the British and French fisheries squadrons, are at St. John's to enable their commanders to confer with the colonial government concerning the difficulties that have recently arisen between the rival fishermen on the French treaty shore. The French commander objects to the presence of colonial fishermen in the vicinity of French stations, and it is also asserted that the French desire to prevent the use of certain fishing appliances by the coast folk.

MOBILE ISOLATED.

Telegraph Communications Cut Off by Flood.

ATLANTA, Aug. 16.—The tropical storm which has been raging along the gulf coast for two days has completely isolated the city of Mobile from the outside world. It is known that considerable damage has been done along the water front in Mobile, but whether there has been loss of life or not is mere conjecture. Nothing has been heard from the country south of Mobile up to the time the last wire to Mobile failed.

At half past 4 yesterday afternoon the Western Union office in Mobile was abandoned, the water at that time being three feet deep in the operating room.

Two hours later communication was had for a few minutes with Mobile. The telegraph operator there had made his way to the operating room in a boat. He took up his position on top of the switchboard, several feet above the flooded office and, detaching the wire from its place in the board, sent this message:

"Am on top of the switchboard here with a lineman. The water is over three feet deep in this room, and it is still rising. The wind is blowing at the rate of 50 miles an hour, and we look for worse things tonight. The business district is deserted"—

Here the wire failed, and nothing more could be heard from him, although the most persistent efforts were made.

The water at 3 p. m. was reported as high as in the great flood of 1893, although at that time the wind was not as high. From Mobile to Fort Morgan is a distance of 35 miles, and on both sides of the bay summer resorts and summer houses are located. These were, it is believed, in the direct path of the storm. The telegraph line to Fort Morgan runs around the bay through the country and covers 85 miles before it reaches the government reservation.

It is feared there has been some loss of life on the islands in Mississippi sound just outside of the bar below Fort Morgan.

These islands, which are inhabited by French fishermen, rise only four or five feet above the water under ordinary stage and were the scene of great loss of life in 1893.

According to advices received here the Louisville and Nashville railroad has washouts near Chefmenteur, Lake Catherine, Lake Lookout and Rigolets. Twenty miles of Louisville and Nashville track through the Tensas swamp west of Mobile is reported under water.

All trains have been abandoned for the present. Several bridges are reported out of plumb.

The weather officials here sent out special warnings last night forecasting heavy rains and high winds for Alabama today.

The Western Union company has gangs of men and special engines waiting at several points to move toward Mobile as soon as the tracks are clear of water.

It is possible they may restore communication from this end within 24 hours, but from reports received of damage done between New Orleans and Mobile it is believed several days will elapse before the wires are restored outside.

Hudson Valley Railroad.

BALLSTON, N. Y., Aug. 16.—Articles incorporating the Hudson Valley Railroad company have been filed in the Saratoga county clerk's office. The capital stock is $2,600,000, and the officers are Addison B. Colvin, president; George E. Green, vice president; Thomas O'Connor, secretary; Frank S. Cowles, treasurer, and Joseph A. Powers, Peter McCarthy, Edwin Langdon, A. B. Colvin and Thomas O'Brien executive committee and managers. The road will unite the Glens Falls, Sandy Hill and Fort Edward Street Railway company, the Stillwater and Mechanicsville Street Railway company, the Greenwich and Schuylerville Electric railroad, the Saratoga Traction company and the Saratoga Northern Railway company. All but the last are constructed and in operation. The principal office will be at Waterford.

Irishmen Celebrate.

CHICAGO, Aug. 16.—Four thousand Chicago Irish-Americans gathered at Sunny Side park at the twenty-sixth annual demonstration of the United Irish societies commemorating the three hundred and second anniversary of the victory of Yellow Pass and the three hundred and third anniversary of Hugh O'Neill's victory over the English at the Yellow Ford. A meeting nearly equal in strength to that at Sunny Side park was held at Oswald's grove under the auspices of the Irish Nationalists. At the former meeting Michael Davitt was the chief speaker, at the latter O'Donovan Rossa. Except Michael Davitt, who came from Ireland to attend the Sunny Side gathering, all the speakers at the demonstration of the United Irish societies were prominent Chicago Irish-Americans.

To Sell Bethlehem Iron Company.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., Aug. 16.—The stockholders of the Bethlehem Iron company have voted almost unanimously to accept the price of $7,500,000 offered by the Bethlehem Steel company for the big steel and ordnance works here, and an hour later the directors consummated the deal. The steel company, it is said, has a purchaser for the plant, and it is generally believed that this purchaser is Mr. Charles M. Schwab, president of the United States Steel corporation, and it is also believed that he will buy the property for the Vickers-Maxim company and the Cramp Shipbuilding company. The works employ 4,000 skilled mechanics.

SHAMROCK'S HULL.

Traces of Herreshoff Influence Seen.

IT IS FULL OF GRACEFUL CURVES.

But May Not Have the Power and Strength of the Constitution. New Boat Has Many Yankee Wrinkles In Rig.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—All yesterday afternoon the crew of the Shamrock were kept busily employed burnishing with oil and emery paper the hull below the water line. The plates are of immadium bronze and are susceptible of a high polish far more lustrous and brilliant than those of any previous challenger. They had become much discolored since her last hauling out, but there was little or no trace of marine growth and not a solitary barnacle. There was one rivet only that was started, and Captain Sycamore, who made frequent circles round the yacht, reported that not a plate was injured, thanks to the admirable system of bracing that helped to hold the yacht together and thanks also to the phenomenally fine weather that prevailed on the ocean.

The bronze bottom, in its contact with salt water, exfoliates very freely, so no seaweed has a chance to get a firm grip on the plates. A finer surface has never been seen on a racing yacht than that of the first three strakes of the cup challenger after the crew had finished their burnishing. A. Cary Smith, the veteran yacht designer, and Mr. Gielon, who has turned out yachts of speed and distinction, were present to look on, but both gentlemen were loath to talk for publication.

The general opinion of experts was that the Shamrock II is a rare good boat and that Mr. Watson has avoided the errors he made in the Thistle, when he cut away her lateral plane so completely that she was of little use when hauled on a wind. Mr. Watson, they think, has also avoided those crudities of form which were characteristic of Valkyrie III and which were nearly as pronounced on Shamrock I.

Evidently the Glasgow designer has benefited by close studies of the epoch making yacht Gloriana, designed by Nat Herreshoff, and also from later productions of that wizard's brain—Vigilant, Defender and Columbia, to wit. An expert can see traces of all these craft in Sir Thomas Lipton's challenger. Valkyrie III was a wider and shallower craft than Defender. Shamrock II is a narrower boat than the Constitution. The Constitution, while lacking the graceful curved lines of the challenger, has power and strength that may be found wanting in Shamrock II.

Both should be pretty close in light airs, experienced yachting men believe, but when heeling over to a commanding breeze the Constitution, owing to her greater lateral plane, should excel in a hard thrash to windward. In reaching or running there may not be such a pronounced difference, they think. In the absence of any decisive figures they are inclined to be prudent prophets, but that the challenger must allow the defender about a minute over a 30 mile course seems pretty well established. There does not seem any probability that the artistic curves of the challenger and her greater beauty above the water line than either Columbia or Constitution will cause her to win the cup. It is generally agreed the underbody and the fin will have to do the trick. The Constitution should carry more sail and stand up to her work better in a breeze than Shamrock II. She will also be apt to slide through the water as rapidly in light weather.

It is said that there is little doubt that the Constitution will be chosen to defend the cup. Although the honors are even up to date, each having scored the same number of wins, still the Constitution is reckoned as the better all round craft. Nat Herreshoff's health is better. American yachtsmen hope that by the time the decisive trial races are sailed off Newport the Constitution will amply demonstrate her superiority.

As a matter of interest it is worth noting that not only the model of the new Shamrock is "Yankee," but that nearly all the "wrinkles" in rig and in the matter of blocks have been derived from American sources. The sails, too, are of American cotton duck, and the mainsail is laced to the boom, a recent concession to American methods. As a matter of fact the Shamrock II has more of American "wrinkles" in hull, spars, sails and rigging than are indigenous to Great Britain. She is more than two-thirds "Yankee." She will go out of drydock today and will bend sails and put to sea as soon as possible. What her actual speed will be is a matter of the widest conjecture. Shamrock I had a new bow put in her. Whether it made her faster or slower nobody knows. Sir Thomas Lipton thinks she is from five to ten minutes faster than when she sailed against the Columbia. He also believes that Shamrock II is nine minutes faster than his old boat. How he makes his calculations is not clear to yachtsmen here. Theoretically, the experts say, the cup is "lifted" already, but they also say that there is many a slip between the cup and lip.

Big Yachts at Larchmont.

LARCHMONT, N. Y., Aug. 16.—The Constitution and Columbia came down through the sound last night and anchored under City Island. There is much interest along the sound in the result of the first contest in calm waters. The people representing the Shamrock II will watch these races with much interest also. There is no knowing what the weather will be, but the chances are in favor of a light southwest wind.

The Cuban Electoral Law.

HAVANA, Aug. 16.—The constitutional convention yesterday finished the discussion of the draft of the electoral law, which will now be handed to the committee on style for final revision. E. P. Thompson, formerly postmaster at Havana, was yesterday found guilty by the audiencia of embezzling postoffice funds and sentenced to six months' imprisonment or to a fine of $400 as an alternative.

Olympia May Go to England.

BOSTON, Aug. 16.—It is believed at the navy yard that the Olympia, the ship which flew the flag of Admiral Dewey at the battle of Manila Bay May 1, 1898, may be ordered to England as one of the squadron sent to represent the United States at the coronation of King Edward.

Mr. Murphy's War Record.

Three months ago it appeared to us that Franklin Murphy would, in all probability, be nominated by the Republicans of New Jersey to head their State ticket as candidate for the gubernatorial chair. The fact was noted at that time. Since then, nothing has happened to cause any change of opinion. The natural course of events seems to point toward Mr. Murphy's nomination, either unanimously or without serious opposition.

Much has been said about Mr. Murphy and a number of sketches of his life have appeared in the newspapers throughout the State. Very little has been said, however, of his military career. Those who have seen Mr. Murphy, and do not know his age, would consider him too young to have participated in that great conflict, the Civil War. He fought, nevertheless, through that gigantic war and made a record of which any man might be proud.

Mustered in July 19, 1862, as a member of Company D, Thirteenth New Jersey Volunteer Infantry, Mr. Murphy won his shoulder straps by virtue of his ability and soldierly conduct, and was mustered out on June 8, 1865. The dates of his successive promotions were as follows: Corporal, Company A, August 15, 1862; second lieutenant, Company D, February 22, 1863; first lieutenant, Company A, February 25, 1864.

As Mr. Murphy was born in 1846, he was about two years under age when mustered out of the service. When mustered in, he was only sixteen years old. His regiment took part in the battles of South Mountain, Antietam, Chancellorsville, Gettysburg, Rock Face Ridge, Resaca, Cassville, Dallas, Pine Ridge, Kulp's Farm, Kennesaw Mountain, Nancy's Creek, Peach Tree Creek, siege of Atlanta, Sandersville, an engagement near Savannah, capture of Savannah, Averysboro and Bentonville.

In the death of Wilbur J. Chamberlin, this country has lost one of its brightest and most able newspaper men. He was a valued member of the staff of the New York Sun and, of recent years, took part in the chronicling of the chief happenings of the world for that newspaper. Besides being a wonderfully clever newspaper man, he had a personality which always won friends for him wherever he went. He had a kind word for all and despite his high position in journalistic circles, he was always modest and unassuming. His great success was undoubtedly due to his remarkable ability to observe and write accurately what he saw. His loss will be sincerely mourned by those in this city who had met and become personally acquainted with him.

The last of the local excursions to the twin cities by the sea is booked for tomorrow. A number have gone from Plainfield this season and the attendance has been uniformly good. While twice occasional rain has attempted to spoil the pleasure of the excursionists, they have been well enjoyed. More people seem to have taken advantage of these opportunities for a day at the sea shore this year than ever before.

Morristown proposes to give a sensation to this enlightened country. It is to be a duel. The choice of weapons is thrillingly original. The challenger is a young Frenchman, while the other participant, a native of this land, has selected ancient eggs as the weapons to be used. As the American was formerly a pitcher on a baseball nine, the other is likely to have a lively time of it.

The proposed field day, to be given by Company K on Labor Day, has been given up. Instead, the company plans to give a clam bake. The public is fairly well acquainted with the gastronomic abilities of the local citizen soldiers and would probably appreciate the other kind of a show better.

The Plainfield politicians have so far managed to keep out of the present troubles between the two factions of the Union county Republicans. The fight is on, however, and the local Republicans will have to take sides when the season for primaries and conventions arrives.

When the crack riflemen of the country gather at Sea Girt, this fall, Company K will not be represented. Another year or two is likely, however, to see the local shots so improved that they may win a place on the Second Regiment team.

Frank Bergen is much interested to know how it is that the newspapermen of Elizabeth find him saying all sorts of things of which he knows nothing.

Montclair has taken up the fight against the mosquitoes without waiting to hear what remedy State Entomologist Smith recommends.

The work of twisting the tail of the Tammany tiger has been resumed. This time, the sage old feline appears to be actually worried.

Credit is due to the New York Sun for the obituary of Wilbur J. Chamberlin published in yesterday's Daily Press.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May Be Of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

The women members of the Town Improvement League of Metuchen have for the present declared a truce in their war against poison ivy and have started on a campaign of extermination against the mosquito. And anybody at all acquainted with Metuchen knows that it is no holiday task which the women have so bravely tackled.—Newark News.

Members of the local military company are, naturally, disappointed at the decision finally arrived at by the Board of Freeholders. A considerable sum of money, they say, had already been expended on account of the proposed armory. For a time at least it is probable that each man of the company will stand at "eyes right" in the hope of being able to discover the colored gentlemen behind the woodpile.—Somerville Messenger.

Colonel Quincy O'M. Gilmore, whose capable services in connection with the Sea Girt camp have excited the admiration of military men, is falling on his feet every time. He has lately been appointed military instructor at the State Reformatory at Rahway, where he will put the inmates, generally young men and first offenders, through daily drill; has been selected to supervise the construction of the new Trenton armory, and is colonel of the Second Regiment and commandant of cadets in Rutgers College. The Colonel is a very efficient and very busy man.—New York Herald.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short and Gossipy Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

Mrs. Calvin Neighbour, of East Front street, despite her advanced age, is very smart and active. She has recently sought a new way of occupying her time, while a revenue therefrom is greatly appreciated. When she was a young woman a relative taught her to make the beaded purses and chatelain bags that are now used so extensively by society folk. A short time ago, Mrs. Neighbour thought she would again try her skill, and she has been kept busy ever since. Her work is perfect and finds ready customers. Some of the purses have been sent as far as Canada by friends who have purchased them as presents. Mrs Neighbour makes many styles and only as they are ordered. Mrs. Neighour has just completed the fifteenth chatelain. They are made of steel beads and are especially strong.

The following communication appeared in yesterday's issue of the New York Sun and explains itself:

"To the Editor of The Sun—Sir: Will you please state distinctly your opinion on the mania which just now prevails among capitalists to perpetuate themselves by leaving large sums of money to colleges and to establish libraries?

"Are we to be a nation of lawyers and book writers? Are there to be no more day laborers, artisans and wage-earners? In Massachusetts there are three 'Institutes' and a free endowed library for every cross-roads. And the girls in the neighborhood all want to write books and the boys all want to study law.

"Meanwhile the State has established a bureau for looking after the 'Abandoned Farms.'" John W. Bell.

WORK AT FRESH AIR CAMP.

GREAT AID GIVEN BY A. S. RUNYON, OF PLAINFIELD.

Has Built Several Buildings Which Have Greatly Increased Its Efficiency.

The Fresh Air Camp work at Westfield, this year, has brought many new faces into the field and especially from Plainfield. One who has particularly interested himself is A. S. Runyon, of 114 Lafayette place, who came down to see the work being conducted by Miss Curry, of whom he had heard so much.

In looking over the nursery building, he saw that the matron was working under great disadvantage from lack of room in the sanitary conveniences. In a few days an addition to the nursery building was constructed, much to the joy of Miss Curry, and at a cost of over $50. This big-hearted man also saw the need of a bath room and closets, which Miss Curry had long wanted, and soon a commodious building, seven feet by twelve, was erected for this purpose, on the west side of the main building, at a cost of over $60, supplied with bath tub and closets for the children, together with similar conveniences for the personal use of those in charge. This building, judging by the matron's report, has pleased her more than anything else done this year. One can form some idea of its convenience, when it is remembered that there are fifty-five babies to be bathed on a Saturday afternoon.

On the second trip Miss Curry brought out a mother suffering with a disease that was very offensive and fatal in its results.

"When the time comes for a change of mothers," Miss Curry said, "I cannot send this woman back to the city. This same noble-hearted man again came forward and proposed to build a little cottage for the sick woman, so that she could remain out here.

"With a little help, there soon was erected a cottage, thus making the poor mother happy, who, when she moves again, will enter into a house not made by the hand of man but by Him who said: 'I go to prepare you a mansion.' This little cottage might well be named the Runyon Cottage. The building cost over $65.

"Plainfield can feel proud of this son of hers, whose labors here will stand as long as the Fresh Air Camp exists, and in Heaven forever."

When Miss Curry related this story to the Press reporter her face lighted up as it does when she has something particularly pleasing to narrate. Mr. Runyon, she said, is one of those noble-hearted men it does your heart good to meet, one whose heart has been made soft and kind through much suffering. Miss Curry also said that Plainfield has taken a deeper interest this year in her work than ever before. All the Young People's Societies seemed to be aroused to the privileges in their grasp.

AT THE THEATRES.

Something About the Attractions Which Plainfield Theatre-Goers May Care to Witness.

The climax of sensationalism and reckless daring would seem to have been reached in the latest device provided for the amusement of a sensation-loving public by Pain, the well known Manhattan Beach pyrotechnist. This is no less a creation than a "human bomb"—a human being hurled from the clouds in a gigantic bombshell. Leo Stevens, a daring young aeronaut, of the Pain staff, completely enclosed in a huge wicker bombshell, is carried to an altitude of two thousand to twenty-five hundred feet into the clouds, by a monster balloon. At this height a cut-off fuse detaches the bomb from the balloon. In a descent of a couple of hundred feet, the shell explodes, while whirling through the air, at a terrific speed, releasing not only the aeronaut, but exploding at the same instant a score of small shells, which fill the sky with a myriad of varied colored stars and pyrotechnical designs. At the moment Stevens is released from his shell, a parachute opens and his graceful descent to earth is accomplished amid the plaudits of the nerve-strained spectators. The first attempt was successfully made at the Buffalo Exposition two weeks ago. The "human bomb," title and mechanism, has been copyrighted and patented by its inventor, and will be first seen in New York at Manhattan Beach during Pain's "Carnival of Fire," August 24.

—Jenny Lind and Rocky Ford muskmelons are the finest in the market. There will be fifty baskets to choose from at Neuman Brothers, tomorrow.

More Afraid of Women Than Men.

The driver was beating his horse unmercifully. One or two men remonstrated against such cruelty, but he paid no attention to their appeals for mercy. Presently a woman hove in sight, and he laid down his whip and assumed an air of innocence. "That's always the way," said a bystander. "It is queer how much more afraid those fellows are of a woman than they are of a man. They treat our threats with contempt, and seem not to hold us in the slightest dread, but just let a woman happen along, and they quiet down and became meek as putty. I suppose it is because the women really mean business, for it is a fact that two-thirds of the complaints turned into the office of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals are furnished by them. This, of course, is in accord with the reputation of the sex for gentleness, but I really don't think it speaks well for us men."—N. Y. Sun.

A Hint to the Editor.

He walked into the office of the country editor with an emphatic stride.

"I jes' paid my su'scription," he remarked, as he sat down on a corner of the desk, "an' I thought I might as well give you a few hints about what I'd like to git fur the money."

"I am always open to suggestions," was the mildly spoken answer.

"Well, sir, in the fust place, this 'Hints on Farming' department is altogether too large an' conspicuous."

"Why, I thought that was right in your line!"

"No, sir. The crops is takin' care of themselves all right and we're gittin' the money fur 'em. What we farmers want now is less talk about buckwheat an' garden truck an' more financial news."—Washington Star.

Not to Be Desired.

"My dear," said Mrs. Parvenu in her superior way, "I am surprised to see you eating that breakfast food."

"But I like it," protested the unsophisticated Mr. Parvenu, "and why shouldn't I eat it? It's strengthening and the manufacturers make great claims for it."

"They claim," said Mrs. Parvenu, severely, "that it makes 'good red blood,' to use their own words."

"Well, isn't that what we all want?" asked Mr. Parvenu.

"James," said Mrs. Parvenu, "I'm surprised at you. You know as well as I do that what we want is aristocratic blue blood."—Chicago Post.

Loss of Weight in Fasting.

During a prolonged fast the loss of weight is unusually rapid at first, and decreases as the time goes on; death ensues when a certain percentage of the loss has been reached, and this percentage varies according to the original weight. Fat animals may lose half their weight, thinner ones perhaps two-fifths; a man or woman of rather spare build, weighing 143 pounds, might, therefore, lose about 55 pounds before succumbing. Children die after a fast of from three to five days, during which they have lost a quarter of their weight.—Science.

Driftwood the Eskimo's Salvation.

No trees grow anywhere on the coasts of western or northern Alaska, and yet these shores for thousands of miles and the islands of Behring sea are strewn with immense quantities of driftwood, in places piled high on the beach, bearing good testimony to the work of the rivers. This drift is the salvation of the Eskimo, furnishing him with fuel and material for houses, boats and sleds. The entire northeastern half of Behring sea is very shoal, less than 500 feet in depth, while the southwestern half is mostly 12,000 feet deep.—Scribner's Magazine.

Chinese Duck Raisers.

In Hawaii enormous quantities of ducks are raised by the Chinese upon the edges of the ocean. Twice a day, within restricted areas, they are permitted to eat the young fish which swim in the inclosed coves. Fish are reported to be growing scarcer every year, and by some this diminution is attributed to the wholesale destruction of the young fry by the Chinese.—Albany Argus.

Inherited Ear Marks.

An ear will be handed down, so to speak, from father to son for generation after generation with comparatively little modification. Some authorities on criminology assert that criminals are very apt to possess a peculiar kind of ear, which is recognizable by an expert in such matters.—Chicago Journal.

Topic For the Week Beginning Aug. 18, "God's Requirements." Text, Deut. x, 12-14.

God owns all. However you look at the matter, there can be no other fair conclusion. If you consider the world and universe after the Scriptural fashion as made by God, preserved and guided, governed and loved, He owns it all. If you begin at the other end of the process and study natural forces only and watch the development of all parts in orderly progression from primitive conditions unto the perfected end, you find the crown of all is the moral and religious life, and in all, through all and over all there is in fullness of power as efficient cause and end the Divine One. His is the plan and the accomplishment.

We, then, are His. Our wisdom and happiness hang on the discovery of His pleasure and will regarding us and our obedience to that idea. Yet how simple are His requirements regarding us! If His laws are heavy, it is only because we have got away from healthful conditions of soul. "His yoke is easy and His burden light" to loving hearts. It cannot be expressed in exact numbers as hours of devotion and dollars of offering. It is not in motions of head, hands and feet; not in colors of clothing, altar cloths or windows; not in arrangement of words, sounds or ideas. All these at times may be useful and needful, but all combined in most exact proportions and plan can never suffice for the service God requires justly of us. Everything in existence has a definite nature and moves in limits of possibility beyond which it cannot go. To the extent in which it reaches its highest range it is excellent and must meet divine approval. We are made capable of some measure of consciousness of the divine thought, feeling and choice. To the degree in which we reach toward the upper boundaries of our nature we accomplish the task set us. We find our satisfaction and the approval of God.

We should revere God. This is inner and outer in expression. In our own souls we should be in awe and worship God.

My God, how wonderful Thou art,
Thy majesty how bright!
How beautiful Thy mercy seat
In depths of burning light!

Oh, how I fear Thee, living God,
With deepest, tenderest fears,
And worship Thee with trembling hope
And penitential tears.

But our heart devotion should be also expressed in outward forms of words and acts. Private and public worship are the ordinary ways in which we manifest the spirit of adoration. But if our worship goes no further it is very deficient.

We are in all our ways to walk before Him. That must mean that in the home we are to act as considerately and lovingly as He does to us—no bickering, no contention, but courtesy and affection. In school, on the street, in all business, in social gatherings and public affairs, God's ways are to be made our ways. How are we to know what to do? Study His word as it has been written by inspired men; study His word as made flesh and dwelling among us in the person of Jesus Christ. See how He walked and talked and then do likewise.

With all the heart and powers of soul we are to love Him. If we gladly receive Him and dwell constantly in His presence, the Holy Spirit will reveal His mind to us as we have never before known it and will fill us with the glow and enthusiasm of active desire and show us how to put in effect the inner heart wishes.

The commandments and statutes will be impressed on the mind, will find new meaning and fresh application, and we will see how they all conspire for our good. Instead of being a burden, it will become a delight to do God's will.

With light hearts and joyous eyes and bounding steps we shall live in God's world as God's children and know with gladness that His requirements are for our good.

Guard Your Faith.

There was a shipwreck in midocean. The captain and several of the crew on a dark night got out into the lifeboat. The wind blew out the lantern. "Have any of you a match?" asked the captain. After a long search just one match was found. On shore that match would not be worth half a cent, but now it is the most valuable thing they have, because in order to be picked up by a passing vessel they must have a light. The sailors take off their coats, cold as it is, and hang them all around the match when it is struck, that the wind may not blow it out. Your faith, worthless in itself as the world may deem it, is the light that attracts the attention of God and of angels. It is the thing that saves you. Guard it at whatever expense. To be wrecked in faith is to be wrecked in character.—Churchman.

His Beloved.

The beloved of the Almighty are the rich who have the humility of the poor, and the poor who have the magnanimity of the rich.—Sadi.

God In His Universe.

Is God not in His universe as I
Am in my body? Doth He not upbuild
His worlds as the life principle in me
Builds up my mortal frame? Oh, set Him not
On some far throne aloof, who is so near
The beating heart of all things! Bring Him close,
Ev'n as He is, to every creature life,
That we may feel how He is soul of us,
As we the body are of Him. In love
He moves us to His mighty purposes
As brain moves hand, and when we thus obey
We are not servile wills by Him coerced,
But members of His body, working out
The thought that thrills us. What are change and death
To all creation with a creed like this?
Naught but a shift of garment! All in God
Endure, from dust to angels. Man and beast,
Yea, very rocks and trees, immortal are,
For the eternal, unquenched soul of God
Abides in all and fills us with its life.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Aug. 18—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—God's requirements.—Deut. x, 12-14.

On Mount Sinai, after the sin of Israel in worshiping the golden calf, Moses interceded for the people before God. The Lord heard and granted his prayer. "I staid in the mount 40 days and 40 nights, and the Lord harkened unto me at that time also, and the Lord would not destroy you. And the Lord said unto me, Arise, take thy journey before the people that they may go in and possess the land which I swore unto their fathers to give unto them." But this was not all. God's mercy was great. The people had sinned greatly, yet God the Lord had not destroyed them and consequently had a right to require something of them in return. They had forfeited their lives, but God had not demanded the forfeit, but he did require that these forfeited lives should be used for him. Hence Moses goes on to say, "And now, Israel, what doth the Lord require of thee?" We stand in the same relation to God as these ancient Jews. God has spared our lives, forfeited by sin. What does He require of us in return? is a very important question.

Moses emphasized three requirements of God—fear, love, obedience. "What doth the Lord thy God require of thee but to fear the Lord thy God, to walk in all His ways and to love Him and to serve the Lord thy God with all thy heart and with all thy soul?" These things God also requires of us, who have been saved and redeemed by the death of His Son, the Lord Jesus Christ: (1) God requires fear. This fear, however, is not a slavish fear or dread. "There is a fear which hath torment and which love casts out as its antagonist, but the fear of God, which he requires, is that pious reverence for Him which cannot only coexist with love to Him, but is not where love is not." (2) God requires us to love Him. Fear is to be accompanied by love. It is to be "fear with love. Love without fear relaxes; fear without love enslaves and leads to despair." God requires our supreme love—the love of heart, soul, mind and strength." If we love father, mother, brother or sister more than Him, we are not worthy of Him. God should have the supreme place in our affections as well as in our lives. (3) God requires us to serve Him, to obey Him. We are to "walk in His ways," "to serve the Lord with all the heart and all the soul, to keep the commandments of the Lord and His statutes." Obedience is the test of reverence and love. If we reverence and love God, we will obey Him.

God's requirements are not light. He requires all—the reverence of our minds, the affection of our hearts, the service of our lives; but, though great, His requirements are just. He is worthy all He asks, and we and all that we are and have are His by creation, by preservation and by redemption. Let us therefore cheerfully and willingly fear Him, love Him and serve Him.

THE PRAYER MEETING.

Arrange a special programme covering our duties to God, as individuals, in the house, the society, the church and the state.

BIBLE READINGS.

Ex. xxi, 1:17; Lev. xix, 18; Deut. vi, 1-5; Prov. i, 7; Mic. vi, 8; Eccl. xii, 13, 14; Math. vii, 12; xxvi, 36-39; Mark iii, 33-35; Phil. iv, 8, 9.

Perseverance In Helping Others.

How seldom the believer realizes the sublime steadfastness of God! What a blessed moment is that in which revelation of it is made for the first time!

In the light of that wonderful promise, "I will not turn away from them to do them good," let us consider our own pitiable vacillations. The good we do to people depends altogether on our fluctuating feelings. It is only in our overflowing moods that we scatter benefits. We inaugurate schemes to bless our fellow men, and grow weary of rebuff ere anything is accomplished. We approach unfortunates in the spirit of love, sicken at the ingratitude of the response and "turn away." We so soon grow discouraged in trying to benefit the frivolous, the selfish, the seemingly incorrigible.

Attempting to do good, we do not strive patiently through months and years toward success. We supplicate the Throne for the salvation of a sinner once, not continually. We say, we would do people good if they would let us; we do not enter into that divine love for humanity which is so great that its only expression is in ceaseless ministry. Compare all this with the unchanging, unshakable steadfastness of God's compassion for His creatures. "I will not turn away from them to do them good."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Bearing the Cross.

God gives everybody, I think, a cross when he enters upon a Christian life. When it comes into his hands, what is it? It is the rude oak, four square, full of splinters and slivers and rudely tacked together. I see some men carrying their cross just as rude as it was at the first. Others, I perceive, begin to wind about it faith and hope and patience. And at last their cross has been so covered with holy affections that it does not seem any more to be a cross. They carry it so easily and are so much more strengthened than burdened by it that men almost forget that it is a cross by the triumph with which they carry it. Carry your cross in such a way that there shall be victory in it.—Henry Ward Beecher.

The Will of God.

In the spirit of the little child can we best hear and understand and do the will of God. In any other we lose some of the purity of heart through which alone we see Him and at the same time something, whatever we may think to the contrary, of our hold upon our fellow men.—W. M. Ainsworth.

The manager of a corset manufacturing company in Chicago, not long since, performed a philanthropic action which has shown gratifying results: "One of my salesmen," he says, "about a year ago came in suffering from a severe bilious headache. I gave him a Ripans Tabule from a box I always keep on my desk, and it relieved him in a short time of his sufferings. He has so much confidence in them now that he has not been without a box of them since that day."

Fashions .. FOR .. Children

When the little girls get their new fall bonnets on, it will be necessary to look for them like the needle in the haystack that we have always heard of, for these bonnets surpass anything of the kind that I have ever seen. They are so big and so complicated that one scarcely knows what to call the special style. Some shown me today were so convoluted and twisted and tortured into different shapes that I could not keep the surgical description of a "compound, comminuted fracture" out of my mind. These are all that and more. The silk is of rich and always beautiful faille, and this is shirred so that the shirrings make the crown, and where the gathers are put in there are full ruches of crepe lisse. The frill to the bonnets is about three inches wide, and the edge is stiffened, so there is where the convolutions come in. The frill is made double over the forehead and is in some cases lined with pale tinted silk, but is always edged with the crepe lisse frillings, or really ruchings, since the edges are curled under. There is a false plume made of chiffon set on the top of the bonnet, and some of them have two and three. These match the face lining. The frills are just four times as long as the size of the bonnet at the face. Ribbon strings are tied in a big bow under the chin. Some have capes and others have none. I shall mention but one in detail. This is for a child of 3. There is a diamond shaped and stiffened crown of pale blue china silk, and around this is a soft frill of the same between one and two inches wide. This stands out all around the crown. The body of the bonnet is of brown silk tucked closely. The frill in front is most ample and made of brown silk lined with the blue, and directly along the edge is a row of ecru lace applique. On the top is a looped bow of brown double faced satin ribbon. Strings are of the same. The size of the bonnets is so disproportionate that they are almost ridiculous. Yet when I saw a rosy little face in one I was instantly converted.

The two pictured bits of bonnets are made one of gray velvet and the other of gray felt, and both are trimmed with chiffon, the velvet one having pink chiffon and the felt pale blue and also white. White plumes also decorate it on the crown, and there is a funny bunch of doubled silk and two plumes, both white. One is laid across the crown, and the other is brought down the side of the bonnet. Strings of pale blue finish what is certainly a remarkable production. This is very inappropriately called a Gainsborough. The other bonnet has the brim raised high and the front set with chiffon plisse, and it is also edged with an elaborate ruching of the same. On the outside of the bonnet is an immense panache of loops. A short cape of the velvet holds a bow of pink ribbon like that on the top.

We may as well talk a little about the rest of the children's attire. White muslin frocks for the tiny tots will always be the best, but they are so fine and so daintily made that they come too expensive for anything but best. For every day ginghams and like goods are employed. There are three distinct styles of shapes for dresses for very small children. One is the French shape, which comes down over the hips very low, and the Mother Hubbard shape for children under 7. Besides these is the regular baby waist shape, and this is the most useful of the three, for it can be worn by children of 8 as well as by the baby.

For outdoor wear for fall there will be some of the prettiest little coats that have ever been made. Some are of velvet, others of rough wool and more of the ribbed velutina, which is such excellent stuff to wear.

I like little boys better than I do girls, and so I will not forget them, as too many do. One suit for a boy of 5 or 6 is of navy blue velutina, in sailor style. The big collar was of white linen, and the deep cuffs matched. Russian blouses are still in style for small boys. One of bluish gray has the stitching on the inevitable sailor collar, done in strapping of white. The belt is also white. This kind of suit is handsome, comfortable and dressy for boys. There are military overcoats for the little fellows made of blue, with velvet collar and capuchin hoods. The eagle must roost on the left sleeve, or no boy would want it. Another handsome overcoat for boys is called the little duke. It is of very dark melton or cloth, and down the front is a wide strip of black astrakhan, with fancy black silk frogs. The cuffs and collar are of the astrakhan. It is a fine coat. The size is so adjusted that the bottom of the coat reaches just to the knees.

And so began the second period of Gouverneur Prime's thralldom. A young civilian at the Point has few opportunities at any time, but when the lady of his love is a belle in the corps, he would much better take a long ocean voyage than be where he could hear and see, and live in daily torment. One comfort came to him when he could not be with Mrs. Garrison (who naively explained that "Gov" was such a dear boy and they were such stanch friends, real comrades, you know). He had early made the acquaintance of Pat Latrobe, and there was a bond of sympathy between them which was none the less strong because, on Prime's side, it could neither be admitted nor alluded to—that they were desperately in love with the sisters, and it was not long before it began to dawn on Prime that pretty Nita was playing a double game—that even while assuring her guardian sister that she had only a mild interest in Latrobe, she was really losing or had lost her heart to him, and in every way in her power was striving to conceal the fact from Margaret, and yet meet her lover at hours when she thought it possible to do so without discovery. As the friendship strengthened between himself and Latrobe they began using him as Cupid's postman, and many little notes and some big ones found their way to and from the Fourth division of cadet barracks. Mrs. Frank was only moderately kind to her civilian adorer then, granting him only one dance at each hop, and going much with other men, but that dance was worth seeing. Prime's was the only black "claw-hammer" in the room, and therefore conspicuous, and cadets—who know a good thing when they see it—and many a pretty girl partner would draw aside to watch the perfection of their step and the exquisite ease with which they seemed to float through space, circling and reversing and winding among the other dancers, he ever alert, watchful, quick as a cat and lithe and strong as a panther—she all yielding, lissome, airy grace. That dance was "Gov" Prime's reward, and almost only reward, for hours of impatient waiting. Other women, charming and pretty and better women, would gladly have been his partners. Some two or three whom he met at the hotel even intimated as much. But not until Lady Garrison told him he must—to protect her from scandal—did he ask another to dance. At last came the end of the summer's encampment, the return of the corps to barracks and studies, one blissful week in which he was enabled to spend several uninterrupted hours each day at her side, and then a cataclysm. A letter intended only for Nita's hands fell into those of her sister. It was bulky. It was from Latrobe. She hesitated only a moment, then, with determination in her eyes, opened and read—all. Two days after Nita was whisked away to New York, and within another week, leaving two most disconsolate swains on the Hudson, the sisters, one of them bathed in tears, went spinning away to the west, where Frank Garrison was on duty at department headquarters. Prime was permitted to write once a fortnight (he sent a volume), and Latrobe forbidden, but already the poor boy owned a thick packet of precious missives, all breathing fond love and promising utter constancy though she had to wait for him for years. For a month Nita would hardly speak to her sister, but in October there were lovely drives, picnics and gayeties of all kinds. There were attractive young officers and assiduous old ones, and among these latter was Frost, with his handsome gray mustache and distinguished bearing, and that air of conscious success and possession which some men know so well how to assume even when their chances are slimmer than my lady's hand. The sisterly breach was healed before that beautiful month was over. Frost dined at the Garrisons' four times a week and drove Miss Nita behind his handsome bays every day or two. In November he asked a question. In December there was an announcement that called forth a score of congratulations around headquarters, and in January the wedding cards went all over the union—some to West Point, but to Latrobe, who had been looking ill and anxious for six weeks, said his classmates, and falling off fearfully in his studies, said his professors, only a brief note inclosing his letters and begging for hers. At reveille next morning there was no captain to receive the report of roll call from the first sergeant of company B. "Where's Latrobe?" sleepily asked the officer of the day of the cadet first lieutenant. "I dn' know," was the answer, and to the amaze of Latrobe's roommate, who had gone to bed and to sleep right after taps the night before, they found evidence that "Pat" had left the post. He had not even made down his bedding. His cadet uniforms were all there, but a suit of civilian clothes, usually in a snug package up the chimney, that had been used several times "running it" to the hotel after taps in August, was now, like its owner, missing. After three days' waiting and fruitless search, the superintendent wired Latrobe's uncle and best friend, old Gen. Drayton, and that was the last seen or heard of "Pat." In the spring and ahead of time his class was graduated without him, for the war with Spain was on. In the spring an irate and long-tried father was upbraiding another only son for persistent failures at college. "'Gov' Prime will get the sash, not the sheepskin," prophesied his fellows. And then somehow, somewhere the father heard it was a married woman with whom his boy was so deeply in love, and there were bitter, bitter words on both sides—so bitter that when at last he flung himself out of his father's study "Gov" Prime went straight to Mildred's room, silently kissed her and walked out of the house. This was in April. The next heard of him he had enlisted for the war and was gone to San Francisco with his regiment with the prospect of service in the Philippines ahead of him, but that was full four months after his disappearance. Thither, late in July, the father followed, bringing Mildred with him and—the reader knows the rest.

CHAPTER X.

One of Col. Frost's consuming ambitions was to be the head of his department, with the rank of brigadier general, but he had strong rivals and knew it. Wealth he had in abundance. It was rank and power that he craved. Four men—all with better war records and more experience—stood between him and that coveted star, and two of the four were popular and beloved men. Frost was cold, selfish, intensely self-willed, indomitably persevering, and though "close-fisted," to the scale of a Scotch landlord as a rule, he would loose his purse strings and pay well for services he considered essential. When Frost had a consuming desire he let no money consideration stand in the way, and for Nita Terriss he stood ready to spend a small fortune. Everybody knew Mrs. Frank Garrison could never dress and adorn herself as she did on poor Frank Garrison's pay, and when she appeared with a dazzling necklace and a superb new gown at the garrison ball not long after Frost and his shrinking bride left for their honeymoon, people looked at her and then at each other. Nita Terriss was sold to "Jack" Frost, was the verdict, and her shrewd elder sister was the dealer. Mrs. Frank knew what people were thinking and saying just as well as though they had said it to her, yet smiled sweetness and bliss on every side. Frankly she looked up into the faces of her sisters in arms: "I know you like my necklace. Isn't it lovely? Col. Frost's wedding present, you know. He said I shouldn't give Nita away without some recompense, and this is it."

But that could have been only a part of it, said the garrison. An honorarium in solid cash, it was believed, was far the greater portion of the consideration which the elder sister accepted for having successfully borne Nita away from the dangers and fascinations of the Point—having guarded her, drooping and languid, against the advance of good looking soldier lads at headquarters, and finally having, by dint of hours of argument, persuasion and skill, delivered her into the arms of the elderly but well preserved groom. All he demanded to know was that she was fancy free—that there was no previous attachment, and on this point Mrs. Frank had solemnly averred there was none. The child had had a foolish fancy for a cadet beau, but it amounted to absolutely nothing. There had been no vows, no pledge, no promise of any kind, and she was actually free as air. So Frost was satisfied.

They made an odd looking pair. Frost was bony built but sturdy, and Nita seemed like a fairy, indeed as unsubstantial as a wisp of vapor, as she came down the aisle on his arm. They were so far to the south on this honeymoon trip as almost to feel the shock and concussion when the Maine was blown to a mass of wreckage. They were in Washington when the congress demanded full satisfaction of Spain, and Col. Frost was told his leave was cut short—that he must return to his station at once. Going first to the Arlington and hurriedly entering the room, he almost stumbled over the body of his wife, lying close to the door in a swoon from which it took some time and the efforts of the house physician and the maids to restore her. Questioned later as to the cause she wept hysterically and wrung her hands. She didn't know. She had gone to the door to answer a knock, and got dizzy and remembered nothing more. What became of the knocker? She didn't know. Frost inquired at the office. A bellboy was found who said he had taken up a card in an envelope given him by a young feller who "seemed kind o' sick. Mrs. Frost took it and flopped," and a chambermaid ran in to her, and then hurried for the doctor. "What became of the letter or note or card?" asked Frost, with suspicion of jealousy in his heart. Two women, mistress and maid, and the bellboy swore they didn't know, but the maid did know. With the quick intuition of her sex and class she had seen that there was or had been a young lover, and sympathy for Nita and a dislike for Frost, who gave no tips, prompted her to hide it until she could slip it safely into Nita's hand, Nita who read, shuddered, tore it into minute scraps, and wept more, face downward, on the bed. They had reached their winter station before the cable flashed the stirring tidings of Dewey's great victory in Manila bay, and within half a week came telegraphic orders for Col. Frost to proceed at once to San Francisco, there to await instructions. The first expedition was organizing when he arrived, his pallid little wife by his side, and there were his instructions to proceed to Manila as chief of his department—an independent position, and yet it was a horrid blow. But there was no recourse. Nita begged that she might stay with her sister. She could not bear the idea of going. Frost knew that no women could accompany the expedition, and, shipping his chest and desks by the transport, he had secured passage for himself and wife to Hong-Kong on one of the splendid steamers of the English line from Vancouver, and so informed her. It dashed Nita's last hope. They were occupying fine rooms at the Palace hotel. The city was thronged with officers and rapidly arriving troops. Other army women, eager to accompany their husbands, were railing at the fate that separated them, and Nita had been forced to conceal the joy with which she heard their lamentations. But she had yet to learn how exacting Frost could be. It had never occurred to her that he could obtain permission to go except by transport. It had not seemed possible that he would take her with him. "You should have known," said he, "that even if I had had to go by transport, you would have gone by the Empress of India. It is only 60 hours from Manila to Hong-Kong, and I could have joined you soon after your arrival. As it is I shall see you safely established there—I have letters to certain prominent English people—then shall go over to join the fleet when it arrives in Manila bay."

That night she wrote long and desperately to Margaret. "He swore he would follow me wherever we went until I granted him the interview. You know how he dogged me in Washington, followed me to Denver, and any moment he may address me here. I will not let me return to you. He insists on my going to Hong-Kong, where he can occasionally join me. But Rollin holds those letters over me like a whip, and declares that he will give them into Frost's hands unless I see him whenever he presents himself. You made me swear to Frost I never cared a straw for my darling that was. O God, how I loved him! and if these letters ever reach the man to whom you have sold me, he would treat me as he would a dog, even if he doesn't kill me. Meg—Meg—you must help me, for I live in terror."

FACED TWO BAD MEN

Chicago Highwaymen Foiled by Young Woman's Pluck.

How Mrs. Willis Saved an Unknown Man's Property and Possibly His Life — Would Not Retreat Under Pistol Fire.

Bravely defying the revolver and threats of a footpad, Mrs. Bessie Willis, of 34 Laflin street, Chicago, prevented a highway robbery and saved for a man whom she does not know his valuables and possibly his life. At about 11 o'clock Mrs. Willis was standing at her door saying good night to some friends who had been spending the evening with her. While they were talking in the doorway a man who later reported his name to the police as E. C. Fowler, 403 West Adams street, passed along the west side of Laflin street, closely followed by two other men. As Mr. Fowler reached the alley between Monroe and Adams streets, the two men stopped him. The party on the steps across the street at first suspected that it was a case of robbery, but as there was no struggle and no outcries the robbery idea was abandoned. The three men soon separated, Mr. Fowler continuing on his way towards Adams street, the thieves returning to Monroe street, where they stopped at the corner to await W. J. Dowling, of 427 Polk street, who was walking along the south side of Monroe street. Dowling was stopped and the robbers at once began to go through his pockets.

This time there could be no mistake, and the friends of Mrs. Willis, crying: "O, it's a holdup," ran into the house. Mrs. Willis, however, stepped out into the street and called out: "Let that man alone," and then sent up loud calls for the police. "Shut up there," shouted back one of the robbers. Mrs. Willis continued her cries for help, and the fellow then and there shouted: "I'll blow your head off." The friends of Mrs. Willis, who could see the flash of steel in the robber's hand, implored her to stop calling for help and come into the house. But the plucky woman refused to do anything of the sort, and one of the robbers, leaving his companion to struggle with the man they were trying to rob, ran across the street toward her. When at a distance of about 20 feet the robber fired, the bullet passing close by Mrs. Willis' head. Even then Mrs. Willis refused to step back, and the robber was advancing to try a second shot when Mrs. Willis' friends pulled her inside and slammed the front door.

The woman's cries had the desired effect, however, for hearing footsteps coming on the run down the street, the two robbers took flight, running west to Monroe street. "There was not much to it," said Mrs. Willis when congratulated on her pluck. "I did not want to see them rob that man if I could help it. They called to me to 'hush up' and I wouldn't 'hush up.' Then one of them ran toward me, and I do not think that he was over 20 feet away when he fired. I don't know where the bullet struck, but I could hear it sing, and it was not far away. I think he would have hit me the next time, as he was getting ready to fire again and I had no intention of going inside. I had no choice about that, however, as my friends just hauled me through the door. I don't know who the man was, but the robbers did not get anything, so he told the policeman. He had just bought a new watch two days before. I heard him saying that. If those men had been holding up anybody I knew or cared about I think I would have gone right over to help him." Mrs. Willis is 27 years old and of such modest manner, says the Chicago Tribune, that only her flashing eyes suggest the pluck she has shown.

True to a Foolish Vow.

Soon after her marriage, which took place about 50 years ago, Mrs. Hester S. Thorpe, of Flushing, N. Y., made a vow that she would never pass beyond her front gate. She kept the vow, confining her strolls to her little yard. She never saw a railroad or a trolley car, although both are within a few blocks

ABOUT CONVINCED.

It is hoped that you are about convinced to let me stop at your home regularly with a nice clean piece of Hygeia Ice. I have been hammering away at you for some time to bring you around to this point. I believe it is economy for you to use ice. I believe also that you should use Hygeia Ice in preference to any other ice. Because it is a pure ice, a healthful ice and an ice that lasts longer than others. No dirt. No impurities—nothing in it that shouldn't be.

SPORTING.

GOLF.

A team of six golfers, representing the Maplewood Golf Club, played a match with the Waumbeck Golf Club men at Jefferson, N. H., yesterday, and were defeated 20 to 0. J. W. Baker, of Hillside, played with the winning team and won his play, 3 up.

There has been very little playing this week on the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course, and but few members have visited the club house. This is truly the dull season for this club. By the last of this month the members will begin their homeward journey, and by Labor Day the old-time crowds will again be seen on the course.

The weekly play for the Mellick and Golf Committee cups will be the two events at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course tomorrow. There is not the close interest in the competition for the Mellick cup as in the other competition. Mrs. Rogers, who leads in the Golf Committee cup contest, stands an excellent chance of losing her position very soon. C. Wesley Abbott is now a close second with 5½ points, only a half point behind Mrs. Rogers. There are others also near the top and a decided change is likely to occur soon. Mrs. Rogers has withdrawn from the competition and cares little who takes the lead.

Tomorrow's event at the Park Golf Club will be the regular weekly competition for the President's cup. Senator Charles A. Reed, who now leads for that trophy, will not be on hand for play tomorrow and so it is possible that the day's game may bring forth a change in the order. H. D. Hibbard is a close second, only one point behind while J. H. Howell and G. H. Phillips can tie with the Senator by winning first place and the accompanying three points. There are half a dozen other candidates for honors who can take a prominent part in the race by winning two or three points.

Chief among the troubles for the golfers of the Westfield Golf Club are the two first holes. A drive of a hundred yards clear is necessary to clear the trolley tracks, otherwise the player is apt to get into all sorts of troubles. Beyond that the fair green is, in places, entirely bare of turf. There was formerly a swamp located there but under-drains have been put in and the ground is now dry. There has not yet been time, however, to allow the grass to grow there. The second hole is back over a parallel course and has the same variety of trouble. In this case, a weak drive or second shot is apt to land the ball in the trolley tracks on the second shot.

ON THE DIAMOND.

David Gordon, the third baseman on the Hope chapel nine, received a bruise on the forefinger of his left hand in the Clover Club match, Saturday, which is causing him much trouble.

The Hope chapel nine will not appear on the diamond again until Saturday, August 24. The boys will then cross bats with the Columbia A. C. nine, of Rahway, and the game will be played on the home grounds.

The return game between the Plainfield police and the Elizabeth "coppers" will be played at Elizabeth Wednesday. The local nine is in fine shape and has many supporters who are not backward in making sanguine predictions as to the outcome of the match.

In the police game Wednesday, both Lunger and Totten did their best to make a creditable showing in the right field. Each was given a fair trial and it was demonstrated that either one will fill the bill satisfactorily in the future, provided they are given a little practice.

CHANGES FOR HOOLEY CUP.

MISS HARRIET R. SHREVE NOW LEADS FOR TROPHY.

Won First Honors In This Week's Competition—Miss Howell Is Now Second.

This week has seen several important changes in the standing for the Hooley cup at the links of the Park Golf Club. Miss Harriet R. Shreve made her second consecutive win for that trophy, Tuesday afternoon, and advanced to first place in the race for the trophy, leading Miss Saidee Mae Howell by a point. Miss Mary B. Wells, who captured second honors in this week's competition, is now tied with Miss Howell for second place.

There was not much of a field out for the Hooley cup this week, many of the regular contestants being out of town. Miss Howell and Miss Daisy Eisberg, who play nearest to scratch, were both absent. Miss Harriet R. Shreve was not up to her form of the week before and her handicap had been reduced. She made a low enough score, however, to put her first by five points to the good. Miss Mary B. Wells was second while the third honor went to Miss May Shreve.

The scores were:

	G	H	N
Miss Harriet Shreve	85	27	58
Miss Mary B. Wells	98	35	63
Miss May S. Shreve	113	40	73
Miss VanDeventer	130	40	90

The standing for the cup is now as follows:

Miss Harriet Shreve	7
Miss Saidee Mae Howell	6
Miss Mary Wells	6
Miss Daisy Eisberg	5
Miss Laura Long	4
Miss May Shreve	3
Miss Mabel VanDeventer	2
Miss Elsie Brokaw	2
Miss Jennings	1

AMONG THE STEPPERS.

John T. Barrett, of Lincoln place, has purchased the black trotter, "Sidney G," of Otto Gunther, at Netherwood.

The matinee races at the Gentlemen's Driving Park tomorrow afternoon will be of great interest and some of the best local horses will furnish the programme. In the first race there will be M. B. Smalley's "Fred," D. C. Smalley's "Ned Davis," A. I. Smalley's "Belle" and Peter Osborn's "Cousin." The second race will be given by Robert Fairbairn's "New Haven," Frank Irving's "Jessie Dine" and J. Wesley Johnson's "Woven Wind." In the third race there will be Thomas Brantingham's "Monarch Maid," Edward Campbell's colt, and N. B. Smalley's "Elisha." All the horses are in good condition and some excellent time should be made.

LAWN TENNIS.

Although play for the Officers' cups at the courts of the Cedar Brook Tennis Club has been postponed until September, there is a crowd of players at the courts every day and some exciting matches are played there.

Several tennis enthusiasts in Netherwood have made arrangements to put the tennis court in the rear of the residence of N. P. T. Finch, of Belvidere avenue, in proper condition. They will then spend their spare time playing there. Already a number are interested in the plan and it may result in the formation of another club before the summer is over.

Mr. Martine Will Speak.

James E. Martine, the "farmer orator," will deliver the principal address at the Hunterdon county farmers' picnic, which will be held at Flemington, Wednesday. When Mr. Martine spoke at the annual meeting last year, 10,000 people listened to his discourse. He is looked upon as a drawing card at the farmers' gatherings. His speech will be commenced at 10 o'clock in the morning.

In Mattison's Court.

Herman Pasch has instituted proceedings on contract in Justice Mattison's court against Edward Mercier. The summons is returnable Wednesday.

—If the action of your bowels is not easy and regular serious complications must be the final result. DeWitt's Little Early Risers will remove this danger. Safe, pleasant and effective. L. W. Randolph.

TO SHORE AND MOUNTAINS.

The Misses Mabel, Lottie and Esther Kiernan, of New York, are the guests of the Misses Lizzie and Nettie Hapney, of Elm place.

Miss Stella Brooks, of Duer street, will leave Monday for a two weeks' trip to the Pan-American Exposition and Niagara Falls.

Mrs. Amos Grey, of Elmwood place, who received treatment at the hospital, is able to be out again, and is very greatly improved.

H. H. Coward, one of the City National Bank employes, starts on a week's vacation tomorrow. Mr. Coward will go to Saratoga, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Windham and daughter, of Fairview avenue, are spending a few days at Narrowsburg on account of the death of her mother.

Miss Ruth Stillman, of Alfred, N. Y., who has been visiting her aunt, Dr. Martha Stillman, of West Fourth street, has gone to Connecticut to visit friends.

C. C. Ball, superintendent of the Prudential Insurance Company, accompanied by Mrs. Ball, has gone to Long Branch to spend the remainder of his vacation.

Morgan Bishop, the four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Bishop, of Johnsons' drive, is seriously ill with appendicitis. He was removed to the hospital, where he will be operated on today.

Charles E. A. Heywood, of Madison avenue, has been entertaining W. W. Hastings and N. E. Saunders, who are old schoolmates of his. Mr. Hastings is on his way to Northfield, Tenn., and Mr. Saunders will go to Iowa. They will make the whole trip on their bicycles.

Building a Frame Dwelling.

Thomas E. Currin, Sr., of Coddington avenue, has broken ground on Westervelt avenue, where he will erect a two and a half story frame dwelling. Henry Hoffman, of West Front street, has the contract to build the structure.

Smell of Metals.

Some metals have a very much more pronounced smell than others. The smell of tin, especially when newly cut, is unmistakable, but it is a moot point whether gold or platinum has any smell that could be recognized by human olfactory organs. Of the rarer metals uranium and all its compounds give the strongest smell, and this gives us the reason why metals should have an odor. Uranium is always giving off what are known as the Becquerel rays, consisting of streams of excessively minute "corpuscles."—Iron Trade Journal.

Correct.

Miss Bosting—They say she's extremely haughty.

Miss Tours—I should say. The last time I saw her she went sailing down the street as—

"Why do you use that senseless expression? How could she go 'sailing down the street?"

"Easy enough; this was in Venice."—Philadelphia Press.

DIVIDED THE HOUSE.

Domestic Quarrel Leads to Semi-Voluntary Separation.

Old Homestead Shelters Both Husband and Wife, But a Chalk Line Keeps Them Apart—A Bucolic Scandal.

When Leander Southard and his wife quarreled, says the New York World, they divided their house in two sections with a chalk line. The wife and the baby took up their abode on the south side, which was the sunniest and best, while the husband occupied the chilly and dark region on the northern limit of the frontier.

This division of territory, however, was a failure as a peacemaker, and for a reason which international politicians will appreciate. There was no buffer state between the two parties and frontier frictions arose that have driven them into the courts.

Leander Southard, whose chalkline cottage is at Norwood, L. I., two miles from Lynbrook, is now suing John Johnson, a rich farmer and neighbor, for $10,000 damages, claiming that he stole away the affections of Mrs. Southard. Lawyer George A. Mott served the papers the other day.

The Southards, it is said, lived happily until one day the wife came to her husband and broke some news to him.

"I love Farmer Johnson," he says she said. "I have loved him for three years." Then she snapped her fingers defiantly.

"Leave my house at once!" cried the angry husband.

"I won't!" retorted the wife. "I have done nothing wrong. I shall not leave until I am ready."

Then the chalkline, balkline plan suggested itself. Southard bought five cents' worth of chalk and drew the line, and the wife moved the baby and sewing machine over to her territory. Every Saturday night during three years Southard put the housekeeping money for the week on the chalkline, taking care not to invade his wife's preserves.

Farmer Johnson was a frequent caller, but he never went north of the chalkline. Southard glared across the white frontier at him, but made no protest, even when the farmer took Mrs. Southard out driving or to the village picnics or to husking bees.

A week ago, it is said, Mrs. Southard deposited the baby on the chalkline and disappeared. She did not return that night. This the husband looked upon as a provocation to war, and he went looking through the village for facts. He started his damage suit against Johnson as a result of what he thought he discovered.

With his lawyer and a constable Southard hunted Johnson to serve the papers on him. They found him milking a cow. He saw them first and hid in a cellar. The subsequent hunt for him included a chase across lots and some tree climbing. He was served eventually.

The Southards got some more chalk and renewed the chalkline. The wife sat on the south side of it and sulked. Together they talked to a reporter.

"I love Johnson best, and I'm glad to get rid of my husband," said the wife. "I married for a home and because Mr. Southard said he'd kill himself if I didn't. I married him to save his life. I'm sorry I did it.

"It's his own fault. He let me go with Johnson while he danced and flirted with my younger sister. He has proposed to her. She says so. But I won't let him marry her while I'm alive."

"Keep your side of the chalkline!" exclaimed the husband, warningly.

"Keep your side yourself!" angrily cried the wife.

Native African Telephones.

People often wonder how the natives in Africa contrive to transmit news with apparently miraculous rapidity across miles of bush and desert. The explanation is a simple one. They use the telephone. The Soudanese telephone is nothing like the one in use in European countries. It is of two kinds—a hollowed-out elephant tusk of immense size or a tam-tam. The tusk can be made to transmit seven distinct notes by means of a slice of tree bark, which is placed on the outside of the tusk at varying distances from the mouthpiece. By means of this instrument sounds can be heard at a distance of several miles, and messages are frequently transmitted as much as 200 miles in a single day by these primitive telephones.

Rose Takes Place of Ring.

INCREASING WATER SUPPLY.

New Water Tank Being Built At Hillside Club Grounds.

A new water tank is being erected on the grounds of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club between the caddy house and the old water tank. The old tank has a capacity for fifty barrels of water, while the new one, when completed will have a capacity of 400 barrels.

It is being so built and the foundations are being strengthened to such an extent that if necessary the tank can be increased to a capacity of 800 barrels. The work is being done by a Philadelphia concern. The increased water supply will fill a long felt want at the club, as heretofore a lack of water has been a great inconvenience at the club.

Frightened by Train.

The noise made by a passing train frightened a pony belonging to Hartley Mellick, son of Councilman George P. Mellick, which he was driving on Park avenue to the railroad station late yesterday afternoon. The animal reared and fell to the ground. No damage was done with the exception of some torn harness.

ESTABLISHED MAY 10, 1887. PLAINFIELD, N. J., SATURDAY, AUGUST 17, 1901. TWO CENTS A COPY—$5 A YEAR.

NO LOCAL GOLFERS IN NATIONAL TOURNEY.

Will be Played This Year on the Course of the Atlantic City Country Club.

DATE IS SEPTEMBER 9 TO 14.

PROGRAMME SENT OUT GIVING THE DETAILS OF PLAY.

Entries to be Sent in Through the Clubs—Valuable Prizes to be Contested For—All the Cracks Are Expected.

There is no likelihood that Plainfield's two golf clubs will have any representatives in the seventh amateur golf championship of the United State, which is to be held at the Atlantic City Country Club, September 9 to 14, inclusive. The local golfers will, nevertheless, be very much interested in the outcome of it and the progress made by the crack players of this State. The official programme of the tournament has just been sent out by the United States Golf Association, giving the details of the play.

The winner will receive a gold medal and his club the custody for the year of the $1,000 trophy. There is a silver medal for the runner-up, and bronze medals for the third and fourth in the race. The medal play qualifying round will be Monday, September 9, the hour of starting to be fixed later, according to the number to enter. It will be at thirty-two holes, and the United States Golf Association offers prizes for the three lowest scores.

Thirty-two will qualify for the championship, who will begin match play on Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock. All the match play rounds will be at thirty-six holes, the play on Wednesday and Thursday beginning at 9:30 o'clock, and for the semi-finals and final on Friday and Saturday at 10:30 o'clock.

Competitors shall enter through the secretaries of their respective clubs, and entry fee of $5 must accompany each entry and must be received by the secretary of the United States Golf Club Association not later than Monday, September 2. All entries are subject to the approval of the executive committee of the association.

The contest is expected to bring out the best golf that has yet been witnessed among amateurs in the United States. It will include F. S. Douglas, the former amateur champion, who led the field in the recent all-comers tournament at Hollywood until the last round, when, through one poor drive, the professionals were able to pass him, and probably Walter J. Travis, the present champion, who is now abroad and increasing his renown by the fine game he has displayed against the best players of Scotland and England.

The potentiality of the contest that will attract the most interest will be the showing made by the younger set, who will for the first time enter in force. Two, C. H. Seeley and Will L. Thompson, have beaten Travis within the twelvemonth, and, since his good showing abroad, they are encouraged to meet him again.

Of the older set of whom something is expected, A. G. Lockwood, the Bostonian; C. M. Hamilton and C. B. Macdonald, the winner of 1895, may be mentioned. The two others who have held the title, H. J. Whigham and H. M. Harriman, are not regarded as starters this year, the former being abroad, and the latter not having played of late in tournaments. The Atlantic City Clubhouse and grounds will be open to competitors for a week before the contest.

Miss Pruden Was Hostess.

Miss Edith Pruden, of East Second street, entertained a small company of friends at her home last evening. The evening was spent playing games and having a social time. Those present were Rev. and Mrs. P. B. Kennedy, of Easton, Pa.; Miss Mary A. Luckey, Mr. and Mrs. James A. Stafford, Mr. and Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Johnson, Charles Hazeltine and Russell Bond, of this city.

Student Assistants at Medical College.

In the list of clinical instructors given in the catalogue of the Woman's Medical College, of Philadelphia, Miss Anna Degeuring, of Elizabeth, is announced as student assistant in histological labratory, and Miss Martha Tracy, of Plainfield, as student assistant in the physiological labratory.

At Mt. Olive Church.

Rev. R. D. Wynn, of New York, will preach in the Mt. Olive Baptist church tomorrow morning. In the evening a sermon will be delivered by Rev. Mr. Harvey, of Flushing, N. Y.

HOPE CHAPEL'S GREAT DAY.

EIGHT HUNDRED WENT TO THE SEA SHORE THIS MORNING.

Annual Outing of the Chapel Attracted Many—The Chapel's Baseball Team Went Too.

The members of the Sunday-school of Hope chapel, enough to fill fourteen cars, left this morning for Asbury Park, where they will spend the day by the ocean waves. It is the annual outing, which everyone connected with that thriving chapel looks forward to in anticipation of a good time. Altogether there were close on to 800 excursionists, and each person in the crowd was in a good frame of mind.

The start was made from Grant avenue a few minutes past 8 o'clock and shortly afterwards an additional number of people were taken aboard at the North avenue station. In the mass of travelers the small boy predominated. He was everywhere, and it is not improbable that the youngster will be heard from during the day. With few exceptions each person was provided with a lunch box, and from the size of the average package it can be said that many are counting on being very hungry while away.

Accompanying the excursionists are Rev. G. Kennedy Newell, pastor of the chapel; City Judge Wm. N. Runyon, Street Commissioner Andrew J. Gavett and Alexander Muir, three active workers in the chapel and Sunday-school. The Hope chapel baseball nine went in a body. The members had expected to play a game at the shore, but unfortunately no match could be arranged. A full day will be enjoyed at the favorite park, as the start on the return trip will not be commenced until 7:55 o'clock this evening.

FINAL MEETINGS.

Camp Meeting At Vail's Grove Is Nearing its End—Big Time Tomorrow.

The final celebrations at the colored camp meeting, which is conducted at Vail's grove, will be held tomorrow. A special programme has been arranged, and barring only rain, it will be carried out to the letter. A supreme effort will be made to outdo any of the former meetings, so far as attractions are concerned.

It will be essentially an all day affair. Rev. R. D. Wynn, of New York, will deliver a sermon at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, and Rev. J. L. Barton, of Newark, will speak in the evening at 8 o'clock. Jubilee singers will be present and some elaborate selections will be rendered. Refreshments can be had on the grounds at any time during the day.

Commencing Monday every evening during the interval between then and Thursday, August 29, open air concerts will be given. Some picnics have also been arranged to take place at the grove in the near future.

Midnight Soiree.

A midnight soiree, given by some Plainfielders in honor of their friends from across the sea, was much enjoyed last night. Among the popular airs rendered were "Oh, For the Eighty-Five Cents" and "Doggie, Doggie, Get a Muzzle." The music was thoroughly appreciated by an uninvited audience, which offered many valuable suggestions.

A Cruise on the "Folly."

A party, composed of prominent young Plainfielders, started today for a cruise through the Shrewsbury river, on the yacht "Folly." They will be away for several days and expect to have a good time. Those making up the party are Roy Phillips, Fred Hillman, Charles Woolston, Marcus Hoyt, Harold Phillips and Homer Smith.

Camping and Fishing.

A number of local fishermen, among whom are Charles Keller, of Harrison street, A Bohren, of Greenbrook road, James Day, of Liberty street, William Mills, of Summit avenue, and John Lloyd, of Harrison street, leave tonight for Green Pond, Morris county, where they will spend several days camping.

At Third Street Chapel.

George F. Joly, Jr., the commercial traveler of Philadelphia, will lead the meeting at the East Third street chapel tomorrow evening. Miss Mabel Templin, of North avenue, will also sing, accompanied by Miss May Randolph. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

Birthday Gift.

Clarence C. Wentrick, of South Plainfield, has received a handsome birthday present through his brother, Harvey G. Wentrick, of this city. It is a premium picture, 22x28, and it came from the Memorial Association, of Philadelphia.

Hospital Directors.

The August meeting of the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital will be held Monday evening at the Public Library.

LOTS OF OFFICES TO BE FILLED THIS FALL.

Lively Interest Probable in the Coming Campaign in New Jersey.

IMPORTANT APPOINTMENTS.

POLITICAL GOSSIP SUMMED UP BY JERSEY CITY JOURNAL.

Meeker Act Gives Special Importance to This Year's Elections in the State—Successor For C. J. Baxter to Be Chosen.

Although it will dominate all other issues, the Jersey City Journal points out that the Gubernatorial contest this fall will not monopolize interest in the election returns. In addition to voting for a governor, New Jersey voters on November 4 will have to elect members of the General Assembly as usual, and besides the county contests for senators, sheriffs, surrogates and county clerks, will, in thirty-two cities in the State, vote for the municipal officers who would have been elected last spring had not the Meeker act done away with the spring election in cities.

The Meeker act combined the two elections, and in consequence late election returns will doubtless be the rule in many cities in the State, especially the larger municipalities, where a long list of city officials are to be selected at the same time as the county and State elections are held.

State senators are to be elected this fall in seven counties, surrogates in three, sheriffs in four, and one county only, Passaic, will elect a county clerk. Of the seven senators whose terms expire six are Republicans. Robert S. Hudspeth, of Hudson, who allied Congressman Allan McDermott's unexpired term, is the only Democrat to go out of office and he is to be renominated.

In Cumberland, the Republicans will nominate former Assemblyman Bloomfield H. Minch to succeed Senator Edmund Caspar Stokes, who last spring was appointed as clerk in Chancery. The only Democratic candidate named for the honor so far is Samuel Iredell, who was a delegate to the Kansas City Convention in 1900.

To succeed Mahlon Pitney, of Morris, who goes to the Supreme Court bench this fall, there are several candidates, but the leaders of both parties are still at sea as to who will be the nominee. Edmund C. Wakelee, the young senator from Bergen, will probably be renominated by the Republicans. Mayor Stoy, of Atlantic City, is talked of as a senatorial candidate to succeed Lewis Evans, of Atlantic, while George Grecly Smith, of Ocean, and Elijah C. Hutchinson, of Mercer, will probably be renominated.

In Bergen county a sheriff will be elected to succeed Jacob L. VanBuskirk, Democrat, Elwood H. Kirkbride, Republican, goes out of office as surrogate of Burlington, and Cape May may have a lively contest over the election of a sheriff to succeed John W. Reeves, Republican. Mayor Augustus Hilton of Anglesea, and Freeholder Alfred Cresse of Middle township are the Republican candidates for the shrievalty, and the Democrats may put forward former County Clerk Edward L. Rice.

Hudson county will elect a surrogate to succeed James T. Lillis, the Democratic incumbent, and in Passaic county a county clerk will be selected to succeed Albert D. Winfield.

There will be a lively fight over the election of a sheriff in Somerset, where the term of Selah Schoonmaker, Democrat, expires.

Among the perquisites of the governor elected this fall will be the appointment next winter of a new secretary of state to succeed George Wurts. The office pays $10,000 a year for three years, and the secretary has the appointment of an assistant at $2,000 a year. Alexander H. Bilkey is present assistant secretary of state. The term of Attorney-General Samuel H. Gray also expires next year, and the governor will nominate next winter a new attorney-general for five years at $7,000 a year. Other appointments that the new governor will have to make next winter, with the approval of the Senate, are as follows:

Member of Court of Errors and Appeals for six years, salary $20 a day, to succeed Judge Charles E. Hendrickson.

Associate justice of Supreme Court, for seven years, salary $9,000 a year, to succeed Justice Charles G. Garrison.

Clerk of Supreme Court, for five years, salary $5,000 a year, to succeed William Biker, Jr.

State superintendent of public instruction, for three years, salary $3,000 a year, to succeed Charles J. Baxter, of Plainfield.

Head Keeper of State Prison, for five years, salary $3,500 a year, to succeed Samuel S. Moore.

Two members of State Sewerage Commission, for three years, salary $1,500 a year each, to succeed Mayor John Hinchliffe, of Paterson, and Col. Charles W. Fuller, of Bayonne.

Three county judges, to succeed Judge Edward Ambler Armstrong, of Camden; Judge John S. Jessup, of Gloucester, and Judge John S. Barkalow, of Passaic.

WESTFIELD'S NEW CARRIAGE.

WILL BE PRESENTED TO FIRE DEPARTMENT TONIGHT.

Was Brought to Plainfield Last Night and Transferred to Its New Home Today.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, August 17.—When the members of Bucket and Engine Company, No. 1, receive orders this evening to go out on dress parade, they will receive a surprise that has been in store for them for some time. For a long time past the company has been making efforts to purchase a new hose carriage. They have been anticipating the affair, but when they see a handsome up-to-date hose carriage this evening they will scarcely be able to realize that their dreams have materialized.

E. W. Chamberlain and Charles Clark, as a committee from the company, placed the order with Fitzgibbons & Crisp, of Trenton, some time ago, for the carriage. According to plans, it was received in Plainfield late last evening, and was brought to Westfield, where it is now stored in a barn. Health Inspector Edgar was appointed as a guard and he remained with the carriage last night. The carriage is modern in every respect and will fill a long felt want in this place. There is no doubt but that the fire laddies will be more than pleased with the carriage and it will be properly christened before the night is over.

As the Westfield company expects to take part in the North Plainfield firemen's parade in October it will now be well equipped to turn out and make a good showing.

THIRTY COUPLES WEDDED.

Cupid Does Great Work on Board the U. S. Transport Thomas.

A special to the New York papers this morning from San Francisco states that when the transport Thomas arrived at Honolulu, recently, carrying 300 school teachers under contract with the Government to teach the little Filipinos, thirty couples were married. One hundred of the teachers are women, and all, men and women, were unmarried when the vessel sailed from San Francisco July 24.

The Thomas remained at Honolulu forty-eight hours, while the newly-wedded people enjoyed a short honeymoon trip to Waikiki, a suburb of Honolulu. Among those on the transport is Major Louis H. Thomas, formerly of Plainfield. As his friends have received no cards, and as the newspaper accounts do not give a list of those married, it cannot be ascertained at this time whether he found a help-meet or not.

BUTCHERS AT ODDS.

Landlord is Trying to Settle the Dispute and Save His Tenant.

Clark Mundy, a local butcher, ran against a snag this morning when he attempted to open a meat shop on West Front street. He had purchased $100 worth of meats and intended to display the same in front of another business which adjoins another meat market. The other butcher played his game by sending word to the landlord that he would give up his store, if Mundy was allowed to do a meat business in the same building. For the sake of harmony, the landlord arranged with Mundy to hold off for a time until matters can be arranged more satisfactorily.

No Danger.

Daniel Terry, aged sixteen years, residing at Alton, developed a light case of diphtheria last Wednesday. Dr. Zeglio is in attendance and reports the case as doing well. R. A. Meeker, as State dairy and milk inspector, investigated the case promptly and learned that the case is isolated and there is absolutely no danger from infection.

'Phone at Westfield Camp.

The Westfield Fresh Air Camp has telephone communication, which is a great convenience to patrons and friends of that institution.

Mr. and Mrs. VanHorn, of Newark, are visiting Mrs. E. S. Elliott, of West Eighth street.

THOUSANDS LISTEN TO MUSIC AT CITY PARK.

LaVere's Band Entertained Great Crowd With An Excellent Programme.

ALL PERFECTLY ORDERLY.

AL SWEET'S CORNET SOLO WAS MUCH ENJOYED.

Programme Included a Variety From "Sweet Annie Moore" To "Faust"—There Were At Least Five Thousand There.

All kinds of music and all kinds of people were to be found at the band concert in the City Park last evening. The music was good—exceptionally good—and moreover was thoroughly appreciated. It varied all the way from a stately composition of Gounod to Flynn's "Sweet Annie Moore," with an abundance of martial airs thrown in to flavor the admixture. If the band scored a hit at the first concert, it made a two bagger this time.

The first and foremost encouraging fact is that the concerts are popular. Few events would attract such a swarm of people as did that musical feast. The crowd gathered early, and before the clever little leader, Ben LaVere, had gotten his baton well to work whipping the air, you could count the audience by the thousands. A conservative estimate would be 5,000, although one in a position to figure correctly declared that there were 8,000 persons in the gathering. So much for the crowd.

The procession of musical numbers was on time and few steps were made. Everything seemed to bound along smoothly, making the time fly, until the destination "Asleep In The Deep" was reached, but even then the soothing music did not have the effect of making the audience disperse. It would not rest, until an encore was added.

The medley overture, "Harvest Days," was attractive and fortunately it followed an equally good number "The Maine Festival, a "catchy" march. Something that had the tendency of making the heart throb was the patrol—"America," which preceded an artistically rendered cornet solo by a clever musician, Albert C. Sweet. "Florodora," is the air which "takes the house by storm" at present and it proved to be the "real thing" with the crowd.

Concluding the first part of the programme was "Sweet Annie Moore," which had as an introduction "3 3 3 In the Moon," whatever that means. Hall's "Cotton Blossoms," in full bloom, came after the intermission, and the imposing setting "Faust" followed. "Hearts and Flowers" brought a round of applause, but "La Rose," however, came in for a three-ring performance of hand clapping. "Asleep in the Deep" climaxed the musical treat, and served as a "good night" song.

In the opinion of a fair specimen of American beauty it was truly "just elegant," and the multitude, which attended it, is sighing for a repetition. There will be not be a great while to wait, for Mr. LaVere promises that another concert, with a well varied programme, will be given Friday evening, August 30. In the words of the snowman, "remember the date."

WILL PARADE.

Change in Programme For Annual Encampment of U. V. U.

The committee in charge of the arrangement for the annual encampment of the New York and New Jersey Division of the Union Veterans' Union, which will be held here in November, has decided to have a parade during the meeting. It is not the general custom of the organization to hold parades, but an exception will be made in this instance. The time for the parade has not been set but it will probably take place in the morning of of the first day's session, November 12.

Judge of Doll Coaches.

Mrs. Benjamin C. Bowers, of Franklin place, has been appointed one of the judges for doll coaches at the Baby Parade to take place at Asbury Park. The list of judges, of which Mrs. Bowers is a member, represents the Minot House.

Pulpit Supply.

Rev. W. C. Nelson, of Summit avenue, will preach at Grace M. E. church tomorrow morning. There will be no evening service.

Rev. Asa Reed Dilts Preaches.

Rev. Asa Reed Dilts, of Lowell, Mass., will occupy the pulpit at the Park Avenue Baptist church tomorrow.

Republican and Democratic Councilmen Hold Up Each Other's Measures.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Aug. 17.—Mayor Ryan, of this city, Thursday night, appointed as fire commissioners Captain William T. Cox, Democrat, for a term of five years; Captain William H. Rankin, Republican, for four years; Frederick Kurtz, Jr., Democrat, for three years, and Jonathan B. Drake, Republican, one year.

Messrs. Collins, Kurtz and Drake were formerly members of the City Council. Captain Cox was a former chief of the fire department. Captain Rankin is head of the Rankin Paper Roofing Company and is president of the Elizabeth Telephone Company.

Mayor Ryan's selections as a whole are well received by the public, and it is believed the board will give satisfaction.

The Republican Councilmen a second time held up the ordinance providing for the issue of $13,000 in bonds to help pay the cost of running the paid fire department for one year. The Democrats retaliated by laying on the table the communication from the Republican ward redistricting commission asking that three election districts be made in each of the nine wards into which the commission has divided Elizabeth.

It is intimated that the Democrats will attack in the courts the constitutionality of the law creating the commission.

It is the opinion today that the first chief of the paid fire department will be Freeholder August Gerstung, Democrat, who served two terms as chief engineer of the volunteer department.

RECOVERED SATCHEL.

But Half of The $20 Had Been Spent by The Small Boys Who Found It.

Mrs. Clarence Leland, of West Second street, who had her satchel, containing $20, has been successful in recovering $10 of the money, and the satchel. It was through the clever work of her brother, William Nash, that the lost property was recovered.

After the loss, Mr. Nash inquired among some boys concering the satchel, and he found one boy whose conscious trouble him. He said that he did not take the money, but another boy, the son of Policeman Flood, of Asbury Park, did. Further search was made and the policeman was found. The latter went to work at once on the case and found the boy's story true, and thus $10 was recovered.

The satchel and other contents were found in a dump near where the excursion train stood thoughout the day. The balance of the money had been spent and could not be regained.

SPECIAL SESSION.

Will Be Held at Sunday-school of Park Avenue Baptists Tomorrow.

George E. Hall, superintendent of the Park Avenue Baptist church Sunday-school, has arranged another special programme for tomorrow's session, and it promises to be as interesting as those of previous Sundays. A quartette composed of Miss Elsie Giles, Miss Adelia Runyon, Roland Treadwell and Thomas A. Cuming, will render appropriate vocal selections. The lesson will be conducted in a novel way.

There is an unusually large attendance of teachers and members at the school this summer, and the special programme arranged by the superintendent during the month of August has attracted a number of visitors to the morning sessions.

Melon Party by the Recorder.

Recorder and Mrs. Thomas Doud gave a watermelon party at their home on Duer street last evening. A pleasant time was spent by the guests, who included Mr. and Mrs. James R. Blair, of Duer street; Mr. and Mrs. H. C. McVoy, of Sandford avenue; Mr. and Mrs. M. McGrath, of New Brunswick; John Pettit, of Bound Brook, and Miss May Hughes, of Jackson avenue.

Justice Hand's Court.

Summons have been issued in the case of Happel against Cater, and Happel against Kieb, on contract, both returnable August 24, at 11 o'clock. Judgment has been entered in the case of Stone et als against Barrett, also Sayre-Fisher Company against Everitt.

Going to the Conclave.

For the purpose of attending the triennial conclave of the Knights Templar, a number of the members of Trinity Commandery will leave this city for Louisville, Sunday, August 25.

PLENTY HAPPENING AT LOCAL SUMMER HOTELS

Progressive Euchre, Concerts and Dances are the Chief Events.

NETHERWOOD HOP TONIGHT.

CONCERT THIS EVENING AT MOUNTAIN PARK INN.

Sacred Concerts at Both Summer Hostelries Tomorrow—A Euchre at the Inn Thursday Night—The Prize Winners.

There is no dearth of attractions at the two summer resorts, the Mountain Park Inn and the Hotel Netherwood. Events of various kinds to enhance the enjoyment of the guests, who are quartered at the hostelries, are being given each evening.

At the Inn Thursday evening a progressive euchre was given and quite a large number of devotees of the fascinating game participated. The women's prizes were won by Mrs. W. H. Gardner, of Jersey City, Mrs. L. M. French, of North Plainfield, and Mrs. S. Ellsworth Vail, of Brooklyn. The men who captured prizes were Henry Read, of Roseville, S. E. Vail, of Brooklyn, W. H. Gardner, of Jersey City.

This evening a musicale will be given. An interesting programme has been arranged. Cornet, piano and violin solos will be among the features. At the conclusion of the concert, an impromptu dance will be held. Following the custom inaugerated some weeks ago, a sacred concert will be given tomorrow afternoon.

Last Sunday Gaul's "Holy City" was rendered, but thus far Madame Cortada, who conducts the musical features, has not announced the programme for tomorrow. The concert will commence at 4 o'clock.

A hop will be the order of events, this evening, at the Hotel Netherwood. These functions, which are held weekly, are invariably well attended. The celebrated Orpheus Club Orchestra, under the direction of William Stanton, will furnish the music for the dance as well as give a general musicale for the entertainment of the guests.

The sacred concert for tomorrow evening there will no doubt be well attended. The overture will be rendered precisely at 8:30 o'clock. From the programme which follows it can be seen that all the numbers will be enjoyable. In full the programme is as follows:

Overture—"America".....Tobani
a Intermezzo—Cupid's Garden Eugene
b La Media Noche.....Aviles
Excerpts from "Robin Hood"
DeKoven
Serenade—"LaBercouse".....Gounod
(cornet solo)
"Wedding March".....Mendelssohn
Adagio (for violin).....DeBeriot
Selection—"Faust".....Gounod
"Scarf Dance".....Chaminade
"Buona Notte" from suite—
"A Day In Venice.....Nevin
March—"Tannhauser".....Wagner

Commercial Traveller Evangelist.

The meeting at the hall of the Young Men's Christian Association tomorrow afternoon at 415 o'clock, will be addressed by Geo. F. Joly, of Philadelphia. Mr. Joly, during his travels as a commercial man, has introduced a new branch of religious work in conducting evangelistic services in the hotels of the larger cities, and is known as the Commercial Traveller Evangelist. Vocal selections will be rendered by Madame Cortada, of New York.

Miss Long Recovering Slowly.

Miss Clara Long, of Park avenue, who sustained severe injuries a few days ago while in a runaway, is improving slowly. Miss Long is in a very nervous condition and is susceptible to slight disturbances. However, no serious results are apprehended and her ultimate recovery is assured.

Will Preach Here Again.

Rev. Dr. Stifler, of Crozier Theological Seminary, will again occupy the pulpit at the First Baptist church tomorrow morning and evening. Those who heard this interesting preacher last Sunday will be pleased with the opportunity to hear him again.

Festival of Fairview Council.

The fourth annual festival under the auspices of Fairview Council, No. 248, Jr. O. U. A. M., of Mt. Bethel, will be held at that place in Fairview Hall, Friday evening, August 23. The committee of arrangements promises a pleasant evening to all who attend.

LAXAKOLA
THE GREAT TONIC LAXATIVE

At some time, if not habitually, you have sour stomach, indigestion, biliousness, constipation, bad breath, dizziness, inactive liver, heartburn, kidney troubles, backache, loss of appetite, insomnia, lack of energy, bad blood, blotched or muddy skin, or some of the other symptoms and disorders which tell the story of bad bowels and an impaired digestive system. Laxakola will cure you. It will clear out the bowels, stimulate the liver and kidneys, strengthen the mucous membranes of the stomach, purify your blood and put you "on your feet" again. Your appetite will return, your bowels will move regularly, your liver and kidneys will cease to trouble you, your skin will clear and freshen and you will feel the old time energy and buoyancy.

Mothers who had been seeking the proper medicine to give their little ones for constipation, diarrhea, colic and similar troubles, find Laxakola an ideal medicine for children. Children like its taste and ask for it. It keeps their bowels regular without any pain or griping, and acts as a general tonic at the same time. It will assist nature, aid digestion, relieve restlessness, clear the coated tongue, reduce fever, cause refreshing, restful sleep and make them well, happy and hearty.

Laxakola, the great laxative tonic, is not only one of the efficient of family remedies, but the most economical, because it combines two medicines, viz: a laxative and tonic, and at one price. No other remedy gives so much for the money. At druggists, 25c. and 50c., or send for free sample to THE LAXAKOLA CO., 132 Nassau Street, N. Y., or 356 Dearborn Street, Chicago.

BRITISH SCOUTS CAUGHT.

Fifty of General French's Men Surrender.

LONDON, Aug. 17.—The war office has received the following dispatch from Lord Kitchener, dated Pretoria, Aug. 16: "While a party of 50 of French's scouts were proceeding to join a column near Bethesda they were surrounded in the hills by a superior force under Theron and surrendered. One was killed, and three were wounded, Captain Bethelheim dangerously." Lord Kitchener does not give the date, but the casuality list indicates Aug. 8.

Reporting upon the engagement between Colonel Gorringe and Commandant Kritzinger at Middelburg, Lord Kitchener says that the British commander drove the Boers north to Venterstad in confusion. He asserts also that General French's other column in Cape Colony is gradually driving the enemy northward.

British Put Boers to Flight.

CAPE TOWN, Aug. 17.—A small column of the Duke of Edinburgh's Second volunteers and the Second Welsh mounted infantry made a forced march from Prieska and surprised a Boer camp at Middleputh. The Boers fled and abandoned 86 horses and a large quantity of ammunition. Two British soldiers were wounded.

PHILLIPS WAS ROBBED.

Clerks Took Profits and Let House Have Losses.

CHICAGO, Aug. 17.—Although the George H. Phillips company in filing its schedules in bankruptcy claimed a surplus of assets amounting to $15,000 to $40,000, the assets are doubtful and consist of claims many of which are not considered worth 25 cents on the dollar.

The company has been robbed by its clerks. One officer of that company who recently retired owed $54,000 and another $50,000.

The clerks manipulated the books to such an extent that they cannot be made to balance, and there is a difference of about $100,000 which cannot be accounted for at all.

That several of the clerks speculated for themselves and put the poor deals down to the house and took the profits on the good ones is very strongly suspected.

Phillips is trying to arrange to form a new company. He will assume all the debts that the old concern is unable to pay and clean them up as best he can if given time. The company has lost about $500,000 in seven months.

An Epidemic of Marriages.

CARBONDALE, Aug. 17.—Of the 400 American teachers who sailed on the transport Thomas from San Francisco to Manila 60 of them on reaching Honolulu were married. The teachers had been chosen from the many normal universities of the country and were strangers to each other. Their acquaintance and courtship extended over a period of less than ten days. The captain of the Thomas refused to permit their weddings while at sea, and the 30 couples upon the arrival of the transport at Honolulu sought out a clergyman and were married. A boat was chartered, and the 30 pairs made a tour of the bay. The information reached this city from one of the men who was appointed from this city.

Leak In Erie Canal.

ALBANY, Aug. 17.—A report has been received at the department of public works today of a small leak in the Erie canal in the vicinity of Greenway's brewery, Syracuse. As a precautionary measure the department has ordered the water drawn from the five mile level so that repairs may be made and a possible break be avoided. It is thought the repairs will be completed inside of 24 hours.

Chamberlain Not Coming Here.

LONDON, Aug. 17.—Mr. Chamberlain, an interview with whom is published by The Daily Mail, says there is no foundation for the rumor that he intends to make a tour of the United States and the British colonies during the parliamentary recess. He says that it is doubtful, owing to the pressure of public business, especially with regard to South Africa, whether he will be able to leave England at all.

Cadets See Midway.

BUFFALO, Aug. 17.—Nearly 100 West Point cadets forgot General Miles' wish regarding the Midway and descended upon the streets of Cairo in a body. They rode camels, flirted with the dancing girls and saw all the dances on the street. They were offered free admission by many of the concessionnaires, but declined to become "dead heads." They paid for everything they saw.

Heir Born to Grand Duke Alexander.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 17.—The wife of Grand Duke Alexander has given birth to a son. Both mother and child are doing well. The infant will be christened Dimitri. Grand Duke Alexander is a nephew of Emperor Alexander II and was born April 13, 1866. He married Grand Duchess Xenia, who is the reigning emperor's sister.

Canada Census Disappoints England.

STRIKERS HOPEFUL.

Encouraged by Action of Men at Joliet.

EXPECT TO WIN AT MILWAUKEE.

And at South Chicago Also—Steel Operators Say That the Situation Is Satisfactory to Them—McKeesport Tie Up Complete.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 17.—The center of interest in the steel strike yesterday shifted to the west, where Joliet finally swung into line with the strikers and Milwaukee appointed today as the time for a final vote on the question. The news that came out of the west cheered the strikers throughout the districts in this vicinity as no other development since the labor war was declared. In their enthusiasm they count upon favorable action at Milwaukee and, carrying their hopes still further, say that they will yet win Chicago over. These successes, they declare with apparent confidence, will make them masters of the situation and win the strike.

The steel operators, on the other hand, say that the strikers are nearly at the flood tide of their success and when the ebb comes it can never be stopped. They do not seem to be disturbed by recent events and with a confidence equal to that of the strikers talk of the certainty of ultimate success.

They assert that popular sentiment has never been behind the strikers and that the general interest which was once aroused by the contest is quickly waning. They claim that they are more than holding their own in the nonunion plants that were affected or have been started since the strike began and are preparing plans for reopening several plants now idle.

They also claim that many of their men, particularly at McKeesport, Wheeling and Bellaire, were forced out by intimidation and will come back as soon as the excitement dies out and their safety is assured. Talk of peace has been dropped for the time being, and it is agreed that in its present aspects the situation indicates a prolonged and stubborn contest.

Two hundred men employed in the National Galvanizing works of the National Tube company at McKeesport struck yesterday. They were the last remaining workmen in the affected trades in that city, and the tie up is now as complete as possible there. Many of the tube workers, although on strike, have refused to join any union, and the opinion is expressed that there will soon be a break among the strikers.

The leaders plan another rally for tonight to re-enthuse the men and check any break that may be possible. They have asked President Shaffer to go there and speak, but he has not yet said definitely that he would. The organizers are working indefatigably to keep the men in line. They are also extending their operations to Duquesne and Homestead, the two great strongholds of the Carnegie company, and claim to be gaining ground at both places.

The recent gains here and at Joliet will bring the total number of men brought out by the third and final call of President Shaffer to about 30,000 and press the grand total to something over 70,000. Thousands of the men out have found other work, and the exact number now idle is unknown. The Amalgamated association is organizing a series of employment bureaus and plans to place many more of the idle men. President Shaffer announced that after Sept. 1 idle Amalgamated men would receive strike benefits of $4 a week apiece and that some provision would be made for men outside the organization. The Wellsville, Hyde Park, Painter's, Clark's, Lindsay & McCutcheon's and the Crescent Tin works, the six properties open partly or in full with nonunion men since the strike began, moved along yesterday as usual. Another crew has been secured for Painter's mill. The other United States Steel properties unaffected by the strike were also running without interruption. While nonunion men are being brought from the south to break the strike in the steel works at Monessen, and it is expected that a start will be made the first of next week.

President Shaffer and all of his official associates except Secretary M. F. Tighe were at strike headquarters, where a series of conferences were held during the day. Mr. Shaffer discussed the situation rather freely. The lodges of the International Tin Plate Workers' Protective association throughout the country are passing upon the question of handling the Welsh plates which the American Tin Plate company plans to import to replenish the supply cut off by the strike, and their decision will have an important bearing on the strike. The tin plate workers claim that on certain occasions in the past when they asked for the aid of the Amalgamated association they were given no satisfaction and that the Amalgamated association itself furnished precedents against sympathetic strikes. A lengthy statement in behalf of the tin workers has been made public here.

After stating that the Welsh plates are made by union men, the statement closes with an assertion that one year ago the Amalgamated men refused aid in settling the scale and that at Connellsville the Amalgamated men aided the company in filling the places of striking tin plate workers.

A dispatch from McKeesport says the strikers expect the Duquesne plant of the Carnegie Steel company will be out in three days. They say it is organized and is waiting to co-operate with Homestead and Braddock mills and that this is the trump card President Shaffer has been holding. Trouble is expected if men are imported or any old men return to work.

Fight In Country Store.

ATLANTA, Aug. 17.—A special to The Journal from Sparta, Ga., says that in a fight at a country store near that place one man was killed and two severely wounded. It appears that a crowd became involved in a dispute about some former trouble between two men named Stanley and Brooking. Boyer, a bystander, intervened as peacemaker and was shot twice in the head by Brooking and instantly killed. The crowd pursued Brooking, who fired into the crowd, wounding one man. The posse returned the fire, wounding Brooking, who afterward was captured.

CONSTITUTION WINS.

Defeats Columbia In the First Larchmont Race.

WAS A POOR DAY FOR SAILING.

Light Wind Prevents Exciting Contest—New Boat Shows Improvement—Wins by Thirty-one Minutes, Corrected Time.

LARCHMONT, N. Y., Aug. 17.—The Constitution drifted across the finish line yesterday afternoon a winner by 13m. 23s. This seemingly vast difference in time, however, does not represent the difference in speed between the two yachts, for a very large part of the big margin was entirely due to a fluke in the light airs while the boats were sailing the second round of the triangular course of 15 miles. It occurred just as the Constitution was rounding the first mark. Both yachts had come up from the home mark on a broad reach with a southwest wind, the Constitution leading by about two minutes.

As they approached the stake boat black clouds which had been gathering in the northwest brought with them a small rain squall and sudden change of wind. The Constitution was able to turn on the southwest wind and immediately after take the northwester, which lifted her out into the middle of the sound, while the Columbia was making for the mark close hauled on the port tack in the last wind of the first northwest squall.

This gave the Constitution an opportunity to take advantage of the westerly wind which followed out in the sound, while the Columbia lay almost becalmed at the mark. This settled the race, for thereafter the Columbia was hopelessly out of it. The contest of speed was altogether in the first leg, while the wind, which was at all times light, held true. On every leg the new boat gained and maintained her reputation as a wonderfully fast yacht in soft airs.

But the Columbia, with her perfect sails, was also going fast, and in the first 15 miles the new boat only made up 27 seconds over her time allowance. The most noteworthy spectator of the race was Captain Sycamore of the Shamrock II, who came down from New York on the Lipton tug Lawrence and followed the racers over the course. It was his first view of the American boats, and he got a very valuable line on the light weather qualities of his rival.

The race was held under the auspices of the Larchmont Yacht club.

The preparatory signal was given at 1:30 and the start signals at 1:35. Each boat had two minutes to cross before being handicapped. Barr in the meantime had worked the Columbia well up to windward in order to get the weather gauge as usual. At the preparatory gun both yachts were reaching for the line. The Constitution was first to round and stand inshore. The Columbia followed immediately, keeping up to weather of her rival. Two minutes and 30 seconds before the starting gun the Constitution gibed and headed for the line, the Columbia following. Captain Rhodes had an opportunity to work up to weather of the Columbia if he wished, but he sailed to the leeward end of the line, evidently preferring to do this so long as he could cross first and get his wind clear. Both boats were ahead of gun fire and jagged down the line to kill time. With fine judgment Rhodes headed the Constitution up and started for the line. She had good speed for such a light wind and went over flying only 11 seconds after the gun and 15 seconds ahead of the Columbia. The official time follows: Constitution, 1:35:11; Columbia, 1:35:26.

Both broke out reaching jib topsails on the line.

After bearing away to get clear of a long tow of barges both boats luffed up and stood over towards the Long Island shore. Barr tried hard to get well up to windward and blanket the Constitution, but whenever the Columbia would luff Rhodes would immediately follow with his boat, and as a result both went well over to the Long Island shore, steering much higher than the course. Half way down to the mark the big sound steamer Richard Peck went under the lee of the two yachts and saluted. The Constitution, by following the luffs of the Columbia, was able to get her wind clear and added seconds to her lead. As a result of standing over to the island shore so far the last part of the first leg was a run dead before the wind, and both racers broke out spinnakers to starboard as they headed down for the mark. As they bore down on the stake boat both ran into a soft spot in the wind, but neither boat was put at a disadvantage.

The first mark was timed by the committee as follows: Constitution, 2:15:48; Columbia, 2:17:16.

The Constitution had thus gained one minute and three seconds on the first leg under conditions in which she has always beaten the Columbia, a light wind and smooth sea.

The beat to the second mark was a succession of short tacks along the Long Island shore. The Constitution stood farther in and tacked on and off with great rapidity, only to be followed at once by the Columbia. Captain Rhodes had the commanding position, and whenever he would put his boat about on the weather bow of the Columbia Captain Barr would tack and try to work out of the pocket. At the end of three-quarters of an hour of the windward work the Constitution lost her jib topsail sheets, and the sail had to be taken down and reset. It was quickly done, and she was without this sail less than two minutes. The Constitution took a long starboard tack inshore and then, at 3:25, went over and stood for the buoy off Prospect point, which was near at hand. The wind meanwhile headed the Columbia, her tack to buoy was longer, and she here lost several seconds. The time at the second mark was: Constitution, 3:25:54; Columbia, 3:28:04.

The Constitution thus gained 42 seconds in the six mile beat to windward. The run to the home mark under big jib topsails and balloon staysails was an eventful one, the two boats turned as follows: Constitution, 3:41:08; Columbia, 3:43:20.

On this short leg of three miles the Constitution added two seconds to her lead. On the first round of 15 miles she gained on the Columbia 1m. 47s.

Reaching down to the first mark again, both boats ran under balloon jibs and for the first four miles bowled along at a ten knot gait in about the best wind of the day. Then came the fluke which put the Columbia out of the race. The time at the first mark on the second round was: Constitution, 4:13:06; Columbia, 4:18:02.

At one time the two boats were less than half a mile apart, going in different directions, one with a south wind and the other with a north wind. The Constitution had all the better of the flukes down to the second mark and added minutes to her lead. Time at this mark was: Constitution, 4:52:55; Columbia, 5:03:42.

Both boats reached this mark in a westerly wind without tacking, and the Constitution added 5m. 51s. to her lead.

The wind now fell almost to a calm, but still the Constitution sneaked along in a wonderful manner and crossed the finish line with Columbia about a mile and a half astern, almost in a dead calm. Following is the summary of the race:

Constitution—Start, 1:35:11; finish, 5:16:20; elapsed time, 3h. 41m. 9s.; corrected time, 3h. 41m. 9s. Columbia—Start, 1:35:26; finish, 5:49:18; elapsed time, 4h. 13m. 52s.; corrected time, 4h. 12m. 32s.

Constitution won by 31m. 23s. corrected time.

The Larchmont club figure that the Constitution allows the Columbia on a 30 mile course 1m. 20s.

The Constitution remained at anchor last night off the clubhouse, while the Columbia went across the sound to Glen Cove.

Saratoga Races.

SARATOGA, Aug. 17.—The card yesterday was a very ordinary one. In only one race was the field of good size. This was the fourth race, for 2-year-olds, which was won by Geraldyn, who was backed from 30 to 1 down to 10 to 1 and won in a drive from Chickadee. Lady Sterling, at 20 to 1, won the first race of the day from the well played Whisky King. There was some irregular riding during the running of the race, for which Beauchamp and Burns were held responsible. Alsike was an even money favorite for the mile and a furlong race. He was beaten by both Nitrate, who won, and The Amazon. The Beverwick steeplechase had but three starters. Zinziber, who was the even money favorite, and The Bachelor raced in close company for two miles, where the latter went to the front and won, eased up, by two lengths. Trillion, the remaining starter, was beaten off.

Cycling In the Stadium.

BUFFALO, Aug. 17.—Lace Downing of San Jose won a match race from Warren Zurbrick of Buffalo and George M. Holley of Bradford, Pa., won the five mile motor bicycle championship in yesterday's international grand circuit meet of the National Cycling association at the Pan-American stadium. The other numbers on the card were preliminary heats in the ten mile championship and the one mile handicap, both professional events. The finals of these two races will be run off today. All the circuit leaders qualified in them with the exception of Fenn of Bristol, who was shut out in the third heat of the handicap. He was scratch man against a fast field and failed to catch the leaders. "Major" Taylor won both of his heats in fighting finishes.

National Tennis.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 17.—The national honors in tennis singles now lie between L. E. Ware, W. A. Larned, B. C. Wright, C. Hobart and R. D. Little, the five men who have survived the earlier rounds. The first two of these meet in the semifinals Monday. Wright and Hobart play today, the winner meeting Little in the other semifinals Monday also. The finals are scheduled for Tuesday. That such progress has been made is due to the favorable weather, which, though not perfect, has not prevented a schedule in the match.

At Brighton Beach.

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—At the Brighton Beach race track yesterday the 2:18 trot was won by Iva Dee in the seventh heat. Carrie Bell won the 3-year-old trot. The 2:08 pace was not finished. Martha Marshall won the first heat in 2:09 and Dan Patch the second in 2:04½.

To Seek Oil In Kentucky.

BLUEFIELD, W. Va., Aug. 17.—The Swan Lake Oil company, with a capital of $200,000, and the Green River Development company, with a capital of $100,000, have been formed here within the past two days. The charters were obtained under the laws of West Virginia. The companies will bore for oil in Kentucky, where they have secured 700 acres of land in the Green river oil basin.

Condition of the Treasury.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—The condition of the treasury, division of issue and redemption, at the beginning of business yesterday was as follows: Reserve fund, $150,000,000; trust funds, division of redemption, $774,369,689; division of issue, $774,369,689; general fund, $265,850,754; current liabilities, $90,443,682; available cash balance, $175,407,072.

QUIET IN COLOMBIA.

Trains Cross the Isthmus Without Molestation.

COLON, Colombia, via Galveston, Aug. 17.—The situation is quiet everywhere.

Francois Morel, a first class torpedoist on board the French second class cruiser Suchet, died during the voyage between Martinique and Colon. Many French residents of Colon attended the funeral service and the interment at Mount Hope cemetery. The prefect of Colon and other officials have exchanged visits with Commander Lebris of the Suchet, during which the usual salutes were fired.

Since Wednesday trains have been crossing the isthmus without military escort. Several stations along the line have again been garrisoned with small detachments of troops.

Orders For the Iowa.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—A telegram has been prepared at the navy department to go forward to the Iowa immediately upon her arrival at San Francisco, ordering her to prepare at once to go to sea. When she advises the department that she is ready, an order will follow for her to proceed at once to Panama. The little cruiser Ranger, which is at San Diego, has been ordered to sail. It is not believed that there will be any delay in her departure, as she has had several days' notice in which to prepare for the sea. She is very slow, however, making not more than six knots, and as the distance to Panama is about 2,700 miles it would require almost 15 days for her to reach her destination. The department therefore decided to dispatch the Iowa as soon as the battleship arrives at San Francisco and can prepare for the trip.

German Cruiser For Panama.

BERLIN, Aug. 17.—The South American difficulty is attracting considerable attention here. The German cruiser Vineta left Bahia, Brazil, Aug. 12 for Trinidad, where she will await orders. The Tageblatt says the new German cruiser Niobe is going to Caribbean waters after the autumn maneuvers and that she will remain there permanently. It is also expected that the German cruiser Geier will go to the Caribbean sea when she can be spared from her station in China.

New Steamship Lines.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—The state department has received from Consul General Bray, at Melbourne, information concerning the formation of two new steamship lines from Europe to Australia. It is reported that one will be a Belgian, French and Australian line, the French chamber of commerce in Australia frequently having directed the attention of French shipowners to the exclusive maritime traffic between Australia and the north of France. The other is said to be in contemplation by the Italian government, which is considering the creation of two steamship lines from Italian ports, one to Australia and the other to China.

Agriculture In Alaska.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—The census bureau has issued a report on the agricultural statistics for Alaska. It shows that Alaska's total farm wealth June 1, 1900, was $15,686, of which $2,196 was invested in live stock, $690 in implements and machinery and $12,800 represented the value of improvements and other buildings. Buildings have been erected on nine of the 12 farms in the territory. Preparing the soil for cultivation has been the chief item of expense in opening farms.

Thief Suspected In Newport's "400."

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 17.—A sensation is promised here when the names of the thieves who recently robbed the homes of Mrs. Richard Mortimer and Mrs. Royal Phelps Carroll are revealed by the police. The reward of $1,000 offered by Mrs. Mortimer for the recovery of four valuable rings stolen from her cottage and for the arrest of the culprits has spurred the detectives. They say that the robberies were not committed by professionals.

Strike In Buffalo.

BUFFALO, Aug. 17.—About 100 bridge builders and structural iron workers and between 15 and 20 painters went out on strike at the Stony Point steel plant. They were employed by the American Bridge company and quit out of sympathy with the men who have struck from the Dakota elevator.

Prince Waldemar to Visit Us.

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 17.—The Danish government having determined to return the visit of the United States training ship Hartford, the cruiser Valkyrien, in command of Prince Waldemar, the king's youngest son, will sail for New York in January and afterward visit other American ports.

Brooklyn Has New Commander.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—A cablegram received at the navy department from Rear Admiral Remey announces that Commander Arthur B. Speyers has been detached from Cavite station and ordered to the command of the Brooklyn.

FLOOD IN THE SOUTH

Several Vessels Wrecked by Storm.

CITY OF MOBILE IS RECOVERING.

Communication With Outside World Restored After Fifteen Hours of Isolation—Farmers In Lowlands Rescued.

MOBILE, Ala., Aug. 17.—Superintendent Charles Marshall of the New Orleans division of the Louisville and Nashville road reached Mobile on a handcar, reporting the road washed out in many places. A work train from the Montgomery division had by the time repaired the damage above the city and was sent out on the New Orleans division. The superintendent was not able to say when traffic would be resumed.

While the storm was not as severe as the record breaker of 1893, there was much excitement among the people because of recollection of the great damage by the earlier storm. The people were apprehensive of a repetition of that disaster and spent a miserable night. Out of doors every one was drenched thoroughly by the heavy rain that was blowing almost horizontally. The rainfall was 5.84 inches. An incident in the afternoon was the approach of a wild bull in the streets, which was chased by men and boys. The animal turned and chased them, however, goring one man, Charles Wacker, very badly. Two horses were injured, one of which had to be killed. The bull was shot to death by the police, being in possession of the streets for three hours.

During the storm the steamboat Lady Jane went to the rescue of the truck gardeners who live in the marshes between Mobile and Spanish rivers. In the 1893 flood the people there suffered greatly, and a half dozen were drowned. The Lady Jane rescued all that could be reached and brought them to the city.

One marsh dweller and his family, named Stauter, ten in all, spent the night in an open boat near his house and rowed to the city in the morning. He does not think anything is left of his place. The other marsh people returned yesterday. News is that the pleasure yacht Ariel, bound for Fish river, with Robert and Winthrope Halet of Mobile and some others on board, pounded to pieces upon the wharf at Battles, on the eastern shore. Nothing has been heard of the crew.

From the Fowl river, western shore, it is reported that the schooner Marguerite was taken up bodily and left high and dry on the beach.

James McMahon and four other men were on board. McMahon says a house on Dauphin island was washed away and afterward found in the woods. Nothing is known as to the fate of the occupants. All wires have been in a hopeless wreck for the better part of 24 hours. For 15 hours there were no means of communication with the outside world. Even now but few wires are working and these very slowly. There is no wire between Mobile and New Orleans and no prospects of any for several days. The telegraph lines on that division are exposed to the full sweep of the wind from the gulf, and poles are prostrated for miles.

STORM AT PENSACOLA.

Several Large Vessels Reported Wrecked.

PENSACOLA, Fla., Aug. 17.—The French steamship Cyrano, which arrived yesterday, reports that the American steamship Evelyn, ten days from New York for this port, went aground about eight miles from Pensacola bar. She is listed and is fast going to pieces. The Cyrano is 12 days from Savannah and experienced very rough weather. She beat up and down the beach for three days awaiting a chance to come in.

The Cyrano sighted the British steamship Spennymoor, but she put back to sea and was not sighted again.

During the storm the Portuguese bark Propheta, laden with a cargo of timber valued at $5,000 for St. Thomi, Africa, was badly damaged. Her rigging was carried away, masts snapped off, and she was stove in on the starboard side and stern. The bark B. A. Brayton was also slightly injured.

The storm was one of the wildest ever known here. The storm increased in violence and reached a wind velocity of 70 miles an hour, with spurts of 90 miles. There was great damage to shipping in the bay and the water front property. Twelve or 15 schooners of E. E. Saunders & Co.'s fishing fleet were badly damaged. Four of them sank, causing a loss aggregating $70,000.

The schooner Tortugas, from Mobile for Apalachicola, with a cargo of cypress lumber, which put in for anchorage, collided with another vessel and sank.

Little Damage at New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 17.—The storm has passed and seems to have done no great damage anywhere except along the river below the city, six fatalities occurring near the river's mouth. In the city the only injury was to the lakeside resorts and to the section flooded by the break in a canal bank, which was closed before morning. Rice and orange farms on the lower coast were severely injured. The inhabitants there believe that they were struck by a tidal wave combined with a cyclone. The six lives were lost half a mile above quarantine. A large house was overturned with 15 people in it, and Mrs. Rosa Walker, her 10-year-old daughter, Ida Walker, Miss Birdie Cobden and Miss Ella Cobden were drowned. The crew of the tugboat Biloxi sought refuge a few hundred yards away, and two of the sailors, Blaine Davidson and Peter Yea, were drowned and the boat lost.

Policeman Kills Man at the Fair.

BUFFALO, Aug. 17.—Judson C. Burn of Albion was shot and killed at noon yesterday on the Free Midway outside the exposition grounds by Frederick Diebold, a special officer in the employ of the Free Midway company. The men had quarreled about their respective authority relative to the tearing down of a building. Diebold surrendered himself.

A Carnegie Gift to Honor Doctor.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Aug. 17.—Andrew Carnegie, through Mrs. Skene, wife of the late Dr. Skene of Brooklyn, has presented a $5,000 library to Griffin's Corners, Delaware county, to be known as the Skene Memorial library. Dr. Skene once saved the millionaire's life.

Bad Accident In Mine.

The Dog Ordinance.

For the first time in Plainfield, offenders have been haled before the City Judge for violation of the city ordinance which requires the owners of all dogs to keep them muzzled or in restraint. The action was a surprise to most of those who appeared before Judge Runyon yesterday morning. The Judge was content to suspend sentence with a warning to be careful in the future. The object of thus arraigning the owners of the muzzleless dogs was to impress on the public in general that the police are in earnest in their attempt to enforce the ordinance.

What is the use of having any ordinances if they are not to be enforced? The only way to get rid of a poor ordinance is to enforce it so that the public outcry will bring about its repeal. In this case, however, the ordinance is an excellent one and should be carefully enforced in every city and town in the land.

There is a time in the year when the canine members of society seem to be particularly susceptible to that dread thing, hydrophobia. Many a dog has run amuck through the streets of a city with disastrous results. The time to act is before any of these incidents happen. A dog, held by a leash or guarded by a muzzle, cannot figure in one of these experiences very well. So the City Fathers have made it a law requiring such protection during the "dog days."

It is to be hoped that the police will continue to see that this ordinance is enforced. So far this season, Plainfield has escaped any experience with mad dogs. This law is designed to prevent them, and it is to be hoped that it will be successful in that respect.

Every voter in city and borough will be interested to read the proposed amendments to the State constitution, which will be found in another column today. The amendments will be submitted to the people of New Jersey at the coming election in November, and every citizen should take advantage of the opportunity of reading them carefully, so that he is able to vote with intelligence on them. Principal among the changes are those increasing the term of office of assemblymen from one to two years, and senators and governor from three to four years. It is argued that public servants in the various legislative bodies have a better opportunity of serving their constituents when given a longer term, and so the people of the State are to be asked to give their opinion on the subject.

The Philadelphia Record quotes a Boston merchant who says that when he began business, many years ago, his friends predicted his failure because his location was not good. He admitted that it was far from good, but he believed he could overcome the disadvantage by advertising more extensively and more judiciously than his competitors. He has succeeded, and has even drawn other stores to his neighborhood.

The second of the band concerts at the City Park was held last evening. The public turned out en masse for the musical entertainment and the evening proved a delightful one. There is no way in which the public spirited citizens can contribute more toward making the summer life in Plainfield pleasant for their fellow beings than by aiding in making these concerts possible.

It is too bad that Plainfield cannot be represented in the national golf championship at Atlantic City next month. While there are no golfers of the local clubs who aspire so high as to think of winning such an event, they nevertheless might make a favorable showing with the other crack golfers of the country.

The action of the borough authorities in making temporary repairs to the Washington avenue bridge with out delay was very commendable. The day should not be far off when an entire new flooring should be put in the bridge.

Uncle Sam again offers an opportunity to residents of Union county who are desirous of working in one of his departments. Civil service examinations for the postoffice department will be held at Elizabeth September 4.

Only the highest words of praise are heard for Wilbur J. Chamberlin, the former Plainfielder and prominent newspaperman who has recently died in Germany.

Today's excursion is not the last of the season from Plainfield to the twin cities by the sea. Another of these popular excursions goes to the shore this month.

Plainfield now possesses three separate organizations of the Junior Order of American Mechanics, all of which appear to be in a flourishing condition.

The idea of a railroad through Washington valley is not a new one, but the other schemes have never amounted to anything.

Gen. Sewell sails for home next week and then we may expect a new lot of political chat based on his opinions.

One of the possibilities of bicycle touring over a hilly country is an intimate and hurried acquaintance with a tree.

The police of Plainfield will be looking for their revenge at Elizabeth. It's a question whether they will find it.

AT THE THEATRES.

Something About the Attractions Which Plainfield Theatre-Goers May Care to Witness.

The Academy of Music, New York, will open the regular season Monday with a grand scenic production of Augustus Thomas' excellent play "Arizona," which made the most successful run of the season on Broadway last year. The production of "Arizona" at the Academy will be on a much more elaborate scale than seen before. In the big scene at Canby's ranch a whole troop of United States cavalry, mounted and drilled to army standard, will be introduced. The scenic pictures showing the Aravaipa Valley, with the many colored buttes in the distance, have been so enlarged in scope and perspective that the illusion of miles of distance is perfected. The cast chosen for the production of "Arizona" at the Academy is an excellent one.

LITERARY.

The September number of The Smart Set fully sustains the reputation of that fascinating magazine for vivacity and cleverness. The number opens with an amusing novelette by Caroline Duer, entitled "A New Bonnet for Mary." Mrs. M. E. W. Sherwood writes entertainingly on the subject of divorce under the title of "Untying the Knot," Mrs. Flora Bigelow Dodge, a sister of Poultney Bigelow, is the author of a brilliant and humorous society satire entitled "Mrs. Mack's Example," while Edgar Saltus writes another of his pyrotechnic essays entitled "The Pomps of Satan." One of the strongest stories in the number is "The Price of Honor," by Lloyd Osbourne, and Prince Vladimir Vartatsky contributes a strange tale called "The Queen of the Far Country."

In Mattison's Court.

J. S. Perrine & Son, of Philadelphia, has instituted proceedings in a case on contract against DeWitt C. Hoyt, a hotel man of Somerville. The action was brought in Justice Mattison's court and the writ is returnable Saturday, August 24.

Last Of The Season.

The excursion of Warren chapel to Asbuy Park on Thursday, August 29, will be the last of the season from this city. A recent statement, that the Hope chapel excursion which went out today was the last, was in error.

Verdict for Defendant.

A decision was rendered in favor of the defendant, yesterday, by Justice Mosher, in the case on contract brought by S. C. Mundy against Peter Zimmerman. The case was tried a week ago.

Miss Lizzie Cole, of Maple avenue, Miss Carrie MacLaughlin, of Newark, and C. W. Tallman, of Maple avenue, will spend tomorrow at Glen Island.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May Be Of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

It is with regret that we record this week, the abandonment of the plan to erect an armory for Company M. The freeholders had practically decided, after the public meeting held at the court house, to ascertain public sentiment, that they would be willing to erect a building at a cost not exceeding $10,000. The estimates on the plans submitted exceeded that sum, and the freeholders rejected all the bids. But at a subsequent meeting a proposition was submitted to make such changes as would bring the cost below the ten thousand dollar limit. This, however, did not meet with approval, and the whole thing was rejected.

We hardly see the consistency of the Board in voting to expend $10,000 for an armory, and when the estimates come within that figure to turn the whole matter down.

The erection of a new court house is in the air, and the importance of that may have impressed itself on the minds of the Freeholders. They will now have to continue paying $300 a year rent for Company M, and the latter must use thier present cramped and inadequate quarters.—Somerville Unionist-Gazette.

* * * * *

To the list of remarkable men who have died this week must now be added the name of Wilbur J. Chamberlin, who succumbed yesterday to cerebral congestion and heart failure, in Carlsbad.

Mr. Chamberlin easily earned a place among the world's notable newspaper men.

He began to attract attention while connected with the now defunct Jersey City "Argus," fifteen years ago. The priceless ability to make the most out of a good news item was his to a marked degree, and it did not take him long to establish an enviable reputation on an enduring basis.

His talent for clothing ordinary stories that cropped out in Police Justice Stilsing's court in unusually interesting garb, won for him recognition across the river, and it did not take him long to make good connections with metropolitan papers.

After Mr. Chamberlin forsook Jersey City his knowledge of Jersey affairs served a good purpose, and helped him to adorn in his inimitable style many a story that might otherwise have escaped notice. His friends in this city had no trouble in detecting Chamberlin's stories in the great New York daily which he served so well in his late years.

As a war correspondent in Cuba, and finally as the "Sun's" correspondent in Pekin, Mr. Chamberlin won fresh laurels, and showed that his ability to grasp details and assemble his facts in the most charming manner, had not been dulled by years, but had rather become more pronounced; and whatever his subject his handling of it was such that the "Sun's" correspondence always had a standing above that of any other New York newspaper.

Mr. Chamberlin was only thirty-five years of age. The newspaper profession has lost a good man.—Jersey City Journal.

RANCH NAMED FOR M'KINLEY.

The Purchase of Which Hinged Upon the President's First Election —Grows Grape Fruit.

A good many children of the male persuasion have been named after President McKinley, but it has remained for a California woman to fasten the presidential cognomen upon a tract of land, says the Chicago Record-Herald. The first gentleman of the republic feasted a brief season ago upon some of the most luscious fruit it had ever been his privilege to sample. Grape fruit it was; large, juicy, grateful and comforting. The label on the basket showed it to be from "The McKinley tract, Redlands, Cal." After eating of the fruit the president had to suggest the story, and here it is: Mrs. David Morey, a woman who was the pioneer in the growing of oranges in the Redlands section, feasted her eyes several years ago upon a nine-acre tract of land adjoining some of her property. She wanted to buy, but the owner said her nay. He wanted the tract himself.

Just before the first McKinley election, however, the owner, being in need of money, told Mrs. Morey she might have the acres. And then it was the lady's turn to hesitate. She didn't know how the election was going, but she had a pretty clear idea that it would be bad for the business of the country if Bryan were elected. So she told the owner that if the election went McKinley's way she would buy the nine acres. If the gentleman from Nebraska was elected she wouldn't buy.

Papers were signed on the day the official returns were announced.

CHURCH IN A RAILWAY CAR.

An Arrangement by Which Religious Devotees in Russia Can Excuse Travel on the Sabbath.

The Russians are naturally a devout people and even when taking a long journey almost always contrive to spend the Sabbath in some place where they can attend church, says a London exchange.

The first travelers on the trans-Siberian railway, however, soon found that this could not easily be done, and many of them were sorely grieved at the thought that if they wanted to travel in this way they would have to give up some of their customary devotions. A happy idea then occurred to one of them and he at once set about carrying it into execution. Going to the railroad officials, he suggested that a special carriage be set aside for church services, and so eloquently did he argue in favor of the project that he soon carried his point, with the result that a few days later a so-called church car was placed at the disposal of travelers.

This car is seemingly much like any other, and yet it is widely different. Over the entrance is a cross and much of the exterior carving and other ornamentation has a distinctly religious significance. The interior has been fitted with all the accessories of a church, and anyone entering it would see at once that it was intended for divine worship.

HEAT STOPS WATCHES.

A Dealer Reports That High Temperature Brings Epidemic of Broken Mainsprings.

"This weather is hot enough to stop a clock," growled the fat man as he got in range with the electric fan, says the Philadelphia Record. "It is, and it does," replied the jewelry store salesman, who was his vis-a-vis at lunch. "It stops watches, too."

"I haven't worn my watch for a week, so you can't prove it by me," said the fat man. "When I discard my vest I discard my watch. It's lying in my bureau drawer, and it hasn't been going for a week."

"I don't mean that," said the jewelry store clerk. "I honestly mean that excessively hot weather such as this stops watches that are kept wound up and are supposed to be in good running order. During the last three days at least 50 people have brought their watches into our store because they have stopped. In nearly every instance it was found that the mainspring was broken. The head of our watch department told me this morning that it was always so when the temperature got up around the hundred mark and stayed there for several days. Only he said he had never known so many instances of it as at the present time."

COMPARATIVE COMFORT.

With His Head in a Hornet's Nest This Soldier Was Safe from the Enemy's Fire.

"I was in Chickamauga park a short while ago," said an old veteran who had been discussing the reunion at Memphis, to a New Orleans Times-Democrat man, "and I was impressed with the number of old veterans who still hang around the hills that have been made memorable in the country's history by the fierce battle that was fought there in the '60's. There is something pathetic about it to me.

"They are typical of the character of the man who followed the fortunes of the lost cause. But many of them are full of good stories, and I recall one story told me by an old confederate now running a livery stable in Chattanooga. He is fond of telling it on himself. It was during one of the preliminary skirmishes at Chickamauga.

"The federal troops had reached the top of the hill, and the confederates had been forced down on the other side. They hid behind stumps of trees, fell over behind logs and sought other places of concealment in their effort to escape Yankee bullets. 'I fell over behind a log, with my face down,' said the Chattanooga veryman, 'and I could hear the Yankee bullets whistling over my head or burying themselves in the log behind which I was hiding.

"'In hugging up close to the log I had shoved my face in a hornet's nest. The hornets covered my face and head, and I lay there picking them off one at a time until I found an opportunity to escape. Soon after that I met a ragged looking soldier, and he said: "Great goodness, Jim, what on earth is the matter with your face?" I told him I had shoved it into a hornets' nest while dodging Yankee bullets. "You must have suffered fearfully," he said. "No," I replied, "I never experienced a more delicious feeling in my life," and really I never enjoyed anything so much as I did the sting of those hornets."' The old liveryman chuckled over the story, and no doubt he really felt that the hornets' nest was a pleasure resort under the circumstances."

PUG ROBS MISTRESS.

Dog Steals Bank Books, Deeds to Valuable Property and Money to Make a Bed.

Mrs. Elizabeth Flecknoe, of No. 540 Metropolitan avenue, Williamsburg, N. Y., found some lost bank notes and deeds of property under peculiar circumstances the other day.

Two weeks ago she discovered that a tin box belonging to her had been forcibly opened and $400 in bills, three bank books and property deeds stolen.

THE MISSING PAPERS FOUND.

Mrs. Flecknoe, after a vain search, complained at the Herbert street police station, and said that only a person well acquainted with her premises could have committed the robbery.

The woman has a pet pugdog, which knows every nook in the house. For several days past Mrs. Flecknoe had noticed that this animal had found a snug place to sleep behind a hat rack in the parlor hall, and when she removed the rack to dust it she found the missing bank books and deeds.

There was no trace of the money. Mrs. Flecknoe called the dog. When the animal saw that she had possession of the bank books and deeds it tried to seize them. The police are of the opinion that the dog has eaten the money.

AMENDMENTS TO THE CONSTITUTION OF NEW JERSEY, PROPOSED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF 1901.

BE IT RESOLVED by the Senate (the House of Assembly concurring), That the following amendments to the constitution of this state be and the same are hereby proposed, and when the same shall be agreed to by a majority of the members elected to the Senate and House of Assembly, the said amendments shall be entered on their journals, with the yeas and nays taken thereon, and referred to the legislature next to be chosen, and shall be published for three months previous to the first Tuesday after the first Monday of November next (being the fifth day of said month) in at least one newspaper of each county, if any be published therein, the said newspapers to be designated by the president of the Senate, the speaker of the House of Assembly and the secretary of state:

ARTICLE V

EXECUTIVE.

Insert in lieu of Paragraph 10, a new paragraph as follows:

10. The Governor or person administering the government, the Chancellor and the Attorney-General, or two of them of whom the Governor or person administering the government shall be one, may remit fines and forfeitures and grant pardons, after conviction, in all cases except impeachment.

ARTICLE VI.

JUDICIARY.

Insert in lieu of Section II., a new section as follows:

1. The Court of Errors and Appeals shall consist of a Chief Judge and four Associate Judges or any four of them.

2. In case any Judge of said Court shall be disqualified to sit in any cause, or shall be unable for the time being to discharge the duties of his office, whereby the whole number of Judges capable of sitting shall be reduced below four, the Governor shall designate a Justice of the Supreme Court, the Chancellor or a Vice-Chancellor, to discharge such duties until the disqualification or inability shall cease.

3. The Secretary of State shall be the Clerk of this Court.

4. When a writ of error shall be brought, any judicial opinion in the cause, in favor of or against any error complained of, shall be assigned to the Court in writing. When an appeal shall be taken from an order or decree of the Court of Chancery, the Chancellor or Vice-Chancellor making such decree or order shall inform the Court in writing of his reasons therefor.

5. The jurisdiction heretofore exercised by the Supreme Court by writ of error shall be exclusively vested in the Court of Errors and Appeals; but any writ of error pending in the Supreme Court at the time of the adoption of this amendment shall be proceeded upon as if no change had taken place.

Section IV.

Insert in lieu of Paragraph 1, a new paragraph as follows:

1. The Court of Chancery shall consist of a Chancellor and such number of Vice-Chancellors as shall be provided by law, each of whom may exercise the jurisdiction of the Court. The Court shall make rules governing the hearing of causes and the practice of the Court, where the same is not regulated by statute.

Section V.

At the end of Paragraph 1, add the following:

The Court may sit in divisions at the same or different times and places.

Strike out Paragraph 3.

Section VI.

Insert in lieu of Paragraphs 1 and 2, the following:

The Court of Common Pleas shall be constituted and held in each county in such manner as may be provided by law.

ARTICLE VII.

CIVIL OFFICERS.

Section II.

Insert in lieu of Paragraph 1, a new paragraph as follows:

1. Judges of the Court of Errors and Appeals, Justices of the Supreme Court, the Chancellor, the Vice-Chancellors and the Judges of the Circuit Courts and of the Court of Common Pleas shall be nominated by the Governor and appointed by him with the advice and consent of the Senate. All persons now holding any office in this paragraph named except the Judges of the Court of Errors and Appeals as heretofore existing, shall continue in the exercise of the duties of their respective offices according to their respective commissions or appointments. The Judges of the Court of Errors and Appeals, except those first appointed; the Justices of the Supreme Court, the Chancellor and the Vice-Chancellors shall hold their offices for the term of seven years, and shall at stated times receive for their services a compensation which shall not be diminished during the term of their appointment; and they shall hold no other office under the government of this State or the United States.

The Judges of the Court of Errors and Appeals first appointed shall be appointed one for three years, two for five years and two for seven years. Judges of the Court of Common Pleas shall hold their offices for the term of five years.

Strike out Paragraph 2.

1. Resolved (the House of Assembly concurring), That the following amendments to the constitution of this state be and the same are hereby proposed, and when the same shall be agreed to by a majority of the members elected to the senate and house of assembly, the said amendments shall be entered on their journals, with the yeas and nays taken thereon, and referred to the legislature next to be chosen, and published for three months previous to the first Tuesday after the first Monday of November next, being the fifth days of said month, in at least one newspaper of each county, if any be published therein, the said newspaper to be designated by the president of the senate, the speaker of the house of assembly and the secretary of state.

1. Amend Paragraph 3, of Section 1, of Article IV, so as to read as follows:

3. Members of the senate and general assembly shall be elected on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November; in the year nineteen hundred and two members of the general assembly shall be elected for the term of one year, and in the year nineteen hundred and three, and every second year thereafter, they shall be elected for the term of two years, each house of the legislature shall meet separately on the second Tuesday in January next after each election for members of the general assembly; the time for holding such elections may be altered by the legislature.

2. Amend Paragraphs 1 and 2, of Section 2, of Article IV, so as to read as follows:

1. The senate shall be composed of one senator from each county in the state, elected by the legal voters of the counties respectively for four years, except as provided in the following paragraph:

2. The terms of the senators elected in the year nineteen hundred and one shall be extended to four years from the commencement of their terms as soon as the senate shall meet after the first election to be held after the adoption of this amendment, the senators elected in the year nineteen hundred and two shall be divided by lot under the direction of the senate into two classes, as nearly equal as may be; the seats of the senators of one class shall be vacated at the expiration of three years, and of the other class at the expiration of five years; the seats of the senators elected in the year nineteen hundred and three, and of all senators elected thereafter, shall be vacated at the expiration of four years from the commencement of their terms, so that one-half the number of senators, as nearly as may be, shall be elected every second year, at the same time that members of the general assembly are elected; and all vacancies caused by resignation or otherwise shall be filled for the unexpired terms only.

3. Amend Section III, of article IV, by striking out the word "annually."

4. Amend Paragraph 7, of Section IV of Article IV, so as to read as follows:

7. Members of the senate and general assembly shall each receive the sum of five hundred dollars for each year of their term, and no other allowance or emolument, directly or indirectly, for any purpose whatever; the president of the senate and the speaker of the house of assembly shall, in virtue of their offices, receive an additional compensation equal to one-third of their allowance as members.

5. Amend Paragraph 3, of Article V, so as to read as follows:

3. The term of the Governor elected in the year nineteen hundred and one shall be extended to four years from the commencement of his term, and he shall hold his office until the third Tuesday of January, nineteen hundred and six; thereafter the Governor shall hold his office for four years, to commence on the third Tuesday of January next ensuing his election, and to end on the Monday preceding the third Tuesday of January four years thereafter, and he shall be incapable of holding that office for four years next after his term of service shall have expired, and no appointment or nomination to office shall be made by the Governor during the last week of his said term.

The foreman of the machine room in a large factory at Bridgeport, Conn., states: "I have been a victim of nervous dyspepsia for four years. I often woke up in the morning feeling a distress at the pit of my stomach and sore across my bowels as if I had strained myself lifting. The minute I got on my feet the gas commenced to rise, there was a tendency to nausea and I wanted to vomit. At other times I could neither throw off the gas nor vomit either and it was then that I suffered most terribly. After this had gone on a long time my son induced me to try Ripans Tabules and the effect was simply wonderful. They hit the nail right on the head and they have made a new man of me so far as the comfort of living is concerned."

ON THE WAY TO MANILA.

Accomplished American Women Teachers For the Filipinos.

Beyond doubt the best gift the United States government has sent to the Philippines is the army of American schoolmistresses. They will be a revelation of womankind to the small brown people. With their dignity, brightness, independence and strong, resourceful character—yes, and their good looks, too—they constitute a regiment of women whose equal, take them all in all, cannot be found among the same number of their sex in any other nation.

Two batches of them left San Francisco for Manila in July—one by the transport Buford, the other by the Thomas. Many of these ladies are college graduates, besides being trained, experienced teachers.

What these American teachers know and can do may be judged from the credentials sent to the government when they applied for appointment. The superintendent of sewing, for instance, is Miss Emma R. Ross, from Haverhill, Mass. It would naturally be supposed that a woman sent as instructor in sewing among ex-pupils of the Spanish nuns, who do the finest needlework of any living women, would be capable, as Miss Ross abundantly is.

TEACHING LITTLE TAGALOS.

But look you what else she is besides one who knows how to cut and fit garments.

At 17 she was graduated from a collegiate institute in Massachusetts. Then she had a year each at Vassar and Wellesley. After that came a course in stenography and typewriting, then the universal American girl student's training in physical culture and elocution. Next, to give herself the all round education which seemed to her desirable for a woman, she attended a sewing school and accomplished herself in all branches of that industry.

When Miss Ross thought she was ready for work, she began teaching in the public schools. She taught five years and was specially commended for original and practical work methods. From that she served her time as member of the board of education in a Massachusetts town and made things "hum," so that all cried out to have her back again when her first term expired. At length this typical American woman established a business of her own, a school of typewriting and stenography. She was likewise a teacher in the night school for men in Haverhill, where at one time she counted pupils of 12 different nationalities in her class. Meantime with all the rest she learned Latin and French. Then she began the study of Spanish in a hurry, to go to the Philippines. It is safe to say she will not waste her time on shipboard, but will spend it in the further attainment of Spanish.

SUSAN PEPPER.

HINTS TO THE HOUSEWIFE.

Things Which Are Useful to Remember.

Raw potato juice is an excellent cleanser. It will remove stains from the hands and also from woolen materials.

Blacklead should be mixed either with turpentine or with soapy water, for thus a good polish is soon produced.

The smell of onions may easily be removed from the hands by rubbing over with celery and then washing them with cold water.

Alabaster may be cleaned by applying a paste of starch mixed with water. Leave the paste on till dry, then remove with a stiff brush, when all dirt will come away with it.

A bowl of quicklime kept in a damp cupboard will dry the air, but it must be renewed occasionally, as it loses power.

To make red wash for bricks put an ounce of glue into three quarts of water and then gently heat it until the glue is dissolved, then add an ounce of alum. Mix together half a pound of venetian red and half an ounce of Spanish brown. Gradually pour the liquid on to the powder, stirring it well to make it smooth. Be sure that the bricks or hearthstones are quite clean, and then put on the color with a large flat brush. The color may be varied to suit individual taste by adding or diminishing the quantity of red or brown.

Unbleached calico shrinks, therefore in making it up one extra inch in each yard should be allowed for shrinkage.

To clean black cloth mix one part of spirits of ammonia with three parts of hot water. Apply with a sponge and rinse off with clean water.

Cold tea is excellent for cleansing paint, but for white paint milk is still better.

And that she lived in terror was true, some women were quick to see. Never would she go anywhere, even along the corridor, alone. If the colonel could not come to luncheon she was served in their rooms. If she had to go calling or shopping it was in a carriage and always with some army woman whom she could persuade to go with her.

One day, just before their intended departure, she drove out paying parting calls. It was quite late when the carriage drew up at the Market street entrance, the nearest to their elevator. The door boy sprang across the sidewalk to open the carriage, and as she stepped wearily out a tall young man, erect and slender, dressed in a dark traveling suit, fairly confronted her, raised his derby and said: "You can give me ten minutes now, Mrs. Frost. Be good enough to take my arm."

Bowing her head she strove to dodge by, but it was useless. Again he confronted her. Piteously she looked up in his pale, stern face and clasped her hands. "Oh, Rollin," she cried, "give me my letters. I dare not—see you. Have mercy—" and down again she went in a senseless heap upon the stone. Col. and Mrs. Frost did not sail with the Empress of India. Brain fever set in and for three weeks the patient never left the hotel. Frost made his wife's dangerous illness the basis of an application to be relieved from the Manila detail, but, knowing well it would be late summer before the troops could be assembled there in sufficient force to occupy the city, and that his clerks and books had gone by transport with the second expedition in June, the war department compromised on a permission to delay. By the time the fourth expedition was ready to start there was no further excuse; moreover, the doctors declared the sea voyage was just what Mrs. Frost needed, and again their stateroom was engaged by the Empress line, and, though weak and languid, Mrs. Frost was able to appear in the diningroom. Meanwhile a vast amount of work was saddled on the department to which Frost was attached, and daily he was called upon to aid the local officials or be in consultation with the commanding general. This would have left Mrs. Frost to the ministrations of her nurse alone, but for the loving kindness of army women in the hotel. They hovered about her room, taking turns in spending the afternoon with her, or the evening, for it was speedily apparent that she had a nervous dread of being left by herself, "or even with her husband," said the most observing. Already it had been whispered that despite his assiduous care and devotion during her illness, something serious was amiss. Everybody had heard of the adventure which had preceded her alarming illness. Everybody knew that she had been accosted and confronted by a strange young man, at sight of whom she had pleaded piteously a minute and then fainted dead away. By this time, too, there were or had been nearly a dozen of the graduating class in town—classmates of Rollin Latrobe—their much loved "Pat," and speedily the story was told of his devotion to her when she was Nita Terriss, of their correspondence, of their engagement to be married on his graduation, which in strict confidence he had imparted to his roommate, who kept it inviolate until after her sudden union with Col. Frost, and poor "Pat's" equally sudden disappearance. Everybody, Frost included, knew that the young man who had accosted her must be Latrobe, and Frost by this time knew that it must have been he who caused her shock at the Arlington. He raged in his jealous heart. He employed detectives to find the fellow, swearing he would have him arrested. He became morose and gloomy, for all the arts by which Mrs. Garrison persuaded him that Nita looked up to him with admiration and reverence, that would speedily develop into wifely love, were now proved to be machinations. He knew that Nita feared him, shrank from him and was very far from loving him, and he believed that despite her denials and tears and protestations she loved young Latrobe. He wrote angrily, reproachfully to Margaret, who, now that her fish was hooked, did not greatly exert herself to soothe or reassure him. That he could ever use violence to one so sweet and fragile as Nita she would not believe for an instant. Then the nurse, still retained, heard bitter words from the colonel as one morning she came to the door with Mrs. Frost's breakfast, and while she paused, uncertain about entering at such a time, he rushed angrily forth and nearly collided with her. Mrs. Frost was in tears when the nurse finally entered, and the breakfast was left untouched.

"Oh Rollin," she cried, "I dare not"

Late that afternoon, just after the various trunks and boxes of the Frosts that were to go by the transport were packed and ready, and Mrs. Frost, looking stronger at last, though still fragile, almost ethereal, was returning from a drive with one of her friends, the attention of the two ladies was drawn to a crowd gathering rapidly on the sidewalk not far from the Baldwin hotel. There was no shouting, no commotion, nothing but the idle curiosity of men and boys, for a young soldier, a handsome, slender, dark-eyed, dark-complexioned fellow of 21 or 22, had been arrested by a patrol and there they stood, the sergeant and his two soldiers fully armed and equipped, the hapless captive with his arms half filled with bundles, and over the heads of the little throng the ladies could see that he was pleading earnestly with his captors, and that the sergeant, though looking sympathetic and far from unkind, was shaking his head. Mrs. Frost, listless and a little fatigued, had witnessed too many such scenes in former days of garrison life to take any interest in the proceeding. "How stupid these people are!" she irritably exclaimed; "running like mad and blockading the streets to see a soldier arrested for absence from camp without a pass. Shan't we drive on?"

"Oh—just one moment, please, Mrs. Frost. He has such a nice face—a gentleman's face, and he seems so troubled. Do look at it!"

Languidly and with something very like a pout, Mrs. Frost turned her face again toward the sidewalk, but by this time the sergeant had linked an arm in that of the young soldier and had led him a pace or two away, so that his back was now toward the carriage. He was still pleading, and the crowd had begun to back him up, and was expostulating, too.

"Awe, take him where he says, sergeant, and let him prove it."

"Don't be hard on him, man. If he's taking care of a sick friend, give'm a chance."

Then the sergeant tried to explain matters. "I can't help myself, gentlemen," said he; "orders are orders, and mine are to find this recruit and fetch him back to camp. He's two days over time now."

"Oh, I wish I knew what it meant!" anxiously exclaimed Mrs. Frost's companion. "I'm sure he needs help." Then with sudden joy in her eyes: "Oh, good! There goes Col. Crosby. He'll see what's amiss," and as she spoke a tall man in the fatigue uniform of an officer of infantry shouldered his way through the crowd, and reached the blue-coated quartette in the center. Up went the hands to the shouldered rifles in salute, and the young soldier, the cause of the gathering which the police were now trying to disperse, whirled quickly, and with something suspiciously like tears in his fine dark eyes, was seen to be eagerly speaking to the veteran officer. There was a brief colloquy, and then the colonel said something to the sergeant at which the crowd set up a cheer. The sergeant looked pleased, the young soldier most grateful, and away went the four along the sidewalk, many of the throng following.

And then the colonel caught sight of the ladies in the carriage, saw that one was signaling eagerly, and heard his name called. Hastening to their side, he raised his cap and smiled a cordial greeting.

"Oh, I'm so glad you came, colonel, we are so interested in that young soldier. Do tell us what it all means. Oh! I beg your pardon, Mrs. Frost, I surely thought you had met Col. Crosby—let me pre— Why, Nita! What's— Are you ill? Here, take my salts, quick!"

"No—no—go on—I—I want to hear! Where are they taking him?" faintly murmured Mrs. Frost."

"Try to control yourself," said her companion. "I'll tell you in one moment." Meantime from without the carriage the colonel continued, addressing Nita's companion:

POLLY SCARED BURGLAR.

Made Such a Racket That the Daylight Housebreaker Fled Without His Spoils.

Words in various languages screamed loudly and hysterically caused several neighbors of Louis Rehwald, a shoemaker of 234 South Grand avenue, Los Angeles, to hasten to his residence at noon several days ago to stop a tragedy or to be in at the finish. The polyglot talking match kept up incessantly, but proceeded seemingly from the same throat, and the debate, or whatever it was, sounded as if coming from the kitchen. A march to the rear of the house revealed a great green poll parrot in a cage on the kitchen table.

DRIVEN OFF BY POLLY.

The bird was very excited. It jumped up and down, screaming and talking all the while, but none of the Rehwalds were in sight. The neighbors then began an investigation from the outside, which revealed the fact that a burglar had forced the front window with a chisel and thus succeeded in gaining access to the house. He had gathered up a lot of valuables, including several new pairs of shoes, and had stacked his plunder up ready for removal, in a front room, when the idea came into his head to explore the kitchen, probably for eatables.

This action turned out very unfortunately for the daylight thief, as the parrot no sooner espied the intruder than he set up an unearthly racket, which so scared the burglar that he fled precipitately without taking the trouble to gather up his loot. When quiet had been restored the polly became unusually austere and positively refused to give the detective a description of the thief. The bird is a big Mexican parrot, possessed of a copious vocabulary as well as a current knowledge of several living languages. The detective addressed the parrot in Irish and Spanish, but his talk had no effect, the bird positively refusing to hold converse with the man from police headquarters, greatly to the surprise of the congregated neighbors, who have an idea that this particular polly is almost superhuman.

POPULAR IN CHICAGO.

Porch Parties of Two Which Invariably Lead to Love-Making and Eventually to the Altar.

"Oh, Jack!"

That is all the neighbors hear of the porch party—Chicago's newest, dearest summer fad. What they see of it is what the moon chooses to reveal, plus the line of carriages and the strip of carpet to the curb.

From Gross Point to the Indiana line the front porches of the city, says the Chicago American, are proving so many approaches to the altar of Love. Cushions, a rug or two, the tardy moonlight streaming down over the houses opposite—these are the setting and the properties of the comedy. Maidens whose lot is cast in a flat or apartment house whirl away to the summer gardens for an ice and a breath of air. But the girl who owns a set of steps in fee simple or by lease murmurs "no" to the invitation of her caller, drops down on the steps beside him when he has finished squeezing the lemons and hums the honeysuckle song while he is hunting for the right quotation. After that it depends on the size of his salary whether they wait a month or a year.

Crafty bachelors who know of the porch party seek the chairs on the landing, for the man who takes to the steps is lost. Bores and ineligibles swallow their root beer in the mausoleum of the back parlor. An invitation to sit on the steps is equivalent to a rating in the family Bradstreet, and the young man who draws the golf cushion ranks with the double A's. Confirmed cynics rail at the groups in the shadows, chanting "Spoon, spoon, spoon," to a certain popular air as they drift down the street. But both Romeo of Halsted street and Romeo of Drexel boulevard catch the same disease, and Minnie O'Connor and Miss Vivian are one in the knowledge that the porch party wins a solitaire every time.

SPORTING.

ON THE DIAMOND.

Nine young men under twelve years of age have just organized a baseball team to be known as the Orientals. They will soon have uniforms and they desire to arrange games with teams whose players are under twelve years of age. The first game will be played with the West Ends Monday morning at 9:30 o'clock. The Oriental line up is as follows: Keefe, catcher; Tobin, pitcher; Ennis, first base; Messler, second base; Lynch, short stop; Warnacker, third base; Lee, center field; Ayers, left field; Vanderbilt, right field.

ABOUT CONVINCED.

It is hoped that you are about convinced to let me stop at your home regularly with a nice clean piece of Hygeia Ice. I have been hammering away at you for some time to bring you around to this point. I believe it is economy for you to use ice. I believe also that you should use Hygeia Ice in preference to any other ice. Because it is pure ice, a healthful ice and an ice that lasts longer than others. No dirt. No impurities—nothing in it that shouldn't be.

City Committee Held First Meeting Of The Season Last Evening.

The Republican city executive committee met last evening when matters pertaining to the coming campaign were talked over. There were six members present, making just a quorum.

A list of nominations for membership on the election board was presented, but owing to the fact that there is some doubt regarding two or three names, the list will not be published for a few days. A committee, whose duty it shall be to revise the primary rules, will be appointed in a few days, as will also the standing committee. As this was the first meeting held by the committee, not much business was transacted. Another meeting will be held at an early date, when the committee will get to work in earnest.

PERSONAL.

Miss Hazel Coddington, of Mountain avenue, is improving from a severe illness.

Patrolman George Lunger is enjoying his vacation in the wilds of Hunterdon county.

Mrs. George Harris, of Clinton avenue, has been entertaining Mrs. M. E. Harris, of Bound Brook.

Mrs. Jacob Jennings, of Washington, D. C., is visiting Mrs. William Pangborn, of Linden avenue.

Miss Grace and Miss Alice Martin, of Grandview avenue, are spending a week's vacation at the seashore.

The Misses May Burke and Margaret Dorgan, of this city, left yesterday for the Pan-American Exposition.

Mrs. Asa Collier, Miss Mary Collier, and Paul Collier, of East Sixth street, are stopping at Asbury Park for a time.

ADELMANN MAY RETURN.

Rumor That He Is to Resume Charge of the Local Trolley System.

There is a rumor about the city that John Adelmann, formerly superintendent of the trolley lines in this vicinity, is again to hold that position. It is said that the recent number of accidents on the various lines has had much to do with a talk of a change in the management. Under Mr. Adelmann's management there were not many accidents. Whether the change in this department is responsible for the many accidents on the trolley is not known, but at all events the company is anxious to do anything that will lessen the number of casualties.

Dr. J. T. Fritts, one of the officials of the company, stated to a reporter this morning, that he had no knowledge of the matter. The doctor declared that Mr. Adelmann had said to him yesterday that the intended charge was unknown to him.

GOING TO ALFRED.

Pastor Main and Part of His Flock Will Attend Baptist Convention.

Despite the warm weather there was a goodly attendance at the Sabbath services of the Seventh-Day Baptist church this morning. Rev. A. E. Main, the pastor, delivered the last sermon he will preach for several weeks. Together with a number of his flock, the pastor will attend the annual convention of the Seventh-Day Baptists, which will be held in Alfred, N. Y., during the latter part of the present month.

An effort is being made to secure a private car to accommodate the members of the denomination residing in this vicinity. Rev. G. Kennedy Newell, pastor of Hope chapel, will have charge of the services at the church next Saturday, while Rev. Mr. Fletcher will preach the following Sabbath.

NEW PARK PROJECT.

New York and Newark Capitalists Interested In Scheme Near Bound Brook.

Residents of Bound Brook are much interested in a recent move made by Newark and New York capitalists to purchase the well known Smock farm at Harris Lane corner, directly on the line of the trolley, a mile east of Bound Brook. The object, it is said, is to use it as a park to be called Mountain View. There is a rumor that an up-to-date clubhouse and casino is to be erected on the spot where the present dwelling now stands. The affair is being kept very quiet, and little information can be learned about it.

Three New Houses.

Three dwelling houses are to be erected at Dewey Park under the terms of a contract made between the Middlesex Land Company and J. D. Loizeaux, the builder. Ground will be broken during the early part of the coming week.

Economically Considered.

"Sam" Elder told the doctors some pretty good stories the other afternoon at the Massachusetts Medical society dinner about their own profession. One was about an old practitioner, who, because of advancing years, had relinquished all of his out-of-town practice to his young assistant. One night the older physician was called on by two men in a buggy, one of whom wanted the doctor to come to his house, eight miles away, and attend his wife, who was very ill. "She will have no one but you, doctor," said the man.

"Well, I'll go for $10 and not a cent less," said the doctor.

A whispered consultation went on in the carriage, and finally the physician heard a voice say: "Better pay the ten. It's a good deal cheaper than burying her."

And the doctor got his money.—Boston Journal.

Cause of Mental Deficiency.

After investigating 10,000 children, F. A. Mac-Nicholl (Philadelphia Medical Journal, June 8, 1901) is firmly impressed with the belief that heredity plays an extremely important part in determining the mental capacity of our school children. Of this number 885 showed more or less mental deficiency; 471 were born of drinking parents; 221 were classed as due to heredity and 153 could give no satisfactory information. He was able to trace the family histories of 433 children through three generations, and of these 313 had drinking fathers and 51 drinking mothers. Of these children 76 per cent. suffered from some neurosis or organic disease. In 51 families having 231 children with total abstinence antecedents only three per cent. of children were dull and only 18 per cent. suffering from neurosis.—Medical News.

Frogs' Nests.

In Brazil a species of treefrog (Hyla faber) constructs in the water a curious nest, or fortification, to protect its eggs and its young from the attacks of fish. Starting at the bottom of a pond, the mother frog erects a circular, tubelike wall of mud, which at the top projects above the surface of the water, where it bears some resemblance to the crater of a miniature volcano. In the water thus inclosed the eggs are laid, and when they have hatched out the young frogs are secure from enemies until they are able to take care of themselves. In the meantime the parents remain in the neighborhood as if on guard.—Nature.

Peruvian Sea Ponies.

Among curiosities of human invention are the small, gondola-shaped floats, called caballitos, "little horses," employed by fishermen on the coast of Peru. They are made of sticks of cane, firmly bound together, with a high, turned-up prow. The rider rests on his knees and guides his water-pony with a paddle. He rides over the roughest waves, and penetrates the surf and breakers without fear. Occasionally he is dismounted, but immediately regains his seat. His little raft is unsinkable, and defies the stormiest sea, although, of course, he never goes far from land.—Youth's Companion.

A Paradise of Clubs.

The city of Zurich must be the very paradise of clubs. In proportion to the number of its inhabitants it possesses more clubs than any other city in the world. At the end of 1898 it already had 534 clubs; but in 1901 they had increased to 771. Nearly every one of them holds its yearly, quarterly, monthly or weekly "vereinsfest," so that if a citizen could only get himself elected a member of each of them he might keep two festivals every day in the year.—Westminster Gazette.

Jack Tar Is Averse to Bathtubs.

The days of the old forecastle, hung away in the dark hold under the forward mast, are gone forever, no matter what flag the vessel may carry. The forecastle on new steel ships is in a deckhouse, well forward. On American ships it is ventilated like the skipper's cabin in the stern of the ship, has a skylight and apparatus for heating. The men used to eat with their plates on their knees; now they have a mess table with racks to hold the dishes in place in rough weather. Tanks on top of the house supply running water, and the reason modern forecastles do not have bathtubs is that the sailors would rather take their baths on deck by throwing cold water over one another.

NO LEASE.

Superintendent Radel of Middlesex and Somerset Company Denies Report That The Dunellen Line Is to be Leased.

A report has been in circulation that the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Street Railway Company is to lease the Dunellen line of the Middlesex and Somerset Traction Company, and possibly the line from Bound Brook to Raritan.

When Superintendent Radel was seen about the report a few days ago, he said that the Plainfield company had made overtures to lease the Dunellen line to Bound Brook, but the terms were not satisfactory. He also stated that the Dunellen line is being operated at a loss, that the company received no compensation whatever for carrying passengers in Dunellen to or from the other line, but that his company would continue so to do rather than lease its line on the terms proposed.

It is said that the Middlesex and Somerset Traction Company might operate this line at a profit if cars were run oftener than once every half hour. The present service is anything but satisfactory to the public.

QUIET SEASON FOR THE LOCAL GOLFERS.

Usual Weekly Competitions At Both Local Golf Clubs Held Saturday.

NO CHANGES IN LEADERS.

T. R. VAN BOSKERCK WON FIRST HONORS AT HILLSIDE.

W. L. Glenny And Walter Peterson Took The Other Points—Honors at Park Club Went To Jos. L. Myers, C. L. Nichols and C. B. Morse.

Saturday was a quiet day for the local golfers although there were the usual weekly competitions at the two clubs. Many of the Plainfield golfers are out of town and both courses felt the influence of so many vacations.

PARK GOLF CLUB.

Newcomers in the contest carried off first and second honors for the President's cup at the Park Golf Club Saturday afternoon. Charles B. Morse, who was third in the day's play, advanced himself thereby from eleventh to a tie for seventh place. Otherwise the standing for the trophy remains unchanged with Senator Charles A. Reed leading and H. D. Hibbard a close second.

There was but a comparatively small turnout at the Park Club links Saturday. The virtual scratch men were away and the group of veterans, who are usually very regular in their attendance, spent the day at Hillside. Ten registered for play but some failed to return their cards. The first part of the afternoon was very humid and oppressive but a breeze came out of the south west which relieved those conditions considerably. The course was in fair condition.

The cards turned in did not show any remarkable golf, nobody playing quite up to their usual form while several were way off their game. The best gross score was 107, made by Charles B. Morse.

The standing for the cup is now as follows:

Charles A. Reed	9
H. D. Hibbard	8
Joseph H. Howell	6
H. G. Phillips	6
George T. Rogers	5½
Allan B. Ludg	5½
Charles W. McCutchen	5
Morgan T. Townsend	5
Charles B. Morse	5
William A. Townsend	5
S. St. John McCutchen	4½
James H. Simpson	3
Joseph L. Myers	3
Arthur H. Serrell	2½
William J. Buttfield	2
Lesley W. Hallock	2
Henry C. Wells	2
Samuel Townsend	2
Charles L. Nichols	2
William R. Faber	2
Frank Rogers	2
Fred P. Taylor	1
Henry Studdiford	1
W. de la R. Anderson	½
Herbert S. Rogers	½

The scores were:

	G	H	N
Joseph L. Myers	117	30	87
Charles L. Nichols	119	30	89
Charles B. Morse	107	15	92
William R. Faber	118	21	97
H. G. Phillips	124	25	99
Henry C. Wells	118	19	99
Frank Rogers	129	28	101

HILLSIDE TENNIS AND GOLF CLUB.

There was a far better attendance at the Hillside Tennis and Golf course Saturday, than on the previous Saturday, and more interest was taken in the two weekly events, the Mellick and Golf Committee cups. The course is in the best condition and the stay-at-homes have been thoroughly enjoying the game without any anxiety as to being overcrowded. Saturday there were signs of the return of members, and while the tide has not set in very strong there was an evident increase. By Labor Day it is expected that nearly the full membership will again be on the course. From that time until the snow flies there will be plenty of golf for all.

In the play for the Mellick cup, women's competition, Saturday morning, the scores were rather high. Miss Maude VanBoskerck, with a net score of 104, won first honors. As Miss vanHerwerden has such a strong lead in this competition, her position is not in immediate danger. Miss VanBoskerck, by securing three points, moves up from five and a half to eight and a half points, putting her in third position. Miss vanHerwerden finished second with a net score of 108, and the two additional points gives her a total of twenty-one and a half, while Miss May Holly, who finished third, with a net score of 107, gets an additional point, giving her a total of two.

The scores for the Mellick cup fol-

EFFORTS HAVE FAILED.

Recreation Park Is Not Making the Success That the Trolley Officials Had Hoped.

While Recreation Park on the line of the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Street Railway, is still in its present location, the trolley company has practically abandoned the plan of maintaining the place as an amusement resort. Of late the park has not been a hugh success and there have been many changes in the management. It was proposed to give nightly vaudeville, but there were times when the actors and actresses did not appear, and the crowd was turned away.

Another scheme was to give frequent concerts, but the people failed to appreciate this effort, and when the musicians arrived to give the concert the audience was missing and the event was called off.

Just what is lacking in making the park a success as a pleasure resort has not been decided by those most interested, but the fact remains that the venture is not a paying one, and for the present all effort toward amusement has been given up.

WASN'T ON THE PROGRAMME

BOMBARDED DANCING INDIAN WITH GREEN APPLES.

Roundsman Flynn Was Called In to Rescue the Chieftain—Captured One of the Offenders.

A little sketch, not down on the bills, was given at Diamond Jack's medicine show, in the West End, Saturday night. It was furnished by Lewis Milligan and Thomas Ryan, two young men, both of whom were much the worse for Boulevard "red eye."

The entertainment provided by the management as a preamble to the harangue on toothache drops and electric belts, proved too tame for the boys and they sought to liven matters by hurling green apples at Chief Young-man-afraid-of-his- mother - in-law who was going through the evolutions of a ghost dance. Several of the premature apples struck the chief with such force that he left off fighting ethereal spirits to combat with those imbibed by the pale faces.

The audience was just about getting its money's worth of excitement when the proceedings were interrupted by Roundsman Flynn, who entered in response for an appeal for help from the manager who feared for Poor Lo. Ryan saw the bluecoat coming and made a hasty exit beneath the canvas. Milligan, being a cripple, was unable to follow, but he did the next best thing. He reached around for some apples, but finding they had been exhausted in the battle with the man from the west, he hurled all kinds of epithets at every one in general and the roundsman in particular. When placed under arrest he threw his crutches away and refused to walk to the station house and had to be taken there in a cab.

He appeared before City Judge Runyon, last evening, in a penitent mood, but from the evidence furnished by Doorman McCue and several day patrolmen, it was learned that he had continued cursing all day yesterday, after he had become sober. For this reason His Honor was not disposed to be lenient, and Milligan was committed to Elizabeth for forty days in default of a $15 fine. The police are looking for Ryan, who is said to be in hiding in the West End.

ITALIAN HOLIDAY.

Was Grandly Celebrated by Italians at Raritan Saturday Afternoon and Evening.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, August 19.—St. Rocco Day was grandly celebrated at Raritan Saturday. In the afternoon the Italian societies met and paraded through the streets to St. Bernard's church, where vespers were said.

In the evening there was a grand display of fireworks, which was witnessed by 8,000 people. Arches had been erected along the main street, which were illuminated by colored lights. An Italian band from New York furnished music during the afternoon and evening.

Extra trolley cars were run between Somerville and Raritan, but they were unable to accommodate all who desired to ride and a great many had to walk.

Preached at First M. E. Church.

The pulpit at the First M. E. church yesterday morning was occupied by Rev. J. H. Howard, of Rahway. There was no evening service.

Council Meeting.

There will be an adjourned meeting of the Common Council tomorrow evening, when several matters of importance will be considered.

TEA DRINKERS FOUGHT OVER MISSING CASH

Thrilling Conclusion of One of Mrs. Charles Kenney's Informal Affairs.

LEWIS MOON KNOCKED OUT.

QUESTIONED HIS INTEGRITY AS REFRESHMENT COMMITTEE.

That Started An Exceeding Example of "Rough House" In Which Most of the Guests Took a Hand—One Arrest Made, Others to Follow.

A terrific hand-to-hand combat, one arrest by the police and three fugitives from justice, is the sum total of the aftermath of what was intended to be a simple 4 o'clock tea at the home of Mrs. Charles Keeney, of West Third street, Thursday afternoon. A colored individual, rejoicing in the name of Lewis Moon, was the unlucky one to be grasped by the strong arm of the law, while Eugene and Walter Britton and Miss Lottie Hurley are playing the game of hide-and-seek with the police.

Moon was arraigned before City Judge Runyon, last evening. As he had but a dim remembrance of what took place on the memorable afternoon, and the court was fearful lest his character might be smirched by the others on their appearance, he was allowed to depart until the remainder of Mrs. Kenney's guests were rounded up.

As near as could be learned from Moon's testimony and that of Patrolman Totten, who witnessed part of the fracas, Mrs. Kennedy had sought to relieve the monotony of household work, by inviting a number of friends around to her home to participate in a "tea." It was one of those informal affairs devoid of all embellishment and also the beverage from which it derives its name, a liquid commonly called beer forming the staple article of refreshment. The guests were also supposed to contribute toward the cost of the function and it was this fact which led to the breaking up of the tea and the subsequent happenings.

Moon was appointed a committee of one to visit a nearby saloon each time the supply of beer needed replenishing. He attended his duty faithfully until about the eleventh trip, when he was unable to account for ten cents which Eugene Britton claimed had been extended by him as his share of the expenses. Moon was positive he had not received it while Britton was equally firm in his assertion that it was in the possession of the refreshment committee.

The other guests had seen nothing of the dime and left the two severely alone until Walter Britton thought his brother was getting the worst of the argument and joined forces with him. Words soon gave way to blows and sundry heaving of chairs which caused a stampede of the remainder of the guests, with the exception of Lottie Hurley.

Lottie is a buxom lass, possessed of a pair of fists which resemble miniature hams when doubled up and which she uses with effect when the occasion offers. This was one of them and she sallied into the fray with the intention of putting the combatants out of business. The Kenney household became too small for the scene of action and the belligerents removed to the unlimited confines of West Third street.

Here the battle waged for some time and Lottie and Moon were getting the worst of it when Patrolman Totton made his appearance. The Britton brothers saw him in time to give Moon a parting crack which rendered him hors de combat and then make their escape over a back fence. Lottie also disappeared rather hurriedly and the much used up Moon was the only prisoner taken.

As it was impossible to clearly discern who was to blame in the matter from Moon's evidence, he was sent out into the night with the warning to refrain from all teas and other levees until Lottie and the Britton brothers were corralled by the police.

Club Car Being Overhauled.

The club car, "Plainfield," attached to the 8:30 train, is undergoing its annual overhauling at the Jersey City shops. While this is being done the commuters are trying to accustom themselves to the delights of an ordinary day coach.

Endeavorers to be In Charge.

The Endeavor Societies of Hope and Warren chapels will have charge of the meeting at the Westfield Fresh Air Camp Wednesday evening, leaving by a special trolley at 7:15 o'clock from North avenue.

DIVORCE FOR J. H. CRANE.

GRANTED BY COURTS ON GROUND OF WIFE'S DESERTION.

No Defence was Made—They Were Married In Westfield Three Years Ago.

J. Henry Crane, of East Fifth street, received Saturday afternoon from Chancellor Magie an absolute separation from his wife on the grounds of desertion. Mrs. Crane has not lived with her husband for a long time past, she at present being in Connecticut, and when the papers were issued she made no answer to them.

Mr. Crane is the son of Rev. Arthur Crane, the evangelist, who is now engaged in Christian work in the south. It was about three years ago that he was married, his wife being Miss May Grant, of LaGrande avenue. They were married quietly at Westfield, after which the announcement was made through the local papers. She was for some time the soprano soloist in the choir at the First Baptist church, afterward filling a similar position at Trinity Reformed church.

Not many months after the marriage Mr. Crane alleges that his wife left him, and upon this ground he applied to the courts for a divorce. Three months ago testimony was taken before Special Master in Chancery Charles A. Reed, Mr. Crane being represented by Lawyer William G. De-Meza. There was no trouble experienced in getting the papers of separation, as the wife offered no protest to the action brought by the husband.

LESSON TAUGHT IN NOVEL WAY

SPECIAL SERVICE OF PARK AVENUE BAPTIST SUNDAY-SCHOOL.

Series of Papers on the Lesson Given —Rev. Asa Reed Dilts Made An Address.

The special service held at the Park Avenue Baptist church yesterday morning under the auspices of the Sunday-school, was largely attended and of great interest to all. Superintendent George E. Hall was in charge. The lesson, "Abraham's Intercession," was interpreted by teachers and other members of the school.

In discussing the lesson, Miss Adelia Runyon gave the connection between yesterday's lesson and that of a week ago. The members of her class asked the lesson questions, while the responces were given by members of Miss Cora Brokaw's class. Then a number of papers bearing on the lesson were given as follows: "An instance where many were saved for one righteous man," Mrs. E. F. Vail; "A reference to a prayer remarkable for its humility," Miss Elizabeth Runyon; "A reference to a prayer remarkable for its preseverance," Mrs. Nelson Runyon; "Prayer, illustrated, "Miss Laura E. Runyon; "Abraham and Lot contrasted," George Watts; "A few facts about Lot," Miss Elizabeth VanWinkle; "The Golden Text, illustrated," Mrs. Robert Wyckoff.

Mr. Hall closed the lesson period by giving some very helpful remarks upon the subject of prayer, after which he introduced Rev. Asa Reed Dilts, of Lowell, Mass., formerly pastor of the church. He expressed his delight at the opportunity afforded to visit the school, and gave a pleasing talk to teachers and scholars.

A quartette composed of Miss Elsie Giles, Miss Adelia Runyon, Roland Treadwell and Thomas A. Cuming, sang 'Only Remembered by What we Have Done," thus bringing to a close another pleasing session of the school. Each one present was given a large handsome card, the gift of the superintendent, bearing The Twenty-third Psalm, The Lord's Prayer, The Ten Commandments, The Apostle's Creed, The Beatitudes, or the hymn "Onward Christian Soldiers."

Will Build Fine Residence.

A building permit has been granted George H. Fountain, of Grant avenue, for the erection of a frame dwelling on West Seventh street, near Monroe avenue. The estimated cost of construction is $7,000. James Manning will do the carpentry work and Seaman Williams will construct the masonry.

New Typewriters.

The United Typewriter & Supply Company, through its representative, James A. Stafford, of this city, has just placed several New Century typewriters in the Centenary Collegiate Institute at Hackettstown.

Church Closed.

There were no services at the First Presbyterian church yesterday. The edifice is closed for the rest of this month so that it can be cleaned.

Midweek Service.

The midweek service at the Park Avenue Baptist church, Wednesday evening, will be conducted by Francis B. Whiteside, of this city.

HE PASSED AWAY AT COTTAGE ON MOUNTAIN.

William A. Freeman, of Sandford Avenue, Died After Several Weeks' Illness.

AN OLD RESIDENT IN CITY.

HE HAD BEEN CONNECTED WITH VACUUM OIL COMPANY.

Leaves Wife and Two Sons.—Was An Active Worker In Local Masonic Circles—Had Gone to Herring Cottage For His Health.

William A. Freeman, of 52 Sandford avenue, aged fifty-eight years, died at an early hour this morning at the Herring cottage on Johnston Drive, where he had been for six weeks past. Owing to his severe illness, which was brought on by a complication of diseases, his death was not unexpected. Mr. Freeman was taken ill February 22, and since then he had been confined to his bed most of the time, except as he occasionally was assisted to the table to eat with the family. The cause of death was heart trouble attendant upon a complication of diseases.

Mr. Freeman was one of the best known and most highly respected citizens of Plainfield, where he lived nearly all of his life. He was born at Union, this State, and at an early age came to Plainfield. During his younger days he was engaged in local business for a time, but gave that up over twenty years ago to accept a position with the Vacuum Oil Company, with offices at 29 Broadway, New York. This position he held up to the time of his death, being manager of the New York office. He was a man of rare business ability and was valued highly by those with whom he was associated in business. He attended strictly to his business interests and was very successful.

Mr. Freeman was also a prominent Mason. He was made a Mason many years ago in Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. and A. M., but later was instrumental in organizing Anchor Lodge, No. 149, F. and A. M. He was master of Anchor Lodge for six years after its organization. He never advanced farther than the Blue Lodge, being content with the number of degrees he had taken. He was elected district deputy grand master for two terms, preceding the late C. C. Howard, who was elected to the office afterward. He devoted much time to Masonry and did much toward advancing the interest of it in this city as well as the State.

Mr. Freeman leaves a widow, who for a great many years has been the efficient organist at Grace P. E. church, and two sons, Arthur F. Freeman and Fred H. Freeman. He also leaves a brother, Jonothan Freeman, of Newark, and a sister, Mrs. D. W. Ayers, of Philadelphia. He was a member of Grace church, and was always a faithful attendant upon the services at that church.

Although Mr. Freeman was a Mason, he will not have a Masonic funeral, which is in accordance with his wishes. The services will be held from the residence, 52 Sandford avenue, Wednesday afternoon at 5 o'clock, and interment will be in the North Plainfield Cemetery at the convenience of the family.

WIRE STOLEN.

Stripped From Poles of Central Electric Company at Lincoln.

Some time during last night thieves stripped 400 pounds of copper wire from the poles of the Central Electric Company, at Lincoln. The main feed wires running through that place to Bound Brook, were appropriated, causing not only a heavy loss to the company but also causing great annoyance.

There is no clue to the thieves, although it is thought the wire was taken by four suspicious looking strangers who passed through this city on a trolley car early in the evening. The men were seen boarding the car at Netherwood by a patrolman, who notified police headquarters. The men were followed to the Dugellen line where they disappeared.

Valuable Dogs Poisoned.

Two valuable dogs, belonging to former City Judge W. A. Coddington, of East Second street, were poisoned Saturday. One of the animals died almost instantly while the other lingered until yesterday. One of the canines was a thoroughbred Gordon setter and the other a blooded fox terrier. There is no clue to the miscreants who committed the despicable act.

LETTER TO CITIZENS.

W. L. Saunders Cannot be Present at Meeting This Evening So He Has Written.

W. L. Saunders, vice-president of the Ingersoll-Sergeant Drill Company, will not be able to attend the meeting of citizens this evening at the Board of Trade rooms, when matters pertaining to an effort to locate the company's plant in this city will be considered. He has written a letter, however, which will be read.

Mr. Saunders said this morning that the matter of a new site was in the hands of Mr. Swam, of the company, and nothing can be done until a report is received from him. Propositions at the rate of eight a day are now being received by officials of the company and the work of selecting one will be no easy task.

A significant matter in connection with the present location of the plant is that there is not a vacant house at Easton, and the residents there say that Easton's growth was marked from the time the plant was located in their city. Today if a person wants a house he has to build one.

COMBINED DANCING AND MUSIC

PLEASANT TIME AT MOUNTAIN PARK INN SATURDAY EVENING.

Numbers of Musicale Were Given Between the Dances—Plainfielders Were Present.

Dancing and vocal music were two attractions which added galety to the usual pleasures at Mountain Park Inn Saturday evening. There were a number of Plainfielders present to share the enjoyment of the occasion, and the musical entertainment particularly was quite successful.

Madame Cortada, of New York, conducted the musical features. She rendered several soprano solos. A character sketch, given by her, afforded much amusement. In it she was garbed in an old-fashioned costume. Her subject was "Woman's Rights." Several contralto selections were rendered by Miss Lila Otto, of New York. Master Francis Cortada sang a humorous song. Miss Durand, of Bergen Point, also contributed to the entertainment by rendering a solo. Miss Mather and Madame Cortada played a piano duet, concluding the musical numbers.

A rather unique feature of the musical affair was that one number on the programme would be given between each dance during the evening. This made the hop all the more enjoyable. It is proposed to continue these features for the remainder of the season. There were a number of guests at dinner, Saturday evening, who had come from Plainfield and the immediate vicinity for the purpose of spending an evening at the mountain resort.

Those who took part in the Saturday evening musicale gave the sacred concert yesterday afternoon. Madame Cortada, the Misses Durand and Otto, Winfield Blake and Francis Cortada each rendered sacred vocal selections to the edification of the guests.

WIFE FEARED HIM.

"Addie" McCann Given a Heavy Sentence For Being Drunk and Threatening His Wife.

A heavy sentence was meted out to "Addie" McCann, of West Third street, in the city court, last evening. He was given his preference of paying $15 in the city treasury or spending the next forty days at Elizabeth. He took the latter.

McCann was arrested yesterday morning by Patrolman Higgins, who found him sleeping off the effects of a drunk, in a Liberty street doorway. Previous to the arrest Mrs. McCann had complained to the police that her husband had demolished a pane of glass in a door at their home and that he had also threatened her with bodily injury.

McCann declared the evidence of Patrolman Higgins was a tissue of falsehoods but he was unable to impress the court with his side of the affair and in consequence, the sentence was imposed.

In a collection of protraits of the notable prominent members of the International Association of Fire Engineer, which appears in the current issue of the Western Fireman, is a striking likeness of Chief T. O. Doane, of the Plainfield fire department.

Meets Next Week.

The regular August meeting of the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital will be held one week from tonight at the Public Library, and not this evening as previously stated.

New Council's Meeting.

There will be a meeting of Benevolent Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., Wednesday evening in Washington Hall. A full attendance of members is desired.

HAIR RAISING FINISHES BY LOCAL TROTTERS.

Fine Sport at Matinee Races of the Plainfield Driving Club Saturday Afternoon.

SOME OUTSIDERS THERE.

DELAYS WERE TRIFLING AND THE EVENTS WERE INTERESTING.

Edward Campbell's "Dick Nichols" Won the Three Minute Class—Mayor Smalley Drove "Fred V." to Victory.

Trotting horse enthusiasts thought they saw in the select assemblage of several hundred men and women at the Gentlemen's Driving Park Saturday, and in the sharp, clean, brilliant sport there, signs of a new era in harness racing hereabouts. It was the second of this year's matinee races of the Plainfield Driving Club, and in nearly every feature it surpassed any other events of its kind that the devotees of the sport have yet seen.

Instead of the old haphazard methods which have characterized harness racing from time immemorial, everything moved with promptness and precision. The spectators were able to easily identify the horses on the track. The judges and timers did their work without delay, and the trotters and pacers treated the spectators to some stirring contests.

The first race called out was the three-minute class, in which there were three starters, Edward Campbell's sorrel gelding, "Dick Nichols," George Benner's bay colt, from Metuchen, and T. H. Brantingham's black mare, "Monarch Maiden." "Dick Nichols" won the first heat, but was hard pushed by Benner's colt. In the second heat "Monarch Maiden" drew right away from the start and, taking the pole, maintained her position to the finish. The third heat was run without the bay colt, as Mr. Benner withdrew him. Brantingham and Campbell, each having won a heat, were out with blood in their eyes. They received the word "go" the first time down and "Dick" lost no time in taking the pole from his antagonist, and it was a race from start to finish. Brantingham made a desparate drive down the home stretch, but Campbell's game pacer would not be outdone and came under the wire a nose ahead.

The 2:30 class was next called out and there were three to start. David C. Smalley's "Ned Davis," A. I. Smalley's "Belle," and S. Irving's "Fred V," of Westfield, driven by N. B. Smalley.

The first heat resulted in a victory for "Belle" with "Fred V" a very close second. "Ned Davis," owing to a broken boot, was pulled up and walked in. The next heat was of the Grand Circuit order between "Belle" and "Fred V," the latter winning by an eye-lash. The third heat also went to "Fred V" in a much easier drive.

The next event was the 2:25 class in which there were but two starters, S. Irving's pacing mare, "Jessie Dine" and J. W. Johnson's "Woven Wind." "Woven Wind" drew the pole, but with a burst of speed that was dazzling "Jessie Dine" set sail for the front and paced the first quarter in 35 seconds, leaving "Woven Wind" four or five lengths behind, which gap he could not close up.

In the second heat "Woven Wind" made a much better showing and was beaten by only a second.

The fourth event was the 2:45 class "mixed." N. B. Smalley's "First Cousin," driven by P. O. Osborn, "Bessie Kirk," owned and driven by John B. Osborn, and "Elocia," owned and driven by N. B. Smalley, composed the field. "First Cousin" took two straight heats, but "Bessie Kirk," nothing daunted by defeat, came close to the winner, after a hair-raising drive through the home-stretch.

The summaries:

First race.

3:00 class, mixed.

Edward Campbell's "Dick Nichols"	1	3	1
T. H. Brantingham's "Monarch Maiden"	3	1	2
George Benner's "Bay Colt"	2	2	w.d.

Time—2:47½, 2:50, 2:52.

Second race.

2:30 class mixed.

S. Irving's "Fred V"	2	1	1
A. I. Smalley's "Belle"	1	2	2
D. C. Smalley's "Ned Davis"	3	3	3

Time—2:29½, 2:27, 2:28½.

Third race.

2:25 class, mixed

S. Irving's "Jessie Dine"	1	1
J. W. Johnston's "Woven Wind"	2	2

Time—2:22½, 2:22½.

Fourth race.

2:45 class, mixed.

N. B. Smalley's "First Cousin"	1	1
J. B. Osborn's "Bessie Kirk"	2	2
N. B. Smalley's "Elocia"	3	3

Time—2:35, 2:36½.

BUFFALO'S ATTRACTIONS.

Special Features For This Week at the Pan-American.

BUFFALO, Aug. 19.—The Pan-American exposition will be the Mecca for firemen from all parts of the country this week. More than 80 companies have thus far signified their intention to attend the demonstration. The opening event will be the annual convention of the Firemen's association of New York, which will convene Tuesday. The convention will continue through Wednesday evening. Thursday and Friday will be devoted to prize drills and parades. Companies from New York, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Ohio, Rhode Island, Virginia, South Carolina and Canada will compete in these events.

Michigan will celebrate Tuesday at the exposition. Governor A. T. Bliss and the members of his staff arrived in Buffalo yesterday evening and will remain in the city until the end of the week. The speakers who will participate in the exercises in the Temple of Music include Governor Bliss, General R. A. Alger of Detroit, Lieutenant Governor C. W. Robinson of Michigan, Hon. William Alden Smith of Grand Rapids, Hon. W. C. Maybury, mayor of Detroit, and other prominent men from Michigan.

Wednesday the 21st will be celebrated by the people of Louisiana and also as Hamilton day by the citizens of Hamilton, Ont. Among the distinguished guests who are scheduled to speak at the formal exercises in honor of Louisiana are Governor W. W. Heard, Professor Alcee Fortier, Hon. R. I. Broussard and Professor J. B. Aswell. Aug. 22 on the exposition calendar has been set aside as Syracuse day. Mayor McGuire will head a large delegation to do honor to that city.

Governor J. Hoge Tyler and staff of Virginia will be here on Friday the 23d to celebrate Virginia day. They will be accompanied by the Richmond Light Infantry Blues and many prominent Virginians. Their state exercises will take place in the Temple of Music. This day will also be known as Mohawk Valley day, which will be made particularly interesting by the A. A. U. gymnastics which will take plaee in the Stadium in the afternoon.

BIBLE CONFERENCE.

The Seventh Annual Meeting Opens at Winona.

WARSAW, Ind., Aug. 19.—The Winona Bible conference opened its seventh annual meeting at Winona Lake yesterday, the opening devotional service being conducted by S. Gordon of Cleveland, chairman of the Ohio evangelization committee.

The opening sermon was preached by Rev. J. Wilbur Chapman, director of the conference. This was preceded by a Bible class meeting, in charge of Rev. W. G. Moorehead, president of the United Presbyterian Theological seminary at Xenia, O. Other services were held, Rev. J. W. Vandewater conducting the illustrated service for young people and Rev. George L. Robinson of the McCormick Theological school at Chicago preaching yesterday afternoon.

The hillside service, corresponding to Northfield's "Round Top" meetings, was conducted by Todd B. Hall, the Baltimore detective evangelist. Almost the entire summer population of Winona attended this service. Rev. John McNeill, an eminent divine of Glasgow, delivered the evening discourse in the Auditorium, following the Y. P. S. C. E. meeting and song service. Among the prominent pastors on the grounds are Rev. Cornelius Woelfkin, Brooklyn; Rev. George T. Purves, New York; Rev. L. W. Munhall, Philadelphia; Rev. Alexander Patterson, Chicago; Rev. A. A. Fulton, Canton, China, and Bishop J. W. Hott, Dayton, O.

FATAL EXPLOSION.

Molten Metal Causes Three Deaths. Many Injured.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Aug. 19.—An explosion of ten tons of molten metal in the blast furnace department at the Ohio plant of the National Steel company resulted in the death of three workmen and in the injury of 11 others.

The dead are Richard Richards, Joseph Buggs and John Cruikshank.

The injured are Steve Stahma, Michael Yachyko, Michael O'Brien, Andrew Kahut, Joseph Dymenko, John Steffan, Andrew Burgess, Andrew Magyar, George Jakubese, George Puvlik and George Jvanizak.

Stahma and Yachyko are in a dying condition, and at least six others of the injured are not expected to survive. The accident was the result of the machinery which controlled the ladel which contained the molten mass breaking and letting the metal drop into a tank of water.

Honors For Archibald.

REPORT FROM EVANS

What It Costs to Run the Pension Bureau.

INFORMATION FOR G. A. R. MEN.

Statement Submitted by the Commissioner In Advance of Regular Annual Report—Figures Compared With Previous Years.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—Commissioner Evans has prepared a statement showing the operations in principal features of the pension bureau during the last fiscal year as compared with former years.

Most of the data will be embodied in his annual report, and the statement is prepared for the use of the national encampment of the G. A. R., which will be held before the report is ready.

It shows that the number of pensioners on the rolls June 30 last was 997,735, a net gain of 4,206 over last year. The total net loss to the roll during the year was 43,586, which includes 38,153 by death, 853 by remarriage, 1,582 by minors reaching the age of 16, 1,538 by failure to claim pension and 1,460 from other causes. A comparative table shows that the roll for the year just closed is the high water mark in the history of the pension bureau, the next highest having been reached in 1898. Of the gains to the rolls during the year 3,849 were from the war with Spain. The losses include 2 from the Revolution, 215 from the war of 1812, 826 from the war with Mexico and 544 from the Indian wars. The gains to the roll since 1898 were 13,334 widows of the civil war and 5,604 from the Spanish war; total, 18,938. The net gain to the rolls in the four years was 4,021.

Pensions granted to widows under the act of June 27, 1890, during the year numbered 16,610, or nearly 4,500 in excess of those granted the previous year.

The pensioners on the rolls are classified as follows:

Survivors, 8,655; invalids, 739,994; widows, 249,086. These comprise 13,124 widows and the 8,655 survivors on account of old wars prior to 1861, 297,675 invalids and 88,822 on account of general laws, disability of service origin, mostly civil war; 438,114 invalids and 145,111 widows on account of the June, 1890, act, civil war disability not due to service; 650 army nurses and 3,555 invalids and 2,049 widows on account of the war with Spain.

The total amount paid to pensioners as first payments on the allowance of their claims during 1901 was $9,934,764, or $106,238 more than the first payments during 1900. This amount represents the arrears of pension, aggregating 675 claims allowed, to an average of nearly $1,500 each.

The fees paid to attorneys amounted to $591,245, an increase of almost $74,000, due to the Spanish war. At least 100,000 of the medical examinations held during the year resulted unfavorably to the claimants. The amount paid to pensioners under the general law during the year was $67,867,223, a decrease of $1,790,253 from the amount paid last year. It is believed that during the fiscal year of 1902 the payments under the general law will be exceeded by those of pensioners under the act of 1890. The Spanish war pensioners received $1,175,225, an increase over last year of $842,320, and the pensioners under the act of 1890 as amended May 6, 1900, received $66,973,481, an increase over last year of $1,207,402.

During the last 30 years the survivors of the war of 1812 and their widows have received $44,841,640, Mexican war $30,201,187 and Indian wars $5,402,054. The total disbursements for pensions from July 1, 1790, to June 30 of this year aggregate $2,763,350,033.

There were 45,860 claimants for pensions during the year. The pension rolls still contain the names of one survivor and 1,527 widows on account of the war of 1812, 1,086 survivors and 3,479 widows on account of Indian wars and 7,568 survivors and 8,109 widows on account of the Mexican war.

The bureau issued 109,608 certificates of all classes during the year, 44,225 being for original pension.

The number of claims pending July 1 last was 403,569.

The statement gives the following amounts of money paid pensioners under different administrations:

President Grant's first term, $116,136,275, an average per year of $29,034,064; President Grant's second term, $114,395,357, an average per year of $28,598,839; President Hayes' administration, $145,322,489, an average per year of $38,330,622; President Garfield's administration, $237,825,070, an average per year of $59,456,268; President Cleveland's first term, $305,636,062, an average per year of $76,409,165; President Harrison's administration, $519,707,726, an average per year of $129,926,931; President Cleveland's second term, $557,950,407, an average per year of $139,487,602; President McKinley's first term, $560,000,547, an average per year of $140,000,137.

Education In Cuba.

HAVANA, Aug. 19.—Senor Varona has issued a circular to the presidents of boards of education throughout Cuba reminding them that they should use great care in the selection of teachers and should not allow the political opinions of candidates to weigh for or against them. Recently complaints have been made that the appointments of teachers by boards of education have not been marked by fairness, and the Patria, the Realidad and the Nuevo Pais say the circular is much needed, although they express the opinion that nothing is likely to come of it.

Forest Fire In Oregon.

BAKER CITY, Or., Aug. 19.—A great forest fire is raging on North Pine and Fish creeks, and the destruction of a vast amount of timber is threatened. The weather is so dry and warm in the mountains that it will be almost impossible to stop the fire. The fire is likely to prove destructive to much ranch property.

THE STRIKE OUTLOOK

Corporation Expects to Run Monessen Plant Full Time.

CANNOT BE DONE, SAY STRIKERS.

The Carnegie Works Running Without a Break, Employers Claim. Strikers Are Hopeful—Strain Is Telling on Shaffer.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 19.—A party of strike breakers brought up from the south by special train were safely delivered in the steel mill at Monessen yesterday, and the United States Steel corporation expects to add that plant to the number running partly or in full with nonunion men within the next 24 hours. The Carnegie properties also resumed last night without a break in the forces operating them, and that fact, joined with a promise of an early start at Monessen, leads the steel officials here to take a very hopeful view of the situation. The strikers claim that men enough to start the Monessen mills cannot be obtained and that they have not yet shown their hand at Duquesne and the other Carnegie plants, but promise that later developments will indicate their strength to better advantage. It was anticipated that there would bbe trouble when the nonunion men reached Monessen, for the strikers were watching the railroads and river and had expressed a determination to prevent the entrance of the strike breakers. The men who were handling the movement for the steel corporation successfully veiled their action, however, and had their charges safely within the plant hours before it was known definitely by any one on the outside that the men had arrived. They were brought to Monessen by special train and were landed at 4 o'clock in the morning. It is not known how many men were in the party or where they were obtained. The mills are guarded, and the men will be kept on the premises until all danger of trouble ceases. Bunks for about 50 men have been erected, and large quantities of food have been purchased for them. A fence has been thrown around the property and guards posted to keep out all intruders. The strikers will undoubtedly make an effort to induce the strike breakers to quit, and the fear is expressed that there will be trouble if any demonstration is made against the men or property. The situation there is regarded as very delicate.

The steel managers may succeed in getting another mill on today at the Painter plant. Two mills were operated there last week with nonunion men, and part of another crew was got together last week. Just as soon as enough men are available the third mill will be started.

The strain of the strike is telling on the physical strength of President Shaffer. He was ill yesterday and kept to his bed most of the time. He declined to see any of the many callers who sought him, and his wife, who met them in his stead, explained that he was worn out and sick and must have rest in order to carry on his work.

His friends are afraid that if the strike is prolonged he will break down. Ever since the strike began he has given his personal attention to every detail of it, and, although he has had assistance and the counsel of his associates, the real responsibility has rested upon him. He was unwell on Saturday and in discussing hih health said: "I simply must not get sick. I have not time at this stage." He is a man of large physique and ordinarily very strong, but has lost in weight and color during the last two trying months.

McKeesport had a rather exciting day. Early in the morning the strikers were told that during the night a special train bearing strike breakers had passed through on the way to Monessen. Couriers were at once sent out and an effort made to locate the mysterious train. Later in the day a carload of immigrants was found at Brown's Station, and the strikers were sure they had found the nonunion men. Next it was reported that the Demmleter tin mills were to be started, and the watchers around the plant were doubled. Pickets patrolled the river banks and railroad depots, and every suspicious stranger was closely watched. Pittsburg was very quiet. All the properties affected by the strike were closely watched by pickets, but nothing happened.

There is talk of the possibility of an extension of the strike to other trades. The structural iron workers and bricklayers are becoming directly interested through the question of handling material made by the United States Steel corporation. The strike leaders say that they have the absolute promise of support from these two trades and that they will refuse to handle nonunion made material. They cite a number of instances where the structural men and brick masons have shown their sympathy and spirit.

Opinion is divided here as to the ultimate action of the Chicago men. Assistant Secretary M. F. Tighe is generally understood to be working among the Chicago men, and some confidence is expressed in his ability to bring them over. Some of the strike leaders are credited with saying that they care more about the moral effect of getting the strikers out than they do about the impairment of the mills there. Mr. Tighe is expected here today.

Ben I. Davis, member of the advisory board of the Amalgamated association, discussed the situation freely. He said:

"The idea that because we are not striking for more wages the sympathy of the people is not with us is a mistaken one. The workingmen of America realize the full meaning of our struggle for a principle for which the forefathers of this country fought. It is the right guaranteed by the constitution of the country. It is equal rights with the trust to organize and maintain prices. They say they do not object to our organization, but in the same breath tell men in nonunion mills that if they belong to our organization they will lose their positions. It is this fundamental principle that has brought out the thousands of workingmen in McKeesport. It is this principle that is bringing to our support every true American workingman in the country. It is one of the greatest battles for organization that has ever been fought. There is but one and to such a battle with the men so determined as our men are. The coming out of the thousands of men in McKeesport is only a sample of what will occur in all other sections. There is absolutely no truth in the reports that there si dissatisfaction among the idle men in McKeesport. They are standing solidly and will not return to work under any agreement short of a recognition by the trust that the Amalgamated association has a right to organize its mill workers without interference from the officers of the companies.

"The present situation is perfectly satisfactory to the organization. It will be learned soon that our organization has wonderfully recuperative powers and will revive no matter how hard the blow dealt to them."

Chicago Men Take No Action.

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—The situation at the Illinois Steel works at South Chicago is unchanged. The report that the Amalgamated men employed at the mills who last week refused to obey President Shaffer's order to strike were to hold a conference yesterday with Assistant Secretary Tighe of the association looking to a reconsideration of their action was unfounded.

There was to have been a regular meeting yesterday of Commercial lodge, the smallest of the two local lodges of the association, but no meeting was held, it having been agreed that the two lodges shall meet only in joint session.

Assistant Secretary Tighe, the emissary of President Shaffer, and Mr. Davis, vice president of the Fourth district, went to East Chicago on invitation of the steel workers employed there at the independent mills. What was the object of the visit is not known at present.

Mr. Tighe in speaking of the probability of the men at South Chicago reconsidering their action of last week said:

"I will make no further effort with those men unless they come to me and ask for a conference. They are not now members of the association, and nothing can be done until they are reinstated."

Everything Quiet at Bay View.

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 19.—Everything was quiet at Bay View yesterday. The majority of the strikers remained at their homes, and some of them gathered in little knots on the streets and discussed the strike. The fires at the Bay View plant have been put out with the exception of the blast furnaces, the output of which is not operated in this city. It is said 400 men are employed in the blast furnaces. Some of the leaders at Bay View hope for a compromise between the United States Steel corporation and the Amalgamated association within the next two weeks.

All Quiet at Joliet.

JOLIET, Ills., Aug. 19.—All is quiet in Joliet. Men are busy perfecting plans for keeping the local situation well in hand. At a meeting of the lodges interest centered in reports from South Chicago. Great hopes are entertained by the leaders that South Chicago will follow the lead of Joliet and Bay View. A joint meeting of four local lodges has been called. No attempt to start up the plant here is anticipated this week. The wire mills will be compelled to shut down before the end of this week. This will throw out 2,000 additional men.

To Sell Bethlehem Iron Company.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., Aug. 19.—The stockholders of the Bethlehem Iron company have voted almost unanimously to accept the price of $7,500,000 offered by the Bethlehem Steel company for the big steel and ordnance works here, and an hour later the directors consummated the deal. The steel company, it is said, has a purchaser for the plant, and it is generally believed that this purchaser is Mr. Charles M. Schwab, president of the United States Steel corporation, and it is also believed that he will buy the property for the Vickers-Maxim company and the Cramp Shipbuilding company. The works employ 4,000 skilled mechanics.

War on Gamblers In Mexico.

CITY OF MEXICO, Aug. 19.—The government has decided on waging war on the gambling houses, and Minister of War Reyes will issue a circular order to call army officers notifying them if they are found in any gambling establishment they will be dismissed from the service and be turned over to the civil authorities. It is reported that the cabinet has decided that no more licenses shall be granted to public gambling houses, this order to go into effect on Sept. 10. All public employees are to be warned that gambling will involve their dismissal. Merchants and bankers sustain this move heartily.

Is French Army Disloyal?

PARIS, Aug. 19.—In the course of a speech at a prize distribution in Auxonne General Andre, ex-minister of war, made a sensation by declaring that the commanders of the various army corps had received letters from one of the pretenders designed to seduce them from their duty, but the fact that the letters had been sent on to him proved the army to be loyal to the republic. General Andre did not say whether the pretender in question was Bourbon or Bonapartist.

GRATEFUL TO IRISHMEN.

Kruger Expresses His Views In an Interview.

LONDON, Aug. 19.—The Freeman's Journal of Dublin publishes an interview between Mr. Kruger and William Redmond in Hilversum, Holland, in the course of which the former president of the South African Republic, expressing gratitude for Irish support, said he regarded the Irish as "brothers in oppression" and urged the Nationalist members of the British parliament to continue their "efforts in the cause of justice and truth."

When asked concerning the effect of Lord Kitchener's recent proclamation and of Mr. Chamberlain's speeches, Mr. Kruger replied:

"My people are not to be frightened by such proclamations or speeches, which will only encourage them to continue the fighting.

"The British have used armed natives against the burghers from the beginning, but we have not used armed Kaffirs. It has always been against our principles to use the black man against the white."

Mr. Kruger emphatically denied the existence of a Dutch conspiracy against British influence in South Africa and repeated his former statements about the genesis of the trouble.

When asked regarding Great Britian's promises as to treatment of the Boers after surrender, he said:

"I know Great Britain's promises. You in Ireland ought also to know them. The British promise to lend us money to put things right. Then, if it were not repaid, our land would be taken. They ask us to allow a rope to be put around our necks and to call that freedom. We should be slaves."

After expressing his firm conviction that God in good time would give the Boers deliverance, he remarked:

"Even now we could rebuild our country, but to do so we must have full independence."

He emphasized the word "full." When asked about farm burning and the concentration camps, he exclaimed:

"Why do they fight women and children? There are our own men to fight against. I do not believe the British people know what is being done in their name. If they did know, they would stop it."

Mr. Kruger said nothing had been definitely settled on the subject of a visit to the United States. According to Mr. Redmond, his appearance belies the idea that he is breaking up either mentally or physically.

SOUTH AMERICANS FIGHT.

President Castro Sends Aid to Colombian Rebels.

WILLEMSTAD, Island of Curacao, Aug. 19.—President Castro of Venezuela some days ago sent to Cucuta, Colombia, ammunition, arms and men to assist the Colombian revolution.

Emilio Fernandez, former governor of Caracas under President Castro and subsequently administrator of customs at La Guayra, who finally declared against Castro, has left Curacao, accompanied by 60 partisans, with the avowed intention of invading Venezuela.

It is also reported that Sagundo Rivera has effected a landing.

Unrest In Venezuela.

COLON, Colombia, Aug. 19.—Statements made by passengers who arrived here Saturday on the steamer Canada from Venesuelan ports clearly show that there is considerable political unrest throughout Venezuela. The passengers were not permitted to land indiscriminately. No authentic version of the recent border engagements could be obtained from any of them, but the evidence all points to serious internal dissensions. It is reported here that the insurgent general Ruis has landed near Panama from the south, probably from Guayaquil.

Ecuadoreans Ready to Fight.

QUITO, Ecuador, Aug. 19.—A force of Ecuadorean troops is ready to invade Colombia, and a battle is imminent near Pasto, just beyond the Colombian frontier and about 150 miles northeast of Quito.

Hays to Be Renominated.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 19.—The Call says that the resignation of Charles M. Hays as president of the Southern Pacific company is an assured fact, and it can be stated on most positive authority that his successor will be Samuel Morse Melton, president of the Chicago and Alton company, located at Chicago. With the selection of Mr. Melton as president of the Southern Pacific company there can be no doubt that the Union Pacific Railroad company has absorbed the California system and the policy of the local railroad will be directed hereafter from the headquarters of the Union Pacific lines at Omaha.

Wireless Telegraphy to Salute York.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Aug. 19.—The British admiralty intends to install the Marconi system of wireless telegraphy on Cape Race in order to communicate with the British royal yacht Ophir, bearing the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York, when she approaches the Newfoundland coast in October. The idea is to prevent the possibility of an accident to the Ophir in waters where so many steamers have been wrecked during the present season.

Escaped From County Jail.

TRENTON, Aug. 19.—William O'Brien and Robert Hartman, prisoners, made their escape from the Mercer county jail. The men escaped by breaking through the roof of their cells. The cells had been made less secure by the tearing away of some timber in connection with the building of the new Mercer county courthouse. O'Brien and Hartman were serving short sentences for minor offenses.

Killed In Trolley Crash.

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 19.—One person was killed, one fatally injured and another seriously injured by a trolley car crashing into a carriage at Seventh and Delaware streets in this city. Miss Luey Bevins was killed. Ed Wusmuch received fatal injuries, and Miss May Bevins was badly cut about the face and head. The victims, all of whom live in Kansas City, were in the carriage.

Held Up a Tram Car.

MELBOURNE, Aug. 19.—Four masked men armed with revolvers held up a tram car in the suburbs of Melbourne late last night and rifled eight passengers of their money and jewelry, after which they decamped.

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 19.—Queen Sophie of Sweden is again seriously ill.

COMMISSION'S WORK.

Progress Made by Officers In the Philippines.

MAIL STEAMERS ARE REQUIRED.

Satisfactory News Received by General Chaffee From the Provinces of Batangas and Mindoro—Men and Munitions Captured.

MANILA, Aug. 19.—Both the civil and military officials are gratified at the progress now being made by the Philippine commission. Everywhere throughout the northern islands the commissioners find conditions ready for civil government, and General Chaffee has received none but satisfactory news from Batangas and Mindoro, advices from those districts telling uniformly of captures and surrenders. Many rifles have recently been obtained and large quantities of supplies secured. Malvar and his principal officers are being closely pressed.

Representative Julius Kahn, who left Manila yesterday, says the great needs of the Philippines are a fast line of steamers to carry the mails and to keep the people in touch with current events, electric cars and the removal of the nipa houses from Manila, these to be replaced by villas.

Mr. Kahn conversed with many educated natives and got the impression that they were by no means all sufficiently versed in popular government to manage the affairs of the archipelago.

Quartermaster General Ludington has been considering the possibilities of obtaining coal in the Philippines at a cost below the Japanese figures. In the opinion of those qualified to judge, however, the coal available in the archipelago is inferior, and the cost of transporting it to the coast, where transports could load it, taking into account the present exorbitant prices of everything, labor included, would bring the total outlay probably above the Japanese figures.

The government offices are finding it difficult to retain the services of the best stenographers, as private firms offer much higher compensation.

The municipal board holds daily sessions, but most of the business transacted at present deals with minor appointments.

Governor Taft has wired General Chaffee asking permission to appoint Captain William H. C. Bowen of the Fifth United States infantry to be governor of the province of Abra, owing to the local jealousies, which render a local appointment difficult.

MacArthur Reaches Frisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 19.—The transport Sheridan has arrived from Manila with General MacArthur and staff and the Fourteenth infantry, under command of Colonel Quinton, composing her passenger list.

The Keystone Republicans.

HARRISBURG, Aug. 19.—The indications are that Wednesday's Republican state convention will be a very peaceful gathering and that Judge William Potter of Pittsburg will be nominated to succeed himself on the supreme court bench and that Representative Frank G. Harris of Clearfield will be the nominee for state treasurer. They are the only avowed candidates, and the prospects are their nomination will be made by acclamation. United States Senators Quay and Penrose, both of whom are away on vacation, will not attend the convention. State Chairman Reeder and his assistants will come to Harrisburg today to open headquarters and arrange the preliminaries of the convention.

Hero of Two Wars Dead.

HARRISBURG, Aug. 19.—General Joseph F. Knipe, a hero of two wars, died at his home in this city after a lingering illness. He fought through the Mexican war with General Scott and in the civil war he participated in all the battles in which the Twelfth corps took part from Chattanooga to Atlanta. He afterward served as chief of cavalry in the army of the Tennessee. He retired in 1865 at his own request as a brigadier general, after having declined a colonelcy in the regular service. He was postmaster of Harrisburg during the Johnson administration and at the time of his death was connected with the state department.

Drowned In Merrimac River.

HAVERHILL, Mass., Aug. 19.—Frank Judge and David Rafferty of Lawrence were drowned in the Merrimac river at Rafferty's island. Judge got into the current and sank from exhaustion. Rafferty and several others went to rescue him and were too late, and Rafferty went down, being unable to stem the current. The others got to shore with difficulty. Both men who were drowned were strong swimmers.

Cubans Suspicious of Palma.

HAVANA, Aug. 19.—"The supporters of Estrada Palma are propagating the idea," says the Realidad, "that he is the American government's candidate for the presidency of Cuba and the only man who will be accepted by the United States. But there is no evidence to support this contention. All the Americans want is a man who accepts the Platt amendment."

Germany to Increase Tariff.

BERLIN, Aug. 19.—The standing committee of the German agricultural council has adopted a resolution demanding the double tariff system in the case of agricultural products. For instance, the resolution calls for a minimum tariff of 6 marks on grain products and higher rates for animals, dairy products and vegetables.

Waldersee Praises the French.

PARIS, Aug. 19.—The Echo de Paris publishes an alleged interview with Count von Waldersee, in the course of which he highly praised the French soldiers and expressed a belief that war between France and Germany was an impossibility.

Volunteer System In Germany.

BERLIN, Aug. 19.—The Lokal Anzeiger, reviving the report that the German government intends to establish a colonial army of volunteers, declares that Count von Waldersee has been consulted and that the project will shortly be carried out.

Injured at Race Track.

SARATOGA, Aug. 19.—James McCue, aged 40, connected with Barney Schreiber's racing stable of St. Louis, was fatally injured at the race track.

Jersey Is Fortunate.

New Jersey has been blessed, indeed, for the past month in escaping the drought which has swept over the western States, carrying death and destruction to the crops. Through part of that section rain fell several days ago but the crops were ruined long ago and all but the sturdiest streams dried up. In other places, the rain has not fallen for two months and the farmers have been compelled to feed their cattle as in the winter. While there was a short period late in June when it appeared as if a drought had begun in Jersey, it was soon broken by rains and they have continued ever since with great regularity.

The result of this evenness of rainfall is that New Jersey never looked more beautiful than it does today. The grass and foliage are still as green as in the spring, but show the fuller development of mid-summer. A drive through the rural sections of central Jersey presents many charming pictures. There are few places more beautiful. While the scenery may be grander or more sensational, the picturesqueness and true beauty of the country through which the Watchung Mountains stretch is the equal of anything east of the Rocky Mountains.

Those Plainfielders who, for various reasons, are now spending the major portion of the heated season in this city can find no more delightful trip than a drive or wheel ride through the hilly region which lies to the north of Plainfield. There is no more satisfactory way of entertaining summer visitors here than by showing them these same beauties of nature which such a trip opens to the view. Thanks to the county and State road acts, the good roads extend all over that portion of the State and make many pleasant trips possible.

The time is now only three weeks away when the public schools of this city will resume their activity and the autumn term will begin. Each year shows an increase in the attendance at the schools, particularly in the lower grades, where the accommodations have to be increased almost constantly to keep pace with the growth in the juvenile population. This year will probably see this usual increase, and the Board of Education will be compelled to better its facilities for teaching the little ones. Already the schools of Plainfield are known throughout the length and breath of the State for their excellence, and it is only right that the good work along the educational lines should be continued.

A meeting of the Board of Trade is called for this evening. It is to be hoped that the board will be successful in its attempt to secure a location in Plainfield for the new factories of the Ingersoll-Sargeant Drill Company. It is a great opportunity and should not be neglected. The company does not want to locate in the wilderness, but right on the edge of some city of fair proportions. There should be no difficulty in finding the proper site either in the east or west end.

Poor Paterson! It has the sympathy of its more fortunate neighbors. A letter was mailed in Passaic, addressed to "Hell, N. J," and the postal authorities sent it to Paterson. There was a time when Hoboken would have received it but the recent happenings, which have kept Paterson before the public eye, have given the world a different view.

The close proximity of a swamp, where the mosquitoes breed with much rapidity, may have something to do with the failure of the public to patronize Recreation Park, the trolley entertainment project, in paying quantities.

It is now possible to send in a fire alarm from the boxes in the central part of the city without hunting all over the neighborhoood for a key. Glass fronts to some of the boxes have just been installed.

It would be an excellent thing if the remaining telephone and electric light poles in city and borough were painted a dark green. They would be far less offensive in appearance with that change.

The first preliminary step in the local campaign was taken Friday night when the Republican city committee held a meeting. It did not prove a thrilling session, however.

Westfield is quite proud of its new hose carriage, which was presented to the Bucket and Engine Company No. 1, Saturday evening.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May Be Of Interest to Plainfield and its Citizens.

The Democrats in Paterson and Elizabeth tried to gerrymander those cities and were prevented. Then the Republicans decided to rearrange the ward lines on an equitable plan, and the horror-stricken Democrats who wanted to do it their way are throwing hand-springs and indulging in conniption fits in hopes of making somebody believe that the Republicans have been guilty of wrong-doing. Too thin. It is transparent as glass. —Jersey City Journal.

The Central Railroad Company has just added to its fleet of ferryboats on the North river a handsome vessel named the Lakewood, and, if current reports are to be credited, in a few weeks an equally well-appointed vessel, to be named the Bound Brook, will be placed in commission on the Liberty street ferry. Some months ago the local Board of Trade asked to have one of the boats named for our thriving town, and the courtesy thus extended will doubtless be appreciated by all of our citizens.—Bound Brook Chronicle.

* * * * * *

The Central Railroad has followed the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western in stopping card playing on their trains. A large number of commuters have whiled away the time, in riding to and from the city, in this way, and they object strenuously to having what they term an innocent pastime shut off in this summary way.

There have been many complaints, however, against the abuses which have crept in the game. It is said by observers that in many instnces young men are initiated into the gambling habit on the trains, and there have been numerous protests from religious societies sent to the company. The final action by the Central Company seems to have been hastened by a row over a game on one of the trains.

We believe the company has taken a wise stand. It may inconvenience a number of people who only had a pleasurable hour, while going to or from business, with no evil thought, but like all other practises, abuses have corrupted the play so that it has become an evil.—Somerville Unionist Gazette.

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence.)

Dunellen, Aug. 19—Dunellen is making rapid strides in the matter of having the sidewalks paved with flagging. The ordinance, which was recently passed by the Borough Council, provides for nearly half a mile of new walks. The gutters and road sides also have been greatly improved in appearance by having the weeds and grass cut down.

Burglars made another attempt to gain admission to a residence in the borough. They were seen Friday evening, trying the windows at William Blair's house, by Mr. Cook, who lives across the street. He happened to make a little noise in approaching them and they escaped without being recognized.

John Gallagher, the one-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Gallagher died yesterday morning. The cause of death was cholera infantum. The funeral will be held from the house tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock and the interment will be made in St. Mary's cemetery, Plainfield.

The Epworth League, of the Methodist church, united with the Christian Endeavor Society at the Presbyterian church, last night, and held a very good union meeting.

Mrs. Josephine Dunham, accompanied by her granddaughter, left yesterday for Portchester, N. Y., where they will remain a few days with relatives.

The Board of Trade of the borough has issued a booklet showing some of the attractions and advantages of Dunellen as a place of residence.

The pulpit of the Presbyterian church was supplied Sunday morning by Rev. Jos. Catanoek, of the Baltimore Presbytery.

The New York and New Jersey Telephone Company is erecting new poles and stringing new wires on North avenue.

Twenty young people from New Market and Dunellen spent Saturday afternoon and evening at Sewaren.

M. McGoven has been added to the Dunellen A. C. baseball team. He will play in the out field.

The regular monthly meeting of the Building and Loan Association will be held this evening.

Rev. Frank Fletcher preached Saturday morning at the Seventh-Day Baptist church.

William H. Terry has returned home after a visit with friends in Westfield.

Miss Emma C. Nelson has has been entertaining friends from Brooklyn.

NEW MARKET.

(Special Correspondence.)

New Market, August 19—Mrs. Celia Walker, of East Orange, who has been visiting her brother, John Kirchner, for several weeks, returned home yesterday.

Mrs. H. J. Randolph will sell at auction, August 27, several articles of household furniture and a fine lot of fowls.

Miss Stella Hollenbeck, of Orange, has returned home after spending a month with friends in town.

Miss Mary Jenner has returned home after spending a few days at Tarrytown, N. Y.

Mrs. L. H. Dantz has returned home from a visit with New Brunswick friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Pierce are spending the week at Asbury Park.

Isaac Lowrie will move to Somerville next week.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

(Special Correspondence.)

Scotch Plains, August 19—John Abbott narrowly escaped serious injury from fire Saturday. He was carrying a pocket full of matches, when in some mysterious way they became ignited and burned fiercely for a few minutes. His friends tore the burning clothing from him just in time. Aside from a ruined suit of clothes, Mr. Abbott is none the worse for his experience.

The local baseball team administered a severe defeat to the Orient Field Club, of Newark, Saturday, on the local grounds. At no time did the visitors have any chance of winning, the final score being 14 to 4. The batteries were Harvey and Albert for the home team and Goodman and Munion for the Orient Field Club.

Victor Coles, while working in his stable, was kicked in the head by a horse Saturday. He was quite badly cut and bruised but is able to be about today.

An interesting service was held at the Methodist church, by the Epworth League, last night. The song service was particulary good.

Mrs. Henry Hand has sold the old Mooney estate to John Mooney, whose grandfather formerly occupied it nearly a century ago.

Miss Marion Goodman has returned home after a few days' visit with Somerville relatives.

Walter Holborn has returned home from a week's outing among the Catskill Mountains.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Atken and family spent Saturday at Rockaway Beach.

Mrs. G. M. Shott has returned home after a few days outing at Asbury Park.

Mrs. W. D. Geer has returned home after a visit with friends in Brooklyn.

Miss Ada Kelby has returned home after a week's visit at the seashore.

Mrs. Wilcox is slowly improving from an attack of rheumatism.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

(Special Correspondence.)

South Plainfield, August 19—A cloudburst and landslide near the Vosburg tunnel on the Lehigh Valley Railroad Saturday, delayed many of the passenger trains several hours. The "Black Diamond" express was taken around the obstruction and reached South Plainfield fourteen hours late.

The Christian Endeavor Society held the only service at the Baptist church yesterday. A combination Scripture reading and praise service made a very interesting meeting.

Miss Mabelle Atman, of Trenton, has returned home after a few days visit at the home of Miss Nellie Manning.

Mrs. Charles Soper and son, Ralph, of Newark, have returned home after a visit with relatives in town.

Mrs. Fred Blackford is confined to the house by a stroke of paralysis.

Richard Geary has returned home from a visit at Cedar Grove.

WANTED TO GET A BEAT.

Thos. MacNabb Muir Just Escaped the Landslide at Vosburg Tunnel But Wanted to Go Back.

After enjoying the sights at the Pan-American Exposition and experiencing a touch of strenuous life in the backwoods of Canada, Thomas MacNabb Muir, of the reportorial staff of the Daily Press, returned to this city Saturday evening.

Mr. Muir came home on the last train on the Lehigh Valley, which passed through the Vosburg tunnel before a landslide occurred there. With difficulty the train men restrained Thomas from jumping from the cars when the train was moving at full speed. Mr. Muir explained that he wanted to be on the spot to secure a beat on the New York dailies.

TROLLEY RIDE.

Teachers And Members of Park Avenue Baptist Sunday-School on Outing.

A delightful trolley ride was enjoyed Saturday afternoon by thirty or more of the teachers and members of the Park Avenue Baptist Sunday-school who, with their superintendent, Geo. E. Hall, went to New Brunswick. On the return trip they stopped at the home of Mrs. A. I. Phillips, near Lincoln, where all partook of a bountiful supper. Games were played and a very pleasant social evening enjoyed by the party, who, after thanking their genial hostess for her generous hospitality, returned to Plainfield well satisfied with their afternoon's outing.

NATIVE OF SOMERSET COUNTY

JOHN VAN MIDDLESWORTH DIED AT HOME OF HIS SON.

Passed Away Yesterday Morning at Age of Eighty-Four Years—Well-Known Here.

John VanMiddlesworth, aged eighty-four years, died yesterday morning at 10 o'clock at the home of his son, Henry VanMiddlesworth, on Plainfield avenue, following an illness of several weeks.

Mr. VanMiddlesworth was born at Hillsboro, Somerset county, and at the age of nine years he commenced to learn the trade of a harnessmaker. He followed that trade up to three years ago, working at Colt's Neck, Keyport, Millstone and Somerville. At the latter place he engaged in business with his son, Henry, and they remained together for twelve years.

Mr. Van Middlesworth was married December 31, 1843, to Miss Emeline Stevenson, of Somerville. She died six years ago. During the past three years Mr. Van Middlesworth has lived in this city with relatives. Considering his age he was very active. Always of a jolly disposition, he made many friends. He was a faithful member of the Second Reformed church of Somerville. He leaves a daughter, Mrs. Samuel Bye, of Central avenue, and a son, Henry Van Middlesworth, of Plainfield avenue.

The funeral services will be held from the late residence, Wednesday afternoon, at 1 o'clock and at 2:30 o'clock from the Second Reformed church, Somerville. B. W. Hand will be in charge.

LIFE ON YACHT

Thrilling Times For Young Plainfielders Cruising In Vicinity Of Sandy Hook.

Reports from the yachting party of Plainfield boys who are cruising off the coast in the vicinity of Sandy Hook, indicate that they are having a delightful time. The start was made Saturday from Perth Amboy in the thirty foot yacht, Augusta, the party consisting of Homer Smith, Roy Phillips, Harold Phillips and Marcus Hoyt. They were joined yesterday for the day by Charles Woolston, who will meet them again Wednesday at Long Branch.

Saturday night the boys essayed to sleep on the upper deck of the boat, first taking the precaution to tie themselves to the mast with ropes. It was fortunate they did so as several waves passed completely over the boat completely submerging them and forcing them to get below.

DR. STIFLER'S SERMONS.

Preached Morning and Evening at First Baptist Church.

Rev. Dr. J. M. Stifler, professor of New Testament literature and exegesis at Crozer Theological Seminary, preached a sermon of rare excellence yesterday morning in the First Baptist church. His subject was "God a Consuming Fire" in apparent contrast but real harmony with his theme "God is Love," of the previous Sunday.

His evening discourse was a practical consideration of Christ's friendship dependent on faithful service.

Dr. Stifler is a speaker full of fine thought, clear and deep, and his illustrations are apt and forcible.

REV. MR. DILTS PREACHED.

Occupied Pulpit of Park Avenue Baptist Church Yesterday Morning.

Rev. Asa Reed Dilts, of Lowell, Mass., preached a most helpful sermon in the Park Avenue Baptist church, yesterday morning, from Isaiah xxvi, 3; "Thou will keep him in perfect peace whose mind is stayed on Thee; because he trusteth in Thee." There was a large audience present, all of whom were greatly pleased to listen to the forceful words of their former pastor.

Dip in the Ocean.

An enjoyable time may be expected at the Warren chapel excursion to Asbury Park, Thursday, August 29. It will be the final opportunity for a Plainfielder to take a dip in the ocean at a trifling expense.

Meeting of Citizens.

There will be a meeting of citizens this evening in the Board of Trade rooms to discuss the question of making a proposition to the Ingersoll-Sergeant Drill Company to locate in this city.

Miss Grace E. Adams, of Netherwood avenue, is spending a week with relatives in Orange.

USES OF LIQUID AIR.

There Is But Little Hope That It Will Ever Prove to Be More Than a Curiosity.

As there is reason to believe that a syndicate has been formed for the purpose of floating a limited company ostensibly for the commercial utilization of liquid air, one or two observations on this interesting substance may be timely, says the London Express.

In the judgment of the most prominent authorities on the subject, the commercial use of liquid air is not an economic possibility. It is true that a large number of suggestions have been made pointing to its adaptability for different purposes. It has been proposed as an explosive, and liquid air cartridges have actually been used (with indifferent results) for blasting. Mr. Tesla has been credited with its employment for increasing electrical conductivity, and thereby transporting electric energy for thousands of miles without loss. Liquid air, too, has been suggested as a motive power, a preservative, a caustic for medical purposes and for a variety of other singular employments.

It has to be borne in mind, however, that liquid air for power purposes costs 200 times as much as steam, requiring 200 degrees (Fahrenheit) of frost for its production, and that in any case it is expensive to make and most difficult of preservation. No doubt it excited great hopes on its entry into the world as a manufactured product, but the better informed now regard it as destined to relapse into the position of a mere scientific curiosity.

NO WASTE HERE.

What Is Done with Stale Bread by Small Merchants in the Large Cities.

A Long Island man who was showing a friend a couple of hunting dogs at his place the other day, looked up as he heard the sound of approaching wheels. "Here's the bread man," he remarked, says the New York Tribune, and as his friend gazed in surprise at the open cart laden with bulging sacks, thinking it the strangest baker's outfit he had yet seen, the owner of the dogs bought a barrel of the merchant's stuff.

"It's for the dogs, you know," he explained, as the wagon drove up. "Broken up and mixed with other things it makes good food for them. That man does very well with his stale bread business. He buys the bread at a low price in the city, when it is too old to sell to customers there. But it hasn't reached the dog food stage then by any means. He first retails it as long as he can to the Italians who work on the roads and do all the hard labor hereabouts. I believe they wash it down with beer of about the same state of freshness. Well, when the bread gets so stale that even the Italians can't eat it it is ready to be peddled around among the villages in the neighborhood. The farmers buy it to feed their pigs and chickens, and a good many people use it as I do, for their dogs, so there is no loss or waste to cut down the dealer's profit."

AN IMPERIAL HAIR-PULLING.

Germany's Emperor Has a Queer Way of Showing It When He Is Annoyed.

The French find much diversion in lampooning Emperor William of Germany. One story they tell is not so bad nor to the monarch's discredit. The German emperor when in any way crossed or contradicted, pulls violently at the lobe of his right ear with the thumb and forefinger of his right hand. When he was staying in England at the time of the queen's funeral he received a telegram and opened it in the presence of one of his smart little nephews, a boy of six. Something in the telegram did not altogether please his majesty and he at once began to tug at his ear. The little fellow looked up and said: "Tell me, uncle, why do you pull at your ear?"

"Because I am annoyed, my darling," was the reply.

"Do you always do that when you are annoyed?" said the boy.

"Yes, my darling," said his majesty.

"And when you are very, very much annoyed what do you do?" persisted his juvenile inquirer.

"Then I pull somebody else's ear," said William II.

WIRES TELL THE WEATHER.

Strands of the Telegraph Found to Be Accurate Meteorological Prophets.

There are no more reliable weather prophets anywhere than the telegraph wires that are now so common as to be "within the reach of everyone," as bargain counter hustlers express it. This novel discovery was made by a German physician in the following manner: As he was waiting for a train at a country station he heard a shrill sound, which was made by the wind as it passed through a network of nearby wires. At once the doctor remembered that he had frequently heard a similar sound either immediately before or after a storm or a heavy fall of rain or snow, and it naturally occurred to him to try and ascertain whether there was any connection between the sound and such changes in the weather.

As a heavy shower of rain fell within 48 hours after he had heard the sound at the railroad station he concluded that there was such a connection, and he then determined to investigate the matter thoroughly. As a result he now maintains, first, that any unusual disturbance in the telegraph wires is an infallible indicator of bad weather, and, second, that the nature of the changes in the atmosphere may be learned from the sound which the wind makes when passing through the wires.

Thus a deep sound, he says, which is of considerable or medium strength, indicates that there will be slight showers of rain with moderate winds within from 30 to 48 hours, and, on the other hand, a sharp, shrill sound is the sure token of a heavy storm, which will be accompanied by much rain or snow.

SPIDERS WITHOUT EYES.

Yet They Hunt Their Prey With Accuracy in the Subterranean Depths.

A miner may be superstitious, but he is as plucky as man as breathes. One creature, however, most of them shy at the sight of. This is the great, bloated, white spider, which rustles along the walls of the shaft and disappears in some cleft in the rock. Naturalists for a long time would not believe that these spiders were really cave dwellers. They declared that they were merely ordinary spiders that had fallen or crept into the mines. But at last one was brought to a famous naturalist, and found by him to be absolutely without eyes. This proved beyound doubt that for centuries the creatures' ancestors had lived beyond the reach of sunlight.

A spider, even if he does live in the depths of the earth, must eat, and more recently his prey has been discovered. It is a sort of small beetle. Another scorpion-like insect, called the blothrus, also takes his blind way over the rocks and stalks by sound and touch the same prey. It is a wonderful thing to watch one of these creatures hunting a beetle, and almost impossible to realize its absolute blindness when one sees how perfectly its movements correspond with those of its intended victim.

ITALY'S DISCONTENT.

Strikes on the Farms Caused by Poor Pay, Poor Food and Socialist Agitation.

From the 15th of June to the 15th of July the wheat, rye and barley harvests are in progress in Italy and the socialists are taking this critical time in the agricultural industry to spread the gospel of discontent against the conditions of labor, wages and taxation. It is feared that large farmers will be ruined by strikes among farm laborers. On an average two strikes a day have occurred in Italy since February, the movement affecting all trades and classes of working men. At any moment it is feared that a spark might kindle a conflagration. The socialist leaders plead for peaceful means for bettering the conditions of labor, but the Italian people are inflammable and they are notoriously underpaid and underfed. They are so largely in the majority that they hold the remedy in their own hands, if they would but use their power intelligently, and toward a definite end. But the mass of the people are miserably ignorant as well as poor, and feel doubly helpless and impotent. They have only brute strength and lives to throw away in fruitless revolution.

PURPLE FOR MULDOON.

Chancellor of the Archdiocese of Chicago Is Created Auxiliary Bishop by the Pope.

Rev. P. J. Muldoon, pastor of St. Charles Borromeo's church, has been chosen auxiliary bishop for the Roman Catholic archdiocese of Chicago.

His appointment was confirmed by the authorities at Rome, June 11, and although no definite day has been set for his consecration, it is thought the services will be held August 24 at the Holy Name cathedral, Chicago.

The news of the selection of Father Muldoon did not come as a surprise to his friends in the church, as it had been expected in ecclesiastical circles that Rome would take such action.

RT. REV. J. P. MULDOON.
(Auxiliary Bishop of the Catholic Archdiocese of Chicago.)

Rev. P. J. Muldoon has been prominently before the Catholic public for the last ten years. Born at Columbia, Cal., in 1863, his elementary education was received in the schools of that town. At the age of 14 years he was batriculated at the collegiate school of St. Mary's, Louisville. Graduating from that institution, he pursued his studies for the priesthood at St. Mary's seminary, Baltimore. He completed his course when 23 years old and was ordained and admitted to the priesthood.

His first assignment was as assistant to Father Henneberry, the pastor of St. Pius' church, Chicago. There the young clergyman began to assert himself and make his activity felt, first in the affairs of the parish and then of the archdiocese.

His ability as a director was recognized early and he was appointed chancellor of the archdiocese of Chicago. During the world's fair he attracted much attention as secretary of the Catholic exhibition, which received such favorable recognition. In 1895 he resigned the chancellorship to become the pastor of St. Charles Borromeo church, Twelfth and Cypress streets.

COL. STOWE RESIGNS.

United States Consul General at Cape Town Unable to Live on the Salary Allowed.

The resignation of James G. Stowe from the office of consul general of the United States at Capt Town, Cape Colony, has been received at the state department. Col. Stowe says the salary or $3,000 is not sufficient for his expenses, and he is, therefore, compelled to leave the consular service.

Cape Town, he explains, is the most expensive place in the world, but the salary is not as large as that of some consuls at posts where living is cheap. Other governments recognize this, and

COL. JAMES G. STOWE.
(United States Consul General at Cape Town, S. A.)

Col. Stowe points out that the consul of Spain there gets $1,200 more than the salary of the American consul general, the Dutch consul $2,000 more, the French, $4,500 more, and the German, $7,000 more, and this in the face of the fact that American trade interests in Cape Colony are more extensive and important than those of any other country. In addition to their salaries, some foreign consular officers at Cape Town are furnished with residences, rent free, while the American consul general pays his own rent.

Col. Stowe remarks that it cost him nearly a year's salary, traveling expenses not being allowed to the United States consular officers, to bring his family of three from the United States to Cape Town and back to the United States. When he came home recently on leave of absence he was obliged to leave his family here, because it cost too much to take them back.

Col. Stowe's legal residence is Kansas City, Mo. He has been consul general at Cape Town since January 10, 1898.

Proceedings of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union County.

[OFFICIAL.]

Regular meeting of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the county of Union, N. J., held on Thursday, August 1, 1901, at 2:30 p. m.

Roll-call showed the following members present, viz:

Director Hubbard and Freeholders Adams, Bonnel, Brucklacher, Cady, Farrell, Gerstung, Krouse, King, McCandless, Miller, Robison, Scudder, Swain, Wahl, Westphal and Woodruff—17.

The minutes of the previous meeting (reading of bills being omitted) were on motion approved as read.

PETITIONS, COMMUNICATIONS, ETC.

From Charles A. Schneider, Jr., calling attention to a metallic protective case made by him for the purpose of preserving and protecting from the weather the lists of names of registered voters as displayed for their inspection by the public at the time of election.

After being read in full it was received and referred to the Public Buildings Committee.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

By the Committee on Bridge on Westfield Avenue:

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union County:

Gentlemen—Your committe report that they have spent about $2,300 on bridges and culverts on the widening of the avenue, which is all that is necessary for the purpose, and your committee would recommend that an appropriation of $1,700 be expended on the Westfield Avenue and Filbert Street bridge, as the old bridge is too small to carry the water.

(Signed) Noah Woodruff,
John Farrell,
Henry Krouse,
Committee.

Freeholder King moved that the report be received and accepted, and the communication therein contained adopted, which was so ordered on roll call by a unanimous vote.

By committee on bridge over a branch of Elizabethtown creek, etc.:

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union County, N. J.:

Gentlemen—Your committee would report that they have examined the old bridge and found it in a very bad condition, and would recommend a new bridge 24 feet in length, with a 13-foot space, at a cost not to exceed $250.

(Signed) Noah Woodruff,
Henry Krouse,
Fred. Miller,
Committee.

Freeholder Farrell moved that the report be received and the recommendation adopted, which was so ordered on roll call by an unanimous vote.

By the Committee on Turkey Road bridge at Springfield:

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union County, N. J.:

Gentlemen — The Committee on Turkey Road bridge at Springfield would report that they have examined the same and find it is not large enough, and would recommend the Board to build a new bridge not to cost more than $850.

(Signed) N. W. Bonnel,
Joseph McCandless,
John F. Wahl,
E. K. Adams,
John M. Cady,
Committee.

Freeholder Miller moved that the report be received and the resolution therein contained adopted, which was so ordered on roll-call by an unanimous vote.

NEW BUSINESS.

By Freeholder Westphal:

"Resolved, That a committee of five be appointed to examine as to the advisability of building a bridge over Cedar Brook on Netherwood avenue in Plainfield, and report as to probable cost of same at next meeting."

On motion of Freeholder Farrell the resolution was adopted without dissent.

The director appointed as the said committee Freeholders Westphal, King, Gerstung, Scudder and Robison.

The following bills, properly audited and approved, were read, and, on roll call, unanimously ordered paid, viz:

GREAT BEAUTIES.

Many Handsome Faces Are Found Among the Women of Cashmere, India.

Many of the women of India, and especially those of Cashmere, are beautiful. In a typical Hindu beauty the skin is just dark enough to give a rich, soft appearance to the complexion, says a London journal. The features are regular, the eyes mild and black and shaded by long silken lashes, the hands and feet are small and well formed, the demeanor is modest, the manner is gentle, the voice low and sweet. There are fine-looking women among the middle class Hindus, as well as among the upper ten, and even among the lower class the faces are often very pleasing. Many a Hindu woman who has, perhaps, little pretensions to beauty of face, has, nevertheless, the step and carriage of a princess, and if one is not too fastidious about perfection of eyes and mouth and nose her figure as she walks down the street with her load on her head is truly a beautiful sight.

File Of Alligator's Teeth.

A remarkable operation was performed by a dozen keepers on a 13-foot alligator which is kept in the Bronx zoo at New York. The alligator, which is a powerful animal, showed signs of fierceness for some time. He wound up one morning by killing an eight-foot companion in the same tank. Then it was decided that the big one's teeth should be cut. A rope with a sling was lowered over his head and drawn taut; the tail was similarly treated. Each one of the legs was next secured in a like manner. By patience and repeated trials a lasso was got into the ponderous jaw. The alligator gave a bite and the rope parted like thread. Then a wire rope was secured. This was finally got into place.

Sticks were pried between the jaws to keep them from clashing together. Thus held, the reptile lay helpless and the work of sawing off some of the longest and most dangerous teeth was soon accomplished.

A washerwoman living in South Bend, Ind., had for a long time suffered from dyspepsia, until one day she gave Ripans Tabules a trial. Her own statement of the result will be of interest to other dyspeptics: "From the very first day," she said, "I felt less misery in my stomach, and when the first supply was gone, I went to the druggist and got more, and have been using them ever since, and very thankful I am to know about them, for I had tried so many things and herbs and doctors without getting any better. I had about given up getting anything to help me, but to-day I can eat quite a large meal and feel no distress, but before, if I took two or three mouthfuls, I must wait two or three hours before eating more victuals, or suffer in agony."

The Latest Styles In Mountain and Golf Costumes.

Golf suits are being made much more fancy than formerly. Circular ruffles are now the rule and not the exception. One of the new skirts shows an overskirt effect cut in points and stitched flat.

The jacket, which is a blouse, fastens with a succession of these stitched pointed effects.

The smartest golf hats are of pure white felt trimmed with a white breast speckled with black. Another pretty style consists of a pearl gray felt trimmed with a breast of cock's feathers. This is very pretty when worn with a suit of hunter's green.

A PLAID SUIT.

Golf coats are newer than golf capes. They are semifitting and come in three-quarter length. They are made of the regular double faced golfing goods, and the collars and cuffs are made of the plaid. A novel touch consists in having the buttons of plaid silk.

Today's picture shows one of the latest golf costumes. It is made of gray plaid and is lined with white silk. The loose sack coat is cut quite short, with a double breasted effect, and a wide sailor collar. This collar is edged with a broad band of stitched white cloth. There is a similar band around the cuffs. The skirt is all laid in plaits except the front gore, which is left plain and outlined with two rows of buttons. The plaits are stitched flat to within ten inches of the bottom, where the fullness is allowed to flare. With this suit there is worn a tucked waist of white flannel finished at the neck with a black satin four-in-hand.

The jaunty hat is made of stitched felt, and it is trimmed with a frill of white ribbon and two gray quills.

The Newest French Styles Turn Up In Front.

Sunburnt straws, yellow tuscans and leghorns are very popular, and the newest blossoms are black marguerites with yellow centers, black cowslips touched with yellow and black buttercups with the fluffy centers in yellow. These flowers are very chic placed on yellow straw with big alsatian bows of fancy ribbon. These bows lie perfectly flat and are fixed to the projecting brim, while a simple twist goes around the back.

The turban toque immensely tilted at the side is gradually disappearing, and the big hat almost concealing the forehead is not such a success as was predicted. On the contrary, many of the new styles are made to turn away from the face, and it requires a skillful milliner to obtain this result and at the same time retain the projecting front.

One of the latest Parisian hats is the subject of the illustration. It is made of ecru straw with a facing of tucked black mull and a bow of shaded coral taffeta, from which three black ostrich feathers droop gracefully. A little bow of black tulle gives a chic touch to the coral taffeta waist which is worn with this dainty toque. JUDIC CHOLLET.

"He tells a perfectly straight story. He says he has an old friend who is so desperately ill and out of money—that he got a doctor for him and had been nursing him himself. Those things he carried are medicines and wine that the doctor bade him buy. All he asks is to take them to his friend's room and get a nurse, then he is ready to go to camp and stand for his trial, so I told the sergeant I'd be responsible."

"Oh, thank you so much! Do see that the poor fellow isn't punished. We'll drive right round. Perhaps we can do something. It is Red Cross business, you know. Good afternoon, colonel. Please tell our driver to follow them."

But, to her consternation, no sooner had they started than she felt Nita's trembling hand grasping her wrist, and turning quickly saw that she was in an almost hysterical condition.

"My poor child, I had forgotten you were so worn out. I'll take you home at once—but then we'll miss them entirely. Oh, could you bear—"

"Oh! No! No!" moaned Nita, wringing her little hands. "Take me—anywhere. No! Take me home—take me home! and promise me not to—not to tell my husband what we saw."

CHAPTER XI.

For a man ordinarily absorbed in his own command, Col. Stanley Armstrong had become all on a sudden deeply engrossed in that of Col. Canker. The Frosts had been gone a week via Vancouver—the expedition only about 16 hours—when he appeared at Gordon's tent and frankly asked to be told all that tall southerner knew of the young soldier Morton, now gone from camp for the third, and, as Armstrong believed, the last time.

"Why, that young fella's a bawn gentleman," drawled Gordon, as he offered the colonel a chair and cigar. "He was behavin' tip top, steady as you please, until about a month ago. He's only been with us since 1st of May—came with a big batch of recruits—a regular athlete, you know. Then after he'd drilled awhile I nailed him for headquarters clerk. I never knew him to be off an hour until about four weeks ago. The men say another young fella came out here one night, had a talk with Morton, and they went out together. He got regular permission. Nobody has set eyes on his friend out here since that time, but Morton got three passes to town in ten days, and Squeers happened to want him, and gave orders he should have to be consulted hereafter. 'Bout a fortnight since, by Jove, Morton lit out suddenly and was gone 48 hours and was brought back by a patrol, perfectly straight, and he said he had to go on account of a friend who had been taken very ill and was a stranger here. Squeers let him off with a warning, and inside of three days he begged for a 24-hour pass, and Squeers wouldn't give it. He went without it, by George! It was just about the time the Prime family arrived, looking up the boy they heard was in your regiment. This time there was big trouble. The patrol sent for him went directly to the lodgings of his sick friend, and there they found him and he laid out two of our best men for forcing a way into the room. They told me your carriage nearly ran over him the day of the review. Then came that dam fool charge about his being mixed up in this robbery. Then his escape from under Billy Gray's nose, by Gawge, and that's the last of him. Canker sent a party in to look him up at the usual place, and both birds had flown, both, by Gawge! The sick man was well enough to be driven off in a carriage, and there's nothing further to tell as yet."

"I wish I had known about him earlier—before the Primes came," said Armstrong thoughtfully, knocking the ashes off his cigar. "Of course you divine my theory?"

"That Morton is the missing son and heir? Of course. Now that I've seen Miss Prime the family resemblance is strong. But if he wanted to soldier, what's to prevent? Those tents yawnduh are full of youngsters better educated than I am," and Gordon arose, tangling a long, lean leg in the nearest camp stool, which he promptly kicked through the doorway into the sailing fog outside. It was barely 11 o'clock, but already the raw, wet wind was whistling in over the barren, sandy slopes and dunes, and the moisture dripped in big drops from the sloped rifles of the men marching sturdily in from drill.

"Yawnduh comes the Prime carriage now, by Gawge," continued the adjutant, as he limped to the entrance. "Ole man seems all broke up, don't he?" Armstrong had promptly risen and came striding to his comrade's side.

"Naturally," was the answer. "He had hoped much from this visit. The boy was just under 21 when he enlisted, and, as his father's consent was lacking, a discharge could have been ordered. It may have been fear of that that drove the youngster off. Where is the carriage—and your glasses?" continued the colonel, looking about until he found a binocular.

"Comin' right down the road back of the officers' tents. Reckon it's another visit of condolence to Gray. You know I shouldn't wonduh if this arrest of his didn't prove a blessin' in disguise for that lucky boy."

No reply coming to this observation, Gordon glanced over his shoulder. Armstrong was replacing the glasses. Again the adjutant hazarded:

"—I was saying' this arrest may be, after all, the biggest kind of blessing in disguise for that lucky Billy. Yes, by Jove! They're comin' to his tent. That's a splendid girl, ole man."

"Miss—Prime, you mean?" calmly queried Armstrong, striking match after match in the effort to light a fresh cigar, his face averted.

"Miss Prime I don't mean," answered Gordon, glancing curiously at the senior officer. "Not but that she's a most charming young lady and all that," he hurriedly interpolated, southern chivalry asserting itself. Then with a twitch about the lip: "By the way, ole man, those cigars light better from the other end. Take a fresh one."

Armstrong quickly withdrew the ill-used weed from between his strong, white teeth, gave it one glance and a toss into the waste basket.

"No, I've smoked enough. But how can they see him? How about that sentry over Gray's tent?"

"Huh! Chief made them take it off directly he heard of it," grinned Gordon. "Moses! But didn't Squeers blaspheme!" And the adjutant threw his head back and laughed joyously over the retrospect. "Yes, there's that curly-headed pate of Billy's at the tent door now. Reckon he was expectin' 'em. There they are, ole Prime, too. Don't be in a hurry, colonel."

They had known each other years, these two, and it had been "Armstrong" and "Gordon" when they addressed each other, or "ole man" when Gordon lapsed into the semi-affectionate. To the adjutant's southern sense of military propriety "ole man" was still possible. "Armstrong" would be a soldierly solecism.

"I am to see the general before noon," said Armstrong, gravely, "and it's time I started. If you should hear of your runaway let me know. If you shouldn't, keep our views to yourself. There's no use in rousing false hopes." With that Armstrong turned up the collar of his overcoat and lunged out into the mist.

Gordon watched him as he strode away, the orderly following at the conventional distance. The shortest way to general headquarters was up the row of company officers' tents in front of the still incarcerated Billy; the longest was round back of the mess tent and kitchen. Armstrong took the latter.

That escape of prisoners was still the talk of camp. Men had come by battalions to see the tunnel, observing which Canker promptly ordered it closed up. Opinion was universal that Canker should have released the officers and men he had placed under arrest at once, but he didn't. In his bottled wrath he hung on to them until the brigade commander took a hand and ordered it. Canker grumblingly obeyed so far as the sergeant and sentries were concerned, but entered stout protest as to Gray.

"I still hold that officer as having knowledge of the scheme and aiding and abetting. I can prove that he telephoned for that carriage," he said.

"At least there's nothing to warrant the posting of that sentry at Mr. Gray's tent, Col. Canker," said the brigadier, with some asperity. "Order him off at once. That's all for to-day, sir," and the man with the starred shoulders "held over" him with the silver leaves. The latter could only obey—and objurgate.

But Canker's knuckles came in for another rasping within the hour. The brigadier being done with him, the division commander's compliments came over per orderly, and would the colonel please step to the general's tent. Canker was fuming to get to town. He was possessed with insane desire to follow up that boarding house clew. He believed the landlady could be bullied into telling where her boarder was taken, and what manner of man (or woman) he was. But down he had to go, three blocks of camp, to where the tents of division headquarters were pitched, and there sat the veteran commander, suave and placid as ever.

"Ah, colonel, touching that matter of the robbery of your commissary stores. Suspicion points very strongly to your Sergt. Foley. Do you think it wise to have no sentry over him?"

"Why—general," said Canker, "I've known that man 15 years—in fact, I got him ordered to duty here," and the colonel bristled.

"Well—pardon me, colonel, but you heard the evidence against him last night, or at least heard of it. Don't you consider that conclusive?"

Canker cleared his throat and considered as suggested.

"I heard the allegation sir, but—he made so clear an explanation to me, at least, and besides, general"—a bright idea occurring to him—"you know that as commissary sergeant he is not under my command—"

"Tut, tut, colonel," interrupted the general, waxing impatient. "The storehouse adjoins your camp. Your sentries guard it. Capt. Hanford, the commissary, says he called you last night to notify you that he had placed the sergeant under arrest, but considered the case so grave that he asked that a sentry be placed over him, and it wasn't done."

"I dislike very much to inflict such indignity on deserving soldiers, general," said Canker, stumbling into his self-made trap. "Until their guilt is established they are innocent under the law."

"Apparently you apply a different rule in case of officers," calmly responded the general, "vide Mr. Grey. No further words are necessary. Oblige me by having that sentry posted at once. Good morning, sir."

But to Canker's dismay the officer of the guard made prompt report. The sentry was sent, but the sergeant's tent was empty. The colonel's pet had flown. This meant more trouble for the colonel.

Meantime Stanley Armstrong had hied him to Gen. Drayton's headquarters. The office tents were well filled with clerks, orderlies, aides and other officers who had come in on business, but the meeting was by appointment, and after brief delay the camp commander excused himself to those present and ushered Armstrong into his own private tent, the scene of the merry festivities the evening of Mrs. Garrison's unexpected arrival. There the general turned quickly on his visitor with the low-toned question:

"Well—what have you found?"

"Enough to give me strong reason for believing that Morton, so-called, is young Prime, and that your nephew is with him, sir."

The old soldier's sad eyes lighted with sudden hope. Yet as he passed his hand wearily over his forehead, the look of doubt and uncertainty slowly returned. "It accounts for the letters reaching me here," he said, "but—I've known that boy from babyhood, Armstrong, and a more intense nature I have never heard of. What he starts in to do he will carry out if it kills him." And Drayton looked drearily about the tent as though in search of something he didn't quite know what. Then he settled back slowly into his favorite old chair. "Do sit down, Armstrong. I want to speak with you a moment." Yet it was the colonel who was the first to break the silence.

"May I ask if you have had time to look at any of the letters, sir?"

"Do I look as though I had time to do anything?" said the chief, dropping his hands and uplifting a line and haggard face, yet so refined. "Anything but work, work, morn, noon and night. The mass of detail one has to meet here is something appalling. It weighs on me like a nightmare, Armstrong. No, I was worn out the night after the package reached me. When next I sought it the letters were gone."

"How long was that, general?"

Again the weary hands, with their long, tapering fingers, came up to the old soldier's brow. He pondered a moment. "It must have been the next afternoon, I think, but I can't be sure."

"And you had left them—?"

"In the inside pocket of that old overcoat of mine, hanging there on the rear tent pole," was the answer, as the general turned half round in his chair and glanced wistfully, self-reproachfully thither.

Will Nasturtium Win the Epsom Derby of Next Year

WILL lightning strike twice in the same place in the great Epsom derby? That is the query asked oftenest by followers of racing when discussing the future of stake animals. To win the classic that Volodyovski, a leased horse, placed to his credit, with an animal bred in America, is the one hobby of that multi-millionaire turfman, W. C. Whitney. Already, as a mere "starter," this rich patron of racing has expended nearly $60,000. If money, good training and the best horseflesh obtainable will accomplish it, Mr. Whitney expects to further humiliate the British at Epsom in 1902, by taking the blue ribbon event with his recent purchase, Nasturtium.

In these days of "strenuous work" in turf circles, the payment of $50,000 for a colt is not a nine-days' wonder. If Mr. Whitney could be guaranteed with a reasonable amount of certainty that Nasturtium would be a likely starter and a finisher at the head of the field at Epsom next June, it is no exaggeration to say that instead of $50,000 which he paid for this son of Imp. Watercress and Margerique, the millionaire might have paid $150,000. When the rich take to bidding for turf prizes, simply to gratify their desires to possess winning animals, trainers and owners are greatly benefited—the sport in general is immeasurably benefited. But between now and time for the animals to go to the post at the historic Downs, before the great holiday crowd of England, there will be a tremendous load on the minds of both Nasturtium's owner and his trainer.

To guarantee the rich owner of the colt some return for his big investment it will be the work of Trainer John W. Rogers to see that this costly pet is given the very best of treatment.

Beside the strange tale of Nasturtium's rise into the prominent position in the world of turf, his career, his first owner's good fortune and his new owner's ambitions, such stories as the purchase of Dr. Rice several years ago, by Fred Foster, so that he might win the Brooklyn; the buying of Uncle Bob a few hours before the American derby by the stable confederacy that became certain he would win; Clarence Mackey's investment of $20,000 in His Eminence, with a view of capturing the Washington park classic for three-year-olds—all sink into mediocrity.

It was but a few weeks ago that Trainer Jimmy McLaughlin—the man who was once a premier jockey—patted the neck of this two-year-old beauty, walked with him to the paddock gate and gave the jockey final instructions how to pilot the youngster in his first race. The man who employed McLaughlin and who owned Nasturtium, sat in the stand and watched the colt win thousands of dollars in wagers for him. Tony Aste, sometime bootblack in New York city, smiled when Nasturtium won, made a mental picture of the stake engagements his good-looking colt had, and said something like this: "He will bring me $50,000 some day."

Like a flash the colt was in the public eye. His breeding was grand and his form in racing spoke much power, stamina and speed. Then when Nasturtium placed the first part of the double event to his credit, the buzz of conversation at night after the day's sport in the racing enclosure was punctuated by the word "Nasturtium." Idols there have been in great numbers since Yorkville Belle, His Higness, Domino, Yo Tambien and the later favorites Imp and Robert Waddell, but Nasturtium became a "wonder." In his palatial home, W. C. Whitney heard this expression of the public's favor. His agent followed the colt's engagements through the books, and reported that the son of Watercress was eligible for the English derby.

Would Tony Aste, the former bootblack, take $50,000 for this piece of horseflesh? "Just offer it to him," said Mr. Whitney, and the check had no sooner been flashed than Aste nodded his head. The man who had made a comparatively large fortune in six years—his capital a little over five years ago might have been about two dollars—increased his bank roll by 50 crisp $1,000 bills when he cashed that check. Jack Point, a Brighton handicap winner; Sudducee, Demurrer, Dum Dum and Phoenician, all bread winners, are left in Aste's stable. There is a great possibility that the former bootblack may clear much more on the animal than will the immensely rich ex-secretary of the navy.

What care the turf critics if the gossipers say that Nasturtium is not owned entirely by Mr. Whitney? It is said to be true that J. B. Haggin, another very wealthy turfman and breeder of fine thoroughbreds, has a half interest in the colt. But this is characteristic of the regard that Mr. Whitney has for the success of turf operations. He is willing to share his animal with his friend, for if Nasturtium should win the classic abroad, Mr. Whitney's ambition will have been satisfied, and the colt will be of great value to the American stud.

Sentiment is not wasted on $50,000 beauties about a great racing stable, even if the public is all "wrapped up" in the wonderful bit of horseflesh. Unceasing care and constant attention, rather than pandering, are the by-words with the stable attendants. Monotonous in the extreme, from the human point of view, is the life of a high-strung race horse, but there is something very democratic about it after all. All horses look alike to the trainer, provided he is a conscientious man who knows his business. He demands just as much of the $50,000 animal as he does of a selling plater. In other words, if a trainer departs from his rules of training, to such an extent that the permits the thought of a horse being worth more than another because he cost a great deal more, he is likely to begin to pet and favor the costly animal, and the result is certain failure when the racing tool is called upon to accomplish something in a race.

As Nasturtium is the colt of the hour in the east, so the plain little iron gelding, Robert Waddell, winner of the fourteenth American derby, is the animal of the hour in the west. Turfmen there are who are not swayed by sentiment, who kept their own council when Jockey Bullman piloted this Virginia bred animal a winner in the big stake ahead of Terminus and The Parader, who watched Robert Waddell's subsequent performances with palpable expressions of satisfaction on their countenances. They saw him win from a good field at six furlongs and show that he liked the distance. Then they saw him do what the critics could not hope to see a three-year-old do—give away weight to everything in the Oakwood handicap at nine furlongs and win a grand race. With every succeeding victory the faith of these expert turfmen in the merit of the derby winner grew stronger.

Reluctantly the trainers of the modern school have accepted the evidence that Trainer "Virginia" Bradley produces results with his system of work, and they are even discussing the probability of the phlegmatic Virginian talking so much about Waddell that James R. Keene, owner of Commando, will feel called upon to agree to a special race in which his grand colt will have the ordinary looking but game Robert Waddell for a rival.

Because of his quaint ideas on training, "Virginia" Bradley was said to have raced his iron horse Blitzen too much. The same charge was made when he sent Traverser over miles of country in palace cars, to fill engagements at tracks widely separated, with scarcely a breathing spell left for the animal. And Boney Boy, the handicap animal that could not cast a shadow when he was first brought from the Bradley stock farm at Wilcox's Wharf, Va., they said was being raced to death. But Bony Boy grew and gained in weight and was a good bread winner.

"It is Mr. Bradley's idea that race horses were intended for racing, and he is so constituted that he never permits any sentiment to govern him," said Mr. Pomeroy, the well-known racing official who is said to be the only man in the west who can get "Virginia" Bradley to hold a five-minutes' conversation. "Some of the trainers think he is antiquated in his ways of training, but the results are what tell. Of one thing the public may be assured: Mr. Bradley is a rough diamond—he's human. He would not do a cruel thing to a horse for all the world. He never asks of

SPORTING.

ON THE DIAMOND.

Owing to the impossibility of securing another date after cancelling the game scheduled with the Roselle A. C., the St. Mary's baseball team did not play Saturday afternoon. The Roselles crossed bats with the Springfield team and were beaten by a score of 5 to 4. The next game of the St. Mary's team will be with the Prospect Park Y. M. C. A. team, of Brooklyn, on the latter's grounds, Saturday afternoon. The Prospect team was defeated by the St. Mary's last June by a score of 5 to 4.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

Raritan is preparing for a big day September 7. In the morning handicap bicycle races will take place on the macadam roadway on J. B. Duke's estate. In the afternoon a baseball game will be played by nines from Hunterdon and Somerset counties, and in the evening there will be a band festival. Bands from New Brunswick, Flemington, Somerville and Raritan will participate. The affair is being arranged by the Crescent Cornet Band, of Raritan.

GOLF.

George Richards, of East Front street, a member of Hillside Tennis and Club, Golf has won fresh honors. Saturday on the East Gloucester Golf Club course, he won a cup offered by the president of that club.

Ten men on a side competed for the golf ball pool in the pick-up team match, which was an event of golfing interest at Jefferson, N. H., Friday. There were local representatives on both teams, A. R. Fisk defeating his opponent 1 up, while J. Whitney Baker, of the opposing team, was defeated 1 down.

ROD AND GUN.

George Apgar, Monte Knight and Charles Everitt caught a large mess of fish at Bound Brook Saturday.

A haul of 600 crabs was made at Raritan Bay yesterday by Charles Sutterlein, Carl Schweitzer, William Yantz and Harry Bennett.

NEW INSTRUCTOR.

To Have Charge of Commercial Department at City High School.

James D. Macnab, business manager at the South Jersey Institute at Bridgeton, has been selected by the Board of Education to fill the vacancy in the commercial department at the Plainfield High School, caused by the resignation of George Weeks Sandford.

In addition to assisting in the management of the institution, Mr. Macnab has also been commercial teacher for several years and is thoroughly acquainted with this branch of work. He is a graduate of Bucknell University and also the Trenton Normal School. He comes to Plainfield highly recommended and will enter on his new duties at the beginning of the fall term which opens September 10.

MET A TREE.

Acquaintance Was With Such Force That Bicyclist Was Rendered Unconscious.

Edward Simpson, the ten-year-old grandson of Mrs. James Killoran, of East Fourth street, met with a peculiar accident while riding down that thoroughfare in the dark Sunday evening. He collided with a tree with such force that it threw him to the ground, rendering him partially unconscious. He was taken to Dr. Browning's office, where it was found he had dislocated an elbow. The injury was attended to and the young man is now recovering nicely.

The afternon was marked by a much larger attendance and numbered among those competing for the Golf Committee cup are many who have played every Saturday during the season. Saturday's scores do not affect the leaders and Mrs. N. Pendleton Rogers is still in the lead with six points. Her nearest opponent is C. Wesley Abbott with five and one-half points. He finished fifth and failed to increase his lead, while C. C. Burke, Jr., who holds third position with five points, finished seventh and could not therefore increase his lead.

Thomas R. VanBoskerck won first place in the competition and is given a place with three points with six others, who have the same number of points. W. L. Glenney finished second with a net score of 83, which gives him two points and makes him tie with E. A. Stevenson and Walter Peterson with four and one-half points each. Mr. Peterson finished in third place and the additional point gives him a total of four and one-half. Some of the best players were not out Saturday, but their return to the course later on is sure to make this competition one of the greatest interest to all interested.

DEATH OF YOUNG WOMAN.

Passed Away at Her Home in Westfield Saturday.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, August 19.—The death of Miss Alice Lee, the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Corydon Tyler, of this place, occurred at her home on Willow auenue, Saturday. She was twenty years of age and had been ill for a long period. She was very well known in Plainfield, where the family resided at one time. The funeral services will be held from the residence of her parents this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Married in a Quiet Manner.

In a very quiet manner, Craig Pelhamas and Miss Frances Hopkins, two popular colored young people of this city, were married yesterday afternoon at the personage of the Mount Olive Baptist church. Rev. E. E. Jackson, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony in the presence of a few intimate acquaintances. The young couple will go to housekeeping at once.

Fell On His Face.

A stranger fell from a trolley car near the corner of Richmond street and LaGrande avenue Saturday afternoon. His face was cut and bruised and he also sustained a nervous shock.

Charless Brownell, of Elmwood place, has returned to his work at the Pond Machine Tool Company's plant, after a severe illness.

BIG TIME FOR COLORED FOLK

ALL IS READY FOR THE EMANCIPATION PROCLAMATION CELEBRATION.

Will be Held at Vail's Grove August 29—The Programme—Those in Charge.

All is ready for the great celebration, which the colored citizens of this community purpose to hold at Vail's grove, Thursday August 29. The mass meeting is in commemoration of the publication of the emancipation proclamation. The famous federal order, which freed the colored people from bondage in this country, will be recalled by eminent speakers of the race.

Miss Alice Maynard has been selected to read the immortal document which helped to end the Rebellion. The life of the martyr President, Abraham Lincoln, will be reviewed in an address to be delivered by Frederick White and the Declaration of Independence will be read by Miss Minnie Mitchell. A chorus of forty trained voices will furnish the vocal music, while a brass band will render martial airs. Some choice and appropriate selections will be given by Miss Maud Mitchell.

Hon. Jesse Lawson, who is well-known in this city, has consented to deliver the oration of the day. Mr. Lawson holds an official position under the Federal Government and his address will no doubt be interesting.

Other speeches will be made by prominent citizens in this vicinity. Should the weather be unfavorable, the exercises will be held in the Mt. Olive Baptist church. An invitation has been extended to the public in general to attend this affair.

The committee in charge of the arrangements consists of Charles Barbour, William Bunton, Samuel Fields, John A. Scott, William Outlaw, William Jeter, Thomas Washington, Charles Shelton, William Jones.

Attending to the matter of decorations is a separate committee, of which J. A. Scott is chairman. The grove managers are Spencer Conway, William Phillips, D. W. Brown and William Downs. The helping hand committee consists of Mrs. S. M. Fields, chairman; Mrs. William Dempsey and a number of prominent colored women.

"BIG SOCKS" CAPTURED.

Police Believe That He Was Implicated in Demko and Dealaman Robberies—Held in Plainfield.

The efforts of Chief Kiely, of the police department, to run down the perpetrators of the robbery at the home of Mrs. Demko at Dunellen, two weeks ago, have been rewarded. Frank Harrison, a character known among his companions as "Big Socks," who is believed to be implicated in the outrage, is safely behind the bars at police headquarters.

From the description furnished by Chief Kiely to the Newark police, the latter believed that "Big Socks" was one of the men wanted and he was accordingly arrested Saturday morning. When brought to this city, he was confronted by Mrs. Demko, who failed to identify him. She stated, however, that there was one man in the quartette, who robbed her, whom she did not see.

Sergeant Frederickson and Roundsman Flynn positively identified "Big Socks" as the man who shot at them when they were in pursuit of the burglars who entered Adam Delaeman's store, in Dunellen, November 11. On that occasion the officers chased the man until he disappeared in a woods in the vicinity.

This morning "Big Socks" was brought up before Justice Nash and was remanded for a further hearing tomorrow morning.

Hard-Hearted School Trustee Capitulates to Teacher's Charms.

Fate of a Man Who Wanted Anti-Marriage Pledges from Young Women Causes Some Excitement Among Students.

There was some excitement in one of the New York normal schools last week over the approaching marriage of one of last year's graduates.

It seems, says the New York Sun, that some of the brightest young women of the class that was graduated last year were made unpleasantly conspicuous around commencement time by their refusal to comply with conditions which a school trustee sought to impose. He represented a well-known high school in central New York in which the salaries paid to teachers made employment desirable, and he had no difficulty in engaging the best students of the class as teachers. Before the contracts were signed, however, he caused a flutter of indignant protest by stipulating that the young women should pledge themselves to remain unmarried for two years.

He explained this unusual request by stating that frequent changing of the teachers was detrimental to a school, and that the teachers previously secured had been married off so rapidly after assuming their duties that the trustees felt themselves obliged to ask this pledge, in the best interests of the school. Very seldom, he said, a teacher stayed more than one year, and the trustees usually received a resignation from their primary department during the holidays.

He did not know why this department should be especially conducive to matrimony, but the fact remained as stated. The teachers captured eligible young men of the place, or else through homesickness or perhaps the unaccustomed drudgery of earning a living they capitulated to some long-suffering patient swain at home. At any rate, matrimony made the departments vacant often enough to threaten to demoralize the school.

SHE HAD A SWEETHEART.

"I will not hire a young woman who is engaged or has a sweetheart," he concluded, firmly.

There was an embarrassing moment for the graduates. When he finished his speech then the best-looking young woman rose to the occasion.

"I am not exactly engaged," she confessed, "but I plead guilty to having a sweetheart, so you may count me out."

The others explained elaborately that while they did not wish to marry, at least not for a long time, they did object to binding themselves with a pledge of that nature. They complained that it was a restriction on their personal liberty and ridiculous, anyway. After much heated discussion they respectfully declined the offered places, and the trustee was obliged to make a second selection.

Again his conditions were stated, and flatly refused. By this time the news had spread among the graduates, and groups of students discussed the matter in the corridors, while the trustee continued to interview young women of marked ability, but not so prepossessing in appearance as his first choice. As fast as these interviews ended bulletins were got out showing the state of the market, and the general consternation gave way to unrestrained mirth.

Eight of the class applied in a body for the department places stating that they were plain and unattractive in looks, and that the complete absence of personal charm rendered any one of their number immune to the fascination of his eligible young men, and made a pledge of the nature asked unnecessary. The trustee, in no enviable frame of mind, made his escape, but returned later in the day and appeared before the assembled class to withdraw his stipulation. He was applauded to the echo, and the vacancies in his school were filled without further difficulties.

The most popular girl in the institution, as well as the class, was one of the chosen, and it is the announcement of her engagement and approaching marriage that caused the ripple of excitement and amusement in that normal school last week, for she is to marry—that trustee!

Vegetable Food Gives Strength.

The strongest animals exist entirely on vegetable food. It is the ferocity of the lion rather than his strength that makes him formidable. An elephant is a match for several lions, and is a vegetarian. The animals with most speed and endurance—the horse, the reindeer, the antelope and others—are also vegetarians.

Ancestry of the Ostrich.

The ostrich is a descendant of a genus of bird which in prehistoric times attained an enormous size. In the alluvial deposits of Madagascar evidence has recently been found to show that ostriches 14 and 15 feet in height once lived on the island.

WORKING TO SECURE DRILL CO.'S FACTORY.

Available Site Selected at Meeting of Board of Trade Last Evening.

SEEMS TO FILL THE BILL.

COMMITTEE APPOINTED TO OBTAIN INFORMATION REQUESTED.

Letter Received From Vice-president Saunders, of the Ingersoll-Sergeant Drill Co., Stating What Company Desires

Despite the fact that it marked a critical point in the history of Plainfield, but fourteen citizens assembled at the open meeting of the Board of Trade, last evening, to discuss plans and projects tending to induce the Ingersoll-Sergeant Drill Company to locate its new plant in this city. Of those present more than half were energetic members of the board, who have the interests of the city at heart, while the others were influential citizens who wish to assist in the growth of the municipality. The rest of Plainfield's population was conspicuous by its absence.

It was fully 8:30 before President Woolston rapped for order. The minutes of the last meeting of the board, held in April, when the municipal water question was discussed, were read and several other matters of minor importance dispensed with, after which the paramount question of the evening was brought up in a communication from Former Mayor W.L. Saunders, of North Plainfield, vice-president of the Ingersoll-Sergeant Drill Company.

In his letter Mr. Saunders stated that while his company prefers to await the report of its agent, John J. Swan, before making a personal investigation, he wished the board to distinctly understand that two things are necessary before any overtures are to be made for the location of the plant: First, that the tract of land on which the buildings are to be located must be at least 100 acres in extent; second, that the land must be located in or on the borders of a populous city, in order that the plant might be easy of access for workmen.

In addition to this, Mr. Saunders asked a number of pertinent questions tending to secure a basis in estimating the cost of erection and the subsequent operating expenses. They included queries in regard to the water supply, sewer connection, gas and electric light, location of railroads and shipping facilities, freight rates, cost of coal, taxes, educational facilities for workmen's children and lastly, what the proposed site could be bought for cash down. This constituted the company's side in the matter, none of its representatives being present.

From this communication it may be seen that the greatest drawback Plainfield has in securing the prize is the furnishing a suitable plot of ground. Following the reading of the communication, one—and the only one—available site was immediately spoken of by J. T. Vail, which he declared would fill all requirements. It is the property consisting of 163 acres of ground on the south side of the Central Railroad tracks, west of Rock avenue, partly situated in the borough of Dunellen and known as the Tingley farm. The only obstacle which may hinder its purchase is the fact that South Second street runs through the property, and this would have to be closed. The street, however, has only been opened up, but never accepted by any municipality, while it terminates at present at the end of the farm without any outlet. This fact may assist in its being abrogated if it becomes necessary.

The natural advantages afforded by this tract were thoroughly discussed and, from a number of those present acquainted with the land, it was learned that it will answer the purpose satisfactorily. The matter of lights, freight rates and other necessities will have to be inquired into, and for this reason a committee, consisting of J. C. Pope, J. T. Vail and Charles W. Runyon, was appointed for the purpose of acquainting itself with the facts and placing itself in communication with the Ingersoll-Sergeant Company.

Both Plainfield and Dunellen will furnish schools and tuition which will compare with any in the country while two water systems pass within easy reach of the land. Sewer connection can easily be made and all other details mentioned in Mr. Saunder's letter can be complied with. This comprised the entire discussion in regard to the securing of the factory and further developments will depend upon the future action of the committee.

The remainder of the evening was devoted to a revival of discussion of the partially abandoned North Avenue station and the reading of the two communications from prospective factory erectors. The trend of the depot discussion showed the business men have lost none of their dislike for the deserted appearance of the old station and that they desire a change as much as ever. The result was the appointment of L. B. Woolston, R. A. Meeker and F. W. Runyon to wait upon General Passenger Agent C. M. Burt at the first opportunity afforded and present their grievances.

The most important of the factory communications was from George Donning, of Manhattan borough, New York, who asked for inducements to locate a factory in this city for the making of a labor saving device, the factory to employ 500 hands. As Mr. Donning failed to state just what his requirements were, the secretary was instructed to write for further particulars.

The other communication was from the Union Specialty Manufacturing Company, of Newark, which also asked for propositions for the location of a 500 hand factory in Plainfield. As most of the members of the board were of the opinion that their entire spare time and attention will be taken up with the Ingersoll-Sergeant matter, it was deemed best to refer this letter to some agent who was interested in local property, at the same time acknowledging its receipt. This completed the evening's business and the meeting adjourned.

IS IT POLITICS?

Philadelphia Record Says Politics Are Cause of Removal of Drill Factory From Easton.

"Politics Drives Out Plant" is the way the Philadelphia Record characterizes the intended move of the plant of the Ingersoll-Sergeant Drill Company from Easton, Pa. It is said that because the directors of the company are dissatisfied with the political situation in Pennsylvania, they are considering a change. Those interested in the corporation claim that the investment of capital at Easton, under existing political conditions, is unsafe. The Easton Despatch states that the plant may be moved to either Newark or Elizabeth.

When W. L. Saunders, vice-president of the company, was asked this morning regarding the above statement, he was non-committal and had nothing to say by way of refutation. Mr. Saunders left today for Maine, where he will remain until September 1.

IN INTEREST OF CAMP.

Endeavorers of Warren Chapel Will Hold Interesting Meeting.

In the interest of the Westfield Fresh Air Camp, the Christian Endeavor Society of Warren chapel will hold a special meeting this evening. Arthur N. Pierson, of Westfield, and others have promised to make appropriate addresses.

The object and methods of the institution will be explained and a general effort will be made to elicit support for the continuance of the camp. A collection will be taken during the course of the evening.

SEA FOOD MARKET.

Jerry Voss Will Open One on Park Avenue in a Short Time.

Jerry Voss, who for some time past has been in charge of the sea food department at Fred Endress' market, has resigned his position in order to enter business for himself. He will shortly open a first-class sea food market on Park avenue, next to the Postal Telegraph office. Mr. Voss has followed the fishing business all his life and is thoroughly conversant with all its branches.

Tumbled From Wheel.

Miss Edith DeLong, of New York, who is spending the summer on Washington avenue, took quite a serious tumble from her wheel one day last week. She was descending the Sycamore avenue hill when her wheel struck an obstacle and she was thrown headforemost over the handlebars. There was a cut on her arm that required several stitches and she was otherwise cut and bruised.

Able to be Out Again.

George Egel, of Somerset street, who was injured in a collision July 4, was about the streets for the first time yesterday. Mr. Egel, it will be recalled, was severely hurt in a collision, on Somerset street, between a delivery wagon driven by him and a trolley car.

Meeting of Company K.

There will be a special meeting of Company K tomorrow evening. A full attendance of members is desired.

NEW JERSEY'S LIBRARY ONE OF THE FINEST.

There Are Few States In the Union That Can Compare With It.

STORY OF ITS DEVELOPMENT

STATE APPROPRIATES $3,000 ANNUALLY FOR ITS SUPPORT.

Made a Beginning in 1796 and Has Since Been Growing Steadily—Now Contains 53,000 Volumes—New Library Room.

The State of New Jersey possesses today what is credited as being one of the finest libraries owned by any State in the union. The library has is located on the top floor of the rebuilt portion of the capitol and is fitted throughout with all modern conveniences. It is not the size of the collection numerically speaking which makes the library a valuable one, but rather the great care and choice evidently taken in selecting the volumnes.

It is essentially a study for reference and research and in this respect it compares favorably with many more famous collections. With the exception of a few books written by women of this State, the library is devoid of works of fiction. In the library at the present time there are 52,171 volumes and it is growing at the rate of 2,000 books per year. The sum of $3,000 is allowed by the State for the purchase and care of books and with this meagre amount some valuable works are collected.

The State has a right to feel proud of the library because of its development from a badly sorted shelf of miscellaneous books, back in 1796, to a handsome library of 53,000 volumes of the present day. Then Mitchell Ewing, clerk of the House of Assembly, was ordered to buy a cheap bookcase and put the books in, so they could be handy for reference. When he got them all together he had a bookcase well filled, and this was the beginning of the State Library.

When the members saw the little library, it awakened pride in them and all took an interest in it, and began to gather in books.

The necessity of a State Library pressed itself on the attention of the Legislature and in 1813, the library act was passed by the State Legislature, providing for appropriations to assist in the securing of proper reference and law books. In 1822, the act was supplemented and a State Librarian was appointed by the joint session each year. This arrangement was found to be bothersome, so the time was extended to three years.

It was about this time that the little State Library was merged with the Law Library, of the Law Library Association. The latter organization was composed of the judiciary and the prominent members of the bar, who used the library in the preparation of opinions and cases. It was kept in the Supreme Court room and supported by annual dues. The State Library was assigned to a room in connection with the Law Library, and then began a systematic attempt to collect State documents.

In 1872, the Legislature appropriated $5,000 a year to buy books and to pay the librarian. The library grew until in 1876 it was a fairly well arranged room on the second floor of the rear part of the State House. This building had galleries around it, the books were classified in separate alcoves, and there was a large rear portico from which there was a good view of the Delaware river. When the front of the State House was rebuilt it was arranged by the commission that the top floor should be the library room, but it was not completed until 1896.

Settling With The Injured.

It is understood that the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Street Railway Company has settled with James McCauley, who was injured in a trolley accident on East Second street a few weeks ago. It is said that the amount settled for was near $200. Some of the other injured persons, it is said, have placed their claims in the hands of lawyers.

C. Caulfield Will Build.

Cormick Caulfield, of Johnston avenue, have received a building permit for a dwelling which he proposes to erect at the corner of Manson place and West Third street. The dwelling will be of frame and its estimated cost is $3,000.

MAYOR ADMINISTERED JUSTICE

DOLED OUT TO LOCAL OFFENDERS IN HOMEOPATHIC DOSES.

One Boroughite Drank Too Freely—New Yorker was an Uninvited Guest and Baltimore Man Stole a Ride.

For the first time during his present term of office, Mayor Jenkins laid aside his title for a short time, this morning, in order to assume that of City Judge and administer justice in homeopathic does in the city court. Three unfortunates, who had been gathered in by the police, appeared before him.

Sam Bolston, of the borough, came to the city last night to make some purchases. He had a little spare cash which he invested in several places which do not recognize the early closing movement with the result that he was unable to drive his team home. Roundsman Flynn arrested him and put the horses in a livery. Bolston paid $3 for his little spree.

John Sheehan, of New York, was found wandering around Sandford avenue last night by Patrolman Gamo. He was unable to give a satisfactory account of himself and he was locked up. This morning he promised to leave town at once and was allowed to depart. John H. Jackson, of Baltimore, was taken off a Central railroad train last night for attempting to beat his way to New York. Sentence in his case was suspended.

CAR CRASHED INTO A VAN.

ANOTHER ACCIDENT ON THE ELIZABETH-PLAINFIELD TROLLEY LINE.

On The Last Trip Car No. 84 Struck Furniture Van Overturning It—No One Was Seriously Injured.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, August 20—While going at full speed along West Jersey street, on the last trip homeward, last night, car No. 84, of the Elizabeth-Plainfield line, crashed into a heavily loaded furniture van near the outskirts of the city. One of the horses attached to the vehicle was instantly killed while the driver and his assistant were thrown to the ground with terrific force. Both were hurt considerably about the back but otherwise escaped injury. None of the dozen passengers in the car, nor the crew, were hurt although all were thrown about and bruised against the seats.

The motorman on the car was John Slife and the conductor, Richard Schroeder, both of Plainfield. Slife saw the van, which belonged to a Newark firm and was bound for Perth Amboy, and threw off the current. Before he could apply the brakes the crash followed.

The huge van was toppled over, turned completely around and then reduced to kindling wood. The car went for some distance, swaying from side to side, threatening every moment to overturn, but finally righting itself. The front platform was partially demolished. On account of the lateness of the hour traffic was not interfered with to any extent. The Plainfield passengers arrived home about an hour later than schedule time.

STATE CONVENTION.

Democratic State Committee Will Meet Tomorrow to Fix the Date.

A call has been issued for the meeting of the New Jersey Democratic State committee at Asbury Park tomorrow, when it is expected that the date for holding the Democratic State convention will be decided upon. The convention, Secretary Devereux said, will probably be held September 18.

The matter of selecting a chairman of the State committee to succeed William B. Gourley, of Paterson, will be discussed. It was said in Jersey City yesterday that Hudson county might not be represented at the meeting, General William C. Heffenheimer, one of the members for that county, being in Europe on his vacation, and E. F. C. Young, the other member, said that he might be prevented from attending by an important business engagement on Wednesday. Robert Davis, Hudson county Democratic leader, is in the Catskills, and it is not probable that he will attend the meeting.

A Narrow Escape.

Among the Plainfielders, who were on the last train on the Lehigh Valley to pass through the Vosburg tunnel just before it collapsed Saturday, was Mrs. Ira W. Travell, of College place. Mrs. Travell was returning from Geneva, N. Y. The tunnel caved in within ten minutes after she had passed through it.

Will Hold Bazaar.

The Sewing Circle of St. Mary's parish will hold a bazaar during the week commencing September 1.

EVERYBODY WENT TO FANCY DRESS BALL.

Hobos, Soldiers, Fortune Tellers and Many Historical Personages Were On Hand.

AT THE HOTEL NETHERWOOD

GREAT SUCCESS OF ANNUAL FANCY DRESS BALL LAST EVENING.

Strange Concourse of Queer Characters Passed Through Grand March and Spent Remainder of the Evening Dancing.

Arrayed in a multitude of variegated and richly colored costumes and gathered together in the brilliantly lighted ball room, the participants in the fancy dress ball, given at the Hotel Netherwood, last evening, spent a most enjoyable time until the wee hours of the morning. When the height of the hop was reached the scene was truly one of splendor and by all odds surpassed any social function which has been held at the resort this season.

Notwithstanding that many took part in the affair, the choice in the selection of characters differed widely, and it was evident that much thought had been given in the preference of costumes. In fact, not only were many races represented, but likewise various epochs in the history of each race. With these were to be found such familiar personages of today as the "shirt waist man," the "hobo" and the typical Dutch comedian. The appearance of couples on the floor was frequently grotesque. The sight of a "Colonial dame" dancing with a "coon" afforded no less amusement than did the appearance of an "Italian beauty" wandering arm in arm with a "John Chinaman."

The weather was decidedly unpleasant and the journey to the hotel a long one, but withal not a few of Plainfield society folk joined in the welcome festivity, which was an unique affair to be held in this city at this season.

Precisely at 9 o'clock, Stanton's Orpheus Club orchestra struck up the music for the grand march. Miss May Coleman, dressed as an "Italian beauty," and Samuel Garre, "the Dutch comedian," led the march, and following were some thirty couples. Up and down, hither and thither about the ball room the merry army strolled to the accompanying martial air, all the while being the centre of attraction for a throng of guests, who chose to be silent onlookers of the affair. It was half an hour later when the minuet lancers commenced and from that time onward there was no apparent let up in the dance. The antics of the funny personators and the dignified appearance of the stately characters presented a remarkable contrast. All were disguised in addition to the costumes by masks and hence it was difficult, and in some instances almost impossible, to distinguish the guests on the floor.

It would be difficult to describe the costumes, and particularly the outlandish get-ups of a few of the men, some of whom displayed considerable originality in the selection of disguises. Picked at random, the young women and matrons, who participated, and their representations were: Miss Mildred Williams, "Rainy Daisy"; Miss Maud Lowell, "Colonial dame"; Miss Helen A. Garre, "Gipsy queen"; Miss Beatrice Smith, "Turkish maid"; Miss Grace Coleman, "Italian singer"; Miss Helen Humphrey, "Night"; Miss Daisy Morris, "Morn"; Miss Amelia Britton, "Purity"; Miss Marion Watt, "peasant"; Miss May Coleman, "Italian beauty"; Miss Adelaide Pendergast, "Folly"; Miss Grace Powell, "fortune teller"; Miss Elizabeth Somerville, "Japanese"; the Misses Angevine and Louise Coleman, "Babies in the Woods"; the Misses Helen and Bessie Beasley, "Japanese girls"; Miss Mabel Simpson, "Folly"; Miss Arens, "Swiss lass"; Miss Sibyl Hyatt, "Rosebud"; Mrs. Browning Prentice, "French maid"; Mrs. Coleman and Mrs. Morris, "Flora McFlimsey and her sister Kate".

The parts taken by the men were: L. R. Berg, "cavalier;" William Beal, "coon;" Harry Cammann, "Porto Rican planter;" McKay Morris, "Cuban;" Major Coleman, "Grand Pasha;" J. Harry Stothoff, "Mexican;" Samuel Garre, "Dutch comedian;" Louis Cammann, "tramp;" Edward Fuller, "hobo;" Frank Wetzler, "Jap;" William B. Wilson, "John Chinaman;" A. P. Prentice, "monk;" Richard Waring, Texas ranger;" Siegfried Arens, "shirt waist man;" Dr. W. K. Browning, "Captain, Co. K;" Walter Serrell, "Japanese merchant;" A. Willis West, "Louis XIV."

After part first of the dance the costumed guests grouped themselves for a picture, which was taken by flashlight. Some fine punch and other dainty and enjoyable refreshments were served during the evening.

A Japanese euchre party will be given Thursday evening. It is thus designated because arrangements have been made to make the affair distinctly Japanese in every particular. Mrs. Carson, Mrs. Cokefair and Mrs. Garre have planned the event. Any Plainfielders desiring to join the guests on this occasion may do so by sending their names to the resort before tomorrow noon.

CLEANED OUT HOTEL.

Three Men Make Things Lively at a Hotel in East Millstone—All Arrested.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, August 20.—Saturday night William Blauvelt, working on a farm between Millstone and Middlebush, in company with William McQuade and Charles Scuiligon, of New York, who were his guests, visited Hulsizer's Hotel, at East Millstone, and, it is alleged, attempted to clean out the place. They knocked William Hall down, it is said, and kicked him in the face until he was unrecognizable. Proprietor John Hulsizer, who only has one arm, was also badly pounded and had a finger broken.

Yesterday complaint was made before Squire Kitchen, who issued warrants for the arrest of the three, and Constables Totten and Henderson arrested them and brought them before the Squire, who committed them to jail to await the action of the Grand Jury.

INSPECTED ROAD.

Freeholders Fear It Will Not Be Completed in Time.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, August 20—The Board of Freeholders went over the new macadam road yesterday, between Somerville and Far Hills, and then met at the Bedminster Hotel. It is feared that the road cannot be completed in time to get this year's State appropriation, and so the clerk was instructed to write to Commissioner Budd and ask him if the appropriation could be gotten if the road was finished by November 1. The board then adjourned.

VAIL PICNIC.

Members of That Family Gathered At Dewey Park Saturday.

Over three score of the members of the Vail family held an annual reunion at Dewey Park Saturday afternoon. With few exceptions, those attending the affair reside in this vicinity, the majority coming from this city.

The reunion is held for the purpose of holding social intercourse under pleasant auspices. On this occasion those present had their supper at the park before leaving for home.

OFFICIALLY DENIED.

But Persistent Rumors Still Say That Adelmann Will Return.

Although it is still denied in official circles, a persistent rumor emanating from reliable sources, states that John H. Adelmann, of New Market, will shortly be re-instated as superintendent of the local and part of the through lines of the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Railway. It has also been stated positively that Mr. Adelmann will enter the company's employ early next month.

Manager McConnell.

As manager of the Hotel Plainfield, J. E. McConnell, formerly clerk of the Hotel Imperial, assumed his duties yesterday morning. Mr. McConnell will devote his entire time and attention in making the resort a first-class place and with his wide experience in the business it is believed that his efforts will be crowned with success.

Bought Out Partner.

Robert W. Barnes has bought out the interest of his partner, J. W. Johnson, in the store, No. 217 Park avenue, and will keep a full stock of vegetables, imported and domestic cheese, butter, lard, etc., and solicits the patronage of his friends and the public generally.

An Unpleasant Feature.

The absence of ice water in the cars of the Hope chapel excursion train, on the return trip, Saturday, caused much adverse comment. In some of the cars there was no water at all. The children were thus deprived of drinking water during the hot, long journey home.

Young Lad, Charged With Being Implicated in Theft of Wire, Was Captured.

HIS COMPANION ESCAPED.

DENIES THAT HE HAD ANYTHING TO DO WITH THE THEFT.

Remanded While Investigation Is Being Made—Was on a Coal Train and Ran Away—Part of the Wire Has Been Recovered.

Detectives Lavratt and O'Connell, of Detective William Dougherty's railroad force, captured after a hot chase in the East End yesterday afternoon, a young lad whom they believe is implicated in the theft of 400 pounds of copper wire from the poles of the Central Electric Company at Lincoln, Sunday night. One hundred and twenty-four pounds of the wire was also recovered and it is believed the remainder will be found in a short time. A second boy, who was pursued by the detectives, escaped by throwing himself in the tall grass along North avenue in the vicinity of Berckman street.

The captured lad described himself as Edward Stodowiske, of Jersey City, aged sixteen years. When arraigned before Justice Nash this morning he denied being connected with the theft or knowing anything about it. He was remanded until tomorrow morning until a full investigation can be made by the police.

Stodowiske, or as he is more familiarly known, "Eddie Smith," was first noticed yesterday afternoon by Conductor Davidson, of the coal train drawn by engine No. 436, in company with an older lad, standing at the top of the Graceland grade. Afterwards, the conductor alleges, he saw them place several bundles in a gondola coal car and climb in after it. Suspecting that all was not right he telegraphed from Fanwood to this city, asking that policemen be on hand at Berckman street and on the arrival of his train there he would hold it until the boys were arrested. Fortunately Detectives Lavratt and O'Connell were in the Plainfield depot when the despatch came in and they at once hastened to Berckman street.

The train had already arrived when they reached there and as they approached, the two lads were seen standing alongside of one of the cars. The boys suddenly took fright and leaping down the embankment, darted away with the detectives following closely behind. Smith continued across lots despite four shots from a revolver fired at him by Lavratt and stopped in front of Thorn's laundry on East Third street when he saw his chances for escape were gradually lessening. The other boy threw himself in the grass along the railroad and succeeded in eluding O'Connell. The latter afterward found the 124 pounds of copper wire in one of the coal cars.

Superintendent Bates, of the Central Electric Company, came to this city this morning and declared the copper to be of the same gauge as that stolen. The wire was not in use but has been strung through Lincoln for the past year in order to hold the right of way, until the company's new plant is put in operation. He stated the copper is worth eighteen cents per pound but as yet it is impossible to determine the exact amount stolen.

Mr. Bates brought with him a conductor from the Bound Brook trolley line, on whose car three suspicious looking men and a boy had ridden from Dunellen to Lincoln Sunday night. He positively identified Smith as the boy who was with the group, despite the latter's protests that he was never on a trolley car outside of Jersey City.

This afternoon, Patrolman Totten, who saw three men and a boy get on a trolley car at Netherwood, Sunday night, and Conductor Davidson, of the coal train on which the boys rode from Graceland, will view Smith and attempt to establish his identity.

THE SCHLEY INQUIRY.

Sequest Made For a List of the Witnesses.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—The navy department has decided that the Schley court of inquiry shall be held in the gunners' workshop at the navy yard. The workshop is a large, new building and well adapted to the requirements of the court.

Judge Jere Wilson and Hon. Isador Rayner, counsel for Rear Admiral Schley in the coming court of inquiry, called on Acting Secretary of the Navy Hackett yesterday and made inquiries regarding the department's list of witnesses. They were informed that the department had no prepared list; that the preparation of this list is in the hands of Captain Lemly, the judge advocate of the court, who is now in Canada and who is expected to return to Washington next Monday.

They were also informed that counsel for Rear Admiral Schley could write a letter to Captain Lemly, asking for the list, which letter would be forwarded to the judge advocate, or they could await his return and then make application to him. Admiral Schley did not accompany his lawyers.

It is understood that a letter will be addressed to the department by Rear Admiral Schley's counsel, asking for a list of the witnesses. It is stated that the call on Secretary Hackett was informal.

Lieutenant B. W. Wells, who was a flag secretary to Admiral Schley during the West Indian campaign, has been detached from the Kearsarge and ordered to Washington to assist Admiral Schley in the preparation of his case. This action was taken at the request of the admiral, who said he desired the assistance of Lieutenant Wells because of his familiarity with all the correspondence during the time he (Schley) was in command of the "flying squadron."

AFFAIRS IN SAMOA.

Commander Doran Reports on the Philadelphia's Reception.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—The navy department has received a letter, dated July 29 last, from Lieutenant Commander E. J. Doran, at Pago Pago, relating to existing affairs in Samoa. In speaking of the reception by natives tendered the cruiser Philadelphia at Faleasau recently he says:

"During the stay of the Philadelphia the natives assembled in great numbers from all parts of the island, and the native governors of both districts paid official calls upon the captain. On July 17 a large taalolo was given to Captain Mead and his officers in the malae, or public square, in front of the commandant's office. At the conclusion several felicitous speeches of welcome and loyalty were made by the chief talking men of the island. On the next day a native feast, followed by a siva-siva, or native dance, was given and attended by the captain and his officers, the native governors and the leading chiefs of Tutuila."

PALMA'S CANDIDACY.

Cubans Want Him to State His News More Fully.

HAVANA, Aug. 20.—A meeting was held, attended by a number of revolutionary generals and politicians representing all parties, to ascertain the practicability of agreeing upon Senor Estrada Palma as a candidate for the presidency of the republic. It was convened at the request of General Maximo Gomez.

General Sanguily and Juan Gualberto Gomez contended that before they could give their support to any candidate they must know his political programme. The former pointed out that Senor Palma's recent letter to Senor Figueredo was very brief and that he ought to be invited to set forth his intentions more clearly.

Ultimately it was decided to appoint a committee empowered to address a communication to Senor Palma asking him to state more fully his intentions and purposes if elected president. General Gomez was appointed chairman of the committee.

WRECK OF ISLANDER

Nearly Eighty Lives Known to Have Been Lost.

THRILLING STORIES OF SURVIVORS.

Alaskan Line Steamer Struck by an Iceberg and Sinks Almost Immediately, Carrying Down Part of Passengers and Crew.

PORT TOWNSHEND, Wash., Aug 20.—The steamer Queen has arrived from the north, bringing news of one of the most appalling marine disasters on the Pacific coast.

The steamer Islander, sailing from Skaguay Aug. 14, when nearing the southwest end of Douglass island at 2 a. m. Aug. 15 and running at full speed struck a floating iceberg and in less than 20 minutes went to the bottom of the deep channel, carrying men, women and children to a watery grave.

The Islander had 108 passengers, and all were in bed when the vessel struck. The shock was so severe that many were thrown from their berths, and the wildest excitement prevailed. Word was soon passed that the vessel was doomed, and a general scramble for the lifeboats ensued, many jumping overboard and attempting to swim to the shore, the distance being short. In the scramble to get into the boats many were hurled headlong into the chilly water, which, according to passengers arriving from the scene, seemed alive with human beings. Before all the passengers had left the vessel she gave a lunge and went down bow first.

It is known that 67 lives were lost. It will be some time before their names can be definitely learned, as the purser lost his passenger list.

A number of passengers of the wrecked steamer Islander tell of their thrilling experiences during the disaster. M. Blumauer of Portland, who was bringing out a satchel containing $14,000 in Klondike gold, rushed up to the upper deck when the boat was settling by the head, and Captain Foote told him there was little danger. Soon there was a rush for the boats, and when he was boarding the lifeboat he was afraid to throw his satchel of gold down from the deck into the boat for fear that the weight of the gold would stave a hole through the lifeboat and thus cause the loss of the lives of those in the boats as well as losing his own chances of safety. He concluded to abandon his gold, and, dropping the satchel on the deck, he slid down into the water and was hauled to the boat, thankful to save his life. One man who had just come out from the Klondike and whose name could not be learned is reported to have taken his portmanteau from the care of the purser, Mr. Bishop, and, with the grip containing dust amounting to $40,000 in value grasped firmly in his hand, jumped from the sinking steamer to a boat close by; but, failing to reach the boat, he went down with his treasure.

United States Consul A. J. Smith, who was a passenger on the steamer Queen, saw Dr. Phillips of Seattle at Juneau. Dr. Phillips told him that he had lost his wife and child. The doctor insisted that no one called at his room, but he felt the sudden stoppage and says his wife told him to get up and see what the cause of the stoppage was. He demurred at first, but hearing people moving on deck he got up and told his wife to dress immediately. When they got from their room, the steamer was sinking, and before they could jump from the deck his wife and child were caught in the suction of the ventilators and were drowned.

Dr. Phillips was also drawn into a ventilator, but was caught by the head at the top and escaped being drawn down to death. He went down with the steamer and caught hold of some wreckage, from which he was afterward rescued. When resuscitated, he called for his wife and child, and a man brought the body of his little girl to him.

N. A. Belcourt of Ottawa and George Ray of Ottawa were asleep when the accident happened. Being unable to open their stateroom door, they broke out through the window and jumped from the upper deck into the lifeboat.

A passenger who arrived by the Queen says that on Thursday morning when the tide turned it brought in a large quantity of debris from the wreck, including parts of cabin stores, staterooms, trunks, etc. The Indians looted the wreckage, smashing trunks with axes and carrying off valuables. On Saturday evening a concert was given on the steamer Queen for the sufferers, and $333 was raised, which was given into the care of United States Consul A. J. Smith of Victoria, who was a passenger on the Queen.

The death of Captain Foote was very pathetic. He remained on the bridge until the steamer was foundering. When the vessel commenced to sink and it was seen that no expedient could avail, the captain, it is said, jumped into the life raft, which was already taxed. Realizing that his weight would work havoc there, he exclaimed, "I see there are too many here, so goodby, boys!" and swam away. He was shortly afterward seen to sink.

Chief Engineer Brownlee had a miraculous escape. He was asleep and was awakened by Third Engineer Allen ringing his bell. He ran to the engine room. There two firemen died like heroes soon after he arrived. They were ordered to close the "top wheel" and shut off the water, which was rushing from the forward part of the vessel.

They tried to do so and were drowned. Brownlee went down with the steamer and was standing on the upper deck holding the top rail when the steamer slid down by the head. He rose from the whirlpool and grasped some wreckage. Dr. Phillips of Seattle came up after him, and together they clung to the wreckage until they were picked up.

Pilot La Blanc said many of the passengers acted badly, attempting to jump into the boats before they had been launched. Had it not been for this crowding and rushing he thinks all would have been saved with the possible exception of those who did not get out of their staterooms. Among these were Andrew Keating and his two sons, Arthur and Julius, of Los Angeles. The crew, on the other hand, behaved splendidly and looked to the safety of the passengers. After the boats had been launched some of the crew had to swim for wreckage, as there was too many on the rafts. He believes the vessel sank in 23 fathoms and that the boiler did not explode, but that the woodwork was carried away by a rush of water and air. He says 42 persons were drowned.

PROGRESS OF STRIKE

A Series of Gains For the Steel Corporation.

FIGHT AT THE DUQUESNE MILLS.

Both Sides Working Vigorously For Control of Carnegie Company Plant—Tighe Takes a Hopeful View of Situation.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 20.—The United States Steel corporation made a series of gains in the restoration of properties crippled by the strike of the Amalgamated association and its sympathizers.

The steel mills at Monessen, after a long period of inactivity, were partly put in motion by strike breakers gathered in some of the southern states, two more mills in the Painter plant were started up, and another large mill at the Clark property was also operated for the first time. There was some disorder in the streets of Monessen, but the local police never lost control of the demonstrative crowds, and there was no serious trouble. The reopening of the Monessen mill is believed to be the first of a series of aggressive moves on the part of the steel corporation. Preparations are known to be in progress for reopening the Star Tin mills in this city and for increasing the force at the Lindsay & McCutcheon mills, and it is thought to be only a matter of time before the strongholds of the strikers like Newcastle, McKeesport, Wheeling, Bellaire and Mingo Junction will be invaded. The strikers deny that any real progress has been made at either Monessen or Painter's and say that they are not to be frightened by the burning of a lot of coal and the mere operation of machinery. They say that skilled men cannot be secured outside of their ranks and that none of their men is deserting, despite claims to the contrary. The managers of the Painter plant, which now has four mills on, claim that part of their two new crews is made up of old employees who have come back to work. At the Clark mill, where the ten inch was started for the first time yesterday and where everything except a small eight inch mill is now being operated, it is asserted that more skilled men are offering their services than can be accommodated. Fifty more were taken on there, bringing the total force up to 600. It was claimed that there were 200 men at work in the Painter mills and that 50 of them were skilled.

The greatest fight in this district is for mastery at the Duquesne mills of the Carnegie company. Both sides are working secretly, the Amalgamated association to extend its organization and strength among the workers and the steel company to block any plan to get the men out. Neither side has shown its strength yet, and it is impossible to get any line on the ultimate result. The claims made privately on either side are conflicting. The Amalgamated organizers assert that they have secured a strong position in the property and that when the word is given it will be shut down. The managers of the mills admit that the strikers have some friends in the mills, but express absolute confidence in their ability to keep the entire plant in operation. Coal and iron police carefully guard the property, admitting none except employees, and they in turn are watched by secret pickets of the strikers.

Assistant Secretary M. F. Tighe has returned from the west and was closeted for several hours with President Shaffer. He was given a very enthusiastic reception by his associates and returns a stronger figure in the organization than when he departed. Discussing his report, Mr. Shaffer said:

"All that Mr. Tighe told me was that in the papers last week, and there is nothing aside from this. The Chicago mill men who remained at work are now no longer members of the organization. They are not entitled to a trial and will have none. They are at liberty to act as they see fit now, but if they go out they will do so on their own responsibility. We will do nothing about the matter from this time. On the whole, the strike is going on very well. We are getting out more men every day and will continue to do so. The fight is not hardly begun. There will be plenty of trouble for the trust before long if they keep on in their present course. There has been no effort on any one's part toward peace, and there will be none on our part again. As to the situation in Duquesne, all I can say is that there has been no strike ordered in that mill as yet. I said last week that when we were ready that mill would be attended to."

Mr. Tighe himself reviewed his trip to the west and, discussing the Chicago men, said:

"What the South Chicago men are going to do I do not know. The building trades council of Chicago the other day adopted resolutions condemning the action of the South Chicago men. Chicago workmen are wild with unionism. The South Chicago men are being branded in private and in the papers as scabs. All this may have an effect on them. I verily believe that the men will come back and go on strike. It is true their charters have been revoked, but if they should go on strike they no doubt would be taken back into the organization, for, you remember, an old hymn says that while the lamp holds out to burn the vilest sinner may return."

It is reported that a portion of the Second brigade of the national guard of this state, now in camp at Somerset, will be kept under arms and at the camp for some time in order to be ready to answer an emergency call for strike duty. No confirmation of the story can be obtained from the officers of the guard or any of the state officials. It is not credited here. A number of anonymous letters, evidently the work of some labor crank, have been written to officers of the guard.

AID FROM NEW JERSEY.

Moral and Financial Support Pledged to Steel Strikers.

CAMDEN, N. J., Aug. 20.—The Twenty-third annual congress of the Federation of Trades and Labor Unions of New Jersey began here. George Whittaker, second vice president, presided.

A resolution was adopted pledging moral and financial support to the Amalgamated Association of Steel and Iron Workers. Another resolution which was adopted protested against the action of the architect and commissioners of Essex county in requesting plans from architects in New York and Philadelphia and ignoring those resident in New Jersey. A petition to Governor Voorhees was framed requesting the dismissal of the commissioners.

A resolution to boycott cigars not union made was referred to the committee on labor and boycotts.

The appointment by Governor Voorhees of W. L. Conkling as deputy factory inspector was unanimously indorsed.

The existing law permitting the granting of injunctions restraining persons from influencing workmen during strikes was denounced, and a resolution was adopted authorizing the preparation of a bill to be presented to the next legislature repealing the law.

These resolutions were referred to the committee on resolutions: Favoring the election of the president and senators by popular vote, denouncing the war in South Africa, favoring the publication of state laws in newspapers and favoring a law compelling weekly payment of wages.

A new constitution was adopted and the name of the organization changed to the New Jersey Federation of Labor.

Corporation Does Not Reply.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 20.—No reply has yet been received by the secretary of state to his notice to the United States Steel corporation requesting compliance with the Ohio laws governing foreign corporations doing business in the state. The company will be given until next week to reply. Attorney General Sheets stated that if a reply should not be received within a reasonable time suit would be brought against the corporation to recover the penalties provided by the Ohio laws.

RICHMOND'S BIG FIRE.

Four Hundred Thousand Pounds of Tobacco Burned.

RICHMOND, Aug. 20.—Fire destroyed what is locally known as the J. Wright company plant of the American Cigar company at the corner of Twenty-third and Cary streets. There were about 400,000 pounds of leaf tobacco in the building owned by the American Cigar company, and this, with the machinery, it is estimated, was worth $115,000.

The building, an immense structure covering 19,200 square feet, was owned by the Continental Tobacco company. It was five stories high, built entirely of brick. A conservative estimate of its value at the time of the fire is given as $60,000. It was completely destroyed. The total loss is placed at about $200,000; insurance, $112,000.

There were some 350 persons employed in the burned building, most of whom were negro workmen, but it is believed all escaped without injury.

The Monte Maria convent at Twenty-second and Grace streets caught fire and was in danger at one time. Cameron & Cameron's great factory was also in danger for half an hour. Four Chesapeake and Ohio freight cars were destroyed.

E. C. Mayo of the Mayo branch of the Continental company was slightly injured by a falling wire.

Grievances of Trainmen.

SCRANTON, Pa., Aug. 20.—Sixteen members of the general grievance committee of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen of the Lackawanna system are here or bound hither to formulate and present to General Superintendent Clarke a list of grievances coming from the various divisions of the road. Vice President Pierson of the Order of Railway Telegraphers is also here and is in conference with the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western telegraphers regarding the presentation of the grievances they have been nursing for six months. Superintendent Clarke promised them a hearing when the machinists and car builders' strikes were over, and, both having been settled, the telegraphers will now proceed to get a hearing.

Ordered to Hampton Roads.

NANTUCKET, Mass., Aug. 20.—The north Atlantic squadron has received orders to sail for Hampton Roads. All preparations for the continuance of the maneuvers at this place have been countermanded, and the vessels of the squadron are already getting up steam preparatory to their departure. While the exact reason for the change of plans is not known, it is believed here that the trouble in South America has something to do with it. The vessels were scheduled to be in Newport on Aug. 25, and the camp here was to have remained until Friday next.

What Killed the Fish?

NEWBURG, N. Y., Aug. 20.—Dr. Willett Kidd, game protector, is investigating the pollution of the famous Sullivan county trout stream, the Willowemoc. From De Bruce to Willowemoc, four miles, it is said, no living thing has been left in the waters. Thousands of fish have been killed. Some of the dead trout picked up weighed over three pounds. There are factories on the stream, and anglers are trying to fix the responsibility.

Dead Bodies Found In Canal.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Aug. 20.—Two bodies, those of Joseph Helm and John Pizga, were found in the Erie canal. That of Helm was found near Aqueduct, where he had been attending a clam bake on Saturday afternoon. Pizga's body was found near the John street bridge. Coroner Dettbarn will make a thorough investigation into both cases.

Shot by a Girl.

ROANOKE, Va., Aug. 20.—A commission merchant named Waxelbaum from Macon was shot at Rural Retreat by the daughter of B. H. Nuff, proprietor of the Alamo hotel at that place. The ball, which entered the left breast above the heart, has not been found. Waxelbaum is still alive. The cause of the shooting is not known.

Blown to Atoms.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Aug. 20.—Ed Waller and another negro were blown to atoms while working in a rock quarry at Blacksburg. They had loaded the hole when a drill was accidentally dropped, causing an instantaneous and terrific explosion, killing both men.

On a Pleasure Trip.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—The United States minister to Brazil, Mr. Bryan, has gone aboard the cruiser Atlanta, now cruising along the Brazil coast. It is probable that this trip is one of pleasure and general inspection.

Neck Broken by Fall.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Aug. 20.—Max Doberneck fell from the veranda of his house in this city and broke his neck. He was taken into the house and medical aid was summoned, but he died shortly after.

Fifteen Reported Drowned.

PADUCAH, Ky., Aug. 20.—The steamer City of Golconda was struck by a squall last night eight miles from this city. It is reported that 15 persons were drowned.

FATAL TARGET PRACTICE.

One Killed and Many Hurt by Explosion of Shell.

JUNCTION CITY, Kan., Aug. 20.—While at target practice on Fort Riley reservation, half a mile north of this city, a seven inch 107 pound shell exploded as it was being placed in the breech of a section gun of Siege Battery Q, Seventh artillery, commanded by Captain Van Duren. The casualties are: Henry C. Watson, killed; John J. King, fatally injured; Murray Sykes, fatally injured; Charles Duncan, fatally injured; Henry Logsdon, seriously injured; Dennis Mahoney, painfully injured; Recruit Lloyd, seriously injured; Roos Dyck, slightly injured; James Brady, slightly injured.

The big siege battery of four guns has been on the target range north of this city since Wednesday of last week. Yesterday morning the usual practice was in progress. The 107 pound shell had been put into the third section gun, and Private Watson was ramming the shell home when there was a terrific explosion, and the headless body of Watson was seen standing perfectly erect for almost 15 seconds. Then it moved as if to step and fell, alighting on the back, with the shoulders toward the gun. Watson has a father in Texas and a brother and sister in South Carolina. He enlisted at Savannah. Private Joe King had both arms torn off and lost both eyes. He is from New Jersey. Private Murray Sykes had a portion of his skull torn off and his right eye badly injured. Charles Duncan was badly bruised about the head and blinded in both eyes. He is from near Wichita. Henry Logsdon is from London, Ky. His body is badly hurt, and he may be blind from powder burns. Sergeant Dennis Mahoney, a native of Boston, was hit in the mouth with a fragment of shell and lost several teeth. Recruit Lloyd, who recently joined the battery from Jackson, Tenn., had his left forearm blown off and right eye badly burned.

The wounded men were taken at once to the post hospital, where proper medical attendance could be given.

NEW YORK'S CANALS.

Report of Superintendent Partridge Shows Increased Business.

ALBANY, Aug. 20.—The report of the tonnage on the New York state canals for the week ending Aug. 14, as given out by Colonel Partridge, superintendent of public works, shows that business is still on the increase on the state's waterways. The total tonnage for the week was 114,420, while that for the corresponding week of last year was 90,598, a gain of 23,822 tons.

The principal items of increase are wheat, lumber, pulp, wood, domestic salt and bituminous coal. The wheat shipment from Buffalo is reaching very wonderful proportions. The corresponding week last year there was shipped 1,695 tons, whereas this year shipments have been 14,674 tons. The greater proportion of the increase in tonnage is in eastern shipments, the shipments west being less than for the same period last year.

KILLED BY EXPLOSION.

Fifteen Lives Reported Lost at Herkimer, N. Y.

HERKIMER, N. Y., Aug. 20.—By an explosion of dynamite in the Mohawk and Malone roundhouse here last night, by which the building was wrecked and burned, several persons were killed and many injured.

It is believed that at least 12 or 13 men, members of the New York Central bridge gang, who were sleeping in a car which stood on a side track nearby, were killed. Five out of 15 men have been accounted for. Three of these are dead and one fatally injured. J. H. Vosburg was foreman of the gang.

Bricks and fragments of iron were blown several blocks away. All the windows within several blocks were broken, and nearly all the plate glass windows in the village were shattered.

Going Around the World.

ITHACA, N. Y., Aug. 20.—Professor Jeremiah W. Jenks of Cornell university, who will leave soon for a trip around the world for the purpose of investigating monetary conditions existing in various countries, has also been commissioned by the government to make a special report on the question of currency in the Philippine Islands. He will spend much time in the far east, giving special attention to China, the Malay states and India, and from facts gained on the tour will make recommendations to the department. Professor Jenks has for some time been engaged in the work of investigating the trust question for the government. He has also for years been making a special study of the monetary question.

Noted Horse Dead.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 20.—Little Wonder, the celebrated hackney stallion, owned by A. J. Cassatt and imported by him in 1882, is dead from peritonitis. Little Wonder was the first hackney stallion imported to this country. Since coming here he had been exhibited at all the principal horse shows, winning many first prizes. Many of his get were also prize winners.

Want to Lynch a Negro.

REPORT FROM STOWE

Our Consul at Cape Town Tells of Conditions There.

THE WAR STILL DRAGS ALONG.

Despite the Existing Hostilities the Trade of the United States In South Africa Is Encouraging—Suffering Also From the Plague.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—The state department has received a long report on conditions in South Africa from Consul General Stowe, at Cape Town, dated a few days before his resignation was received at the war department. The war and the plague, says Mr. Stowe, have prevented customs officials from collecting the usual annual statistics covering the trade of the colonies for the calendar year of 1900, and as all imports for the use of the imperial and colonial military forces are admitted duty free it is impossible to make a comparison with the trade of the preceding year. However, the figures available show that the imports from the United States in 1900 were greater than those of 1899 and that this country still stands second among the nations exporting direct to South Africa and in addition ships a large amount of supplies via England.

As to the general situation, Mr. Stowe says that as the war drags along trade in the Transvaal and the Orange River Colony languishes, the fields are bare, and practically no planting has been attempted. The plague played havoc with incoming cargoes, there being at one time no fewer than 200 steaming and sailing vessels in the harbor of Cape Town, with cargoes valued at nearly $25,000,000, unable to discharge their goods on this account. The plague appeared among the dock laborers, and they stopped work, the compulsory inoculation of all persons employed at the docks aside from the instinctive dread of the disease adding to their terror. All governmental and military supplies had to be discharged first, and for these reasons several American ships were obliged to remain in the harbor for two and three months, and a stay of many weeks in the harbor was a usual occurrence.

But in spite of all this, Mr. Stowe says, trade is not dead by any means, and orders already have been placed for steel rails and other railroading material which will be needed when hostilities cease.

The total value of imports into South Africa from the United States amounted in 1900 to $20,028,128, an increase of nearly $3,500,000 over 1899. This does not include the imports for military use nor the merchandise shipped via England. There was a considerable decrease in beef and flour and in agricultural implements, but the former was caused by Australian and Argentina competition, and the latter was a direct result of the war.

The cost of living in Cape Colony, it is stated, has increased to a marked degree, and the overcrowding of cities has forced rents up enormously, so much so that the various town councils are considering the erection of dwellings to house the working classes. "There is another handy American trick," says Mr. Stowe, is getting to be a common saying in Cape Colony. The natives, he says, are astounded when they view the work of our agricultural machinery in the fields. The children sit in school at desks made in America, and the American pews in the churches, says Mr. Stowe, make poor service less tedious. The imports into this colony from the United States amounted in 1900 to $8,626,260, standing next to Great Britain, with her $53,786,640 worth. Goods imported into the colony of Natal from the United States during 1900 amounted in value to $3,220,816, a slight decrease compared with 1899.

Colombia Weakening.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Aug. 20.—The British steamer Rosneath arrived here from Central American ports and brought advices from Colon of continued and persistent attacks by the rebels on the outskirts of Colon and Panama. The repeated efforts on the part of the government to repulse the rebels have failed, and the belief is gaining ground that the Colombia government is weakening. When the Rosneath left Colon Aug. 15, the French cruiser Suchet was there, and the arrival of British and American war vessels was anxiously awaited. Business generally was crippled.

King Oscar to Visit France.

PARIS, Aug. 20.—King Oscar of Norway and Sweden has accepted President Loubet's invitation to witness the close of the grand maneuvers of the French army at Rheims. He will enter France at Dunkirk, having previously witnessed with President Loubet the review of the northern squadron, which will welcome him to French waters.

Our Navy In Italian Waters.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—The navy department announces that the European squadron of American war vessels will rendezvous at Genoa. The cruiser Chicago, now at Southampton, will proceed south to that port, where she will meet the cruiser Albany and the gunboat Nashville, now at the Seychelles islands.

Sighted a Big Iceberg.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 20.—Captain Schroeder of the German steamer Gut Heil, from Shields, reports Aug. 12, latitude 48:44 north, longitude 49:01 west, passed an iceberg 300 feet high and 600 feet long. Shortly after saw another 150 feet high and 500 feet long bearing northwest, one-half west, from the first one.

Russian Bark Lost.

PENSACOLA, Fla., Aug. 20.—It is feared the Russian bark Neptune, Captain Zettkoff, which sailed from here Aug. 10 for Montevideo, was lost in the recent storm. Pieces of the stern bearing the name "Neptune" were picked up yesterday on the outer beach of Santa Rosa island, several miles out.

More Ships For Morgan.

LONDON, Aug. 20.—It is reported in Glasgow that J. R. Ellerman of the Leyland line has purchased the old established City line of 14 steamers engaged in the East Indian trade, the price being nearly £1,000,000. Mr. Ellerman, according to rumor, is acting for J. Pierpont Morgan and his associates.

O'Brien Knocks Out Plumb.

LONDON, Aug. 20.—Jack O'Brien, the Philadelphia pugilist, knocked out "Dido" Plumb of London in the sixth round of a 15 round contest at Newcastle last night, winning the 154 pound championship and £650.

Card Playing Allowed.

A false impression seems to prevail throughout the State regarding the order, recently issued by the Central Railroad of New Jersey, relating to card playing in the trains of that company. The idea seems to have become current that the company has prohibited its patrons from playing cards in any of its trains. As a matter of fact, the company has done nothing of the kind. It has, however, prohibited its employes from providing cards and boards for the regular games of the commuters who daily travel to and from New York.

It is very doubtful if the Jersey Central Railroad or any other company, which furnishes transportation to the public, could do away with card playing in its trains, as long as there is no gambling connected with it. Of course, any company may control the actions of its employes and that is what the Jersey Central has done. There is today a great deal of card playing on the Jersey Central trains but the players have to utilize a newspaper instead of a table and are compelled to carry their own packs of cards. This, of course, results in many giving up the usual morning or evening game but there are still whist enthusiasts who play regularly every morning and night.

There has been more or less comment on the action of the company by the press of the State, and the opinions seem to be fairly evenly divided as to the advisibility of the company's action. Many of the newspapers have apparently supposed that all card playing was prohibited and dealt with the subject from that point of view.

So far but little has been heard about the standing of the Union county Democrats regarding the coming gubernatorial nomination. The Democrats will have to pick a candidate before long. It is not likely, however, that this county will have any name to present unless it is that a complimentary vote should be given to James E. Martine, the "farmer orator." There are few men who have stood by their party as loyally and steadfastly as he, and the least his fellow Democrats of Union county could do would be to thus honor him.

The Newark Advertiser recently made a canvass of the members of the Republican State Committee to ascertain their sentiments regarding the probable nominee of the Jersey Republicans for governor. With but few exceptions the sentiment expressed was overwhelmingly in favor of Franklin Murphy. Among those thus quoted was State Senator Charles A. Reed, of Somerset county. The Union county committeemen refused to express their opinions.

No fortunes are made in this day says the Philadelphia Record by the sale of articles which are not advertised in the newspapers. The Mail Order Journal names a long list of men who have gained enormous fortunes by the manufacture and sale of articles which have been popularized by newspaper advertising exclusively. Most advertisers depend chiefly on the newspapers and use other mediums incidentally, if at all.

Two changes will be noticed in the faculty of the Plainfield High School this fall. The announcement of the the successor of George Weekes Sandford, of the commercial department, has just been made. The new comer, James Nacnab, comes here highly recommended.

If the police succeed in bringing to justice the men who were implicated in the robbery and assault at the home of Mrs. Demko, they will have done well. There was but little evidence to work on and the very boldness of the act made it difficult, indeed, to locate the offenders.

Last Saturday was a unusual day for Plainfield. Not a single big game of baseball was played although the day was not rainy. Both the Hope chapel boys and the St. Marys team will be playing this Saturday, however.

The weather reports are now to be carried in the heart of the rural districts on the wagons of the new rural postal delivery routes. Just how this novel plan takes with the rural communities has not yet been made public.

Rev. Asa Reed Ditts was a wonderfully popular man when he lived in Plainfield and the members of his former congregation, together with many of his other friends, were glad to see him here once more.

Bound Brook is highly pleased over the compliment paid to that borough by the officials of the Jersey Central Railroad in naming one of their new ferry boats after it.

The boldness of the thieves who climbed the poles and stripped the copper wire off them at Lincoln Sunday evening was remarkable.

The rumor that John Adelmann is to return to the service of the local trolley company appears to be remarkably persistent.

Wait until the water company's bills come in in October. Then people will begin to wish that water meters were installed.

Many of the Plainfielders, now absent on their vacations, are winning honors on the golf links.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May Be Of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

The city cannot have new industries added to its manufacturing resources unless our people offer substantial inducements to manufacturers now operating elsewhere under restraints as to facilities or labor drawbacks. Here we have all the natural advantages, and all that is needed is an exhibition of up-to-date hustling and enterprise on the part of those who are able and willing to furnish the stuff that goes at the bank.—New Brunswick Home News.

* * * * *

The space writers for the outside newspapers will have one or two more Sundays to draw upon their imaginations for New Jersey political fake stories. After that they may be able to earn their money by "sending in" some of the real stuff regarding the Gubernatorial conventions and other matters. The poor fellows have had a brain racking time during the past three months in trying to make something out of nothing, but they will soon be in clover again.—Camden Post-Telegram.

* * * * *

It is by no means certain that Perth Amboy will not get the Ingersoll-Sergeant Drill Company with its 6,000 extra population. But if we do it will be under different conditions from those under which some other towns are trying to land the prize. If the company comes here, and it is earnestly hoped it will, it will come without other inducement than our natural advantages and the extreme desirability of our location. The company will buy the necessary land itself, at a fair price, and pay for it like a gentleman. That is what all our other industries have done, and they, one and all, consider the bargain a good one on their part. The investments have proven quite satisfactory.—Perth Amboy Chronicle.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short and Gossipy Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

A young woman from this city had an experience in one of the bath houses at Asbury Park one day last week which she will not forget for some time to come. She had just finished dressing and was waiting for another young women to complete her toilet. Carelessly she leaned against the door of an adjoining bath house. Suddenly, without warning, the door gave way behind her and she fell at full length before a very much surprised young man. With a scream of horror, she struggled to her feet and darted down the corrodor never casting a look behind. It all happened so suddenly that she never knew who the young man was but, having often seen her in this city, he promptly recognized her. The young woman does not know that it was the bath house of another Plainfielder which she so unceremoniously invaded.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

(Special Correspondence.)

Scotch Plains, August 20.—Three Plainfielders, supposed to be unknown, are reported as having drawn revolvers on Officer Pangborn Sunday night. As the story goes the men were lying on Walpole's Hotel porch when Pangborn ordered them off. Refusing to move they were declared under arrest, and quick as a flash the policeman was covered by three revolvers. The men then made their way out and left the vicinity. Pangborn recognized one of the men and intends to cause a warrant to be sworn out against him.

The 'Plains baseball team is in fine shape to play a good game with the Garwood A. C. team Saturday. This fact was shown by the walkover which it had last Saturday when the Orient A. C. met defeat at its hands.

AGE LIMIT FOR CARRIERS.

End of the Period of Activity as Set by the Post Office Authorities.

We notice with interest and satisfaction that it has been decided to raise the age limit established by the civil service rules for the admission of applicants for employment in the postal department as clerks and letter carriers. Heretofore no applicant for employment as a letter carrier who had passed the age of 40 years has been received, but this will not be the case hereafter. It was the opinion of the postmaster general, an opinion in which his associates in the cabinet concurred, that it was not reasonable to restrict admission to the service in the capacity of letter carrier to persons of 40 years of age or less, and it was accordingly decided that both for clerks and letter carriers the age limit should be extended to 45 years, says the Philadelphia Inquirer.

It was a judicious and discriminating conclusion. There has of late years been a marked tendency to close the door of employment against men who had just reached or who had barely passed what is considered middle age. There are many corporations who will not take into their employment anyone who has passed his fortieth year, and this disposition threatened to extend until the middle-aged man who for any reason found himself obliged to secure work in some fresh field of activity would be unable to get anything to do. The step which has just been taken in the case of post office clerks and letter carriers indicates the inception of a reaction against this movement. We hope that it will extend. A man who is in the forties is still in the prime of life, and in most cases he continues capable of valuable service for at least a decade longer.

HOW TO JUDGE OF TOBACCO.

A Hard White or Light Gray Ash Said to Be the Sign of a Good Cigar.

Color, burn and texture are the three things which the grower of tobacco has chiefly to consider. At present the trade calls for a light cinnamon-brown shade, which must be uniform, not mottled. The leaf when rolled on a cigar and smoked must leave a white or light ash, which does not flake off and fall into one's bosom or over his waistcoat, and it must not "coal"—i. e., have a black, charred ring just behind the ash on the burning cigar. This is sure to give a bad flavor and taste. The leaf also must burn freely, and when lighted hold firm for a reasonable time. It must have a soft, silvery texture, glossy surface and the elasticity of a piece of kid, so that it may be drawn smoothly and closely about the cigar. Flavor is not wanted in Connecticut tobacco, for if there be much of it it is sure to be bad. Perfect burn, color and texture can be got in the northern climate, but a delicate and agreeable flavor has not yet been obtained. Flavor is conditional upon soil and fertilizers. It is desirable, therefore, that the leaf be neutral, without taste, as far as may be. We get the flavor wholly in the Cuban filler. To obtain these qualities of leaf is the problem of the grower—a much more complicated one than meets the ordinary farmer.

Vegetables Will Become Valuable.

Two Melbourneites claim to have discovered a new motive power, "lighter than air, more powerful than dynamite, very simple and nominal in cost." Byronite (named after one of the inventors) is a fine powder alleged to be made from cheap vegetables, and generates, it is said, when specially treated, a gas which supplies the actual motive power.—Sydney Bulletin.

Robbers and Robbers.

"Lots o' them," replied Henry, sleepily, "in the house and senate, too, but they ain't a circumstance to those in city councils."—Philadelphia Press.

VOTE IN SECLUSION.

How the College of Cardinals Elects a Pontiff.

Coming Conclave Will Consist of 67 Members from All Parts of the World—Politics in the Vatican.

[Special Correspondence.]

CHURCH politics is quite as exciting a pursuit as partisan politics. Sometimes, it is true, the papal office seeks the man; but only after a number of men who have sought the office have been what an American ward statesman would call "knocked out." Just at present, so rumor says, several cardinals of high standing are making efforts to line up their forces; while others are giving their friends to understand that in the event of a deadlock they would not be averse to being considered candidates for the chair of St. Peter.

CARDINAL OREGLIA DI STEFANO.

Some Roman authorities claim that ever since the year 1058 the election of pope has been confined to the college of cardinals. Others state that not until 1862 was the practice established. The election takes place at an assembly of cardinals, styled conclave, which begins the day following the funeral of a deceased pontiff. The cardinals are locked up in several apartments, and meet once a day in the chapel of the vatican, or some other pontifical palace, where their votes, given on a slip of paper, are examined. This continues until two-thirds of the votes are found to be in favor of a particular candidate. The ambassadors of France, Austria and Spain have each the right to put in a veto against the election of one cardinal who may be unacceptable to their respective courts.

For some centuries the membership of the college of cardinals has been limited to 70, divided into three distinct orders—bishops, priests and deacons. There are six cardinal bishops, who hold the suburban sees of Rome. At present, however, there are but five, a vacancy which occurred some time ago not having been filled as yet. There are also six cardinal deacons and 56 cardinal priests—a total of 67. The cardinal priests hold their titles from parishes in Rome, many of them, among them Cardinal Gibbons, being at the same time archbishops or bishops of foreign dioceses. The cardinal bishops are the real princes of the church, and the pope is usually selected from their number.

The senior bishop in the college is "dean," the senior priest is "first priest" and the senior deacon is "first deacon" of the sacred college. Upon the death of a pope the cardinal chamberlain assumes charge of all Vatican affairs, and with the seniors of the three orders of cardinals forms an interregnum which controls church and state matters until a new pontiff is chosen. The committee has complete charge of the conclave. The cardinal dean consecrates the new pope, and the cardinal who is first deacon proclaims and crowns him.

Churchmen who profess to know what they are talking about are nearly unanimous in predicting that one of the five cardinal bishops will be the successor of Leo XIII.; although Cardinal Rampolla, for many years papal secretary of state, is by all odds the ablest and most popular member of the college. He is a statesman and diplomat of the first rank, and has gathered around himself a band of faithful followers. Moreover he is reputed to be a favorite of the present pope, and in order to release himself from all entanglements has recently resigned the Vatican premiership. He is a Sicilian by birth, very approachable and affable to high and low. Yet his chances are below par; not because he is not popular among his colleagues, but because it is an unwritten law of the church that no one who held a high position under a previous pontiff should be elected his successor. Cardinal Rampolla, it is true, has given up his confidential and responsible trust, but his self-denial evidently has not contributed to enlarging his popularity. However, he is but 58 years of age and can well afford to wait another decade before reaching the highest honor within the gift of the church.

The most popular, as well as the youngest, of the five cardinal bishops is Serafino Vannutelli, bishop of Frascati; who was born November 26, 1834. He was educated by the Jesuits, and after his admission to the priesthood took up diplomacy. He has served as nuncio at Brussels, Munich and Vienna, where he established connections which were of momentous usefulness to the church and himself in after days. Cardinal Vannutelli, as well as his younger brother, who is a cardinal priest, are favorites in Roman society. Both are inclined to be liberal in their views, and that is why, in spite of strong personal following, neither of them can expect to be made pontiff.

Luiji Oreglia di Stefano, dean of the sacred college, was born July 9, 1828, the son of a Roman patrician family. He became a Jesuit novitiate, but did not continue in the Society of Jesus. He was ordained to the secular priesthood in 1856, and was made a cardinal in 1873, by Pope Pius IX.

Cardinal Mario Mocenni, bishop of Sabino, is the oldest of the cardinal bishops. He was born January 22, 1823, and has served as apostolic delegate to Peru, Ecuador and Bolivia. He is a personal friend of Pope Leo, who created him a cardinal priest in 1893 and cardinal bishop in 1894.

Lucido Maria Parocchi, bishop of Puerto and vice chancellor of the Roman church, is also subdean of the Sacred College and secretary of the Congregation of the Inquisition. He enjoys the reputation of being the ablest leader and foremost scholar in the church. He is the son of a Mantua miller, and was born August 13, 1833. He was made a cardinal by Pius IX., in 1877, and cardinal bishop in 1889. He represents the anti-Italian party in the Vatican, and during his vicar generalship fought several spicy battles with the Quirinal government.

Antonio Agliardi, bishop of Albano, the fifth cardinal bishop, was born at Bergamo, Italy, September 4, 1832. He has filled a number of important diplomatic posts and represented the pope at the coronation of the present emperor of Russia. He was made a cardinal bishop in 1896, and has since taken an active part in Vatican affairs.

The five cardinal bishops, as well as a majority of the cardinal priests and deacons, are Italians, and it may be taken for granted that the next pope will belong to that nationality. There has been some talk in English and American papers about the possibility of electing an English-speaking pope; but that is mere balderdash. The Italians would not consent to any plan, however feasible, which would place the government of the church in the hands of a foreigner; and the scattered foreign portion of the conclave could not be induced to unite upon one of their number, even if they had enough votes to elect him.

The French, German and Austrian cardinals would oppose the candidacy of an American, not only because they are exceedingly conservative, but also because they would fear the introduction of ideas inimical to the perpetuation of their churches in the United States, Canada and other British colonies. They believe in following the beaten track and in the scrupulous observance of ancient usages and customs.

It has been stated that Pope Leo has designated Cardinal Rampolla as his successor, with Cardinal Gotti, prefect of the congregation of bishops, as second choice. All such talk is idle nonsense. Pope Leo is very friendly to both of these prelates; and he knows that nothing would injure their chances of election as much as outspoken advocacy of their cause, it having been the custom of centuries to disregard the wishes of a deceased pontiff in the matter of succession.

Many of the cardinals who have been "mentioned" by amateur pope makers are ineligible because they belong to one or another of the many powerful religious orders of which a large part of the Roman hierarchy is composed. This rule was established by the conclave which elected Pope Leo, after a protracted discussion, and will probably be reaffirmed at the next conclave. It was then feared—surely not without reason—that should a member of any particular order be placed on the papal throne, he would, almost unconsciously, but not the less surely, promote the interests of his society. For this reason no Jesuit has ever been made pope, although the college has always been devoted to the Society of Jesus.

BEYOND DOUBT.

These Facts Must Convince Every Plainfield Reader.

That which follows is the experience of a resident of Plainfield. Incredulity cannot exist about the statement because it can easily be investigated.

Mrs. I. L. Holmes, of 442 West Second street, says: "I used several boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills for backache and derived more benefit from them than anything else. Before I tried this remedy I was bothered almost constantly with a severe pain across the small of my back, so bad at times that I thought I must give up. If I sat down and got up or was lying down and attempted to rise quickly or retained one position for any length of time, sharp, acute pain always followed. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised for such troubles and went to L. W. Randolph's drug store and got a box. They helped me from the first and I improved right along under the treatment."

BOICE, RUNYON & CO.,

PARK AVE. AND RAILROAD

Yes, I am a chemist, and as a chemist I had an engagement for two seasons at Boothbay Harbor in Maine, a place where we took in fish scraps and other refuse and turned out bags of fertilizer, the first smelling about as bad as it could and the transformed substance I thought gave out an odor that was a little worse. I don't know that the smells had anything to do with upsetting my stomach, but I came away from that place with about the worst digestive apparatus I ever knew about and it was complicated with insomnia. When I did sleep I was not much refreshed. With a headache every morning, little sleep and no appetite for food, I lost twenty-five pounds in weight and my friends said my disposition was worse than my physical appearance. It was by the recommendation of a member of my own family that I first used Ripans Tabules, but the result was satisfactory and immediate. I soon gained in weight all I had lost and added three pounds more, and never in my life was my appetite better or my sleep more sound and refreshing than now. My daughter, who was troubled with a distress after eating, took some of the Tabules on my recommendation and says she thinks they are splendid. We are both well now. I was 44 years of age on the 17th of February.

WANTED—A case of bad health that Ripans Tabules will not benefit. They banish pain and prolong life. One gives relief. Note the word Ripans on the package and accept no substitute. Ripans Tabules, 10 for 5 cents, may be had at any drug store. Ten will be sent, and one thousand testimonials will be mailed to any address for 5 cents, forwarded to the Ripans Chemical Co., No. 10 Spruce st., New York.

BOLEROS.

They Are Becoming More and More Elaborate.

Boleros are becoming more and more attractive. Some beautiful ones are made of black crepe de chine, but so appliqued with large scrolls and sprays of black jetted guipure that hardly anything of the original material remains visible.

Very dainty boleros are made of coffee colored veiling appliqued with coarse Arabian lace. These are meant to be worn over white china silk or taffeta waists, the skirt, of course, being of the same veiling. A charming note of color can be given to a costume of this sort by the addition of a belt and collar band made of the ecru lace run through with narrow turquoise ribbons.

Some striking red silk Etons are being sold for golf wear. They are cut quite short to allow glimpses of the fine white lawn shirt waists. The sleeves are made of the plain silk, but the body part is stitched closely in white or dark green.

A dainty example of the fancy bolero is here sketched. It is made of pale blue crepe de chine laid in fine tucks and finished at the bottom with a wide edge of Russian lace. The wide sailor collar is also finished with a wide application of this lace. The underblouse is of white mousseline de soie over white taffeta, and the undersleeves are of the same. A smart touch is given by the loose tie of plaited crepe de chine edged with lace.

STREET GOWNS.

Tailor Mades Are Growing Shorter and Fuller.

Tailor made gowns are getting a little shorter and also a little fuller. Sleeves are distinctly gaining in circumference. Elaborations in every way are slowly but surely creeping in. The new coat sleeve is very comfortable. It is a cross between the bishop shirt sleeve at the elbow and the ordinary coat sleeve at the top. It is admirably suited to the bolero and blouse of the moment.

Parisians seem to have a liking for double skirts, and these are very smart on tall, slender figures. A charming dinner frock has a skirt made of two flounces of lace, the upper part being cut princesse.

Black velvet ribbon is decidedly popular on both day and evening dresses.

A stylish royal blue etamine gown is here pictured. The entire costume is made into strips joined by bands of black silk herringboning, which effect allows the white serge underskirt to be seen. This underskirt finally emerges in the shape of a gored flounce. The short jacket fits snugly at the back and sides, but is allowed to fall loosely in front. It is made with a wide sailor collar edged with a band of white serge. The edges of the sleeves flare considerably, and they are also edged with a band of the white serge. The blouse worn with this is of white silk trimmed with broad yellow lace beading.

The hat is of white rough straw trimmed beneath the brim with a soft draping of tulle, which is held in place by three narrow blue velvet straps on the right side, while two long curled quills droop over the left brim.

Observation Parties.

Mrs. Nebb—I am going to an observation party this afternoon, dear.

Husband—An observation party? What sort of a party is that?

Mrs. Nebb—Mrs. Quizzer's next door neighbor is moving, and Mrs. Quizzer has invited a few friends to watch through the windows and see what they have.—Ohio State Journal.

Armstrong arose and, going to the back of the tent, made close examination. The canvas home of the chief was what is known as the hospital tent, but instead of being pitched with the ordinary ridge pole and upright, a substantial wooden frame and floor had first been built and over this the stout canvas was stretched, stanch and taut as the head of a drum. It was all intact and sound. Whoever filched that packet made way with it through the front, and that, as Armstrong well knew, was kept tightly laced, as a rule, from the time the general left it in the morning until his return. It was never unlaced except in his presence or by his order. Then the deft hands of the orderlies on duty would do the trick in a twinkling. Knowing all this, the colonel queried further:

"You went in town, as I remember, late that evening and called on the Primes and other people at the Palace. I think I saw you in the supper room. There was much merriment at your table. Mrs. Garrison seemed to be the life of the party. Now, you left your overcoat with the boy at the cloak stand?"

"No, Armstrong, that's the odd part of it. I only used the cape that evening. The coat was hanging at its usual place when I returned late, with a mass of new orders and papers. No! no! But here, I must get back to the office, and what I wished you to see was that poor boy's letter. What can you hope with a nature like that to deal with?"

Armstrong took the missive held out to him and slowly read it, the general studying his face the while. The letter bore no clew as to the whereabouts of the writer. It read:

"March 1, '98.

"It is six weeks since I repaid all your loving kindness, brought shame and sorrow to you and ruin to myself by deserting from West Point when my commission was but a few short months away. In an hour of intense misery, caused by a girl who had won my very soul, and whose words and letters made me believe she would become my wife the month of my graduation, and who, as I now believe, was then engaged to the man she married in January, I threw myself away. My one thought was to find her, and God knows what beyond.

"It can never be undone. My career is ended, and I can never look you in the face again. At first I thought I should show the letters, one by one, to the man she married, and ask him what he thought of his wife, but that is too low. I hold them because I have a mad longing to see her again and heap reproach upon her, but, if I fail and should I feel at any time that my end is near, I'm going to send them to you to read—to see how I was lured, and then, if you can, to pity and forgive.

"ROLLIN."

Armstrong's firm lips twitched under his mustache. The general, with moist eyes, had risen from his chair and mechanically held forth his hand. "Poor lad!" sighed Armstrong. "Of course—you know who the girl was?"

"Oh, of course," and Drayton shrugged his shoulders.

"Well, we'll have to go," and led on to the misty light without.

Over across the way were the headquarters tents of a big parade, hopefully awaiting orders for Manila. To their left, separated by a narrow space, so crowded were the camps, were the quarters of the officers of the —teenth infantry, and even through the veil of mist both soldiers could plainly see along the line. Coming toward the gate was Mr. Prime, escorted by the major. Just behind them followed Mildred and the attentive Schuyler. But where was Miss Lawrence? Armstrong had already seen. Lingering, she stood at Billy's tent front, her ear inclined to his protruding pate. He was saying something that took time, and she showed no inclination to hurry him. Miss Prime looked back, then she and Schuyler exchanged significant smiles and glances. There was rather a lingering handclasp before Amy started. Even then she looked back at the boy and smiled.

"H'm!" said the general, as he gazed, "that youngster wouldn't swap places with any subaltern in camp, even if he is under charges."

There was no answer from the strong soldier standing observant at his elbow. But when the chief would have moved Armstrong detained him. "One more question, general. In case you were away and wanted something you had left in this tent, you would send an aide—or orderly, or—would an order signed by one of your staff be sufficient?"

"H'm, well—yes, I suppose it would," said the general.

CHAPTER XII.

Opinion was divided at Camp Merritt as to whether Billy Gray should or should not stand trial. Confident as were his friends of his innocence of all complicity in Morton's escape, there remained the fact that he had telephoned for a carriage, that a carriage had come and that a carriage with four men, apparently soldiers, had driven rapidly townward along Point Lobos avenue. It was seen by half a dozen policeman as it shot under the electric light or gas lamp. Then there was the bundle inside his rolled overcoat that Gray had personally handed Morton when a prisoner. Everybody agreed he should have sent it by orderly—everybody, that is, except some scores of young soldiers in the ranks who could see no harm in it having been done that way, especially two "Delta Sigs" in the —teenth. Then there were the long conferences in the dark. What did they mean? All things considered, the older and wiser heads saw that, as the lieutenant could or would make no satisfactory explanation of these to his colonel, he should to a court—or take the consequences.

"You've made a mess of the thing and an ass of yourself, Billy," was Gordon's comprehensive if not consolatory summary of the matter, "and as Canker has been trapped for one thing or another by camp, division and brigade commanders, one after another, he feels that he's got to prove that he isn't the only fool in the business. You'd better employ good counsel and prepare for a fight."

"Can't afford it," said Billy, briefly, "and I'm blowed if I'll ask my dear old dad to come to the rescue. He's had to cough up (shame on your slang, Billy) far too much already. I tell you, Gordon, I'm so fixed that I can't explain these things unless I'm actually brought to trial. It's—it's—well, you have no secret societies at the Point as we do at college, so you can't fathom it. I'm no more afraid of standing trial than I am of Squeers—and be d——d to him!"

"Good Lawd, youngster—you, you aren't quite such an ass as to suppose a court is going to regard any schoolboy obligation as paramount to that which your oath of office demands. Look hyuh, Billy, your head's just addled! I can't work on you, but somebody must!"

And Gordon went away very low in his mind. He liked that boy. He loved a keen, alert, snappy soldier on drill, and Billy had no superior in the battalion when it came to handling squad or company. The adjutant plainly saw the peril of his position, and further consultation with his brother officers confirmed him in his fears. Schuyler, the brigade commissary, being much with the —teenth—messing with them, in fact, when he was not dancing attendance on Miss Prime—heard all this camp talk and told her. Thus it happened that the very next day when he drove with the cousins (Mr. Prime being the while in conference with the detectives still scouring the city for the young deserter, who the father now felt confident was his missing boy), Miss Lawrence looked the captain full in the face with her clear, searching eyes and plumped at him the point-blank question:

"Capt. Schuyler, do Mr. Gray's brother officers really consider him in danger of dismissal?"

"Miss Lawrence, I grieve to say that not one has any other opinion now."

There could be no doubt of it. Amy Lawrence turned very pale and her beautiful eyes filled.

"It is a shame!" she said, after a moment's struggle to conquer the trembling of her lips. "Has—is there no one—influential enough—or with brains enough (this with returning color) to take up his case and clear him?"

They were whirling through the beautiful drive of the Golden Gate park, passing company after company at drill. Even as Amy spoke Schuyler lifted his cap and Miss Prime bowed and smiled. A group of regimental officers, four in number, stood, apparently supervising the work, and as Miss Lawrence quickly turned to see who they might be, her eyes met those of Col. Armstrong. Five minutes later the carriage returning drew up, as though by some order from its occupants, at that very spot. Armstrong and his adjutant were still there and promptly joined them.

Long weeks afterward that morning lived in Stanley Armstrong's memory. It was one of those rare August days when the wind blew from the southeast, beat back the drenching Pacific fogs and let the warm sun pour upon the brilliant verdure of that wonderful park. Earth and air, distant sea and dazzling sky, all seemed glorifying their Creator. Bright-hued birds flashed through the foliage and thrilled the ear with their caroling. The plash of fountain fell softly on the breeze, mingled with the rustling of the luxuriant growth of leaf and flower close at hand. It was not chance that brought the stalwart soldier instantly to Amy's side. Her gaze was upon him before the carriage stopped, and irresistibly drew him. The man of mature years, the hero of sharp combats and stirring campaigns with a fierce and savage foe, the commander of hundreds of eager and gallant men, obeyed without thought of demur the unspoken summons of a girl yet in her teens. There was a new light in her clear and beautiful eyes, a flush upon her soft and rounded cheek, a little flutter, possibly, in her kind and loyal heart. Heaven knows his heart beat high with an emotion he could not subdue, though his bearing was grave and courteous as ever, but about that sweet and flushing face there shone the halo of a woman's brave determination, and no sooner had he reached the carriage side than, bending toward him, she spoke. Mildred Prime could not repress a little gasp of amaze.

"Col. Armstrong, will you kindly open the carriage door? I want to talk with you a moment."

Without a word he wrenched the handle and threw wide the door. Light as a bird she sprang to the ground, her fingers just touching the extended hand. Side by side they strolled away across the sunlit lawn, he so strong, virile, erect, she so lissome and graceful. Full of her purpose, yet fearful that with delay might come timidity, she looked up in his face:

"Col. Armstrong, I have heard only to-day that Mr. Gray is in really serious danger. Will you tell me—the truth?"

Just what Armstrong expected it might be hard to say. The light that had leaped to his eyes faded slowly and his face lost something of the flush of robust health. There was a brief pause before he spoke as though he wished time to weigh his words.

"I fear it is true," he gravely said. Then in a moment: "Miss Lawrence, will you not take my arm?" And he felt her hand tremble as she placed it there. It was a moment before she began again.

"They tell me he should have counsel. But will not heed. I have not seen him to-day. There is no one in his battalion, it seems, whom he really looks up to. He is headstrong and self-confident. Do you think he should—that he needs one?" And anxiously the brave eyes sought the strong, soldierly face.

"It would seem so, Miss Lawrence."

She drew a long breath. She seemed to cling a little closer to his arm. Then—straight came the next question:

"Col. Armstrong, will you do me a great favor? Will you be his counselor?"

He was looking directly to the front as she spoke. Something told him what was coming, yet he could not answer all at once. What did it mean, after all, but just what he had been thinking for a week, that the girl's fresh young heart had gone out to this merry, handsome, soldierly lad, whom he, too, had often marked with keen appreciation when in command of his big company at drill. What possible thought of hers could he, "more than twice her years," have ever hoped to win? She had come to him in her sore trouble—and her lover's—as she would have gone to her father had he been a soldier schooled in such affairs. Armstrong pulled himself together with quick, stern self-command.

Looking down, he saw that her eyes were filling, her lips paling, and a rush of tenderness overcame him as he simply and gently answered:

"Yes, and there is no time to be lost."

OLD WRONG RIGHTED

Land Stolen by Mormons Returned to Navaho Chief.

Controversy Settled After Years of Quarreling and Litigation—Old Musha's Claims Upheld by Brave Army Officer.

[Special Arizona Letter.]

UP IN the northeastern corner of Arizona, just on the borders of the Navaho Indian reservation, lives an old Indian known to his people and the whites alike as Musha. The poor old fellow is crippled in both legs with rheumatism, or some similar complaint, so that for years he has been unable to straighten out his limbs. Even when he rides on the back of his burro his poor, crooked knees reach almost up to his chin, and give him a most pathetic appearance. But he is not doleful by any means. No matter when you meet him, he greets you with a cheery "Yat-a hay," and a bright smile, and will always stop and joyfully accept a pinch of tobacco and a cigarette paper as an evidence of good will.

Musha's life has been an eventful one, and his last days have been clouded by acts of meanness and treachery that exemplify the too common treatment the Indian has met with at the hands of the whites. One day I got him to tell me his story, which he gave with an air of wounded generosity, which made a profound impression upon me. In effect it was as follows:

Many long years ago when he was a young man he had already gained power amongst his people, the Navahoes, by his warlike skill and daring courage. He had been granted all the springs and pasturage in a large territory, a portion of which he still retains. He had horses, sheep and goats, and in several places good-sized fields of corn. He was well to do and prosperous, and in all great councils of his people his voice was listened to as that of a wise and successful man.

One day a band of white men and women were seen on the north side of the Colorado river, at the place where Lee's ferry now is. It was a cold and stormy day, and Musha was out seeing after some of his stock that he wished to have moved. While he and his helpers watched, the white men essayed to cross the river in a rude boat which they had hastily constructed. That they were ignorant of the dangers which beset them Musha could soon see. They evidently did not realize the swiftness of the river, nor the fact that a little below them was the entrance to Marble canyon, in which rapid succeeded dangerous rapid for many miles.

Though he did not wish for the advent of white men into his territory, his heart was tender and gentle, and when he saw the boat upset and men, women and children washed into the waters of the dangerous stream, it was the work of but a moment for him to lash his horse down the steep trail to the lower crossing, calling to his men to follow him, and there, taking his life in his hands, throw himself into the water and unaided saved several lives. Indeed, of all those who were upset, only one perished. For several days following he and his men stayed and helped the whites—who turned out to be Mormons—get their horses and the rest of their party across the Colorado. Then he guided them over the barren and desolate 100 miles of country intervening between the place of their adventure to the location of the present Mormon town of Tuba City.

Unfortunately for Musha, he had had not properly cared for himself after his severe wetting, and from this time his rheumatic troubles began, which soon rendered him a complete cripple.

In spite of this he treated the Mormons with great hospitality. They were an advance guard sent out by the church to colonize Arizona and make proselytes among the Indians. But they were poorly equipped. It was not long before their food supplies gave out, and while they were waiting for crops to grow on the land which Musha had allowed them to use they would have starved to death had it not been for his generosity. He ordered his wives to prepare twice each day large bowls of steaming hot corn meal mush, and this he called up the Mormons to eat. Day after day, week after week, the sound of the grinding corn was heard in Musha's hogans, and twice each day the strangers fed to repletion upon the simple, but healthful and nourishing, dish. This was how he received his name. The Mormons, not unkindly, took to calling him "Old Mush" and as the Navahoes endeavored to repeat it they transformed it into Musha.

Now one would naturally think that such kindness would have received corresponding generous and kindly treatment. Yet it was not so. Some members of the Mormon band took a great fancy to some of the lands of Musha. There were fine springs, one of them large enough to irrigate a good-sized patch of land and supply a whole town with water. Their covetousness overcame their honesty and their gratitude, for when reenforcements from Utah came the following year these ungrateful wretches took possession of what land and springs of Musha's they wanted and told him he must be content with the rest.

Thus began the feuds between the white men of this region and the Navahoes, which every now and then burst out afresh to the loss of several lives.

The Navahoes had recently, in 1863, been treated to a specimen of the power of the white man's government, and this deterred Musha from gaining help from his friends to oust the now unwelcome intruders. The events to which I refer were the removing to a place called the Bosques of about 12,000 Navahoes, and the keeping of them there, in practical captivity, for the space of five years. During this period so many sickened and died that only 9,000 of them were returned to their own lands in 1868. This was the reason that so small a band of white men could come into Navaho territory and, without any right or justice, steal lands and springs and use them as if they had a perfect title to them.

About two miles from where the chief of Musha's springs was located a small band of Hopi Indians from Oraibi had been in the habit of coming each year and planting corn fields, etc. This was in the Moenkopi wash, and their village soon became known as Moenkopi. Not content with stealing Musha's land they began to plant their corn and vegetables on the lands of the Hopi. The village chief was named Tuba, and, seeing how futile it would be to quarrel with the powerful white men, he urged a conciliatory plan of procedure. In accordance with this the Mormons were allowed certain portions of the land to use and a certain proportion of the common water supply for irrigation purposes. As a mark of appreciation the Mormons called their new settlement Tuba City, and thus Musha's land became known by the name of a Hopi chief.

Year after year passed by. The Mormons came to regard themselves as settled in their home, and Musha perforce kept friends with them. But every now and then there would be an open quarrel between some extraordinarily "hoggish" Mormon and the Indian he sought to wrong, and the outside world would hear of another Navaho uprising, and wonder why the government didn't use a sterner mode of suppressing these Indians.

While the policy of the government to put army officers in charge of the Indian reservations as agents was carried out with the Navahoes, Lieut. Plummer was the first army man to hold this office as agent for the Navahoes and Hopi. As soon as he knew the facts in Musha's case he laid them before the Indian commissioner. Later, when Capt. Constant Williams took his place, the subject was again taken up, and this time by a man determined that the Indian should have his rights.

About a year the case was finally adjudicated before the court which was held at Flagstaff, and the claim of the Indian was allowed. The Mormons were given a certain length of time to remove from the lands and springs, and the Indian department was to pay them so much for their improvements.

Hence, at length, in his old age Musha is to come again into the possession of his property, long stolen from him by those who, years ago, were befriended by him, and who would doubtless have starved to death had it not been for his open-handed hospitality.

G. WHARTON JAMES.

GOLF.

Many Plainfielders will be interested in the official rating of the Metropolitan Golf Association published yesterday in the Mail and Express where the following handicaps are given: Frank O. Reinhart 7, H. R. Stockton 12, Leighton Calkins 14, Herbert D. Lloyd 14, Dr. A. B. Wadsworth 14.

Expert Alfred Glover, of the Park Golf Club, has tendered his resignation as instructor, to take effect September 3. He has secured an excellent position with the Williamsburg Golf Club at East New York. Owing to the lateness of the season, the Park Club will not engage another expert until next year.

Whether at home or abroad Plainfield golfers are sure to win honors. This has been true throughout this summer. Various members of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club, who have been away on their vacations, have followed the ancient game and nearly every day reports are received that they are winning honors. At the Rangeley Lake, Maine, tournament, this summer, Plainfield carried off three of the four honors. Willard Wadsworth captured first prize in the men's tournament, while Miss Helen Lee received the first prize in the women's tournament. Miss Mary Wadsworth won the first prize for women in the mixed foursomes.

ABOUT CONVINCED.

It is hoped that you are about convinced to let me stop at your home regularly with a nice clean piece of Hygeia Ice. I have been hammering away at you for some time to bring you around to this point. I believe it is economy for you to use ice. I believe also that you should use Hygeia. Ice in preference to any other ice. Because it is a pure ice, a healthful ice and an ice that lasts longer than others. No dirt. No impurities—nothing in it that shouldn't be.

ON THE DIAMOND.

The policemen's baseball game, scheduled for tomorrow at Elizabeth, has been postponed till Thursday.

Manager Thompson, of the Hope team, has as yet no game scheduled for Saturday afternoon, but hopes to fill the date with a team from Asbury Park. The manager of the latter team states that he has the date open and the game will be played in this city if the other arrangements can be satisfactorily made.

ROD AND GUN.

Hard luck is the tale told by a fishing party, consisting of Edward Townley, Frank Day and Frank Hart, who spent yesterday at Amboy.

After spending an enjoyable time fishing at Barnegat, L. B. Woolston, Councilman J. F. Buckle, Chief of Police P. S. Kiely, Superintendent Amos Andrews, of the local water company, and Manager Charles W. Bunyon, of the telephone service, returned home yesterday morning. They brought with them a good share of a haul of 125 fish.

ESCORTED HIM HOME.

Claimed the Lad Was Annoying Horses in Dunn's Charge.

The young son of Paoli, an Italian, who keeps a confectionery store on North avenue, opposite the Plainfield Cab Company's office, was the cause of a disturbance yesterday afternoon. The youngster, it is claimed, was annoying some horses which were in the care of Fred Dunn, a son of a local groceryman, and the latter forcibly escorted the boy home.

Friends of Mr. Paoli were indignant at Dunn's action and vowed they would have redress, but no steps towards that end have been taken.

Cannot Debate.

Lawyer William Newcorn has received an invitation to take part in a debate August 28, at the Farmers' Picnic to be held at Chimney Rock, his opponent to be E. E. Potter, of Port Oram. The question to be debated is the chief principles dividing the Republican and Democratic parties. Owing to a previous engagement, Mr. Newcorn is obliged to decline the invitation.

Grand Union Picnic.

Arrangements are being made for a grand union picnic to be held at Vail's grove, Thursday afternoon, from 2 until 11 o'clock. Vocal and instrumental music will be furnished by a number of well known artists and other forms of amusement will be provided. Admission to the grounds will be free.

Quaint English Customs.

Everybody may not know that in royal households it is not the custom to relight a [illegible], says the London Onlooker. For however short a time it has been burning, if once extinguished, it is never used again, at least not in the precincts of the palace. Another quaint monarchical custom is that there are always two sets of servants, to insure better service. The one set goes on duty for three weeks, and when that time has expired another set will take their place, so that in the sovereign's palace there is always one complete retinue at work while their duplicates are resting until their three weeks of service come round again.

Dead Sea in Tibet.

M. Sven Hedin has discovered a second Dead sea in the highlands of Tibet, a vast lake so impregnated with salt that indigenous life is out of the question. It was impossible for him to get his boat close to the shore, so that he and his companions had to wade out two boats' lengths before she would float, and this was sufficient to bring a thick coating of salt on their legs and clothes. The entire bed of the lake appeared to consist of salt.

TROLLEY EXTENSION TALK.

ONLY ONE OBSTACLE TO THE SOUTH PLAINFIELD LINE.

Consent of Two Plainfield Avenue Cemetery Associations Must be Obtained.

At the meeting of the Board of Trade, held last evening, Secretary Harry O. Runyon reported that the only obstacle in the way of building the proposed trolley line from this city to South Plainfield, lay in securing the consent of the trustees of the Methodist and Baptist cemeteries on Plainfield avenue.

It is said, however, that the trustees do not oppose the building of the road, the only difficulty on their part being the impossibility of getting the two bodies together to give their sanction. Many of the trustees are at present on their summer vacations, but it is thought a meeting will be held the first part part of September when the necessary consent will be given.

The line, as proposed, will run from the present double track on West Front street, through Plainfield avenue to the South Plainfield depot of the Lehigh Valley Railroad. This will virtually give the Lehigh Valley entrance to this city without breaking its agreement with the Central not to build a spur. The officials of the company have already promised that, on the completion of the trolley, Plainfield will be included in their time tables.

CAMP WOOLFE'S STORY WAS WELL PICTURED.

Meeting In Interest of Westfield Fresh Air Camp Held at Warren Chapel.

WHAT AIMS OF CAMP ARE.

SEVERAL PAPERS READ BY MEMBERS OF THE SOCIETY.

Meeting Given by Christian Endeavor Society of Warren Chapel — Geo. P. Zimmer, President, Was In Charge.

The members of the Christian Endeavor Society of Warren chapel and a large number of other Christian workers, listened to an inspiring address on the subject of the Westfield Fresh Air Camp and enjoyed a social time at a special meeting held in the chapel, last evening, in the interest of the camp.

George P Zimmer, the president of the society, had charge of the meeting and its object was explained by him. The principal address was made by Arthur N. Pierson, of Westfield, who has given much of his time and spent much effort in an earnest endeavor to make the charitable work a success. The choir sang one or two appropriate selections in addition to the chorus singing of the society.

After Mr. Pierson had been formally introduced, he proceeded to outline the aim of the camp. To understand the work, said he, one must know who are these people; where do they come from, and what are their environments. The camp has to care for a particular class of persons. They come from the upper East Side of New York, where the surroundings are detrimental, in every sense, to a healthy physical and spiritual existence. Life there is essentially degrading and the atmosphere in summer time is stifling. Hundreds of little ones and many poor and needy mothers have to endure life in that quarter all the year round. It is for the purpose of giving these creatures an opportunity of enjoying fresh air, in a wholesome religious atmosphere, that the camp is called into duty.

At some length the speaker explained why the mothers were cared for at the camp as well as the children. The reason in short is that by reaching the mother and softening her heart so that she may see her Christian duty the little ones may be more readily saved. A good mother, said Mr. Pierson, can do more to influence a child in leading a pure life than any other person or any institution. If she be saved the mother will use all her influence in spreading the teachings of the Godly life. Should the work be merely confined to instructing the children as to their duty, the object would never be attained for as soon as any children would return to their original environments, the tendency would be that they would likewise return to a condition compatable with that of the surroundings.

A paper on "The Camp, Its Guests and Their Needs" was read by Theodore Mason, one of the members of the society, while "Our Gospel Warrant" was read by Harry Winn, another member. Miss Dora Bennett read "Little Miss East-Side at Camp Woolfe," and Miss Harriet Squier recited "Camp History Told in Metre." George P. Zimmer also spoke a few words on the subject of the camp and its aims.

At the conclusion of the regular programme, refreshments were served. This feature was a surprise and was thoroughly enjoyed by those attending the meeting. The remainder of the evening was devoted to social intercourse. The entertainment committee consisted of Mrs. Theodore Martin, chairman; Mrs. L. C. Ely, Miss Dollie Bolsterle, Miss Florence Smith and William Kenney.

Old Travellers.

Theberg's wagons passed through this city yesterday. The conveyances are owned by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Theberg, of Rahway, who for years have visited all the large picnics and other outings in this vicinity. Fortune telling, cane-rings and other specialties are their attractions. They are now en route for the farmers' picnic at Flemington.

Entertainment at the Inn.

A musical and vaudeville entertainment is scheduled for Mountain Park Inn Saturday evening. A stage meets every trolley at the foot of the mountain. To attend it will help one to forget the absence of a theatre in this city.

—Sixty pony baskets of Mountain Rose Jersey peaches will be on sale at Neuman Brothers, tomorrow.

VISITING KNIGHTS.

Were Guests at Meeting of Freedom Castle Last Evening.

A delegation of officers and members of Golden Crown Castle, K. G. E., of Somerville, was entertained by Freedom Castle, of this city, last evening. Freedom Castle's degree team initiated one Somerville knight to the mysteries of the third degree of the order, and also put ten Plainfield knights through the same degree.

After the regular meeting, a social time was spent and informal speeches were made by a number of the knights. A smoker was one of the features of the affair. At the next regular meeting of Freedom Castle several propositions will be acted upon.

BAKE AT RECREATION PARK.

UNION COUNTY REPUBLICANS ARRANGED FOR ANNUAL OUTING.

Date Set Was Saturday, September 14—R. F. Murray and Andrew McCardell on the Committee.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, August 21.—The Republican county executive committee met last evening in the Dix building. Plainfield was represented by Collector F. H. Smith, Councilman J. F. Buckle, Wm. Newcorn, Andrew McCardell and William T. Kirk.

The first matter discussed was that relative to holding the annual clambake. It was decided to hold the bake Saturday, September 14, at Recreation Park, provided it does not conflict with any other similar function. Roger F. Murray and Andrew McCardell, of Plainfield, were appointed to membership on the committee having the bake in charge. Mr. McCardell was also made chairman of the printing committee.

Regarding naturalization, it was decided to make up the committee with three members each from Elizabeth, Plainfield, Rahway and Summit, and one each from the boroughs, town and townships. This committee will be appointed in the near future.

There was a report received concerning the Swift-Carr matter now in dispute, and it was stated that the matter is now in the courts, but nothing as yet has been done. This comprised the important business transacted at the meeting, and the committee adjourned to meet again in the near future.

IGNORED CHANGE.

Democratic County Committee Has Appointed Election Officers for Old Nine Wards.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, August 21.—At a meeting of the Democratic county executive committee held Monday evening, the members refused to recognize the recent redistricting of Elizabeth by a commission appointed by Governor Voorhees, under an act passed by the last Legislature. Election officers for the twelve wards of Elizabeth were appointed, thus ignoring the recent work of the commission.

The Republican city executive committee has decided to give the Democratic City Council until August 30 to obey the law by making three election districts in each of the nine new wards, and if the council fails to do so the Republicans will appoint August 30 a single set of election officers for each of the new wards, and then let the Supreme Court decide the case.

Illness of Long Standing.

There is no improvement in the condition of Albert W. Moffett, of Rahway, who is quite ill at the home of his brother, Charles L. Moffett, of West Front street. Mr. Moffett's illness dates back to the time of the trolley accident near Westfield, when he received injuries. His heart was greatly affected and he has never recovered. Dr. Long is now in attendance and he considers Mr. Moffett's condition serious. It is believed that he will never fully recover from his injury.

Mr. Martine Is Going.

The Democratic executive committee of Union county will hold its annual outing at Whitestone, L. I., Wednesday, August 28. James E. Martine, of this city, is among the list of distinguished Democrats of the State who have been invited to attend the affair.

Will Entertain Ladies Society.

The Ladies Society of the Gesang and Turn Verein will be entertained this afternoon at Saengerbund Hall by Mrs. Matthias Menzenbach, one of the members. The occasion is in celebration of Mrs. Menzenbach's birthday.

Big Purchase of Bonds.

Harvey Fisk & Sons, of New York, was one of three successful firms to bid on the $9,000,000 water loan awarded by Mayor Ashbridge, of Philadelphia, yesterday. The bid of the syndicate was $9,022,500.

CITY COUNCIL PASSED ON ASSESSORS' BOOKS.

Asked For Bids For Macadamized Streets and Building New Storm Sewers.

VALUATIONS $225,000 MORE

LITTLE BUSINESS DONE AT ADJOURNED MEETING LAST NIGHT.

Took Half an Hour to Look Over the Books of the Assessors Which Were Approved—Some Questions of Taxes Brought Up.

The adjourned meeting of the Common Council was held last evening with all the members present except President Dumont and Councilman Buckle. Mr. vanHerwerden, who has just returned from a trip to Holland, called the meeting to order and Mr. Coriell was chosen president pro tem, while Mr. Wean was called upon to act as clerk in the absence of City Clerk MacMurray.

As soon as the meeting was called, a motion was offered that a recess be taken to examine the books of the assessors. This required a half hour, and, when the members returned to the Council room, a motion prevailed that the books be accepted as correct. It is closely estimated that the increased valuations this year will be nearly $225,000.

The regular order of business was then taken up. Annie E. Thompson, who owns lots 834-836 West Fourth street, asked that a division of taxes be made so that she can pay the taxes on those lots. Her assessment includes that on lots 830-32, which are owned by the Plainfield Real Estate Company. The matter was referred to the finance committee, Louis S. Darling, of Rahway road, informed the Council that yesterday he received a tax bill amounting to $7.98, which included $4 for a dog tax. He claimed that his sister, Mrs. W. W. Hadley, of Stone Ridge, N. Y., owed the dog tax. He said that he paid all but $4 of the bill and returned the other to be forwarded to his sister. The matter was referred.

Mayor Jenkins appointed John Goodman, janitor of the Y. M. C. A., as a special policeman and the appointment was confirmed. Mr. Lee made a verbal report concerning the assessment on Reform Hall for taxes. He said that the committee had decided to recommend that the taxes be taken off the books and the same cancelled. Mr. vanHerwerden objected on the ground that a petition regarding this matter had been referred to the corporation counsel and no report had as yet been received from him.

Mr. Tolles offered plans, etc., for the installation of sewers in certain streets to carry off surface water, and followed it up with a resolution providing that two weeks' notice be given in the local papers setting September 9 as the time when the Council will meet to receive bids for doing this work. A similar resolution was offered by Mr. Tolles providing that the same date, September 9, be set as the time when bids will be received for macadamizing certain streets in the city according to plans on file.

Mr. Tolles called up the ordinance providing for the improvement of West Eighth street, between Grant and Monroe avenues, and the same was adopted on its second reading. This concluded the business of the evening and the Council adjourned.

WILL HAVE LIBRARY.

Young Men's Hebrew Association Completing Its Organization.

The Young Men's Hebrew Association has recently purchased a large assortment of books, which will be added to its library. The draft of the new constitution of the organization was read at the regular meeting of the association held Sunday afternoon.

In the near future a club room and library will be opened at the house, No. 421 East Second street. Another meeting will be held for the transaction of business Sunday, and after that the association will hold its meetings twice a month.

Cut With China.

While handling some china one day last week, Mrs. Ida Bower, of North avenue, severely cut a deep gash in the palm of her right hand. The injured hand was promptly dressed, but it has since become much swollen.

BOROUGH TAX RATE WILL TAKE A DROP.

So Says Assessor French Now Council Has Approved His Work.

LOWER BY SEVERAL POINTS.

BUT IT IS IMPOSSIBLE TO SAY HOW MUCH AT PRESENT.

Borough Council Completes Its Examination of Assessor's Books Last Evening—Very Few Changes Were Made.

The work of revising the current annual assessment, made by Borough Assessor Elston M. French, was completed last evening by the Borough Council, of North Plainfield. When the labor was concluded one fact became evident, which is that the tax rate will be still lower than that of last year. It is impossible to figure the probable rate at the present time, but it will fall below 2 46. In other words the rate will be less than $2 46 on $100.

With the exception of Councilmen Swackhamer and Coddington, all the members of the body were present when the work of finally going over the books was performed by the council. Mayor Smalley presided and nearly three hours were spent in the matter, Mr. French was on hand to furnish any needed information. During the course of the deliberations, some few changes were made in the assessments, but none of these were significant. Before adjournment a resolution was passed confirming the assessment and the work was ended.

When seen this morning Assessor French stated that the probable rate for the year could not be figured approximately at the present, as it would be necessary to await the action of the County Board of Assessors, which meets at Somerville, Tuesday, September 3. The books, said he, show that there is an increased valuation this year amounting to $40,000, and this will permit a reduction in last year's rate. New buildings recently erected in the borough are responsible for the increased values.

Mr. French states that much depends on the size of the funds called for by the County Board of Freeholders and as well as that needed for the State school fund. When these amounts are known, the borough tax rate can be estimated. Mr. French is the present chairman of the County Board of Assessors, and has filled that position for the last two years, although he is the youngest member on the board.

DUMPING GARBAGE.

Two Colored Men in City Court on Complaint of Health Inspector Addis.

Spencer Conway and Wm. Wilson were arraigned before Mayor Jenkins in the city court this morning on charges preferred against them by Health Inspector Addis. It was alleged that they had thrown garbage on ground belonging to Mrs. John Brown, at the corner of West Eighth street and Monroe avenue.

Mr. Wilson stated that the garbage had been dumped by a new employe without his knowledge. In his case no action was taken. Conway pleaded not guilty and the case was adjourned until Monday.

COAL WRECK.

Blocked Both Tracks of Jersey Central Railroad Near High Bridge This Morning.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, August 21—A bad coal wreck occurred on the Central Railroad, at High Bridge, shortly after 6 o'clock this morning. Seven cars were totally demolished and forty others were strewn about, blocking both tracks. Passenger trains from Easton are being run over the Lehigh Valley to Bound Brook.

Forty Going to Conference.

It is expected that at least forty members of the Seventh-Day Baptist church of this city will attend the conference of the denomination to be held at Alfred, N. Y., next week. Arrangements have been made for a private car for the trip. The Plainfielders will leave this city Tuesday morning.

Flagging For Somerset Street.

A lot of flagging and curbing, ordered by the street committee of the Borough Council, arrived yesterday and will be used on Somerset street. In the course of the improvements along that thoroughfare, it has been found necessary to replace much of the flagging.

MORNING WEDDING IN A PLAINFIELD HOME.

Miss Sarah Phillips, of Key West, and Thomas Thomson, of Perth Amboy, the Couple.

AT HOME OF MRS. A. R. DYETT.

PLIGHTED THEIR TROTH UNDER AN ARCH OF SUMMER FLOWERS.

Ceremony Performed by Rev. S. P. Simpson—Those Who Attended—Informal Reception Followed—Some of the Guests.

Guests from far and near gathered at the beautiful home of Mrs. Anthony R. Dyett, on Belvidere avenue, at 10:30 this morning, for the purpose of witnessing one of the prettiest nuptial ceremonies performed this season. While neither of the contracting parties were residents of Plainfield, they have been frequent visitors and have an unlimited circle of acquaintances in this city.

The bride was Miss Sarah E. Phillips, daughter of George B. Phillips, of Key West, Fla. She has been a guest at Mrs. Dyett's home for several months, her family and that of Mrs. Dyett's son-in-law, John R. Hill, being friends of old standing. The groom, Thomas Thomson, is prominent resident of Perth Amboy, where he is engaged in business. Miss Antoinette D. Hill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Hill, was the maid-of-honor. Mr. Thomson's attendant was Charles Howells, of New York. Rev. S. P. Simpson, rector of St. Stephen's church, performed the ceremony.

Miss Phillips wore a cloth tailor-made gown, biscuit color, with a white chiffon Gainsborough hat. She carried a large bouquet of bride's roses. The maid-of-honor was gowned in white and carried pink roses.

The drawing room, which was the scene of the happy event, had been transformed into a veritable flower garden, potted plants, palms, ferns and other beautiful flowers being placed about the room. In one corner, a floral arch had been erected and beneath this was a miniature altar, at which the young people plighted their troth. Owing to the unavoidable absence of Miss Phillip's father, the bride was given away by John R. Hill. While the words were being pronounced which made the bride and groom, man and wife, the Lohengrin wedding march and other selections were rendered by Mrs. John R. Hill.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Thomson were accorded a brief reception by the guests after which they took their departure for a wedding trip of several weeks' duration. On returning they will reside at Perth Amboy. The bride was generously remembered by her many relatives and friends with beautiful gifts of silver, cut-glass, china and bric-a-brac.

Among the guests present were: Mrs. George L. Bartlum, wife of Mayor Bartlum, of Key West, and aunt of the bride, Miss Grace Thomson, Mrs. Bates and Mrs. Albury, of Key West; Mrs. John Landells Thomson, Miss Mary Louise Thomson and George Thomson, of Bergen Point; Mrs. Louise Howells, of New York; Miss Katherine Harned, of Trenton; Captain and the Misses Tuzo, of Fanwood, and the following from Plainfield: Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Beal, Miss Florence B. Beal, William B. Beal, Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius vanHerwerden, Miss vanHerwerden, Miss Lyda vanHerwerden, Miss Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Tetsuka and Miss Kio Tetsuka, Mrs. Beard, Godwin Beard, Mrs. Gross, Mrs. Platt, Clement B. Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. William Davison, Miss Clara Davison, Ralph Davison, Mrs. John F. Loeser, Mr. and Mrs. Theophilus Bond, Mr. and Mrs. C. Eugene Bond, Miss Frances Hyde, Mrs. Cathcart and Robert Turrill.

Another Chance.

For those who have not had any vacation and for those who wish more, the greatest opportunity for a day's outing may be found by going on Warren chapel's excursion to Asbury Park, Thursday, August 29, is the date; the expense is little.

In Justice Nash's Court.

Justice Nash has issued papers in the landlord and tenant case of Thickstun against Osborn, returnable August 27, and given judgment in the landlord and tenant cases of Veil against Barrett and Thickstun against Apgar.

Grocery Closed.

C. H. Lippencott, who has made several ventures in the grocery business in recent years, has closed the store which he kept at the corner of Somerset street and Manning avenue.

CHEAP TRIP.

Excellent Chance To Visit Philadelphia And Fairmount Park.

An excellent opportunity is offered to persons in this vicinity to take a trip to Philadelphia and Fairmount Park Wednesday, August 28, for the nominal price of $1. The Hopewell Presbyterian church Sunday-school will run its annual excursion on the above date. Train to connect with excursion train leaves Bound Brook at 7:44 a. m. The fare for the round trip, including admission to the Zoological Gardens, is $1, and children between the ages of 5 and 12 years, 50 cents. The train returning leaves Giraud avenue at 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

LAKEWOOD IN ACTIVE SERVICE.

SOMETHING ABOUT JERSEY CENTRAL'S NEW FERRY BOAT.

Is 207 Feet Long and Has a Seating Capacity for 600 People—Some New Features.

The Jersey Central Railroad Company's new ferry boat, Lakewood, is now plying between Jersey City and New York, and is greatly admired by the many Plainfielders who take the trip to the Metropolis. This boat is one of two new ones to be added to the service, and will greatly facilitate travel across the North river. It is a double-decked twin-screw craft, 207 feet long, sixty-five feet beam and seventeen feet nine inches draft, with a seating capacity for about 600 passengers.

Entrance to the upper deck is from stairways in either of the main cabins, all finished in quartered oak. The ceilings are blue-white, and the walls above the paneling cream color. A distinct feature of the craft is the water-tight compartments, five in all, built of steel and heavily braced. It also carries two twenty feet and two sixteen feet metal life-boats, in addition to the usual equipment of life preservers.

The engine is a powerful machine, of the direct-acting triple expansion type, and the boilers are the style known as the gunboat, carrying a pressure of 170 pounds. The boat is lighted throughout with electricity and has a steam steering gear. It is a thorough sea-going craft, having run from Wilmington, Del., to New York, a distance of 210 miles, in twenty hours. The companion to this boat will be delivered within a few weeks.

RUBBED HIS FACE.

Small Boy Dragged on Roadway by a Runaway Horse Monday.

While Albert Cook, a driver for Smalley Brothers, was delivering meat at a Watchung avenue residence, near Woodland avenue, Monday afternoon, the animal took fright and ran away. It turned directly about and ran at full speed, with Jacob Jonas, a boy who had been riding with Cook, clinging to one rein.

In front of the residence of S. A. Ginna, the frightened animal collided with a wagon belonging to Neuman Brothers, overturning its own vehicle. Young Jonas was thrown out and dragged for some distance on the right side of the face with the result that it lost the greater part of its cuticle. The runaway was captured shortly after before any damage resulted.

NEW STREET SIGNS.

Areat Last Being Placed in Position Over in the Borough.

As rapidly as possible the new street signs, recently purchased by the Borough Council of North Plainfield, are being placed in position throughout the borough. Already many of them have been set up and they present a neat appearance. In all respects the signs are similar to those in use in this city.

Walter Apgar, of Somerset street, has charge of the work of placing the signs at the proper localities.

Delayed by Wreck.

An excursion train, filled with people from Glen Gardner and Island Park, was delayed for two hours near High Bridge this morning, on account of the freight wreck at that place.

WHAT THE NEW LINE MEANS TO PLAINFIELD

South Plainfield Trolley Will Give Plainfield Many More Advantages.

CONNECTION WITH LEHIGH.

HOW EXTENSION WILL AFFECT LOCAL TROLLEY SYSTEM.

Cars Will Then Run From Netherwood to South Plainfield and From Elizabeth to Dunellen and Eventually Bound Brook and Somerville.

In the announcement in yesterday's Daily Press to the effect that steps were being taken to extend the local trolley system to South Plainfield, far more significance is attached than would at first be thought. To many it merely means the connecting of this city with a hitherto almost inaccessible point while to the more far sighted ones it portends the practical entrance into Plainfield of one of the most important trunk line railroads tapping the west.

An iron clad agreement between the Central and Lehigh Valley Railroad Companies, in return for certain concessions in the Pennsylvania coal fields, has prevented the latter from building a spur to this city, although the main line is less than three miles away. With a well equipped trolley line built between the two roads and express cars running frequently, the problem of reduced rates for passengers and possibly freight, will have been solved.

At the present time, the Lehigh's service to western New Jersey and Pennsylvania is much superior to that of the Central. For instance, if a Plainfielder wishes to go to Easton on a Sunday, by way of the Central, he must arise before 5 o'clock and catch the paper train, else he cannot leave the city until 2 o'clock in the afternoon. It is nearly the same week days, while on the Lehigh the trains are more frequent to through points and the equipment better. Connection is to be had at present by stage, with a number of important Pennsylvania trains, but the three-mile trip overland and the possibility of missing a return journey has always been the serious drawback to the Lehigh service being utilized to more advantage. But then the traffic to Pennsylvania is small compared with that to far western points, to reach which Plainfielders generally have to make an extra trip to New York.

With the completion of the new trolley line, the Lehigh Valley will be brought to Plainfield's very doors, with its unsurpassed trunk line service inviting patronage. While passengers will be the most important factor at the outset, there is a possibility of freight being carried some time later. What this competition means to Plainfield merchants is easily surmised and it cannot help but result advantageously for everyone.

As stated yesterday the Board of Trade is assisting the trolley people in their efforts to build the extension and from present prospects it will be in operation inside of a year at the most. Enough consents have been secured which, with that of the trustees of the Baptist and Methodist cemeteries on Plainfield avenues which has been assured, will warrant the company applying for a franchise. The subsequent construction work will be a matter of but small importance as there is little or no grading, and but little engineering work to be done.

The intention of the Plainfield company at present is, on the completion of the line, to run the Netherwood cars from the Watchung avenue terminus through Front street to Plainfield avenue thence to South Plainfield. This will allow of heavier traffic than what would be possible if the single tracked Fourth street line were used to Plainfield avenue. The present Elizabeth-Plainfield cars would then be operated through to Dunellen and possibly at some future time to Somerville if the lease with the Middlesex and Somerset Traction Company can be effected.

Mr. Newcorn Will Speak.

LITERARY.

The well-known magazine "Success," of New York, has just completed one of the most novel, and, in its results, extraordinary campaigns for subscriptions, ever undertaken by an American publication. About a year ago it secured from some of the strongest periodicals in the country unusually low prices for annual subscriptions, and, combining an annual subscription with "Success" with subscriptions to other magazines, it extensively advertised "Success Clubbing Offers" at large reductions from regular prices. The result has more than justified the confidence of "Success" in the ability of the American public to absorb literature. Not only has it added over 150,000 subscriptions to its own list, but it has sent "The Review of Reviews" nearly 80,000 new subscriptions; the "Cosmopolitan," between 50,000 and 60,000; "McClure's," over 30,000, and other magazines many thousands each. This campaign has completely revolutionized prevailing ideas about circulation-getting, and "Success" will undoubtedly have some competition in this line next fall, but it has just completed contracts with the strongest and best magazines in the country for the subscription season just opened, and it is understood that the "Success" offers will be even more popular this year than last.

"Success," itself, is one of the clearest and most "up-to-date" magazines published. It is bright, cheerful and optimistic, and inspiration and life are in every page. In a thousand different ways, direct and indirect, it tells how to lay the foundations of true success in life, how to climb the ladder of achievement. Its contributors include the best-known names in politics, religion, science, art, literature and industry. Business men of the highest standing—men who will write for no other periodical—are willing to give the readers of "Success" the benefits of their wide and valuable experience. The illustrations of "Success" are by the best artists in the country, and the inspiration of a lifetime has come through its columns to thousands of "Success" readers.

—In case of cough or croup give the little one One Minute Cough Cure. Then rest easy and have no fear. The child will be all right in a little while. It never fails. Pleasant to take, always safe, sure and almost instantaneous in effect. L. W. Randolph.

—Francis E. Whiteside will conduct the mid-week prayer-meeting this evening at the Park Avenue Baptist church. The subject will be "Prayer."

—Don't be satisfied with temporary relief from indigestion. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure permanently and completely removes this complaint. It relieves permanently because it allows the tired stomach perfect rest. Dieting won't rest the stomach. Nature receives supplies from the food we eat. The sensible way to help the stomach is to use Kodol Dyspepsia Cure, which digests what you eat and can't help but do you good. L. W. Randolph.

Corporation Notice.

Notice is hereby given that the following Ordinance has been introduced before the Common Council, read the second time and ordered engrossed preparatory to its third reading, and that it is the intention of the Council to adopt the same.

GEO. B. WEAN, City Clerk pro tem.
Plainfield, N. J., Aug. 5, 1901.

AN ORDINANCE

to Provide for the Construction of a Further Addition to the System of Sewerage already Constructed in the City of Plainfield.

WHEREAS, There has been constructed in said City a system of sewerage and such action in relation thereto has from time to time been taken as is set forth in the preamble to the ordinance of said City entitled, "An Ordinance to provide for the construction of an addition to the system of sewerage already constructed in the City of Plainfield", approved November 8, 1897, to which preamble reference is hereby made for greater certainty; and

WHEREAS, In the opinion of the Common Council the public good requires that a further addition, as herein described, to the system of sewerage already constructed, should be now constructed in and for said City under the provisions of the Act in said preamble referred to, and the Common Council has so determined and does hereby so determine: therefore,

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That the Common Council does hereby direct and order that a further addition to the system of sewerage already constructed under said Act, be constructed in and for said City under the provisions of the Act of the Legislature above referred to, with all the appurtenances necessary to complete the same, and of such dimensions and material and according to such plan as the said Common Council may hereafter direct, in and through the following described avenue, property, land and right-of-way described, mentioned and referred to in this ordinance, to wit:

MINISTER RICO'S DENIAL.

Declares That Colombians Are Not Invading Venezuela.

COLON, Colombia, Aug. 21.—Dr. Rico, Colombian minister to Venezuela, published a letter while in Curacao denying the assertion of President Castro that Colombia had invaded Venezuela. In the course of the letter he declared emphatically that General Rangel Garbiras, who is a Venezuelan, was the chief invader and that it need surprise no one if he were aided by a few insurgent Colombians under the direction of General Uribe-Uribe.

Dr. Luis Deroud, one of the commissioners for defining the boundaries with Venezuela, has arrived at the isthmus.

Nicaragua For Peace.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 21.—Chester Donaldson, United States consul at Managua, Nicaragua, has arrived here on leave of absence, during which he will visit his former home in New York. Speaking of affairs on the isthmus, he said:

"I do not believe that Nicaragua will join forces with Venezuela. The republic is at peace, and the revolutionary spirit has died out altogether. President Zelaya rules with a strong hand and has become very popular. He will not allow Nicaragua to become involved in the troubles of the South American states.

"In his last message to the Nicaragua congress President Zelaya took a decided stand in favor of having the isthmian canal constructed by the United States. That is the popular sentiment."

Iowa Off For Panama.

FATAL OIL FIRE.

Five Philadelphia Firemen Killed and Many Injured.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 21.—The fire in the works of the Atlantic Refining company at Point Breeze, in the southwestern section of the city, is still burning, and Chief Baxter of the city fire department has given up hope of saving any of the company's property. The one hope of the company's officials and the firemen was in their ability to pump the oil from the tanks not yet reached by the flames into reserve tanks in an isolated section of the yard. An explosion last evening carried away the pumping machinery, and nothing remains now apparently but to permit the conflagration to burn until all the oil is consumed.

It is believed that the five lives lost in the explosion of the big gasoline tank Monday night completes the list of fatalities. The dead are: John McCullon, engine company 49; James Ealls, engine company 49; John Daugherty, truck company 9; Frank Davis, truck company 9; Alexander Timmers, an employee of the Atlantic Refining company.

In the explosion which occurred last evening 15 persons were injured seriously enough to be taken to the hospital, and about 40 others were treated on the scene by the ambulance surgeons.

DRIVING OUT BLACKS

Pierce City, Mo., Will Not Have Them In Its Limits.

THE RACE WAR RAGED FIERCELY.

Bloody Sequel of a Lynching Episode—Several Negroes Shot and Their Houses Burned by Indignant Citizens.

PIERCE CITY, Mo., Aug. 21.—For nearly 15 hours this town of 3,000 people has been in the hands of a mob of armed whites determined to drive every negro from its precincts. In addition to the lynching of William Godley, accused of the wanton murder of Miss Gazelle Wild and the shooting to death of his grandfather, French Godley, the mob cremated Peter Hampton, an aged negro, in his home, set the torch to the houses of five blacks and, with the aid of state militia rifles stolen from the local company's arsenal, drove dozens of negroes from town. After noon yesterday the excitement died down, the mob gradually dispersing, more from lack of negroes upon whom to wreak their hatred than for any other cause. Many of the negroes who fled from the city are hiding in the surrounding woods, while others have gone greater distances in seeking safety.

Every negro has left the town except a few railway porters known to be respectable, but these must also leave. The citizens of Pierce City say that as negroes have committed several crimes in the last ten years none shall live there in the future, the same feeling already existing at Monett, four miles east of Pierce City and the end of the Frisco division. It may be necessary for the road to change all porters in Springfield hereafter.

It is now believed that the man William Godley who was lynched was not the real culprit. A negro named Stark, under arrest at Tulsa, I. T., across the border from here, tallies exactly with the description of the assailant. He is held there awaiting identification. Unless the man is brought back here it is believed there will be no further trouble. If returned here, he will surely be lynched. Another suspect, Joe Lark, is under arrest in Springfield, Mo.

Eugene Barrett, also known as Carter, in a confession while a rope was around his neck accused Joe Lark, a Frisco railroad porter, of being implicated in the crime, and Lark was arrested at Springfield. Lark gave a detailed statement as to his whereabouts Sunday, and he is not believed to be guilty. It is not likely that either suspect will be brought to Pierce City while the excitement runs high. Some persons here think Barrett told any story in order to save his own life. The funeral of Miss Wild took place yesterday and was witnessed by several thousand people.

Pierce City is near the junction of four railroads, and trains from all directions brought in large numbers of armed men bent on bloodshed if necessary. When the mob went to the section of the city occupied by the negroes, some one in the cabins opened fire, but no one was hit. The mob then destroyed the five houses, but the financial loss is small. Reckless firing broke several plate glass windows, and a train was fired into. None of the passengers was hurt. The rifles taken from the Pierce City military company, it is expected, will all be returned. Members of the company themselves were out hunting for the escaping negroes with rifles, and this suggested the idea of taking all the guns. The local hardware stores sold out their arms early, but several applications from negroes were refused. The mob was composed of a thousand or more, and no masks were worn. Thirty negro families were driven from their houses.

New elements have developed in the killing on Sunday afternoon of Miss Wild. It appears she started home from church alone, her brother lingering behind. About one mile from town the brother found her with her throat cut, lying lifeless near a culvert under which her assailant had attempted to drag her. Evidence of a terrible struggle was shown. A copper colored negro was seen sitting on the bridge a short time before the tragedy occurred.

Monday bloodhounds were taken to the scene, and the girl's bloody handkerchief was laid before them. They immediately caught the trail and ran at full speed to the home of Joe Lark, where on being admitted, they rushed into his bedroom and sprang upon the bed. It is believed the man under arrest at Tulsa, who boarded with Lark, the Springfield suspect, slept upon his bed.

LYNCHING IN TEXAS.

Negro Murderer Captured by Mob and Burned to Death.

DALLAS, Aug. 21.—A dispatch received here from Whitsboro, Tex., says the negro Alfred Wilder, charged with the murder of Mrs. Caldwell, the wife of a Grayson county farmer, at her home on Saturday last, was captured by a mob and burned at Nelson's ranch, two and one-half miles east of Red Ranch. The mob was composed of 800 men.

The negro was taken to a tree and swung in the air. Wood and fodder were piled beneath his body and a hot fire made.

Then it was suggested that the man ought not to die too quickly, and he was let down to the ground, while a party went to Dexter, about two miles distant, to procure coal oil. This was thrown on the flames and the work completed.

Wilder was captured near Dexter yesterday afternoon. He had been seen the day before by a negro who knew him and who had informed the citizens of the fact. A posse was at once organized and the work of beating the Red river bottoms begun.

International Crop Reports.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21. — John Hyde, the statistician of the agricultural department, has returned from a tour of the countries of Europe, which he visited for the purpose of arranging a system for the exchange of telegraphic crop reports. He announces that his trip was a complete success and that in the near future the crop reports of the wheat producing countries of the world will be exchanged by telegraph.

Another Gun Explosion Victim.

FORT RILEY, Kan., Aug. 21.—Private Mackey Sykes, one of the victims of the explosion of a gun cartridge, has died, making three dead. Recruit Lloyd's recovery is doubtful. The fort surgeon removed one of Sergeant Mahoney's eyes He will recover. The other injured are in good condition.

QUIET AT PITTSBURG

Situation In Big Steel Strike Remains Unchanged.

BOTH SIDES CLAIM SOME GAINS.

Each Are Confident of Ultimate Victory — Rumor of Peace Negotiations Denied—Tube Mills Are Tied Up by Strikers.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 21.—Joseph Bishop, the Ohio arbitrator, has appeared here again, but both sides promptly repudiated the suggestion that another move for peace was being considered. The steel managers succeeded in starting the last idle mill at the Clark plant and are evidently planning a series of extensions at every point where there is a chance of success under existing circumstances. They will probably start the Star Tin mills in this city and increase the force at the Lindsay & McCutcheon mills. An interesting feature of the fight at the latter mill is contributed by the claim of the strikers that Mrs. Fred Baugh, wife of the superintendent, is escorting the strike breakers to and from the mill. She has always been very popular with the mill men, and the pickets say they would rather face a regiment of soldiers than do anything improper in her presence. They say that in peace times she nursed their families and that they simply cannot interfere with her or the men she escorts. The steel managers are also arranging for more men for the Painter and Monessen mills, but have given no indication of the time that they will move on McKeesport, Wheeling, Newcastle and Bellaire, the strongholds of the strikers. Veryl Preston, representing President Schwab, was here last night and conferred with a number of the leading officials of the companies federated in the steel corporation, and it is understood that general plans for the campaign were discussed. Mr. Preston and the officials whom he met would not talk for publication beyond expressing their satisfaction with the situation.

The strikers meet the movement to reopen the mills with nonunion men with the claim that it will be simply impossible to secure a sufficient number of skilled men to operate them. Their men, they declare, are standing firm and must be consulted before the mills run. They say they have the situation well in hand and despite the alleged danger of the strike getting top heavy continue their work of organization with a view of crippling more plants belonging to the corporation. They claim that Chicago will in the end come out and that there is no danger of the Joliet men going back to work, whatever Chicago does. They are still fighting for a foothold in the Carnegie properties, but so far have not shown their hand. Claims as to the advantage at the Duquesne mills are still highly conflicting, but the managers declare with more assurance than ever that the fight there is over and that the Amalgamated association has given up. A show down of hands alone will show the real strength of either side.

President McMurtry of the American Sheet Steel company returned yesterday from a tour through the five mill towns of the Kiskiminetas valley. He inspected the nonunion mills running in all of them and also looked over the two nonunion properties being operated at Scottdale. He said the production was above the maximum average for this season of the year and that he was perfectly satisfied. District Manager P. F. Smith of the same company said that the Wellsville plant lacked but six men of having every crew full, that the product was coming out nearly perfect and that if their men were not interfered with and assaulted by the strikers the situation would be eminently satisfactory. He said also that the best sentiment of the community indorsed the policy of the company.

The tying up of the Pennsylvania and Continental tube plants of the National Tube company in this city has been completed. Counting both plants about 1,800 men went out, and both the properties are shut down.

The closing of the Pennsylvania and Continental plants completely tied up the National Tube company in this district and Wheeling. The company has made no effort to start up at any point.

THE REPLY OF KNOX.

United States Attorney General Answers an Inquiry.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—Attorney General Knox yesterday sent the following letter to the joint committee of the American Antitrust league and District Assembly 66, Knights of Labor, in reply to one from the committee requesting information from Mr. Knox regarding the United States Steel corporation:

"I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of Aug. 19, 1901, in which you request me to obtain for you certain information with reference to certain alleged 'agreement or agreements made between the constituent companies and individuals who organized the United States Steel corporation.' You ask me to afford you all the information that I may 'possess or can obtain,' and you specifically refer to an alleged 'trust or syndicate agreement' which you state the president of the United States Steel corporation, Mr. C. M. Schwab, 'refused to furnish to the United States industrial commission when on the witness stand before that body,' and you further state that your request for information is to be understood as covering any 'other contracts of a similar kind with which you are acquainted or which you can obtain for us.'

"You also state that your request for information is 'founded upon information and belief that at the time this contract or these contracts was or were made' that I was 'in some way officially connected with the Carnegie company,' and you therefore assume that the information which you request must be in my 'possession or conveniently at hand.' I am therefore requested to give you the substance or if possible a copy thereof.

"Primarily, permit me to say that your request is founded upon an erroneous assumption. I do not know who the individuals are who organized the United States Steel corporation. If they are the persons usually named in the newspapers as the promoters of that organization, with the single exception of Mr. C. M. Schwab, I do not know, never saw and was never in any way connected with any of them. I never heard of any agreement between them and the constituent members of the steel corporation. Neither at the time of the formation of the United States Steel corporation nor at any other time was I officially connected with the Carnegie Steel company. I was formerly one of its legal advisers in the conduct of its manufacturing business, but was never consulted with reference to the formation of the United States Steel company nor in relation to the sale to that company of the shares of stock held by the stockholders of the Carnegie company. I have never seen the papers or agreements to which you refer, nor have I been informed of their contents. I have no knowledge whatever of their existence, terms or scope. I am thus specific, as I desire to cover both the spirit and the letter of your inquiry.

"I may say, moreover, that I have no access to the agreement or papers to which you refer. I know nothing of the one to which you especially refer and do not even know that such an agreement is in existence. The information which you request therefore is not in my possession or 'conveniently at hand,' as you assume, and it is therefore impossible for me to comply with any of the requests set forth in your letter. All this information you could at any time have acquired through the usual method of direct personal inquiry, thereby avoiding the doubtful propriety of addressing me through the medium of an open letter which you concurrently delivered to the press.

"Whether, if such papers were accessible to me, it would be my duty to obtain them and furnish them for use in legal proceedings to which you are a party and the nature of which you do not explain is a question which I do not care at this time to discuss.

"If I may regard the letter as addressed to me officially, I will say:

"If this department is under obligations to furnish information to prospective litigants in undisclosed proceedings, its responsibilities and labors are necessarily greater than they have ever been imagined from the time of its formation. Indeed, as there are generally two parties to every controversy it would be difficult to discharge such alleged duty to both parties in view of conflicting interests. This department was not called into being to furnish information to private litigants. Its duty and its object is to enforce the federal statutes as interpreted by the courts wherever there is probable cause for believing that they have been violated."

Statement of Mr. Morrison.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—Secretary Frank Morrison of the American Federation of Labor said last night that the action of 1,000 Federation men in Pittsburg in joining the Amalgamated strikers was not unexpected. "The Federation men at all mills where the Amalgamated association men go on strike," he added, "in all probability will do likewise. The chances are that the community of interest will lead all such Federation men to strike where the Amalgamated men in the same mills go out. This is a matter, of course, that the local organizations must deal with. The Federation cannot order them out."

Mr. Morrison received telegraphic advices from Pittsburg today as to the situation there, but said there was nothing to make public at this time.

Want Charter Annulled.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—The following telegram was sent yesterday to the Federation of Trades and Labor Unions of New Jersey, in session at Camden, by the joint committee of the American Antitrust league and District Assembly 66, Knights of Labor: "We urgently request your organization to authorize its legislative committee to take steps to secure the revocation of the charter of the United States Steel corporation."

Jeffries and Ruhlin Sign.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 21.—James J. Jeffries and Gus Ruhlin, the pugilists, have signed an agreement to fight for the heavyweight championship of the world. It was agreed that the match is to take place on some day in either November or December before the club offering the largest purse. The pugilists expressed preference for either the San Francisco Athletic club or the Twentieth Century club. "Kid" Eagan's signature accompanied that of Jeffries, while Billy Madden, who represented Ruhlin, signed for the would be champion.

Injunction Against Strikers.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 21.—Former Congressman John J. Lentz and Louis G. Addison appeared before United States Judge Clark and secured a permanent injunction restraining the strikers at the plant of the Ohio Pressed Brick company at Roseville, O., from establishing pickets at the works and interfering with the work. A temporary injunction was issued two weeks ago. The men have struck because the firm refused to compel several nonunion men in its employ to join the union.

Fall River Cloth Situation.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Aug. 21.—A thorough canvass of the situation here indicates that the plan to cut the wages of mill operatives in this print cloth center 15 per cent Sept. 3 will fail. Eighteen corporations controlling exactly 1,458,926 of the 3,042,472 spindles in this city manufacturing plain and fancy goods will not enter into the agreement, which calls for the signatures of the treasurers representing 1,750,000 spindles in order to make it operative.

Still After Blondin.

BOSTON, Aug. 21.—Chief Wade of the state police has assigned Officers Rhodes and Proctor to assist in the capture of Wilfred Blondin, the alleged wife murderer, who is said to be hiding in the woods at Mantane, Que. This action of Chief Wade is in response to a telegram received from Officer Dunham, who thinks he has Blondin in close quarters in the woods and wants the officers to assist in closing in on him.

Freight Shed and Cars Burned.

OMAHA, Aug. 21.—The freight sheds and 50 freight cars belonging to the Union Pacific railroad were burned at the transfer depot of that company in Council Bluffs, causing a loss estimated at $100,000. The sheds were full of freight recently unloaded, which was also destroyed. The fire is supposed to have caught from sparks of a passing locomotive.

The Indiana at Hampton Roads.

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Aug. 21.—The United States battleship Indiana, with a party of naval cadets from the Naval academy at Annapolis on board, arrived in Hampton Roads from Halifax, which port she sailed from last Friday.

Winery Destroyed by Fire.

SANTA ROSA, Cal., Aug. 21.—The winery of W. H. Hotchkiss & Co. was destroyed by fire. The loss is $150,000.

All diseases are more or less comprised in the above four ailments, all of which have their origin in the Stomach. To cure each, any or all of them, begin right. Begin with the Stomach. Begin with Laxakola, the great tonic laxative. It speedily and painlessly acts on the bowels, cleanses the stomach, stimulates the liver, corrects the kidneys, allays nervousness, assists digestion, while its marvellous tonic properties tone up the system while curing it, and speedily causes a natural and permanent condition of health. Laxakola is the best Children's remedy in the world, and the only one that builds up the children's systems while acting as an all-around blood-purifier and tonic. It speedily clears the coated tongue, checks colds and simple fevers, and promotes sleep. Children like it and ask for it. Mothers are its greatest friends; they use it and recommend it. THE ISLANDER WRECK.

A Survivor Tells of the Great Marine Disaster.

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 21.—J. T. Snyder, a resident of Juneau, has arrived on the steamer Farallon from Juneau Mr. Snyder was on the lost Islander, was in the water three hours, clinging to a raft, and was finally picked up unconscious. He left the boat just half a minute after the captain jumped overboard and they both held on to the same raft for fully half an hour. In conversation the captain said he could not understand why the boat went down so quickly. The captain finally said, "Boys, I cannot stand it any longer," and, casting his life preserver away, at once sank.

At the inquest held at Juneau, which Mr. Snyder attended, evidence developed which may tend to excuse the captain for not beaching the steamer at once. Mr. Snyder said:

"The pilot testified that he was on the bridge and that as soon as she struck he told the captain he was going to beach her, but the captain said, 'No, there is a better place about three miles from here, and she will easily float that long.'

"The testimony showed that there was a stowaway in the forward watertight compartment. When the vessel struck, the water rushed in on him, and he set up a big howl, and, being immediately under the sailors' quarters, one of them thoughtlessly rushed down and opened the compartment, which allowed the sea to come rolling into the hold, carrying the body of the stowaway and the sailor with it. This was done without the captain's knowledge and, I think, excused him for thinking the vessel would float several hours, which it would have done had the watertight compartment not been opened, and he could have beached her in a small bay about three miles away. It was established that if the pilot had carried out his intention he could have got her on the beach without the loss of any lives except the stowaway."

POLICE OFFICERS ARRESTED.

Men Prominent In New York Force Held to Appear.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—Sergeant Shields and Wardmen Dwyer and Glennon of the Nineteenth precinct were arraigned before Justice Jerome late yesterday afternoon charged with violating the law in allowing a disorderly house to be run in West Thirty-third street.

Assistant District Attorney Garvin said that there was evidence that the police were paid money to tip this house. He declared that policemen received money from windows every day, and there was evidence implicating men high in the department.

Glennon was held in $3,000 bail and Dwyer and Shields in $2,000 each. Examination was set for next Tuesday, after which they will be held for the grand jury.

"This man," said Garvin, referring to Glennon, "gave Whitney $100 for tipping off a prospective raid on a disorderly house after he (Glennon) had held a conversation with William S. Devery."

Garvin announced that he would lay the case before the grand jury.

Hands Across the Sea.

GLASGOW, Aug. 21.—The International Law association began a four days' session here yesterday, the lord chief justice, Lord Alverstone, presiding. Regret was expressed at the failure of the British-American treaty (the Hay-Pauncefote treaty), and Judge Lynde Harrison of Connecticut said, speaking as an American citizen, that since the Spanish-American war Americans had recognized the British as brothers and cousins. The judge also said he believed the senate at the next session of congress would accept a treaty on the same lines as the one rejected. The American people were now in favor of such a course.

Tried to Steal a Child.

CATSKILL, N. Y., Aug. 21.—Philip Castle and his wife, who live on a houseboat on the river front, drove out on the old Kings road two and a half miles back of this place yesterday and, it is alleged, made an attempt to get possession of the 7-year-old adopted daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Mahoney of Brooklyn. Mr. Mahoney is a well known Brooklyn detective and has a summer home here. The child was recovered after a mile chase. Castle and his wife escaping in the excitement. Deputy Sheriff Gould and Special Officer Cook arrested Castle and lodged him in jail.

Arrested For Polluting Stream.

OGDENSBURG, N. Y., Aug. 21.—Detectives alleging that the mill operatives along Oswegatchie river are continuing to dump refuse in the river in violation of the Ogdensburg water supply law have again caused the arrest of Nelson Caswell, manager of the Aldrich Paper company, at Natural dam, and he has been held in bail for the grand jury for the second time within a month. William Grant, G. L. Bartlett and John H. Wayne, mill operators at Edwards, were also arrested and held for the grand jury on the same charge.

Li Hung Chang's Protest.

PEKING, Aug. 21.—The omission from the peace settlement protocol of a provision for the destruction of the Chinese forts was due chiefly to Li Hung Chang's protests. He represented that it would be a great disgrace to himself, who had built the forts, to sign an agreement for their destruction.

THIRTY-FIVE PERISH

Victims of the Ohio River Steamboat Disaster.

CRAFT WAS CAPSIZED IN A SQUALL.

Sixty People Were on the Steamer City of Golconda When the Accident Occurred, Over Half of Whom Were Drowned.

PADUCAH, Ky., Aug. 21.—At least 35 lives are known to have been lost when the river steamer City of Golconda turned turtle in a windstorm while landing at Crowells, six miles from Paducah. There were 60 persons aboard, of whom 36 are reported missing, not including several colored deckhands whose names are unobtainable.

The missing are: Miss Lizzie Graham of Grahamsville, Ky.; Miss Trixie Grimes of Grahamsville, Mrs. Charles Davis of Smithfield, Mrs. W. A. Hogan and three children of Paducah, Colonel Turner of Smithfield, Charlyan Gordon of Smithfield, Mrs. David Adams of Smithfield, Watts Davis and wife of Livingston, William Webb of Smithfield, Miss Lucy Barnett of Smithfield, Clarence Slayden of Lola, D. Jackson of Golconda, August F. Kriepke of Golconda, John Walters of Golconda, Clarence Coker of Golconda, Engineer Hayden and son, Joseph McAllister of St. Louis, two white men, names unknown, peddlers; Mrs. Hutchinson of Evansville, three children, names unknown; W. Woods, George Stanberry, Howard Rondo, a fireman and several colored deckhands.

Of all the women aboard the steamer only one, the wife of Engineer Hayden, was saved. The passengers were at dinner in the cabin when the storm struck and had no chance to escape. The boat simply turned over and sank in ten feet of water.

Of those inside the cabin only two, H. E. Whorten and N. S. Quarternous of Hampton, Ky., escaped. They got out by breaking a hole through the glass top work and were picked up by boats.

Three divers and a salvage corps are at work on the wrecked steamer. They reported that the loss of life exceeded 20, but that no revised list could be had until the books as well as the bodies are recovered. The divers report that the cabin is full of bodies. Only three were recovered, those of Miss Trixie Grimes, Miss Lucy Barnett and Mrs. David Adams.

The Pan-American Congress.

BUENOS AYRES, Aug. 21.—In the Argentina senate Dr. Amancio Alcorta, minister of foreign affairs, after the adoption of a resolution of confidence in the attitude of the government toward the forthcoming Pan-American congress in the City of Mexico, announced that the Argentina and Chilean governments had formulated a moral compromise not to increase their armaments by a single rifle. He said it was this resolution which had led to the resignation of the Chilean cabinet, and he declared that the maintenance of peace between Argentina and Chile was assured. In reply to an interpellation he reiterated that the relations of Argentina with all foreign powers were excellent.

Police Relief Measures.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—Major Sylvester, president of the Association of Police Chiefs of the United States and Canada, has submitted a proposition to the association having for its object the relief of its members as well as the relief of widows and orphans of those who die while in the police service. This plan contemplates that when chiefs are removed from office for political or other reasons which do not affect their moral character the association should assist them in a substantial way until they get employment. The suggestion has been approved by the board of governors and has been submitted to the individual members of the association.

Porto Rico's Tax on Coffee.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Aug. 21.—Two more port cities have levied prohibitory taxes on foreign grown coffee. The San Juan and Arecibo councils have passed 5 cent per pound taxes, following the action of Mayaguez. There is serious question of the effectiveness of the action taken unless all the cities join in it. Merchants are exercising vigilance against suspected importers. No man dares to openly import coffee, as it would mean his ruin by boycotting. Protests are also being made against the troops of the garrison and the local Porto Rican regiment using Brazilian coffee.

Woman Charged With Murder.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 21.—Because of startling evidence discovered in connection with the death of Edward A. Alexander of North Vernon, Ind., who is said to have died while in this city from the effects of a dose of morphine procured for Mrs. Mary Cupples, with whom he was in love, the prosecuting attorney has issued a new warrant, charging that woman with murder in the first degree. The evidence is a beer bottle said to contain morphine found in a room occupied by the Cupples woman, who is under arrest.

To Address Naval War College.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—A prominent army officer and a prominent naval officer are to appear before the Naval War college at Newport this week in the persons of General Fitz-Hugh Lee, who will talk upon "The United States In Peace and War," and Rear Admiral Stephen B. Luce, who will have "Naval Tactics" for his subject. Professor G. G. Wilson will take up the subject of "Submarine Telegraph Cables In Their International Relations" on several days of the week.

Bad Blaze In Alabama.

MOBILE, Aug. 21.—Fire yesterday destroyed the boiler house, office and some machinery of the Ollinger Drydock company, also the office of the National Dredging company, entailing altogether a loss of several thousand dollars. A lot of lumber was also burned. Several small vessels lying near by escaped by moving up the river. The fire caught from a barrel of pitch.

Cattle With Tuberculosis.

LANCASTER, Pa., Aug. 21.—A herd of eight fine Jersey cows belonging to John Houseal, a farmer living near Maytown, this county, has been killed by order of the health authorities. They were affected with tuberculosis.

Forest Fires In Texas.

DALLAS, Aug. 21.—Destructive forest fires are reported in large tracts of pine timber in Grimes county.

Plainfield's Opportunity.

It did not speak very well for the enterprise and hustling qualities of Plainfield when there were but fourteen citizens who were interested enough to turn out to the public meeting of the Board of Trade Monday evening and devise ways and means to secure the new factory of the Ingersoll Sergeant Drill Company. Those fourteen men did all they could, however, to win the manufactory which all the cities of New Jersey are now fighting for. As a result of their efforts Plainfield has a good site to offer which seems to answer the requirements of the company.

There are other things besides a site which will be taken into consideration by the Ingersoll-Sergeant Company when a selection of a site is made. It is first required, as was stated in the letter from Vice-President W. L. Saunders, that a suitable site be offered and then the other advantages and disadvantages will be taken into consideration. To facilitate the company's efforts in the latter direction, a committee was appointed from the Board of Trade to secure such information as the company might desire.

Although there are many who do not seem to realize it, this is one of the most important opportunities that ever came to Plainfield. Here is a manufacturing concern, employing over 1,600 men, which is desirous of securing a suitable location for new factories. Its establishment here would mean an increase of Plainfield's population by fully 5,000 people. Think what that would mean for the local merchants, for everybody who is interested in the progress and welfare of the city. The people who would thus be added to the present population are desirable citizens, skilled workmen and their families. If this thing can be brought about through any efforts of Plainfield's citizens, no stone should be left unturned to accomplish that object.

The advantage in having streets properly designated with signs is every day becoming more evident in this city. Scarcely a day goes by but that the substantial signs, erected by the Common Council recently, are used by hundreds of people. It is now an easy matter for a stranger to find his way about the city, and besides he has a better opinion of Plainfield as an up-to-date city.

More than its usual share of accidents seems to have fallen to the lot of the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Street Railway Company. It is a large system, though, and the number of accidents does not compare with those which occur on other big systems. Before this season, such accidents were remarkably few and far between.

The extension of the trolley system to South Plainfield is awaited with much interest by the people of Plainfield. While it will be the means of opening up a new section and bringing in more business to the local merchants, it will also serve to make closer connections with one of the most important routes to the west.

The Republicans of Union county are going to open the campaign with a clam bake. It will require more than the good feeling, which is always attendant on the consumption of a square meal, to settle the factional disputes which are threatening to seriously injure the chances of Republican victory in this county.

The local policemen were scheduled to play baseball at Elizabeth this afternoon, but the game has been postponed until tomorrow. 'Tis a wondrous sight to see some of Plainfield's "finest" wandering about the bases and capturing stray grounders and other things.

Today the Democratic State committee gathers by the sea at Asbury Park and fixes the date for the convention, when the chief name on the State Democratic ticket, this fall, will be selected. The committee also has the task of selecting a new chairman.

The Freeholders of Somerset county are a trifle worried over the fact that the new macadam road from Somerville to Far Hills may not be completed in time to secure its share of the State road aid appropriation this year.

Those who thought that the Swift-Carr controversy would end, when Frank Bergen discovered the error in the proceedings, did not realize the bitterness which exists between those in the controversy.

It would be eminently the proper thing for the Democrats of Union county to honor the "farmer orator," James E. Martine, by giving him a complimentary vote at the State convention.

Local justice is now administered by Mayor O. L. Jenkins. His Honor's diagnosis of all the cases so far brought to his notice appears to be very correct.

There is a time for everything. The time to secure the general use of water meters in Plainfield is before a new quarter begins.

The forty days of rain, predicted when rain fell on St. Swithin's Day, will come to an end Sunday.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short and Gossipy Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

J. R. Vanderwoort, of 304 Richmond street, has managed to achieve a little notoriety by issuing circulars for distribution through the city, in which he offers all comers "the chance of a lifetime." He claims to be heir to a large fortune, and offers to sell his claims which amounts, according to the circular, to way up in the millions. He says that he has the best of references, but those desirous of taking advantage of his offer must apply at his home in person.

An effort will be made at the annual convention of the International Association of Fire Engineers, which will be held at Indianapolis, Ind., the coming week, to procure next year's convention for New York. Edward F. Croker, chief of the New York fire department, is "booming" the metropolis as a place of meeting. Chief Doane, of the Plainfield department, is in sympathy with the movement. No convention has been held by the firemen there since 1875. Already $35,000 has been subscribed by a citizens' committee of the metropolis for the purpose. Pittsburg is also in the field for the honor.

A popular young Plainfielder, who only recently returned from a trip to the Pan-American Exposition, has been remarkably evasive in his replies as to how he liked the life saving drill at the exposition. He admits that he was there but has always managed to evade the subject. The cause for his reticence has finally leaked out. He went to the banks of the Park Lake where the drill was to be held, fully an hour before the appointed time. He secured one of the best points of observation and settled himself down to wait. The first thing he knew was when the sound of a cannon disturbed his slumbers and he awoke to find himself surrounded by several thousand people. In a few minutes the crowd drifted away and the young Plainfielder discovered that the show was all over. He has slept through it all.

Will Sign Pay Rolls.

Acting under orders from Captain Browning, the members of Co. K, will hold a special meeting this evening at Conover's Hall, East Second street, near Park avenue, at 8:15. A full attendance is requested as the pay rolls have arrived and these must be signed immediately. Uniforms will not be worn.

Many Plainfielders There.

Over sixty of Plainfield's most popular people have registered at Moss Side Villa, Asbury Park, which is under the management of the Misses Pick, of Crescent avenue, this city.

—Neuman Brothers are still making a specialty of those unsurpassed Rocky Ford muskmelons.

Mrs. David S. Dunavan, of Westervelt avenue, has returned from a visit with her parents at Freehold.

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence.)

Dunellen, August 21—The Borough Council is taking steps to organize the fire department. An ordinance to this effect has been introduced into the Council by Councilman Frederick Wilcox, and was passed at the first reading. With an organized crew of fire-fighters the borough property will be much safer. As it is some of the firemen have not been present at fires, and the work devolved upon the shoulders of a few.

The infant child, Herman F., of Cornelius Lockland, died yesterday morning at 8 o'clock from cholera infantum, at the age of five months. The death occurred at the home of Peter Schneiderwind. The funeral was held at the home of Peter Schneiderwind this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Rev. Frank Fletcher preached the sermon. Interment is at the Methodist cemetery, Plainfield.

The Dunellen A. C. baseball team is making arrangements for a game with a picked nine from New Market, Saturday. A close and well attended game is looked for, as there is much good material in both teams.

The funeral of John Gallagher, the one-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Gallagher, was held at their home at 10 o'clock yesterday morning. The interment was made at St. Mary's cemetery, Plainfield.

The residence of George Richardson will be the scene of a dime social tomorrow evening. The affair is gotten up by Rockview Council, Jr. O. U. A. M.

Mrs. George T. Schenck and daughter and Rutiff J. Fisher have returned home after a visit with their uncle at Bridgetown, N. J.

Paxson VanArsdale is soon to vacate the house in which he is now living. The new tenant will be Lewis Tinsman.

Miss Lillie Warden has returned home after an extended visit with friends at St. Simon's Island, Ga.

Miss Katie Eder, of New York, has returned home after a visit at the home of Mrs. Catherine Maier.

Mrs. Frank Wheeland, of Somerville, has returned home after a visit at the home of Phillip Jenner.

Mrs. Josephine Dunham and granddaughter, Geraldine, are visiting relatives at Port Chester, N. Y.

Miss Norah Wade and brother, Warren, are spending a few days at Buffalo and Niagara Falls.

Mrs. Joel Giddis has returned home after a visit with her son, Arthur, of Port Richmond, L. I.

Mrs. H. S. Garretson is recovering from a recent illness of two week's duration.

N. L. Wade is spending two weeks with relatives and friends in Toronto, Canada.

Miss Sarah Brokaw is spending a few days at Delaware Water Gap.

NEW MARKET

(Special Correspondence.)

New Market, August 21.—A number of the farmers and property owners along the township roads do not take kindly to the ordinance passed by the Township Committee, ordering them to cut down weeds, briers and brush on property abutting the highways. One arguement advanced is that if the township owns the roads from fence to fence it should take care of them, but if it does not own them how can it dictate to property owners. In justice to many who take pride in keeping up their premises, it might be said that they have already fixed up their property along the fence lines, many doing so before the ordinance was published.

At the meeting of the Piscataway Protection Society, Monday, Lewis D. Walker was selected to the offices of secretary and treasurer.

Miss Winifred Curtis, of Westerly, R. I., has returned after being entertained by her brother, A. E. Curtis.

Miss May Dunn has returned home after a visit with her sister, Mrs. Helen Dumont, of Gladstone.

Charles Rogers has returned home after a week's visit with friends in Philadelphia.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

(Special Correspondence.)

Scotch Plains, August 21—Twilight Council, Jr., O. U. A. M., will meet tomorrow evening. Reports will be received from the delegates who attended the parade at Asbury Park last week.

John Bickerson, Ulysses Ford, Bert Nester, Harry Schoffer and Roy Day will leave Saturday for Pompton Lakes, where they will camp out during next week.

The Epworth Literary Society of the Methodist church will meet this evening in the parlors of the church. An unusually interesting session is looked for.

Miss Louise Robinson returned home Monday from Buffalo and Canada, where she has been staying for several weeks.

Rev. and Mrs. G. M. Shott returned home last night from Asbury Park, where Mrs. Shott has been spending several days.

Miss Hazel Putnam and brother, Frank, are visiting at the home of their grandfather, Augustus Putnam.

The Town Committee is having the trees along the streets trimmed up to a suitable height.

Richard Hayes is recovering from the effects of stepping on a rusty nail, Monday.

Miss Nancy Wade leaves today for Jersey City, where she will spend a week.

Miss Gertrude Wanamaker, of Mahwah, returned to her home yesterday.

Henry Winter is entertaining his cousin, John Miller, of New York.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

(Special Correspondence.)

South Plainfield, August 21.—One would think, to judge by the number of fishermen who are almost daily lined up along the mill dam, that there were a good many nice fish to be taken from the pond. As a matter of fact their catches are generally confined to a few sunfish, shiners and an occasional eel. The large and sluggish carp exterminate all other kinds and they are not prone to bite.

The summer boarders are beginning to leave for their city homes. In recent years this town has become quite a resort for those wishing to get away from the city.

John Tingley wishes to deny the statement, found in the local of a Plainfield sheet, that he is to leave soon for the Pan-American Exposition.

Mrs. Bernard has returned home from a visit with friends in Bound Brook.

PERSONAL.

John Steiner, of Somerset street, is enjoying a week's vacation.

Mrs. William Campbell, of Somerset street, who has been ill for some time, is rapidly convalescing.

Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Skillman and daughter, of Watchung avenue, are spending a week at Whitehouse.

R. Wolfheim, of New York, is spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. M. Leichtentritt, of Central avenue.

Bunch of Kicks.

Street Commissioner Gavett received yesterday no less than a dozen letters of complaint from various parts of the city. The general kick was that during the recent wet weather water was allowed to stand in gutters and other places on the highway. Mr. Gavett attended at once to the matter and the stagnant water was removed.

Question of Meeting.

At the meeting of Benevolent Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., this evening, the question of a regular meeting place and the night of meeting will be decided.

Killed It First Shot.

A stray dog, subject to distemper, was shot yesterday by Chief Marshal Campbell. It took but one shot to end the animal's existence.

—Delicious Rocky Ford muskmelons are still to be found at Neuman Brothers.

SIGNALING MARS IMPOSSIBLE

It Is Entirely Beyond the Power of Human Resources to Accomplish.

The very largest city that this earth has ever known would be altogether too small to be visible to a being dwelling on the planet Mars, even if that being were endeavoring to see it with a telescope as powerful as the greatest and most perfect instrument in any observatory on this globe, says Sir Robert S. Ball, in the Independent.

If the whole extent of Lake Superior was covered with petroleum, and if that petroleum was set on fire, then I think we may admit that an inhabitant of Mars who was furnished with a telescope as good as that which Mr. Percival Lowell uses at Falkstaff might be able to see that something had happened. But we must not suppose that the mighty conflagration would appear to the Martian as a very conspicuous object. It would rather be a very small feature, but still I think it would not be beyond the reach of a practiced observer in that planet. On the other hand, if an area the size of Lake Superior on Mars was to be flooded with petroleum and that petroleum was to be kindled, we would expect to witness the event from here not as a great and striking conflagration, but as a tiny little point of just discernible light. The disk of Mars is not a large object, and the conflagration would not extend over the three-hundredth part of that disk.

It is sufficient to state these facts to show that the possibility of signaling to Mars is entirely beyond the power of human resources.

QUEER CATS IN MAINE.

One Tabby That Has Acquired the Hot Water Habit—Profit in Raising Coon Cats.

The cats of Maine have been making new records for queer doings lately, says an eastern paper. A Portland woman owns a striped tabby that cries for hot water and is not appeased until a saucer of water as hot as anyone could drink is poured out for her. The cat has been drinking hot water for six weeks, and seems to thrive upon it. How she acquired the habit no one knows.

A Biddeford man has a two-legged cat that he raised from a kitten. Tom is big and has a beautiful black coat, but was born without fore paws. On the right shoulder a small bone protrudes, and on the left there is a small stub. The cat walks erect and goes about with ease, not seeming to mind his deformity.

A Bar Harbor cat fancier says there is great profit in raising coon cats, so-called, if one has good luck to help out tireless industry in caring for the animals, but that it does not pay to attempt to raise them on a large scale. Until a year old coon cats are very delicate and subject to many diseases, such as pneumonia, fits, spasms and dysentery, and more die than survive. Seal brown and pure white cats are most prized, and the man who can raise to maturity any considerable number of these colors is sure of big profits.

USE OF PRIVATE CARS.

Many Handsome Railway Coaches Are Now Owned by Men Not Millionaires.

Private railway cars have always been associated in the popular mind with great wealth, but a plan has been developed which makes it possible for even a vaudeville actor or a business man in ordinary circumstances, or anybody else reasonably well to do, who wishes to make a display or to enjoy the luxury of travel, to own a private car built according to his own specifications, according to the World's Work.

A car-refitting company in New York city buys old Pullman coaches, tears the inside furnishings out and refits them according to the wishes of its customers. Whatever kind of private car a man may wish he may order—parlors, handsomely carpeted, sitting rooms, dining rooms, sleeping compartments, smoking rooms—all with equipment more or less perfect according as the price. And cars are refitted in this way and sold for prices varying from $1,500 to $15,000.

Very handsome and serviceable cars have been built from the old "cattle ways," and the man of moderate means can travel privately and comfortably in a home of his own. It is an interesting evidence of American manufacturing thrift and of the growth of wealth.

VAN ARSDALE'S SHOE STORE

Our Sale of Summer Shoes

will continue throughout this month, and the prices they are marked at is a big saving item for you.

The $1.19 sale of women's shoes we advertised Saturday were thinned out considerably, but there is still a fair run of sizes in the lot, and the Men's Tan Shoes, black, tan and patent leather Oxfords at $2.75 contain a few good sizes—and they're genuine bargains.

JOHN H. DOANE.

Dainty Summer Gowns

Organdie is still one of the favorites for all occasions which make a thin dress suitable, and so we see new designs coming to the front every day. These are eagerly purchased to wear at fashionable resorts. Saratoga leads in the number of the diaphanous stuffs and Asbury Park comes next. The difference is a wide one, but for many and various reasons those two places come nearer together than any others. A few years ago people did not dress to any extent at Asbury Park, but they do now, and that more in the way of light and pretty summer attire than heavy and costly materials. There are so many different ways of dressing well that it would require a whole book to explain them all. But the whole gist of it is to dress according to the demands of the surroundings. So, as Asbury is warm and is sociable and there are so many delightful shady places to sit in and have the ever beautiful trees and shrubbery as a background, and as the board walk and hotel piazzas afford so excellent a chance to show one's prettiest things, it is no wonder that many new gowns of special beauty find their opportunity there.

I have in my mind's eye a lovely organdie in the softest of resada green, with darker shadings of the same color as design. The whole is so cool and pleasing to the eye that one could believe that in far off France the designer had by some occult vision seen the bright sand and glaring beach and thought out this dress to repose the eyes from too much sun. It is as cool as the waves that one sees curling up forever ready to fall in snowy foam. Well, poetry aside, this gown is cool to the sight as well as to the sense, and being so it is a thing of beauty and will be a joy until it gets some of that same salt water on it.

So this dress is of organdie, and we know the color. The form now interests us. The skirt has two flounces, the lower one deeper than the other, and each is tucked at the top, the fine tucks running out about three inches from the top. At the bottom is a full ruffle made of inch wide black chantilly, and at the top is a waved chantilly insertion. Down the center of the front is a line of narrow insertion, also black. The waist is tucked in the same general way and has the lace galloon set around it, as can be seen by the illustration. It is open in front to show a chemisette of white chiffon, and there are some black velvet bows and a wide velvet belt. The sleeves are flowing with white chiffon undersleeves, and these have velvet bands. The hat to match is of smoked straw with black velvet ribbon and a black plume. The hat has a double brim, and between the two is a twist of resada tulle.

There are few white gowns at Asbury. Whether Mr. Bradley has barred them or not I do not know, but there are plenty long, shapeless blue bathing suits, and of all the ugly things on earth or in the sea these are the most horrible. But as an offset there are lots of blue and red duck suits for walking, and they are really smart and add much to the landscape. Anyhow Asbury is a good place to be in, and if there are few magnificent brocades and point lace trimmings and rivieres of diamonds there are plenty pretty costumes and girls to wear them. Indeed, I think that of all the summer resorts Asbury can show the greatest number of beauties—babies and women. And they all look as if life had been found worth the living.

Among some of the gowns seen at the evening promenade there was one worth mention as exceedingly tasteful and elegant. It was of a delicate shrimp pink veiling, and there were three ripple flounces, each six inches deep. Each had a row of white trou-trou insertion, and through this was run black velvet ribbon. It was not half an inch wide and depended more on the fineness than the color for effect. The underdress was bright blue, and seen dimly through the veiling it produced a delicate purple. The waist was V shaped in the neck, and the front was brought to the left side in surplice form. The belt was of silver braid, with oxidized clasps, in which were set two large amethyst stones. There was a white fichu made of white brussels net, and around the edges of this a row of light oriental lace. The sleeves were but to the elbow and ended with a ruffle of lace. A whole bunch of velvet loops was fixed to the waist where the fichu fastened and smaller ones at the inner side of the ends of the sleeves.

A new fancy is that of having a sort of corselet of heavy lace arranged around the hips. It is pointed in front and in the back, and on the hips it curves up gracefully. Some of the newest of these are so long that one could almost call them tablets. They are, curiously, as becoming to stout as slender women. Only the heaviest qualities of lace are used for these, and the shape is wrought specially. The lace is applied directly on the material of the dress, though in some few cases it is lined with some kind of silk in contrasting color before being put on the skirt. These heavy laces arranged for this style of trimming are to be used on woolen skirts as well as silks and thin cotton goods. Sets of lace for this purpose are offered, and there are among them a bolero and a wide collar. Some of them have detached motifs for putting on the lower part of the skirt or on a coat or cape.

HENRIETTE ROUSSEAU.

LOG HOUSES.

They Are the Most Artistic of All Summer Homes.

The most delightful vacation home is a log cabin. There are log cabins and log cabins, of course, from the palace-like establishment of the Adirondack millionaire, which resembles a cabin only on the outside, to the humble shack of the hunter. All, however, are equally fascinating if they are furnished in the right way so that the rustic "woody" effect is not lost. Not a single piece of wood should be painted either within or without the cabin. The most effective furniture is on the bent wood order, and much of it can be made from the young forest trees. The trees themselves stripped of their foliage and with their branches cut down into little knobs make very effective pillars for the rustic verandas, and they are often used to give a massive look to the fireplace. In most cases, however, this is made entirely of cobblestones, as in the illustration, which represents the interior of the living room of an Adirondack camp.

This room is long and low, with a heavily beamed ceiling. There is no attempt made to cover the walls, and as the logs are smooth and beautifully oiled they add to the effect. The floor is of hard wood, brightly polished. The furniture in this case is of pine, stained a deep brown. The cushions on the settee are red and hunters' green. Hunting prints on the walls further carry out this red and green idea. Deer's heads, antlers and skins are used lavishly wherever they give the most effect. Over the fireplace there is a row of heavy green and white china plates and pewter dishes. The fireplace is as large as the room will allow, and it is fitted with immense black andirons and an old fashioned crane. One entire side of the wall is hung with firearms, snow shoes and fishing tackle. At the left of the fireplace a winding staircase leads to the sleeping rooms. Above and at the foot of this lies a black bear skin. Low rustic bookcases hold a variety of summer literature, a welcome addition on rainy days.

How to Clean Leather Gloves.

To clean wash leather gloves make two quarts of suds with warm water and good white soap and add to them a teaspoonful of borax dissolved in half a pint of hot water. When the suds are cold, put the gloves on and wash them slowly and gently, as if washing the hands. Rinse in like manner, draw off gently and hang them in a shady place to dry. When nearly dry, draw them into shape. When quite dry, rub them between the hands to soften the leather. Be careful to do the work gently, for when wet the leather is very tender and liable to tear.

All these last days, it will be remembered, Mrs. Frank Garrison with pretty "Cherry Ripe" had found shelter at the Presidio. The palace was no place for a poor soldier's wife, and there was no longer a grateful nabob as a possible source of income. It is doubtful indeed whether that mine could be further tapped, for the effusive brother-in-law of the winter gone by had found disillusion in more ways than one. Garrison, busy day and night with his staff duties, had plainly to tell his capricious wife that she had come without his knowledge or consent, and that he could not think of meeting the expense of even a two weeks' stay in town. He could not account for her coming at all. He had left her with his own people where at least she would be in comfort while he took the field. He desired that she should return thither at once. She determined to remain and gayly tapped his cheek and bade him have no concern. She could readily find quarters, and so she did. The regular garrison of the Presidio was long since afield, but the families of most of its officers still remained there, while the houses of two or three, completely furnished so far as army furnishings go, were there in charge of the post quartermaster. From being the temporary guests of some old friends, Mrs. Frank and her pretty companion suddenly opened housekeeping in one of these vacated homes, and all her witchery was called into play to make it the most popular resort of the younger element at the post. Money she might lack, but no woman could eclipse her in the dazzle of her dainty toilets. The Presidio was practically at her feet before she had been established 48 hours. Other peoples' vehicles trundled her over to camp whenever she would drive. Other peoples' horses stood saddled at her door when she would ride. Other peoples' servants flew to do her bidding. Women might whisper and frown, but for the present, at least, she had the men at her beck and call. Morn, noon and night she was on the go, the mornings being given over, as a rule, to a gallop over the breezy heights where the brigade or regimental drills were going on, the afternoons to calls, wherein it is ever more blessed to give than to receive—and the evenings to hops at the assembly room, or to entertaining—charmingly entertaining the little swarm of officers with occasional angels of her own sex, sure to drop in and spend an hour. "Cherry" played and sang and "made eyes" at the boys. Mrs. Frank was winsome and genial and joyous to everybody, and when Garrison himself arrived from camp, generally late in the evening, looking worn and jaded from long hours at the desk, she had ever a comforting supper and smiling, playful welcome for her lord, making much of him before the assembled company, to the end that more than one callow sub was heard to say that there would be some sense in marrying, by George, if a fellow could pick up a wife like Mrs. Frank. All the same the post soon learned that the supposedly blest aide-de-camp breakfasted solus on what he could forage for himself before he mounted and rode over to his long day's labor at Camp Merritt. Another thing was speedily apparent, the entente cordiale between her raidiant self and the Primes was at an end, if indeed it ever existed. She, to be sure, was sunshine itself when they chanced to meet at camp. The clouds were on the faces of the father and daughter, while Miss Lawrence maintained a serene neutrality.

"Armstrong will knock these charges silly," said Billy.

They were lingering in Frisco, still hopefully, were the Primes. The detectives on duty at the landing stage the evening Stewart's regiment embarked, swore that no one answering the description of either of the two young men had slipped aboard. Those in the employ of the sad old man were persistent in the statement that they had clews—were on the scent, etc. He was a sheep worth the shearing, and so, while Mr. Prime spent many hours in consultation with certain of these so-called sleuth-hounds, the young ladies took their daily drive through the park, generally picking up the smiling Schuyler somewhere along the way, and rarely omitting a call, with creature comforts in the way of baskets of fruit, upon the happy Billy, whose limits were no longer restricted to his tent, as during the first week of his arrest, but whose court was ordered to sit in judgment on him the first of the coming week. Already it began to be whispered that Armstrong had a mine to spring in behalf of the defense, but he was so reserved that no one, even Gordon, sought to question.

"Armstrong is a trump!" said Billy to Miss Lawrence, one fair morning. "He'll knock those charges silly—though I dare say I could have wormed through all right only, you see, I couldn't get out to find people to give evidence for me."

"Do you—see him often?" she asked, somewhat vaguely.

"Armstrong!" exclaimed Billy, in open-eyed amaze. "Why, he's here with me every day."

"But never," thought Miss Lawrence, "in the morning—when we are."

The eventful Monday was duly ushered in, but not the court. That case never came to trial. Like the crack of a whip an order snapped in by wire on the Thursday previous—three regiments, the —teenth regulars and the "Primeval Dudes," Armstrong's splendid regiment among them—to prepare for sea voyage forthwith. More than that, Gen. Drayton and staff were directed to proceed to Manila at once. Two-thirds of the members of the court were from these regiments. A new detail would be necessary. The general sent for Armstrong.

"Can't we try that case here and now?" he asked.

"Certainly," said Armstrong, "if you'll send for Canker that he may be satisfied."

And Canker came and listened. It was admitted that Gray had had a long talk with the prisoner, took him his overcoat, newspapers, etc., but, in extenuation, they were members of the same college society and their social standing was, outside the army, on the same plane. Gray deserved reprimand and caution—nothing more. As to the carriage, he had nothing to do with the one that drove to camp that night. A man in the uniform of a commissary sergeant giving the name of Foley (how Canker winced) had ordered it at the stable and taught the driver "Killarney." Gray had 'phoned for a carriage for himself, hoping to get the officer of the day's permission to be absent two hours to tell his story in person to the general, who was dining with the department commander. He never got the permission, and the carriage went to the wrong camp. Lieut. W. F. Gray was released from arrest and returned to duty.

"I shall never be able to thank you enough," said he, sentimentally, to Miss Lawrence, at the Palace that evening. They were strolling up and down the corridor, waiting, as was Schuyler, for Mildred to come down for the theater. Gray's curly head was inclined toward the dark locks of his fair partner. His eyes were fastened on her faintly flushing face. They made a very pretty picture, said people who looked on knowingly, and so thought the officer in the uniform of a colonel of infantry, who, while talking calmly to Mr. Prime full 30 yards away, watched them with eyes that were full of sadness. How could he see at that distance that her eyes, clear and radiant, were seldom uplifted to the ardent gaze of her escort, and were at the moment looking straight at him? How could he hear at that distance the prompt response, given with an inclination of the bonny head to indicate her meaning?

"There's where your thanks are due, Mr. Gray."

Quite a gathering of army folks was at the Palace that night. So many wives or sweethearts were going home, so many soldiers abroad, and Mrs. Frank Garrison, gay and gracious, passed them time and again, leaning on the arm of Capt. McDonald, a new devotee, while poor Cherry, with an enamored swain from the Presidio, languished in a dim, secluded corner. She had been recalled by parental authority and was to start for Denver under a matronly wing on the morrow. Mrs. Frank had been bidden, and expected, to go at the same time, but that authority was merely marital. Up to this time not one army wife had been permitted to accompany her husband on any of the transports to Manila, though one heroine managed to get carried away and to share her liege lord's stateroom as far as Honolulu. The general and his staff, with a big regiment of volunteers, were to sail on the morrow, the other regiments as fast as transports could be coaled and made ready.

Something in Mrs. Garrison's gay, triumphant manner prompted a sore-hearted woman, suffering herself at the coming parting, to turn and say: "Well, Mrs. Garrison, I suppose that after your husband sails you'll have to follow the rest of us into grass-widowhood."

One thing that made women hate Margaret Garrison was that she "could never be taken down," and the answer came cuttingly, as it was meant to go, even though a merry laugh went with it.

"Not I! When the ship I want is ready, I go with it!"

But as she turned triumphantly away, the color suddenly left her cheek and there was an instant's falter. As though he had heard her words, Stanley Armstrong too had suddenly turned and stood looking sternly into her eyes.

CHAPTER XIII.

Still another expedition was destined to start for Manila, and keen was the rivalry among the regiments held to daily drill at San Francisco. The rumor was current in the camps that the next review was to decide the matter, and that the commands pronounced to be foremost in discipline and efficiency would be designated to embark. The transports that had conveyed the earlier expeditions to the Philippines began to reappear in the bay, and coaling and refitting were hurried to the utmost. The man most eager to get away was Stanley Armstrong; and as merit were to decide the matter it was conceded among the volunteers that in point of style and equipment the "Primeval Dudes" "held over" all competitors, even though every competitor believed itself more than a match for the Dudes if actual campaigning and fighting were in contemplation. Senators and members from the States represented by the volunteers in San Francisco led burdensome lives, for officers and men were pulling every wire to secure the longed-for orders for an immediate voyage to Manila, when, all on a sudden, the hopes of all were crushed. Spain had begged for peace. "No more men can be sent to Manila," said the officials consulted, and Camp Merritt put on mourning forthwith.

NOVEL SUSPENSION RAILWAY IN SAXONY

A MOUNTAIN railway of a new and decidedly novel construction was recently opened to traffic in Saxony.

It runs from Loschwitz, a village on the banks of the River Elbe about five miles from Dresden, to the top of the Rochwitz heights, which command a most beautiful view of the Saxon capital. The railway is 820 feet long, with a gradient of 32 per cent., and is constructed according to the "Langen" system. Thirty-three iron piers of different height, weighing about 300 tons, the highest being 49 feet, carry the rails on which the cars are hung.

Each car holds 50 passengers, and weighs, when occupied, 12.8 tons. Their shape and construction differs entirely from all other railway cars, and even from those used by the Barmen-Elberfeld suspension railway. A steel cable 1.7 inches in diameter connects the two trains and locks them firmly together. It is operated by two powerful machines of 80 horse-power each, stationed at the top terminus of the road. The cable has a strength of flexure of 209,437 pounds. Particular attention and care has been given to devices to insure the safety of the passengers and to regulate the running of the cars. A most ingeniousssignal system—with visible and audible signals—serves to regulate the arrival and departure of the trains, and is operated from both the lower and upper stations. Each car is provided with a danger-signal apparatus, consisting of an alarm and a telephone, which enables the conductor to communicate from any point of the road with the engine house. The car is provided with three brakes—system Bucher-Durer—two of which work automatically at the least slackening of the tension of the cable and stop the car. The third brake can be operated by hand from the platform of the car. From a hand attached to the disk upon which the cable is rolled, the engineer can always determine the exact position of the cars on the road, and an automatic bell warns him if the train is running too fast.

The greatest safety consists in an automatic brake, both at the lower and the top station, which is put into action by the arriving car and stops it, no matter how careless the engineer may be.

The fare is 20 pfennigs (4.76 cents) up and ten pfennigs (2.38 cents) down; return ticket, 25 pfennig (5.95 cents). Reduced rates are allowed institutions, societies, school children, laborers, etc. The journey takes three minutes, and 15,500 passengers can be carried each way per day, or a total of 31,000.

It is the first road of the kind that has ever been built, and many engineers interested in the subject of mountain transportation have followed its construction and trial with much interest. It is claimed that should this road prove a success financially, and it no doubt will, that a number of others similarly constructed will be put up in the mountains of Europe, and especially in Switzerland and Italy.

The possibilities of this type of mountain railway is practically unlimited in Switzerland, and the profits to be taken from such enterprises would undoubtedly be large because of the great number of people who are desirous of ascending the Swiss Alps, but who do not care to risk their lives in the hazardous ascents as they are now made. But there is one class who look upon the new venture with unkind eyes. They are the Swiss guides. Should this new form of mountain railway invade Switzerland it would mean the ruin of their vocations. But the traveling, sightseeing public are demanding greater conveniences, and the moneyed men of the world are willing to give it to them when profitable returns are assured, even though it does affect the income of the Swiss guides.

After the Hay and Potatoes.

Old Jaquith drove into the yard with a heifer and a steer harnessed to a sled. There were boards around the platform of the sled, and a little straw, a few sheep, and two or three pigs upon a platform. He came to the door and entered without rapping, and as I remember him he was rather a marked looking man, somewhat advanced in years, and without further introduction he said: "I am a preacher; I preach for a living. I preach the Gospel of St. Paul. I preach an hour for a quarter of a dollar, a half hour for fifteen cents, and a quarter of an hour for ten cents. And I forgot to say that I take my pay in hay for my cattle and sheep, or in potatoes for my pigs."—Green Bag.

ABOUT CONVINCED.

It is hoped that you are about convinced to let me stop at your home regularly with a nice clean piece of Hygeia Ice. I have been hammering away at you for some time to bring you around to this point. I believe it is economy for you to use Ice. I believe also that you should use Hygeia Ice in preference to any other ice. Because it is a pure ice, a healthful ice and an ice that lasts longer than others. No dirt. No impurities—nothing in it that shouldn't be.

SPORTING.

GOLF.

Owing to the disagreeable weather during the first of the week there has scarcely been any playing on the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course. The course has been exceedingly damp and playing has not been much of a pleasure.

It is quite likely that an attempt will be made Saturday on the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course to break the present standing for the Golf Committee cup. There are several players near the top, and no doubt they will make a strong effort to change the present position.

Among those who have the lowest figures at the Westfield Golf Club this season is Edgar I. Serrell, of North Plainfield. He turned in a card that was the envy of all the regular members of that club who have not yet attained the proficiency in the game that Serrell has.

Alfred Glover, the golf expert of the Park Golf Club, whose resignation takes effect September 3, will not go to East New York as was at first stated. He will first visit Sound Beach, Conn., for two months, after which he will go to Palm Beach, Fla., where he has secured a permanent position on the golf links at that place.

In the second round of the qualifying play in the Waumbek Golf Club tournament at Jefferson, N. H., yesterday, A. R. Fisk, J. Whitney Baker and D. S. Rowland, of Hillside Tennis and Golf Club, were among those to qualify. Their scores respectively were 181, 181 and 182. Out of 41 cards returned yesterday, eighteen were in two figures and 211 for the 36 holes closed the third eight.

In the course of a week or two, large fields may be expected for the weekly competitions at the Park Golf Club. Despite the fact that a great majority of the members are out of town, there have been a number who have appeared at the club with great regularity Saturday afternoons. Labor Day will see the resumption of the autumnal activity at the club. On that day, there will be several special events to entertain the members.

The golf team from the Metuchen Golf Club played the Colonia Country Club, at Colonia, Saturday, the home team winning by nineteen up. Following are the scores: Metuchen—R. E. Corbin, 5; A. T. Strong, 0; J. P. P. Waite, 7; T. Tait, 0; G. M. Brock, 0; C. Tetson, 0; W. Wilson, 3; L. Peck, 0 Total, 15. Colonia—C. D. Ward, 0; A. B. Maurice, 7; A. E. Smith, 0; E. S. Savage, 3; W. S. Riley, 10; Fred Coles, 11; F. C. Wheeler, 0; M. D. Valentine, 3. Total, 34.

A decided improvement has just been made to the Park Golf Club course by the removal of the large tree on the fair green of the seventh hole. The tree was right in a direct line between the tee and the putting green, making it necessary to play around it. Many a long drive was punished by striking in the lower branches. While the change does not make the hole any easier when properly played, it prevents the spoiling of some really creditable drives.

LAWN TENNIS.

The tennis committee of the Cedar Brook Tennis Club has received an invitation to enter some of its members in an open tennis tournament for singles, to be held on the courts of the Westfield Club, at Westfield, Saturday, August 31, and Monday, September 2. Entries close August 28. The committee in charge consists of Fred G. Smith, of Plainfield, and Fred A. Condit, of Westfield. If the Cedar Brook Club gives up its plans of a club tournament for Labor Day, several of its players will be entered in the tournament at Westfield.

ON THE DIAMOND.

The return game arranged to be played, between the Plainfield police and the Elizabeth "cops," today, has been postponed until tomorrow afternoon. It will be played at Elizabeth.

ROD AND GUN.

Lawyer William G. DeMott returned last evening from a pleasant stay at Greenwood Lake, where he was successful in catching many fish.

MISS SHREVE STILL LEADS.

YESTERDAY'S PLAY MADE MISS ELSBERG A CLOSE SECOND.

Weekly Competition For Hooley Cup at Park Golf Club Saturday Afternoon.

By securing second place in the weekly competition for the Hooley cup at the Park Golf Club course yesterday afternoon, Miss Harriet B. Shreve managed to retain the lead for that trophy although Miss Daisy Elsberg is a close second. Miss Saidee May Howell has now dropped down to third place for which she is tied with Miss Mary Wells. Neither competed yesterday.

The day and the course were not condusive to the best golf. It was hot and muggy and the course was very soft and slow. The rains of the last few days had given the grass renewed energy and it was quite long in places despite John Calder's best efforts to keep it closely cut. The putting greens were cut but they were very soft.

Miss Elsberg won first honors for the day with a 67 net, which was good, considering the condition of the course. Miss Shreve's net score was three strokes more, giving her second place, Miss Laura G. Long was third.

The scores were:

	G	H	N
Miss Daisy Elsberg	67	15	52
Miss Harriet B Shreve	82	27	55
Miss Laura G. Long	94	26	68
Miss May S. Shreve	110	40	70

The standing for the cup is now as follows:

Miss Harriet Shreve	9
Miss Daisy Elsberg	8
Miss Saidee Mae Howell	6
Miss Mary Wells	6
Miss Laura Long	5
Miss May Shreve	3
Miss Mabel VanDeventer	2
Miss Elsie Brokaw	2
Miss Jennings	1

TOUR TO THE PACIFIC COAST.

Another Opportunity to Visit California Under the Auspices of the Pennsylvania Railroad's Personally-Conducted System.

In view of the great popularity of transcontinental travel under the Personally-Conducted System, as evinced in the recent Pennsylvania Railroad Tour to the Pacific Coast and Canadian Northwest, that company has decided to run another tour to the Pacific Coast, including in the itinerary a visit to the world-famous Grand Canon of Arizona, in the early Fall. The tour will leave New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, and other stations on the Pennsylvania Railroad east of Pittsburg, on Monday, September 23, and reach New York on the homeward trip Tuesday, October 22.

As in former tours to California under the auspices of the Pennsylvania Railroad, a special train, composed of the highest class of Pullman equipment, will be utilized during the entire trip. Excellent meals will be served in the dining cars attached to the train during the entire journey, except during the stops at San Francisco and in Chicago. An observation car will appeal to all who delight in scenery. Few trips afford so great a diversity in Nature's beauties as the one outlined below. Westward bound, the tourists will pass through the wild slopes of the Colorado Rockies, around the Great Salt Lake, and over the fastnesses of the Sierra Nevada. After visiting all the beautiful resorts on the sunny California slopes, the eastward journey will be through the Arizona desert to the Grand Canon of Arizona. Its beauties cannot be painted in mere words. Magnificent in coloring, awful in its depths, it stands amoung the natural wonders of the world. Thence across the plains to St. Louis, and eastward through Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, and Pennsylvania, the tourists reaching their destination just thirty days after leaving home.

The various transcontinental lines having made low rates on account of the General Triennial Convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company is enabled to offer this superb vacation trip at the low rate of $185 for the round trip from New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, or any point on Pennsylvania Railroad east of Pittsburg, one in a berth; and $165 for the round trip, two persons occupying the same berth. The rate from Pittsburg will be $5 less.

Diagrams are now open, and as the number who can be accommodated will be strictly limited, names should be registered immediately.

For further information and descriptive pamphlet, apply to George W. Boyd, Assistant General Passenger Agent, Broad Street Station, Philadelphia. 8 21 2 w

TRYING TO DIVIDE EVENLY.

IN SETTLING UP THE BANKRUPTCY CASE OF V. L. FRAZEE.

Said That the Action of a Newark Firm Finally Forced Him to the Wall.

The case of Vincent L. Frazee, bankrupt, was called yesterday before Referee Atwood L. DeCosta, of Newark, for examination. Besides the bankrupt, there were present Francis J. Blatz, trustee; William Newcorn, counsel for the trustee; Eugene Devitt, of Jersey City, counsel for the petitioning creditors, and W. A. Coddington, counsel for the bankrupt.

The examination was conducted by Mr. Newcorn, counsel for the trustee. It was shown that Mr. Frazee was engaged in the grocery business for twenty-five years, fifteen years of which he was employed by others, and ten years for himself. He did a cash business, and finally purchased a residential property in West Front street. He purchased the bulk of his goods of Wilkinson, Gaddis & Co., of Newark, and paid cash until two years ago when he began to run behind. Last February he became indebted to Wilkinson, Gaddis & Co., $2,800, and other creditors $3,000. He sent the Newark firm a check for $300 and this went to protest.

The following day the credit man from Wilkinson, Gaddis & Company's house, called on Mr. Frazee and insisted on security for the amount owing the firm. The representative, it is said, told Mr. Frazee that if he would give the firm a mortgage the firm would stand by him as long as he continued in business. February 14, Mr. Frazee gave the firm a mortgage on realty for $3,000 and a chattel mortgage for another $3,000 on horses, wagons, stock and fixtures. This shut out all other creditors.

Then, it is said, Wilkinson, Gaddis & Company informed Mr. Frazee that if he wanted any more goods from their house he would have to pay cash to get them. This he did until last May, when he was forced to close his business.

This comprised the examination. It is quite likely that Mr. Newcorn will file a creditors' bill and endeavor to have the conveyance set aside so that all creditors may share alike in the business trouble.

PERSONAL.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Brown, of Watchung avenue, have returned from a visit to Rockaway Beach.

B. A. Hegeman, Jr., and son, Harold, of Willow avenue, are sojourning at Camp Breeze, Woolfboro, N. H.

John Carty, of Orchard place, has commenced a two weeks' vacation, part of which will be spent in camping.

Miss Teresa McGinley, of Richmond street, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. McGinley, of High Bridge.

James Maher, of Trenton, returned home today after spending a few days with his brother, T. J. Maher, of Arlington place.

William A. French, of St. Paul, who has been visiting his mother, Mrs. P. M. French, at the homestead on Somerset street, returns home today.

Corporation Counsel and Mrs. Craig A. Marsh, of West Eighth street, returned yesterday from their European trip, which was a very enjoyable one.

Miss May R. Harold and Mr. and Mrs. Howard A. Pope, of East Fifth street, have gone to South Waterford, Me., where they will remain for two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. George F. Brown, of Grove street, are planning to spend the month of September at Lebanon, N. J., Mr. Brown making the trip each day by train.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Inman, of East Sixth street, are receiving congratulations over the arrival of a twelve pound baby girl, who came to their home Monday.

The Misses Florence Smith and Florence Carver, of West Fourth street, leave the fore part of the coming week for Harrisburg, Pa., where they will visit friends.

Mr. and Mrs. George Lindabury have returned home from Red Bank, where they have been spending a week. Mr. Lindabury is somewhat improved, but not able to attend to business.

Hope Chapel Endeavorers Going.

The Christian Endeavor Society of Hope chapel will go to the Westfield Fresh Air Camp this evening for the purpose of holding a service. The start will be made from the chapel by special trolley at 7:30.

No Drill Last Night.

Owing to the condition of the streets, the drill scheduled to be held by Warren Engine Company, last evening, was postponed. It will be held this exening and Capt. Wm. B. Smith will be in charge.

MAY NOT BE WIRE THIEF.

CASE AGAINST EDDIE SMYTH IS GRADUALLY WEAKENING.

Disagreement of Witnesses as to His Identity—Final Examination This Afternoon.

What at first appeared to be a strong case against Eddie Stodowski, or Smith, as he prefers to be called, implicating him in the Lincoln copper wire theft, has gradually dwindled to almost nothing. He was to have had a complete examination, this morning, to establish his identity, but owing to the inability of two railroad brakemen to be present, it was postponed until this afternoon. If the brakemen fail to identify him as one of the two men who placed the wire on their train at Fanwood, Monday afternoon, the chances are he will be released.

So far, the only person who positively asserts that Smith was the boy who boarded a Middlesex and Somerset car at Dunellen Sunday night, and accompanied by three men rode to Gallagher's Corner, is Harry Johnson, a conductor. Several other persons who saw the quartette in this city, including Felix Chargois, the Plainfield conductor on whose car they rode, are equally positive Smith is not the boy.

Last evening's New York and Jersey City papers contained accounts of the disappearance from the latter place of two boys, the description of one of which tallies with that of Smith. The name given in the accounts is Soldosk which is something similar to Smith's proper name. Smith is a bright lad with regular features and pleasing appearance, vastly different from that of the ordinary run of boys who infest the railroads. The Jersey City police will be communicated with in the hopes of learning something in regard to the suspected lad.

TROUBLE IN A CAR.

Wm. Howden Haled to Court for the Offense.

Sentence was suspended on William Howden, in the city court, this morning, who had been arrested last evening on complaint of Lester Tingley, a street car conductor. In his complaint Tingley alleged that Howden had been disorderly on his car and used considerable profane language when spoken to. Before allowing Howden to depart, Mayor Jenkins warned him against repeating the offense.

TOOK POSSESSION.

Because He Didn't Wait to Ask, Rector is to be Assested.

Henry A. Rector, a colored man who recently removed to Netherwood from Westfield, is to be arrested for breaking and entering the house belonging to John Collins, of Union, in which he lived. Rector had resided in the house before and apparently thought he had the right to return. He accordingly broke open the door and moved in his furniture. The case will be heard in Westfield.

Attack on the Police.

The Elizabeth Leader, in its issue of yesterday, published a vicious attack upon the Plainfield police baseball team. In the absurd article it is claimed that Special Officer Conroy is not a member of the force.

Just a Simple Drink.

Joseph Birmingham was arraigned before Mayor Jenkins, this morning, charged with being intoxicated. As there was no disorder attached to the case, sentence was suspended.

Luxury in Diet.

It is very questionable whether from the strictly nutritive point of view champagne and oysters are after all in health an advance upon ginger-beer and cockles, whether turtle is preferable to calf's head or caviare to soft herring roe, or plovers' eggs superior to the ordinary eggs of the barnyard bird. The price of an article of food by no means sets upon it its food value.—London Lancet.

Paper Rubber.

A substitute for rubber is made by covering sheets of the finest Japanese rice paper with a certain kind of varnish, and then applying pressure. The paper and varnish become a homogeneous mass, and by the time it is ready for use it is flexible, elastic, light and completely airtight and waterproof.—Ledger Monthly.

Butterfly-Catching in Japan.

In Japan they have a very simple way of collecting butterflies alive. They streak trees with phosphorus and saccharine matter, and then the butterflies in the night time are attracted, stick fast and are taken off.—N. Y. Sun.

PROPOSALS FOR MACADAMIZING.

Sealed proposals will be received by the Common Council, at the Council Chamber, No. 109 Park avenue, in the City of Plainfield, at 8 o'clock p. m., on the ninth day of September, 1901, for doing the work and furnishing the materials for the macadamizing contemplated in the ordinance entitled "An Ordinance for the permanent improvement of certain streets and portions of streets, of the City of Plainfield, with permanent and durable macadam pavement, and to provide the necessary funds in advance of the collection of assessments for benefits," approved August 5, 1901, and as provided for in the specifications on file in the office of the Street Commissioner.

The streets on which the work is to be done are as follows:

First Place;
Second Place;
Third Place; each from the Northerly curb line of East Ninth Street to the Southerly curb line of Crescent Avenue.

West Sixth Street, from the Southwesterly curb line of Park Avenue to the Northeasterly curb line of Plainfield Avenue.

Orchard Place, from the Southwesterly curb line of New street to the Northeasterly curb line of Liberty Street.

Carlton Avenue, from the Northerly curb line of Watchung Avenue to the Southerly curb line of Putnam Avenue.

Upon receipt of the bids or proposals the Common Council will immediately proceed to unseal the same and publicly announce the contents thereof in the presence of the parties bidding, or their agents, provided said parties or agents choose to be then and there present, and also make proper record of said prices and terms.

The right to reject any or all bids is expressly reserved by the Common Council.

The proposals must state the prices for each of said sstreets, or parts of streets, separately, and must be endorsed "Proposals For Macadamizing."

PROPOSALS FOR SEWERS.

Pursuant to a resolution adopted by the Common Council of the City of Plainfield, New Jersey, at a regular adjourned meeting held Tuesday, August 20, 1901, notice is hereby given that the Common Council will meet on the ninth day of September, 1901, at 8 o'clock, p. m., at the Council Chamber, No. 109 Park Avenue, in the City of Plainfield, at which time and place said Common Council will receive sealed proposals for doing the work and furnishing the materials for the construction of the sewers contemplated in the ordinance entitled "An Ordinance to Provide Separate Sewers or Drains to Carry Off the Surface Water in Portions of South Avenue, Albert Street, Plainfield Avenue, West Third Street, Clinton Avenue and Madison Avenue," approved August 5, 1901, as provided for in the plans and specifications adopted August 20, 1901, by the Common Council, and filed in the office of the City Clerk, No. 109 Park Avenue, Plainfield, N. J.

Each proposal must be accompanied by a certified check for $200, payable to the Treasurer of the City of Plainfield.

The Engineer's approximate estimate of the quantities of material required and the work to be done is as follows:

478 feet 15 inch sewer,
1,630 " 18 " "
1,910 " 24 " "
8 manholes,
6 branches,
7 catch basins,
6 inlets,
250 feet 12 inch basin connections,
195 " 10 " "
75 " 24 " sewer to be lowered.

Copies of plans, forms of proposals, specifications, contract, bond, etc., may be examined at the office of the Engineer, No. 109 Park Avenue, Plainfield, N. J.

The right to reject any or all bids is expressly reserved by the Common Council.

All proposals must be endorsed, "Proposals for Sewers."

NEW JERSEY'S COLONY FOR EPILEPTIC CASES.

Summary Of Exhaustive Article Which Appeared In Newark News.

IS LOCATED AT SKILLMAN

STATE VILLAGE IS BEING RAPIDLY IMPROVED.

H P. Reynolds Is Secretary Of The Board Of Managers—Twenty-four Patients There Now—More Will Be Cared For.

An exhaustive article appeared in last Sunday's Newark News relative to New Jersey's colony for epileptics, otherwise known as the New Jersey State Village for Epileptics. This home is located a mile and a half from the station of Skillman on the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad. There are three buildings, the executive and two other buildings, one for men and one for women patients. A better location for such a colony would be hard to find, as the ground is situated high and commands a beautiful view of the surrounding country.

The agitation for the location of such a colony was started in 1884, and was intended to relieve the insane hospitals and other institutions of the care of those unfortunates. It was not until 1896 that a bill got through the Legislature calling for official action. This bill was killed by the Governor's veto, but in 1897 the New Jersey State Medical Society succeeded in putting through another and stronger bill which called for an immediate appropriation of $15,000 and to which Gov. Voorhees promptly affixed his signature. Of the $15,000 there was used $11,500 for the purchase of land and buildings, and, in 1898, the village was open. Dr. Henry M. Weeks, of Newark, was put in charge and on May 1, 1899, the first patient was received.

A great amount of good work has been accomplished. At present there are twenty-five patients at the village, requiring five attendants. It is proposed to increase the accommodations so that several hundred patients can be provided for. There are now 400 names of applicants on the list waiting to be admitted. Plainfield is particularly interested in this village by reason of the fact that Howard P. Reynolds, of the borough, is secretary of the Board of Managers. Dr. James A. Buckley, editor of The Christian Advocate, is president of the board.

There are, it is said, 2,500 epileptics confined in New Jersey asylums, or on an average of 100 to each institution. Contrary to the general impression those afflicted with epilepsy are perfectly able to contribute something to their own support, but while such a person is at work he or she must be under the direct supervision of someone who under understands the case, so that the patient may not injure anyone while not in his or her right mind. One hard and fast rule is that there shall be no intermingling of sexes. The "villagers" are divided into families, about twelve to a family. Each of these has a separate building.

From 7 to 10 per cent. of the patients are discharged from the villages yearly as entirely cured, and 70 per cent. show a decided improvement. About 400 acres of the land is under cultivation, and is worked almost entirely by the patients themselves. Plans are now under way for utilizing every foot of the land when funds are available.

Church attendance is compulsory in the colony, but the place in non-sectarian. Each Sunday different ministers officiate at the services. The visitors to the place who expect seeing anything morbid or out of the ordinary would be greatly disappointed, for it is impossible to distinguish the patients from other persons, and they go quietly about their work, evidently perfectly happy and contented in their environments.

For Making New Citizens.

County Clerk Howard will keep his office open on the evenings of September 5 and 12, so that those desiring can take out naturalization papers. This is done for those who cannot attend to the matter in the day time.

Doing Its Duty.

Since the installation of a surface water drain at the corner of West Second and Liberty streets, no further trouble is experienced with a surplus of mud. The improvement is one of the best made in the city.

City Committee Meeting.

The next regular meeting of the Republican city executive committee is scheduled for September 3.

DEMOCRATS TO GATHER EARLY IN OCTOBER.

Democratic State Committee Arranged For State Convention to Be Held at Trenton.

FIRST WEEK IN OCTOBER.

THIS WILL MAKE DEMOCRATIC CAMPAIGN A VERY SHORT ONE.

Definite Date Left to a Special Committee—Rather a Small Turnout at Meeting of the State Committee Yesterday.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Asbury Park, August 22.—At a few minutes' session of the Democratic State committee, held yesterday afternoon in the parlors of the Coleman House here, it was decided to hold the State convention in Taylor's Opera House, Trenton, some day during the first week in October.

The original proposition was to have the convention in the week preceding the Republican convention, for which it was reported the opera house had been engaged for September 25. In the preceding week it was learned the theatre is to be occupied by an opera singer, and the fixing of the date was referred to a special committee consisting of State Chairman William B. Gourley, Colonel E. L. Price, of Essex, and David Crater, of Monmouth.

Immediately after the meeting most of the committeemen went to Port au Peck to attend the clambake of the Joel Parker Association. Those at the meeting were former Judge Howard Carrow, of Camden; Harry Paull, of Camden; former Senator Thomas Keyes, of Somerset; Tom Lanning, of Mercer; David Carter, of Monmouth; former Senator Watoo, of Sussex; Col. E. L. Price, of Essex; former Senator Lemuel Miller, of Cape May; Secretary W. K. Devereaux and Sergeant-at-Arms Able Narr.

The committee that is to fix the date for the convention will issue the call and decide upon the temporary officers. As it usually takes about twelve days to complete the county tickets and get the campaign into shape, this action means that the Democratic campaign will be a remarkably short one, only about three weeks being allowed for active campaigning.

NEW GUESTS.

Prosperity Continues to Visit at the Popular Hotel Netherwood.

The Hotel Netherwood gives evidence of no decline in the number of guests quartered there, judging from the hotel registry. Each day in turn brings new guests, who take the place of those departing. During the past ten days new arrivals have been uniformly constant.

Among the guests who have lately stopped at the resort are Mrs. S. Angevine and Miss M. L. Angevine, of Brooklyn; E. F. Brainard, of Glen Gardner; C. N. Irwin, of Elizabeth; T. P. Wharton and his mother, Mrs. Wharton, of New York; Mrs. E. G. Callaway, of Wyoming, N. J.; Miss Fernald, of Brooklyn; Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Dougherty and daughter, Miss Harriet Dougherty, of Brooklyn; Alfred E. Ommen, Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Hellbut, Mrs. J. M. Haslett, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Hassell, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. H. Struller, of Caldwell, N. J.; Dr. C. D. Beasly and Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Fernald, of Brooklyn; Lieut. E. J. King, U. S. N.; Miss Helen Britton, of Philadelphia; Mr. and Mrs. Willis Haverstick and James F. Hasbrouck, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. P. Cook and son, Wm. P. Cook, Jr., of Brooklyn.

WEST POINTERS THERE.

The Cadets Will be Big Attraction at Pan-American Exposition at Buffalo.

The cadets of the United States Military Academy at West Point are encamped at the Pan-American Exposition, where they will remain until the end of the month. Included in the encampment is the battalion of cadets, infantry, cavalry and artillery contingents as well as the mounted battery and hospital corps. The West Point band is also there.

This attraction will draw great crowds to the fair and in anticipation of heavy business during the time mentioned, the Lehigh Valley Railroad has made ample arrangements to carry through comfortably and at a low rate of transfortation.

Fine Opportunity.

For a good day's outing at the shore, no better opportunity is afforded than Warren chapel's excursion to Asbury Park. It will be held Thursday, August 29.

ELIZABETH COPS DENY THEY CLAIMED FRAUD.

Captain Schuler, of Elizabeth Nine, 'Phoned That Leader Article was Entirely False.

NO KICK AT CONROY.

FREELY ADMITTED THAT HE IS ELIGIBLE TO PLAINFIELD'S [illegible].

Elizabeth Leader Changes Its Attitude and Admits That Conroy is all Right—Return Game Will Be Played Today.

Beneath headlines of the regulation "yellow journal" size, the Elizabeth Leader, in its Monday's issue, published an article to the effect that the Plainfield police baseball team had been guilty of fraud in playing Conroy in the game between the team of that city and the Plainfield "cops," Wednesday afternoon, August 14. It was declared that the member of the team in question was a semi professional player and raised a hew and cry in general over the tempest in a tea pot.

Naturally the great imaginary discovery attracted the attention of the players on both teams and was the subject of considerable adverse criticism. Little stock was taken in the article and still less in the alleged interview of a Leader reporter with a member of the Elizabeth team.

In order that no misunderstanding might arise, however, Captain Schuler, of the Elizabeth nine, called up Captain Overbaugh on the 'phone and disavowed responsibility for the "sensation" sprung by the Leader and also took occasion to state that his team had no fault to find with the composition of the Plainfield nine. Further than this, Captain Schuler addressed a manly letter to the editor of the Leader in which he stated that Conroy is a regular special officer of the Plainfield police force and was, therefore, entitled to participate in the game. The captain also stated that Conroy would be found in his regular position in the game this afternoon at Elizabeth. The statement that the Plainfield nine had acted "dirty" was repudiated by Schuler, who declared that the "cops" of this city had done all in their power to make the game a pleasant one.

Realizing the blunder made, the editor of the Elizabeth Leader changed his attitude and in yesterday's issue acknowledged that Conroy is an eligible player.

Captain Overbaugh, when seen by a reporter of The Press, was inclined to place little weight on The Leader's article, which he said was ridiculous. The Elizabeth people, said he, knew Conroy's status and no protest was made by them. The best of feeling exists among the members of the two teams, he declared, and such an absurd statement as made by The Leader would be given no attention. Conroy has been a special on the force for months and no hesitation was made in selecting him as a member of the team, inasmuch as he is as well qualified to play as any other member of the nine.

The game will be called at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. It will take place on the Walnut street grounds, Elizabeth, where there are ample accommodations for the crowd. As far as the local team is concerned there will be no changes on the nine, with the exception of the position at right field, which will be filled by Patrolman Totten. In the first game Totten and Lunger alternated in this position. The Plainfield policemen left this city on the 12:44 o'clock train today for Elizabeth. All the members are in good condition for the game, and feel optimistic over the result.

FALL OPENING.

National Conservatory of Music Will Begin Its Fall Term, September 3.

The National Conservatory of Music of America, founded by Mrs. Jeanette M. Thurber, will commence its seventeenth scholastic year, September 3. Among those comprising the artistic faculty are Rafael Joseffy, Adele Margulies, Leopold Lichtenberg, Leo Schulz, Henry T. Finck, Max Spicker, Charles Heinroth and others. The annual entrance examinations will be held, commencing September 17 and continuing until September 21. Further particulars may be obtained by addressing the secretary, 128 West Seventeenth street, New York.

Needed Repairs.

Street Commissioner Gavett decided Tuesday to continue repair work on Watchung avenue, around the corner from East Front street. There were many holes on that avenue and the repairs will be greatly appreciated.

FUNERAL OF W. A. FREEMAN.

IMPRESSIVE EPISCOPAL SERVICE GIVEN AT THE HOME.

Rev. E. M. Rodman Officiated—The Pall Bearers—Interment at Hillside Cemetery.

Many relatives and friends filled the home of the late William A. Freeman, on Sandford avenue, yesterday afternoon when the final obsequies over his remains were held. Following the ritual of the Episcopalian church, the service was brief but impressive. Rev. E. M. Rodman, rector of Grace P. E. church, was the officiating clergyman.

A quartette, composed of Mrs. Charlotte Ross, Miss Miller, W. R. Cock and Fred J. Pope, sang very sweetly several of Mr. Freeman's favorite hymns. They were "There is a Land of Pure Delight," "Tarry With Me O My Delight" and "Mother Dear, Jerusalem." Following the close of the service the mourners were allowed a last look at the features of the departed, which reposed in a casket laden with beautiful floral emblems. Interment was made at Hillside cemetery.

Those who acted as pall-bearers were O. T. Waring, Emil Woltmann, S. B. Joseph, C. G. Crawford and C. G. Little, of this city, and W. N. Mann, of New York.

WORKING ON CITY STREETS.

EAST FRONT STREET WILL SOON BE COMPLETED.

Money For West Eighth Street Improvement Was Raised Without Trouble By Residents.

With but very little effort the property owners on West Eighth street, between Grant and Monroe avenues, have raised almost the entire amount necessary for the macadamizing of that street. Part of the cost will be borne by the city, but this will amount to less than $300. The property owners have assured Street Commissioner Gavett that the money will be ready for him when he wishes to commence the work. It is possible the street will be attended to as soon as the repairs on East Front street have been completed.

The change on East Front street, which is now being re-macadamized from Park to Watchung avenues, will be greatly appreciated when completed. Owing to constant repairs being made to the tracks of the street railway, it has heretofore been impossible to properly attend to that thoroughfare and the result has been a very uneven surface. When the present improvements have been finished, the block will compare favorably with any other street in the city. This week will probably see the completion of the work.

Watchung avenue, between Front street and North avenue, is also slated for an overhauling in the near future. This stretch has also been torn up considerably for street railway repairs and re-macadamization will probably be necessary.

DOUBLE FUNERAL.

Services in Memory of John VanMiddlesworth Held at House and Church in Somerville.

The funeral services of the late John VanMiddlesworth were held yesterday afternoon from the late residence on Plainfield avenue at 1 o'clock, and at 2:30 o'clock from the Second Reformed church, Somerville. B. W. Hand, of this city, had charge of the services.

At the home the services were simple, consisting of a few remarks and a prayer. At Somerville, where the deceased was known better, there was an extended service. Mr. Hand, who had known him for a number of years, paid deserving tribute to the upright Christian character of Mr. VanMiddlesworth.

There were many beautiful floral tributes from relatives and friends. The interment took place in the Reformed church cemetery at Somerville. The bearers were Charles VanMiddlesworth, Lindsey Woolley, Clarence Bye and John Goodman, all relatives of the deceased.

Took Friends For a Sail.

The party of Plainfield boys, who are cruising in a yacht off Sandy Hook and Raritan Bay, visited Midland Beach yesterday where they were met by a number of friends from this city. The latter were taken out for an enjoyable sail and returned late in the evening. Homer Smith, who has been one of the party since the start, returned home today.

Sunday Speaker.

Rev. Herbert F. Stilwell, of St. Paul, Minn., will address the meeting at the hall of the Young Men's Christian Association Sunday afternoon at 4:15 o'clock. Vocal selections will be rendered by Mrs. John Manley.

COMPANIES TO VISIT THE BOROUGH FIREMEN.

On the Occasion of the Big Parade to be Held in North Plainfield, October 17.

PARADE WILL BE IN MORNING.

THERE WILL BE DINNER AND A BALL FOR THE VISITORS.

Both Warren Engine Company and West End Hose Company Will Have Their Special Guests—The Committee in Charge of the Affair.

The joint committee, representing the two fire companies composing the fire department of the borough, is working energetically on matters connected with the demonstration to be held Thursday, October 17. The chief feature of the affair, according to the arrangements, will be a parade, which in size, it is said, will outdo any former attempt in the same line ever held in North Plainfield.

Both the Warren Engine Company and the West End Hose Company will entertain their own specially invited guests, which will include generally all the fire companies in this vicinity. Among the guests of Warren boys will be Relief Hose Company, of Raritan; Red Jacket Engine Company, of Elizabeth; Hope Hose Company, of Bayonne; Exempts, of Plainfield, and companies from Flemington, New Brunswick, Washington, Somerville and Rahway.

The guests of the West End Hose Company will include companies from Summit, Westfield, Bayonne, Perth Amboy, Boonton, Bound Brook and Morristown. In all probability a number of other companies will be invited to participate in the affair. The committee, representing West End, is composed of David Bodine, Jacob Higgins and F. Merton Lunger. Warren's committee is made up of Gus Fiering, Charles Grader and Louis Bimble, Jr.

It was originally planned to hold the parade in the afternoon, but by request of a number of the companies, which will take part, the time has been changed to 11 o'clock in the morning. This will allow the visiting firemen ample time to take in the sights in this city and the vicinity during the afternoon. At the conclusion of the parade, a big dinner will be served by both the borough companies. The guests of Warren Engine Company will dine in Saengerbund Hall, while the West End boys will entertain their friends at the Manhattan Hotel, on Somerset street.

In the evening it is probable that a ball will be given in Saengerbund Hall. Both companies will hold "open house" all day. According to the plans, a band or drum corps will accompany each separate company in the parade. The line of march will cover the principal thoroughfares in the borough. The parade will be reviewed by Mayor N. B. Smalley and other officials of North Plainfield.

Valuable Gift.

Dr. Simpson, of East Fifth street, has just presented to Clyde Doane, of 425 LaGrande avenue, a relic in the form of a large shell, which the doctor picked up at Chancellorsville some time ago. It is a rare specimen and is greatly appreciated by the receiver of the gift.

Deputy Grand Master Coming.

Central Lodge, No. 48, A. O. U. W., will meet this evening and entertain Deputy Grand Master Fowle, of Irvington. Deputy Fowle has on several occasions visited Central Lodge unawares, and it is now proposed to be ready for him and give a good time.

Looking After Milk Supply.

Dairy Inspector R. A. Meeker, of this city, is kept very busy these days looking after the milk supply in various parts of the State. As a rule he finds the supply in good condition, and where it is not he promptly brings the dealers to terms.

Work and Feast.

Iona Council, Degree of Pocohontas, met last evening and worked the adoption degree on one candidate, after which the members enjoyed a feast of good things prepared by the good and welfare committee.

Endeavor Meeting.

The topic of the Endeavor Society meeting at the First Baptst church tomorrow evening will be "How to Bring Others to Christ." A cordial invitation is extended to all.

Well Known Speaker.

Rev. Dr. Stilwell, a well-known Baptist divine, will preach next Sunday at the First Baptist church.

FARMER ORATOR WAS THE CHIEF SPEAKER.

Addressed Many Thousands at Farmers' Picnic Held at Flemington Yesterday.

S. D. DRAKE ALSO SPOKE.

ANNUAL PICNIC OF FARMERS' ALLIANCE OF HUNTERDON COUNTY.

Fully Five Thousand People Assembled For It Yesterday—Was Continued Today—Mr. Martine Talked on The Farmers.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Flemington, August 22—Fully 5 000 people were present at the opening of the tenth annual picnic of the Farmers' Alliance, of Hunterdon county, yesterday morning. The fair grounds where the picnic was being held was crowded with farmers, their wives and children. The usual allotment of fakirs, with all their paraphernalia were there, and a lively business was being conducted by them. Good speeches were the order of the day. James E. Martine, the "Farmer Orator," of Plainfield; S. D. Drake, of Lincoln, and E. E. Potter, of Port Oram. These addresses consumed the major part of the day and held the attention of the crowd throughout.

Senator John R. Foster, of Hunterdon county, presided at the meeting which was held in the pavillion. All the farmers have known Mr. Martine for years, and hence an introduction by the presiding officer was unnecessary. His speech was on the topic: "The Farmer as a Factor in the Body Politic" and the talk lasted for a full hour. Mr. Martine declared that the wealth, happiness and prosperity of this country depended on the success of the farmer. The crops here produced so far as variety is concerned surpass those of any other nation.

"This being the fact, it behooves the people of America to be on friendly terms and pleasant commercial relations with the people of the globe. To my way of thinking America's policy should be the freest of any country in the world.

"More than one-half the population are engaged in farming and they produce the larger portion of the wealth. To my mind the greatest loadstone, so far as our interests are concerned, is the tariff, which affords so-called 'protection.' It is essentially detrimental to the farming interests. Failing to protect him, it allows retaliatory measures to be taken by other nations, which works great harm to the farmers. In this respect Germany and Russia are examples. They have adopted like tariff measures. A tariff of twenty-five cents per bushel has been placed on potatoes under the Dingley law. This amount must be added to the cost of every bushel of seed potatoes bought by the farmer this year, because of the shortage in the crop in this country. The trust is another political question, with which the farmer must deal. This system is the outcome of protection, which has made its existence possible." Mr. Martine was warmly applauded at the conclusion of his remarks.

S. D. Drake, of Lincoln, chose for a subject, his experiences in the Civil War. In an interesting manner he told the story of the war as he had seen it, from the time he stole into the ranks of a militia company passing through Trenton in 1861 until the close of the Rebellion. The battles he was in and the marches in which he participated were all recalled by Mr. Drake.

In the afternoon, E. E. Potter, familiarly called "School Teacher Potter," took up the cudgels for the Democratic party. His remarks were confined to the vital principles of the party although he made reference to many of the current issues. This afternoon, a Republican orator, will answer Mr. Potter, and will also explain the doctrines of Republicanism.

Camping and Fishing.

With great tales of luck, but without any specimens of their piscatorial hauls, Adolph Bohren, Charles Keller, Walter Hetfield, William Mills, William DeMeza, John Lloyd and James Day have returned from Green Pond, where they have spent several days camping and incidentally fishing.

Known in This City.

Mrs. Martha Mundy, formerly of Metuchen, died at the home of her son-in-law, Rev. E. O. Moffett, Pine Bush, N. Y., Monday, August 19, at 8 o'clock. Funeral services will be held at the Metuchen Presbyterian church, Friday, August 23, at 2:30 o'clock.

Miss Mildred Everett, of Park place, leaves Saturday for Asbury Park.

TRYING TO UNSEAT DUNELLEN'S FREEHOLDER

Quo Warranto Proceedings Instituted Against Peter C. Staats, of Dunellen.

A TEST OF BOROUGH LAW.

IS DUNELLEN ENTITLED TO REPRESENTATION IN THE BOARD?

Staats Was Seated And Tappen, of Metuchen, Was Not—New Tappen Questions Staats' Right to His Seat.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, August 23—The long-threatened proceedings to oust Peter C. Staats, of Dunellen, from the Board of Freeholders have been instituted, with Luther H. Tappen, of Metuchen, as the prosecutor. The suit will be the means of determining whether a borough with a population of less than 3,000 is entitled to representation in the Board of Freeholders.

At the spring election Mr. Staats was re-elected freeholder from Dunellen. The borough, according to the census of 1900, has a population of 1,239. The borough has been represented by a freeholder for six years. Mr. Tappen was also elected a freeholder from the new borough of Metuchen, which has a population of 1,786, according to the 1900 census.

Both of these men presented themselves for membership at the organization of the Board of Freeholders May 8. County Solicitor Daly advised that neither could be seated under the existing laws. Freeholder Coreja insisted that there was grave doubt about the legal questions at issue and advised that Mr. Staats be seated, inasmuch as Dunellen had been represented for six years, so that the matter could be thrown into the courts for a decision.

It was charged at the time that this was a political move made in order to get a ruling as to what boroughs are entitled to representation. If the courts hold that a borough must have 3,000 population, then Samuel Watts, the Democratic member of the borough of South River, will lose his seat, as that borough, according to the 1900 census, has but 2,700 population.

Mr. Tappen threatened at the time to carry the matter to the courts, but since May nothing has been heard of it until now. In his affidavit accompanying his petition for the quo warranto proceedings, Mr. Tappen charges that Freeholder Staats has been and is now unlawfully holding and executing the duties of the office and that he is receiving a compensation of $2 per day.

The relator claims that the unlawful holding of the office is increasing the burden of taxation to the deponent.

The law, he claims, provides that where a borough has a population of upwards of 3,000, or where the borough and township lines are coextensive, a freeholder shall be elected by a vote of the people. The relator claims that the borough has never had a population of 3,000, and that the lines of the borough are not coextensive with the lines of the township, and that the borough is therefore not entitled to representation in the Board of Freeholders.

A rule to show cause was issued in the case, which is returnable Wednesday, November 6, why a quo warranto should not be issued against Peter C. Staats intruding into and unlawfully holding the office. Both sides may take testimony.

BOWLED AND TALKED.

This Was the Time at the Birthday Celebration Pleasantly Passed.

In celebration of her birthday, Mrs. Matthias Menzenbach, of Somerset street, entertained the Ladies' Society of the Gesang and Turn Verein, in Saengerbund Hall, yesterday afternoon. There were forty women present and the greater part of the afternoon was devoted to a bowling match, in which game the hostess excels.

Refreshments were served, while a number of the guests made short speeches. Among those who spoke were Mrs. Augustus Melcher, of Elizabeth; Mrs. George Welda, of Hoboken; Mrs. Henry Bergen and Mrs. Fritz Bechtel, of this city. Mrs. Menzenbach, who had received a large number of presents from the guests, responded to the addresses.

Mrs. I. L. Holmes, of 442 West Second street, says: "I used several boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills for backache and derived more benefit from them than anything else. Before I tried this remedy I was bothered almost constantly with a severe pain across the small of my back, so bad at times that I thought I must give up. If I sat down and got up or was lying down and attempted to rise quickly or retained one position for any length of time, sharp, acute pain always followed. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised for such troubles and went to L. W. Randolph's drug store and got a box. They helped me from the first and I improved right along under the treatment."

TROUBLE WITH JAPAN.

Protest Against the Action of United States Quarantine Officer.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—Mr. Takahira, the Japanese minister, has received a copy of resolutions recently adopted at a mass meeting of the Japanese residents of Honolulu protesting against the alleged action of Dr. L. E. Cofer, United States quarantine officer at that port, in subjecting Mr. S. Okabe, the Japanese vice consul at Honolulu, and his wife to a physical examination upon their arrival there on July 25.

At the Japanese legation yesterday it was stated that as yet no formal representations have been made to this government. The communication from Honolulu asked that the matter be brought to the attention of President McKinley and to the United States senate and house of representatives. It is thought here that the request was put in this shape because of an unfamiliarity with the usual procedure in such cases. The Japanese consul general at Honolulu also was supplied with the resolutions and forwarded these, together with other details of the occurrence, to his government. Therefore Mr. Takahira probably will await instructions from Japan before bringing the matter before the state department or otherwise presenting it officially.

When the matter does come up in formal shape, it also will include cases other than the one which is the subject of the present representations. It was stated at the legation that information from Hawaii makes it clear that the Japanese are and have been sufferers from the extreme quarantine inspections to the exclusion of almost all others, and a number of cases have been brought to the attention of Japanese officials here wherein Japanese cabin passengers, men and women, have been forced to undergo physical examinations, while persons of other nationality passed in the port unmolested.

According to the press dispatches from Honolulu, the physical examination of Mr. Okabe and his wife was brought about by a suspected case of plague aboard their vessel, though it is not clear to the officials here why an inspection of this character, which to a Japanese amounts to an indignity, should have been necessary, as was stated, only in regard to Mr. Okabe and his wife.

KEYSTONE REPUBLICANS.

Nomination of State Officers In Pennsylvania.

HARRISBURG, Aug. 22.—The Republican state convention, in session here, nominated by acclamation Judge Porter of Pittsburg for supreme court judge and State Representative Harris for state treasurer.

The platform adopted indorses the Republican national and state administrations and says:

"We congratulate the people of Pennsylvania on the splendid prosperity which they now enjoy. The farmer, the mechanic, the laborer and the professional man all either have or may have remunerative employment. We regret that under such prosperous conditions contests should arise between capital and labor, but we hope and believe that these disputes will be finally settled on an equitable basis that will do full justice to the contending parties. The right of capital to make proper and legal combinations has been recognized by legislative enactments in many of the states, and this carries with it the right of labor to organize in proper and legal ways for its protection and advantage, but neither capital nor labor has the right to resort to violence or illegal methods to redress wrongs or obtain rights. The spirit of mediation and concession should prevail in all disputes between capital and labor.

"We arraign the Democratic party as incompetent, incapable, insincere and untrustworthy. The citizens of our state within a very few days have witnessed a spectacle seldom seen in the history of a political party asking the suffrages of the people. The Democratic party, ashamed of its record in the past and afraid to name a single issue of a national character on which it is willing to appeal for support, asks the people to forget that in the past, when intrusted with the administration of public affairs, it has ruined our business enterprises, shut down our mills, closed our factories, put in idleness our great laboring classes, ruined credit of the state and nation and now appeals to the public on what it chooses to call local issues."

THE SCHLEY INQUIRY

Correspondence In Regard to Rear Admiral Howison.

THE ACTING SECRETARY'S DECISION.

Holds That the Court of Inquiry Must Itself Pass Upon the Question of the Propriety of Howison to Serve.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—The navy department has given out the correspondence with Admiral Schley relative to opinions said to have been expressed by Admiral Howison, a member of the court of inquiry. The closing letter of the acting secretary of the navy states that it would be irregular for the navy department to hear and determine questions affecting the competency of members of the court and advises Admiral Schley that the question of Admiral Howison's competency be left to the court of inquiry itself.

Under date of Aug. 19 Rear Admiral Schley wrote as follows to the navy department:

"I have the honor to inclose herewith a newspaper clipping in which Rear Admiral Henry L. Howison, who has been selected to fill the vacancy caused by the relief of Rear Admiral L. A. Kimberly from the court of inquiry, is represented to have expressed certain opinions.

"If this statement, taken from the Boston Record, be true, it would, in the judgment of my counsel, disqualify him for serving in this inquiry.

"I respectfully request that a copy of this letter, with this inclosure, be submitted to Rear Admiral Howison for his consideration, and I would further request that I may be favored with a copy of his answer.

"I have entertained high personal regard for Rear Admiral Howison throughout a long professional service, so that I feel sure that if the statements expressed in the inclosure are true Rear Admiral Howison would not be willing to serve as a judge under such circumstances."

In reply, dated Aug. 20, Acting Secretary of the Navy F. W. Hackett said:

"Your letter of the 19th, inclosing newspaper clipping in regard to alleged statements of Rear Admiral Henry L. Howison, was received by mail this morning. Soon after its receipt Captain James Parker, one of your counsel, called at the department and stated that he intended to go to Boston on Saturday to make a further investigation in the premises and wished that no step be taken by the department until the result of his visit could be communicated to the department. The department would be pleased to learn immediately if it be your desire that action be withheld for the present."

Rear Admiral Schley on Aug. 22 sent the following note to the navy department:

"In reply to the department's letter of this date referring to clipping containing alleged statements of Rear Admiral Henry L. Howison I would say that I believe that the action requested should not be withheld, as its purpose was to avoid any delay in the court after its session had begun.

"I beg therefore that the request of my letter of yesterday may be communicated to Admiral Howison."

To this Acting Secretary Hackett replied under date of Aug. 21:

"In reply to your letter of 19th inst., inclosing a newspaper clipping and requesting the department to send it to Rear Admiral Howison, together with a copy of your letter, you are informed that the appointment of Rear Admiral Howison as a third member of the court of inquiry was accomplished only after taking great pains to insure absolute impartiality in the officer selected. To a question unofficially put as to his availability in case the department should require his services Rear Admiral Howison replied:

"'I know of no reason why I should not be available for such duty should the department so decide. I have made no public utterances relating to the subject, and I have seen none of the official reports and papers bearing upon the questions to be decided by the court.'

"Your counsel, Captain Parker, before the appointment had been announced mentioned to the acting secretary the names of certain rear admirals, any one of whom, he said, would be perfectly satisfactory to Rear Admiral Schley. One of the names so mentioned was that of Rear Admiral Howison. It may be added that of four officers consulted by the department the names of three were upon the list thus mentioned by your counsel.

"This much has been detailed in order to remind you of the fact that a fair minded officer of excellent reputation and of unblemished character had been found in the person of Rear Admiral Howison, who at the date of his appointment appears to have enjoyed the confidence of both the department and yourself.

"Your request is based upon a newspaper clipping that purports to contain statements in regard to the truth of which you do not yourself express an opinion.

"You ask the department to lay before Rear Admiral Howison a statement wholly unsubstantiated that appears to have been made by some person unknown at a time and place likewise unknown.

"The department is unable to view your request in any other light than that of a preliminary challenge of the fitness of Rear Admiral Howison to serve as a member of the court. It will be treated as is usual in cases of courts of inquiry.

"The established practice in the military as well as in the naval service has fixed the method in which the right of challenge before courts martial and courts of inquiry shall be exercised.

"The department, having constituted the court, should not at this stage of the proceedings undertake to hear and determine questions that may arise respecting the competency of its members. Such a proceeding would be irregular, all questions of this nature being left to the determination of the court itself."

To Train Horses For Vanderbilt.

SARATOGA, Aug. 22.—J. S. McDonald, agent for William K. Vanderbilt, has engaged Trainer Eddie Hughes to go to France to handle his race horses. Twenty yearlings are to be taken up and trained at once. Hughes will sail on Tuesday next. At present he is training horses owned by Tammany politicians.

Short Term Bonds Bought.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—The secretary of the treasury has purchased $1,000,000 short term 4 per cent bonds deliverable on the 27th. inst. at the price for that day, $113.237; also $15,000 fours deliverable yesterday at $113.252.

RUMORS ARE AFLOAT

Conflicting Reports Are Circulated In Pittsburg.

MORE TALK OF A SETTLEMENT.

Imported Strike Breaker Says He Was Deceived by the Corporation's Agent—Few Desertions From the Ranks of Strikers.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 22.—The steel strike situation underwent no change during the past 24 hours. There was no extension of the strike, and the steel managers did not attempt to start more mills. The fires were lighted in the Demmler Tin Plate works at McKeesport, but the machinery was not started, and no attempt was made to operate it. It is believed, however, that the move is preliminary to a start with nonunion men. The managers of the company have been preparing for several days to reopen a number of their properties, and it is thought that they have decided to act at once. Their Monessen plant is moving ahead uninterruptedly with full crews, and their Crescent works at Cleveland has about half the machinery in operation. There has been no break in the Carnegie group, and the mills that have been started with nonunion men since the strike began are going ahead with about the same force of men. The leaders on either side were busy all day, but at nightfall both said there were no announcements to make.

Veryl Preston was at the offices of the Carnegie Steel company and conferred at length with President W. E. Corey and other leading officials. President Shaffer was at the office of the Amalgamated association all day and spent most of the time conferring with delegations of strikers. On the streets it was a day of exciting rumors, beginning with a circumstantial story of a plot to destroy the Monongahela Tin plant and ending with a tale of the removal of the largest plants of the United States Steel corporation to England. Between the two rumor again settled the strike in several ways. At headquarters cold denial was given to all the interesting stories. It was another day of peace in all the strike districts, although the general probability of trouble still holds good at the places where feeling runs high.

John Sternsdroff, a rougher from Richmond, who claimed that he was a member of the party of strike breakers brought to Monessen on Sunday by "Alabama Joe" Carter, was at strike headquarters yesterday. He said that Carter had entirely misrepresented the facts to him and that he had slipped out of the works the first time a chance presented itself. He says 14 men left Richmond, that five deserted en route and that three left when he did. He placed the number of the men now in the mill at 18 and said very little work was being accomplished. The strikers welcomed Sternsdroff and were elated over his statement. When he told them that another party was being formed to come north, they took steps to head it off.

According to the strike leaders, only 20 men who were formerly members of the Amalgamated association have gone to work in mills that are now being operated partly or in full with nonunion men. The steel managers place the number of desertions at a higher figure.

Assistant Secretary M. F. Tighe of the Amalgamated association said that he was still of the opinion that most of the men in the South Chicago mills would be out before the end of the present week. He said that he had received word from the mills, but of a personal nature, and he could not give any of the details. President Shaffer said that the strike would be won by the strikers. He believed that when he started the strike, and he still believed it. He said that he was still prepared to discuss honorable terms of settlement with the steel corporation, but that he did not look for any move in that direction for some time to come.

President Theodore J. Shaffer of the Amalgamated association says that he has well defined plans to bring the great strike to a close. This is to be done by bringing about such a crisis in the differences between the steel corporation and the Amalgamated association as will force a settlement. Just how all this is to be accomplished is a mystery, but it will not be by arbitration or litigation.

In answer to questions about the numerous stories going the rounds of mediation or arbitration, Mr. Shaffer dismissed all by saying:

"We have not heard from the other side; we have not placed anything before them, and I know of nobody acting for either side or on any side."

Will Joliet Men Return?

JOLIET, Ills., Aug. 22.—Striking steel workers held another joint conference last night. They were addressed by Vice President Davis of Chicago. Nothing official could be learned of the proceedings, but persistent rumor is that the men are preparing to go back to work. It is said if notice is posted calling them back the men will go, and such notice is looked for by Sunday. The rod mill men may hold out, but the others will go back. Superintendent J. Y. Brooks of the American Steel and Wire company has resigned and will go to Pueblo, Colo., to take charge of the works of the Colorado Fuel and Iron company.

Five Killed by Explosion.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 22.—Five men were killed at Waterforks crib No. 3. An explosion of gas wrecked the shaft and let in tons of mud and water on the gang working at the bottom. The dead are: James Williams, A. Vallencourt, John Bert, Ray Trotochaud and Daniel Higgins. The force of the explosion blew seven of the steel cylinders lining the tunnel 40 feet into the air. Two men, Henry Coe and Vernon Snyder, who were in an air lock in one of the cylinders blown out, miraculously escaped with their lives.

Mob Hanged a Negro.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Aug. 22.—Luke Hough, a negro, was hanged near Wadesboro, N. C., last night by a crowd of enraged citizens. His body was then riddled with bullets. His crime was criminally assaulting Miss Lena Keith. He slipped upon his victim while she slept and broke a chair over her head and then tried to cut her throat. The negro admitted his guilt.

Negro Elopes With Indian Girl.

PHILADELPHIA'S OIL BLAZE.

Many People Injured by the Collapse of a Tank.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 22.—By the collapse of a burning oil tank yesterday at the Atlantic Refining company's plant at Point Breeze, where a fire has been raging since Monday afternoon, about 100 persons—firemen, employees of the company and spectators—were more or less severely burned. Most of the cases were treated on the ground by ambulance surgeons, but a few of them were considered sufficiently serious to necessitate the removal of the victims to the hospital.

It was shortly after 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon when the tank careened and fell, the heavy iron sheathing separating at the seams, precipitating great quantities of blazing petroleum into Passyunk avenue. There was a wild stampede among the people in the vicinity, but many of them were badly burned by the fiery spray which fell among them.

Dikes were hastily thrown up by the firemen and employees of the company, and the blazing fluid was confined to an area of about two blocks on Passyunk avenue. At one time it was thought the flames would communicate with the purifying house of the United Gas Improvement company, which is separated from the oil works by a vacant lot. The burning oil overflowed the dikes to the lot, and only the most determined efforts saved the gas company's property. Trenches were dug, and eight lines of hose were kept constantly playing on the purifying house. It is feared that other exploding or collapsing tanks may cause the oil to flood the trenches, in which event it would be extremely difficult to save the gas works.

Two oil tanks are still in flames. On either side of one of them are two benzine tanks, which are in imminent danger. Lines of hose are constantly playing on the benzine tanks, but officials of the fire department express the fear that they cannot be saved.

The company's officials decline to state the number of tanks thus far destroyed, but it is said by the firemen that 15 have certainly been burned, and it is probable that the number is greater. The average quantity of oil in each tank is said to be about 20,000 barrels.

SIR THOMAS ARRIVES.

Confident That He Will Lift the Cup This Time.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—Sir Thomas Lipton, owner of Shamrock II, challenger for the America's cup, has arrived in this city. He met with the most cordial American reception. Indeed, the steamship Teutonic, on which he was a passenger, received one continuous ovation from Sandy Hook to her dock. Included in the party of Sir Thomas were George Lennox Watson, designer of the Shamrock; Hon. Charles Russell, who will represent the Royal Ulster Yacht club on the American cup defender; J. B. Hilliard, a prominent Clyde yachtsman; C. O'Malley, John Westwood and W. M. Duncan.

Sir Thomas comes to America for his second attempt to lift the cup cheerful and resolute. He had this to say to the newspaper correspondents:

"I am thoroughly delighted to be again in America, and I should be ungrateful if I did not say that I am thoroughly pleased with the reception that has already been given me. I think I can do better this time, for I have in Shamrock II a boat at least nine minutes faster over a 30 mile course than the Shamrock I, and the old boat during the trials on the other side was certainly five to ten minutes faster than when she raced in America in 1899. At any rate, we expect to make a good race against the American defender, whether she be Constitution or Columbia. I am hoping for a good breeze during the races, for certainly Shamrock II is something better than a light weather boat. Whatever the outcome I shall be thoroughly satisfied that the better boat has won, for I have a good opinion of American sportsmanship and the fairness of the New York Yacht club, under whose auspices the races are held. My recollection of my attempt to lift the cup two years ago is altogether a pleasant one, and I hope to cement the friendship then so happily begun."

Forestry In the Philippines.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—Captain G. P. Ahern of the Ninth United States cavalry, who is in charge of forestry work in the Philippine Islands by resolution of the Philippine commission, is in this city preparing to examine applicants for positions as foresters on Sept. 9. Six foresters, with salaries from $150 to $200 per month, are to be appointed. One of the qualifications is that applicants shall be graduates of forestry schools.

Georgia Negro Tragedy.

ALBANY, Ga., Aug. 22.—Bill Miller, a negro, shot and killed a negro woman and her daughter and mortally wounded her son on a plantation five miles from Newton, Ga. Miller attempted to persuade the woman's daughter to leave with him, and upon her refusing attempted to kill her family. Miller escaped.

MORTUARY STATISTICS.

Census Bureau's Figures Regarding the Death Rate.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—The census bureau has made public the mortality statistics for the year 1900. W. A. King, chief of the vital statistics division, says:

"The most important feature of the results presented is found in the decrease in the general death rate in the registration area of 1.8 per 1,000 population, a decrease of nearly 10 per cent, and the decrease in the rates from the particular diseases to which the general decrease is due.

"The effect of the advances made in medical science and sanitation and in the preventive and restrictive measures enforced by the health authorities is still more strikingly shown in the comparative rate for the registration cities of the country taken together. In 1890 the death rate in 271 registration cities of 5,000 or more population was 21 per 1,000. In 1900 the rate was 18.6 per 1,000 in 341 cities of 8,000 population and upward, a reduction of 2.4 per 1,000. The gross population of the cities comprehended was 14,958,254 in 1890 and 21,660,631 in 1900.

"The decrease in the general death rate and in the rates due to diseases most frequent in the early years of life on one hand and the increase in the rates due to those diseases occurring generally at advanced ages on the other mean also increased longevity.

"The average age at death in 1890 was 31.1 years; in 1900 it was 35.2 years.

"The total number of deaths reported in 1900 was 1,039,094; in 1890 it was 841,419. The increase was therefore 197,675, or 23.5 per cent. As the percentage of increase in the population was but 20.7, this indicates a more complete return of deaths than in 1890.

"The record of deaths upon which these statistics are based was obtained from two different sources—namely, the return by the enumerators of deaths reported to them at the decennial enumeration and the registration record of deaths recorded under local laws and ordinances."

The total deaths in the various states and territories for 1900 are as follows:

Alabama, 25,699; Arizona, 1,223; Arkansas, 22,518; California, 22,506; Colorado, 7,428; Connecticut, 15,422; Delaware, 3,075; District of Columbia, 6,304; Florida, 6,482; Georgia, 26,941; Idaho, 1,242; Illinois, 61,229; Indiana, 33,386; Indian Territory, 5,286; Iowa, 19,573; Kansas, 16,261; Kentucky, 27,091; Louisiana, 20,953; Maine, 12,148; Maryland, 20,422; Massachusetts, 49,756; Michigan, 33,572; Minnesota, 17,005; Mississippi, 20,251; Missouri, 38,084; Montana, 2,188; Nebraska, 8,264; Nevada, 438; New Hampshire, 7,400; New Jersey, 32,735; New Mexico, 2,674; New York, 130,268; North Carolina, 21,068; North Dakota, 2,287; Ohio, 53,362; Oklahoma, 3,181; Oregon, 3,396; Pennsylvania, 90,199; Rhode Island, 8,176; South Carolina, 17,166; South Dakota, 3,088; Tennessee, 30,572; Texas, 34,160; Utah, 3,079; Vermont, 5,829; Virginia, 25,252; Washington, 4,910; West Virginia, 9,588; Wisconsin, 24,928; Wyoming, 767.

SITUATION AT PANAMA.

United States Consul's Report to the State Department.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—Consul General Gudger, at Panama, informs the state department, under date of Aug. 12, that there has been no change in the political situation on the isthmus, so far as he can observe, since his last report. He states that the revolutionists are still within a short distance of the railroad line and that the government has made no effort so far to dislodge them.

For the week preceding his report a guard of 50 men had been sent with each passenger train, but at the time of writing the guard had been withdrawn owing to the objections raised by the company, the railroad officials fearing it might invite attack.

The following dispatch has been received here from General Eloy Alfaro, president of Ecuador, dated Quito, Ecuador, Aug. 21:

"War between Colombia and Venezuela is improbable. The union of the Conservatives in both republics with a view of exercising absolute control has led to conflicts of a transitory character.

"The press strongly condemns any armed intervention in the internal affairs of the republics."

Peace Reigns In Nicaragua.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, via Galveston, Aug. 22.—Nothing is known here that would justify the report circulated in the United States that General Alban, governor of Panama; Manuel Calderon and others had organized an expedition against Nicaragua and that information regarding the movement had reached President Zelaya. Nicaragua is in a state of profound peace, and President Zelaya is taking a vacation in Granada.

President's Visit to Buffalo.

BUFFALO, Aug. 22.—It was announced last evening that President McKinley, accompanied by Mrs. McKinley, Dr. and Mrs. Rixey and other members of his household, will arrive in Buffalo on the evening of Sept. 4. They will be met at the station and conducted in carriages to the home of John G. Milburn, president of the exposition company, where they will remain during their stay in the city. On the morning of presidential day, Sept. 5, at 11 o'clock the president will be escorted by a body of mounted troops to the Lincoln parkway gate. There he will be met by the entire military contingent of the government on the grounds, by the Sixty-fifth and Seventy-fourth regiments of this city and the Marine band of Washington. The parade will then form and march over the Triumphal bridge to the west esplanade of the exposition grounds.

Iowa Democratic Ticket.

DES MOINES, Aug. 22.—The Democrats of Iowa here nominated the following ticket on a platform reaffirming the national platform adopted July 5, 1900, at Kansas City, with the addition of a plank on state issues demanding reform in taxation laws, the repeal of the mulct liquor law and the enactment of local option license law: Governor, Thomas J. Phillips of Ottumwa; lieutenant governor, G. E. Ferguson of Logan; judge of the supreme court, John Shortley of Dallas county; superintendent of schools, W. P. Johnson of Carroll; railway commissioner, A. C. Brice of Bedford.

Pittsburg Phil Sells a Horse.

SARATOGA, Aug. 22.—G. E. Smith (Pittsburg Phil) yesterday evening sold to Stephen Sanford & Son of the Hurricane stud his stallion Isidor, by Amphion, out of imported Isis, for a price said to have been $20,000. A condition was made that the horse shall never be raced again.

FRANCE CUTS PORTE

Secret Diplomatic Relations at Constantinople.

THE SULTAN'S BREACH OF FAITH.

Ottoman Government Accused of Violating Its Word Regarding Settlement of the Quays Dispute. France's Position Explained.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 22.—The French embassador, M. Constans, has notified the sultan's first secretary that all diplomatic relations between France and Turkey are broken off and that the embassador has informed his government to this effect.

M. Constans communicated directly with the sultan because the latest negotiations were transacted with the sultan personally.

The embassador justifies his action on the ground that the sultan broke his direct personal promise given to M. Constans at an audience in the Yildiz palace Thursday regarding the purchase of the quays and the settlement of the disputed French claims.

The foreign minister also gave formal assurances that the agreement would be carried out, so in view of this double breach of faith M. Constans holds that it is impossible for France to continue diplomatic relations with Turkey.

THE POSITION OF FRANCE.

How the Trouble With Turkey Was Brought About.

PARIS, Aug. 22.—A high official of the foreign office yesterday informed the correspondent of the Associated Press that the exact situation at Constantinople is as follows:

The sultan, in the last audience which he granted to M. Constans, French embassador, agreed to send the latter on the same or the following day a document giving complete satisfaction to France regarding the claims of French citizens in the matter of the quays, in accordance with the terms arranged between the sultan and M. Constans verbally.

Instead of doing this, the sultan waited until Tuesday, when he sent M. Constans a document in which the terms differed essentially from those arranged at the audience.

Thereupon M. Constans declined to negotiate any further or to hold other communications with the porte and referred the matter to the French foreign office. His dispatch to that effect arrived Tuesday night.

As the matter stands relations between M. Constans and the porte are broken off, but France and Turkey are still in diplomatic relations through the Turkish embassador at Paris.

"If the sultan does not keep his promises which he made at the last audience," continued the foreign office man, "we shall have to recall M. Constans and send the Turkish embassador his passports. A solution one way or the other is probable within the next two days."

Replying to a question, the official said: "No naval action on the part of France has yet been decided on. The stories in the papers to the effect that French warships are under orders to be in readiness to proceed to the Bosporus have no foundation in fact. Such a measure might, of course, become necessary, but that eventuality has not yet been considered by the French government."

The dispute between France and Turkey centers on the porte's refusal to allow the Quays company, which is a French concern, to enjoy the rights it claims under a convention with Turkey. The sultan has made determined efforts to obtain possession of the quays at Constantinople, and it was stated on Aug. 4 that negotiations for their purchase were in progress. It was said at that time that the sultan regarded as highly dangerous the facilities afforded for landing and embarking passengers at Constantinople. Later it was claimed by the Turkish embassy in Paris that the Quays company was really an Ottoman concern, though much French capital was invested in it.

A little over a week ago the sultan, while agreeing to give compensation for the property of the Quays company, insisted on the right of Turkey to purchase the concession. Dispatches published yesterday stated that the sultan had failed to carry out his promises to M. Constans and that the latter had intimated to the porte that unless the matter were settled by Monday noon relations between France and Turkey would be broken off. The sultan promised a settlement by Tuesday noon, but failed to keep his promise.

London Approves French Action.

LONDON, Aug. 22.—The morning papers today, commenting upon the Franco-Turkish situation, consider that the action of M. Constans was fully justified. They do not anticipate any serious results, believing that the sultan will ultimately yield.

The New Shovel Trust.

BOSTON, Aug. 22.—The promoters of the shovel combine which was recently formed under the laws of New Jersey have issued a statement here. The statement in part is as follows: "A consolidation of the principal shovel manufacturers has been effected under the name of the Ames Shovel and Tool company of New Jersey, with a capital of $5,000,000, consisting of $3,000,000 preferred and $2,000,000 common shares. The promoter was John H. Parks of Boston and New York." There are about 14 companies in the United States, and those forming the combine are said to make more than three-fourths of all the shovels used in this country.

Says He Is Innocent.

OKLAHOMA CITY, O. T., Aug. 22.—William Favors, the negro porter under arrest here charged with the murder of Miss Wild at Pierce City, Mo., refuses to go back to that place without requisition papers. He insists that he can prove an alibi. A hundred or more negroes of this city have interested themselves in Favors' behalf and will aid in keeping him here until the likelihood of a lynching at Pierce City has passed.

Killed In Trolley Crash.

CAMDEN, N. J., Aug. 22.—A Reading railroad train ran into a loaded trolley car on the Camden and Gloucester road last night. Mrs. Albert Winter of Camden was killed almost instantly, her daughter Blanche, aged 14 years, had her skull fractured and will die, and Phoebe Jones of Camden had concussion of the brain and will probably die. Four others were injured, but not seriously.

Borough Tax Rate.

There is every prospect that the borough tax rate will take a tumble of a few points this year. Assessor E. M. French has made a statement to that effect, and anyone who has kept posted with borough affairs can easily see that such a thing will soon come to pass. The facts are these.

In fixing the annual tax budget, the Borough Council settled on the same amount as was required to run North Plainfield's affairs a year ago. There has, however, been an increase in the assessed valuation of borough property, amounting to about $225,000.

Owing to the fact that the Legislature has devoted part of the surplus in the State treasury to meeting the expenses of the State schools, the requirements of that department will not be so heavy and North Plainfield's share will be decreased as has been the case in other municipalities. The only thing to figure on is the county tax and that will probably remain about the same.

If the borough and county requirements remain the same, the State school tax is lessened and the amount, on which all this is to be raised is increased, there is no other alternative but to decrease the tax rate to conform with the changed requirements. Thus it can be seen that residents of the borough will not be required to pay as much as they have been paying.

Just how much the reduction will be, it is impossible to say until the meeting of the Somerset County Board of Assessors is held and the county rate fixed. It is also probable that the Somerset County Board will follow the example of the others throughout the State and fix the rate in the various municipalities who go to make up the county. There has, so far, been no expression of opinion on the part of the borough officials as to how they like the idea of the board taking the fixing of the tax rate out of their hands.

Just a word to the Plainfield merchants. The success of your fall trade depends to a great extent upon your advertising. This is the time to think it over carefully and decide just what your fall campaign is to be. And while you are considering it, don't forget that The Daily Press has served the people for fourteen years while other papers have come and gone. Its readers are intelligent people, those you want to reach. Notice, too, that the largest local advertisers show a decided preference for The Daily Press. There is no other local paper which carries near as many "cent-a-word" ads as does The Daily Press. Remember these things when you decide what you will do this fall.

Some of the politicians of Asbury Park are wondering what they are to do this fall about filling nominations for municipal offices and getting an independent ticket in the field by petition. The Meeker Act does not say what is to be done with the nominations or what to do in case of nomination by petition. There is no doubt but that the Meeker Act will work toward keeping municipal elections on partisan lines and eliminate the independent features which have heretofore played a prominent part in charter elections in Plainfield as well as in Asbury Park or any other city in the State.

The development of the advertising interest, remarks the Philadelphia Record, has been so remarkable that it has commanded the attention of the American Statistical Society, to which Dr. Sidney A. Sherman has made a report with the following estimates: Amount spent for newspaper advertising in 1867, about $10,000,000; in 1880, about $39,000,000; in 1890, about $71,000,000; and in 1900, about $150,000,000. A large part of this increase has been due to the conversion of many varieties of business men to a belief in the need of publicity.

The reflections cast upon the sportsmanlike conduct of the baseball nine of the police force was utterly uncalled for. It certainly does not speak well for the spirit of the Elizabeth men. Conroy is an officer of the city, sworn in by the Mayor, and there is no question about his eligibility to the team. It is certainly a very mean and contemptable spirit which would prompt any such statement as was made in the Elizabeth Leader and credited to a member of Elizabeth's police force.

The Republican county committee was wise in its selection of a place for the annual clam bake of the Union county Republicans. It is to be held at Recreation Park, that trolley resort located in the woods back of Westfield. The warring factions of the party will be kept so busy fighting the mosquitoes that they will not have time to devote to each other.

If all the new storm sewers are as effective as the one on Park avenue, which drains the street under the railroad bridge, they will certainly have a mission in Plainfield. That Park avenue sewer is greatly appreciated every time a heavy shower visits this locality.

The Union county Democrats are going to keep away from Jersey when they have their annual outing. They have selected New York State as the scene of their gastronomical performances. Incidentally, they will plant sundry little booms.

The Union county Republicans have a regular little habit of mustering aliens at the county court every fall not long before election time. A committee is going to be appointed this year to gather in these candidates for citizenship.

There are a few places about the city where weeds have been allowed to grow along the sidewalks. For the sake of appearances it would seem as though property owners ought to keep these unsightly things off the highway.

A press despatch says that Newark has been promised even more mosquitoes than usual during the next six weeks. Real comforting for Newark, isn't it?

Poor Paterson. It will take that city some years to live down the reputation which it has undeservedly earned of late.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short and Gossipy Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

Some travellers on the Plainfield-Elizabeth trolley line have noticed of late that there is one car in particular that does an uniformly good business. This fact is not because of the time at which it makes the trips, nor because it is any more luxurious than the others. On the contrary it is said to be due to the presence of a handsome young conductor, who has charge of this particular car. An unusually large percentage of the passengers are fair young women, and hence the attraction is obvious. Watch out for the car.

INTERESTING NOTES FROM PLAINFIELD'S SUBURBAN TOWNS.

Daily Budget Of News Gathered By The Daily Press' Corps of Special Correspondents.

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence.)

Dunellen, August 22—Judge Strong had intended to sentence William Brower, of the borough, yesterday, but put it off until later. He has decided to send the boy to the Rahway Rormatory, but desires to look up the correct form of commitment. Young Brower stands a good chance of receiving the questionable honor of being one of the first guests at the new reformatory.

Rockview Council, No. 130, D. of L., will hold a dime sociable at the residence of George Richardson, this evening. All are invited and a good attendance is expected.

Fred Stilger and Fred Wrage spent yesterday at Somerville. It is rumored that the two Wrages will come back, and that the Goath building will be leased.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Terry and family, of Westfield, are spending the day at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Terry.

The two-year-old child of David Mundy is very ill with cholera infantum. Doubts are entertained about his ultimate recovery.

Unclaimed letters, addressed to Mrs. Phebe Shangle and Dominco Paglio, are advertised at the post-office.

Mrs. Emily Apgar has returned home after a visit with her daughter, Mrs. Sherman Cooley, of Flemington.

Mrs. Everett Gorden has returned home from Elizabeth where she was entertained by her daughter.

The Misses May and Lizzie Martine, of Marlboro, are being entertained at the home of Lewis Mickle.

Mrs. J. Newton Apgar is entertaining her mother, Mrs. Campbell, of Martinville.

Mrs. Charles Ross spent yesterday with relatives in Somerville.

Mrs. A. F. Sampson is visiting friends in New York today.

William Liable is recovering from a severe attack of chills.

Robert Craig is spending two weeks at Atlantic City.

NEW MARKET

(Special Correspondence.)

New Market, August 22—Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Fletcher, of Boston, have returned home after a visit with his parents, Rev. and Mrs. Frank Fletcher.

Frank O. Nelson and David J. Perrine were drawn for the September term of the petit jury by Sheriff Barclay.

The Middlesex and Somerset bridge committeee met this morning to inspect the superstructure of the new bridge.

Miss Mamie Hunt is spending her vacation at the Delaware Water Gap.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

(Special Correspondence.)

Scotch Plains, August 22—John King, of Fanwood, was brought before Justice Clark Wednesday evening on a warrant sworn out by Frank Eller, his son-in-law, a month ago. The charge was disorderly conduct and drunkenness. He was fined $5 and costs. The amount, $7.80, was paid by Frank Eller.

The Mountain Side Club is making preparations for a clambake to be held August 25, at a secret resort in the mountains.

The regular weekly prayer meeting of the Baptist church will be held tomorrow evening.

Walter Holden has returned home after a week's outing at Lake Hopatcong.

Twilight Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., will meet in the town hall this evening.

Mrs. W. D. Gere has returned home from a visit with friends in Brooklyn.

Mrs. Stites Parse, of Front street, is slowly improving from her late illness.

Miss Nancy Wade is spending a few days with friends in New York.

Lyon Walpole is entertaining relatives from Jersey City.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

(Special Correspondence.)

South Plainfield, August 22—For the second time within a year the license of Frank A. Poling, formerly of South Plainfield, was transferred by Judge Strong. May 24, it was transferred to Dennis P. Dyer, and yesterday to William A. Norman. Lawyer Freeman Woodbridge made the application.

Camp 41, P. O. S. of A., sent as delegates to the annual State convention, at Phillipsburg, G. W. Smith, Charles Brantingham, and Thomas Gage. The session was held yesterday.

Rev. J. F. Finner, of North Carolina, preached at Piscataway town, yesterday afternoon, at a camp meeting. Another meeting will be held Sunday.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May Be Of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

The Hunterdon County Board of Freeholders has given the Women's Club, of Flemington, permission to erect a public drinking fountain in front of the Courthouse. But if the club members are wise they will not be in too great haste to commence work. At the next meeting the board is as likely as not to reconsider its action and refuse consent unless the club will agree to pay rent for the ground occupied by the fountain.—Newark News.

* * * * * *

Paterson naturally objects to be advertised as synonymous with Hell, N. J., and she cannot be blamed. The metropolitan press is indefatigable in giving the reputation of the city a durable coat of black enamel, and, while the process has afforded considerable amusement to neighboring cities, it has gotten beyond the point where it should afford any amusement to anybody. The State press should take the hint and resist the tendency to get off unholy allusions to Paterson. There are 100,000 quiet, respectable people living there, and their feelings should be consulted.—Passaic News.

* * * * * *

It is a rather appalling fact that the pension roll of this country now contains about a million names, and that we have paid since July 1, 1790, $2,763,350,033, of which $2,666,904,587 has been paid since July 1, 1865. It will be a "round" three billion before the next presidential election. There are still on the pension rolls 8,655 survivors and 13,124 widows credited to old wars prior to 1861. There is still one survivor of the war of 1812 on the list. Many of the old veterans having a "habit of marrying," and they keep at it as vacancies occur, generally choosing young women, which accounts for the large number of soldier's widows on the lists of all our wars. Taking survivors and widows together there are 964,702 pensioners of the Civil War. The Spanish War has thus far enrolled 5,604 pensioners. The only way that the pension list can be ultimately reduced is for us to keep out out of war, and this is a propositon worth pondering.—Paterson Press.

Church Picnic.

The members of St. Peter's Evangelical Lutheran church intend holding a picnic this afternoon in Mrs. Koch's grove at Watchung. It will commence at 2 o'clock and last until late in the evening. Ample refreshment has been provided for everyone, and friends of the church will be welcomed.

In Honor of Her Guest.

Miss Josie Butscher, of West Fourth street, gave a delightful party to a number of friends, last evening, in honor of the departure of her guest, Miss Elsie Zoller, of New York. The guests made merry for several hours with games, music and dancing. Refreshments were served at the close.

After Delinquents.

Constable Mattox is very busy now adays chasing delinquent taxpayers. He finds it difficult some times to get the tax warrant in the hands of the proper person. He is so well known that the delinquent has little trouble in dodging him, thus putting him to much inconvenience.

One on the Book Agent.

The woman had her arms in the tub, and was fiercely scrubbing one dirty garment after another. Book agents don't often penetrate to that part of Chicago, but this one did. He knocked on the front door until he was tired, and then he went around to the back door. The woman was bobbing up and down over the washboard.

"Good morning, madam," said the book agent, pleasantly.

"Good mornin'," said the woman, shortly.

"Pleasant day," observed the book agent, sparring for an opening.

"Good enough," answered the woman.

"Excuse me, madam," said the book agent, "but I have here a work that I would like to show you."

"Have you?" answered the woman. "Well, I've got a lot of work that I'd like to show you." She took one soapy hand out of the tub and waved it at a great pile of dirty clothes.

"That's my work," went on the woman. "If your work can beat that, all right; if it can't, why, skip out."

The book agent skipped.—Chicago Tribune.

Scarcity of Platinum.

The scarcity of platinum is beginning to cause some concern among the electrical manufacturers of the country. For about five years the price of this valuable metal has steadily risen, until to-day it is listed at a higher price than ever since its discovery, and every indication points to still higher prices. Platinum is now quoted at about $36 an ounce, about twice the quotation of gold, while five years ago it sold as low as five dollars an ounce. Since the flooding of the plantinum mines in the Transvaal, which occurred after the breaking out of the Boer war, manufacturers have had to rely on Siberia for their supply of the valuable metal. Some little hope was held out that platinum would be found in Alaska and other northern mining countries, but no such discoveries have been made.—Western Electrician.

Corn Oil.

The corn grain has, in addition to its starch element, a tiny germ in which lies its life principle. This germ was formerly separated and thrown aside as waste. Lately it has been found that this germ is rich in oil which can be utilized. The germ is now separated from the starch and crushed. The oil gathered from it finds a ready market, and within the last few years millions of dollars' worth of this oil has been exported to Europe. After the oil is taken from the germ the gluten left in the cake is used for varnish and the residue is used for cattle food.—Detroit Free Press.

Not a Synonym.

Words that are synonyms won't always apply in mercantile dealings. An amusing instance of this happened in a department store lately. An elderly priest, who evidently had the furnishing of a parish house in charge, accosted one of the aisle managers with a request to be directed to the counter where "frauds" were sold. This was a new one on the manager, and his puzzled expression brought the priest to a realization of his mistake. "I beg your pardon; it is 'shams' I mean," he said, and he was then smilingly directed to the bed linen counter.—Philadelphia Record.

A Bloodhound Man.

A bloodhound man has been discovered by a Greek doctor. This is an individual whose scent of smell is so keen that he can recognize his friends at a distance of several feet, and when he is blindfolded. One scientific fact resulting from this highly developed sense is that all the members of the family have a characteristic odor, and that each family has its distinctive odor.—Chicago Chronicle.

Collecting Papal Coins.

The pope is not allowing the young king of Italy to pick up all the coin collections in the Italian market, says the New York Tribune. Six thousand pieces, containing many rare papal coins, which were collected by Cardina, Randi, have been bought by Pope Leo and added to the fine collection in the vatican. Many fell into the cardinal's hands in 1862 for their weight in silver, when Pope Pius introduced the French monetary system and the old coins were retired by the papal government.

UNDER-PRICE OFFERING OF DWIGHT MILLS ANCHOR BRAND SHEETS AND PILLOW CASES.

Thank the manufacturers for this rare opportunity to buy their high-grade unmatched goods at so low a price. To introduce their goods in this vicinity they have given us special inducements. We thus are enabled to offer these fine sheets and pillow cases to you at prices considerably under the regular rates.

Dwight Anchor Bleached Muslins

combined, in a remarkable degree, the qualities essential to secure the best service. The tendency of fine heavy bleached goods to become hard, to crack and to turn yellow in washing is well known. This is because water cannot easily penetrate and cleanse the fabric.

THE DWIGHT ANCHOR CLOTH

is readily washed, will remain soft and pliable, and consequently it will retain its clear white color, and will not crack.

These qualities, with the extraordinary weight and durability of the fabric, have given the Dwight Anchor fabrics deserved popularity wherever known.

During this Introduction Sale the following prices will prevail:—

Teach the Children Kindness To Animals

A cheering, beautiful sign of advancing civilization is the constantly increasing good will and consideration shown toward dumb animals. Cruelty to the helpless is a survival of savagery. Red Indians beat and starve their ponies and torture inhumanly their captives in war.

The individual in his development passes through the same evolutionary stages as the nations now civilized have done. In his childhood he is a cruel little savage unless his eyes are opened by some one older and wiser than himself, one who will teach him that pain inflicted on an animal or on a child younger and weaker than himself is sure to be visited on him later in some sort of punishment that fits his crime. The Buddhists and Brahmans of India believe that animals have souls which are reborn again on the earth in like manner with the souls of human beings. If a horse suddenly, without any apparent cause, turns upon a man and bites or kicks and tramples him to death, the Buddhist says it is because the man tortured the brute in a past incarnation, filled its animal soul with thoughts of fear and revenge, which never left it until it was able to wreak its vengeance long after, for—

Hatred ceases not with hatred.

Sounds fanciful and silly, does it, the Buddhist idea? Well, it is a thousand pities that so called civilized white people could not believe it too, for then the hearts of really civilized white people would not be harrowed up day by day with outrages and awful cruelties they can do nothing to prevent.

You never thought of it probably, but women are the ones directly responsible for cruelties practiced upon cats and dogs, upon horses, birds and cattle and all the tortured live stock procession that follows wailing and crying in the wake of the human race. Mothers and women teachers could develop the tenderness that is latent in the soul of every child. They could show the children that kicks, cuffs, burns, starvation and thirst hurt the animal exactly as much as they hurt the human.

If the history of every murderer could be traced back to his childhood, it would be found nearly always that he was a boy who stoned cats and kicked dogs, who neglected to give food and drink to helpless dumb animals fastened up so they could not get it for themselves.

The other day a lady saw a horse attached to a heavy wagon that was stopped near a drinking trough. The poor horse's mouth was parched with thirst, he was panting and quivering with the heat, he was striving desperately to reach the water, but the checkrein prevented. The fat brute of a driver sat upon his perch too lazy to descend and loosen the rein.

"Do give that horse his head so he can get a drink," said the lady. The two legged brute leered at her impudently and said, "Miss, you 'tend to your business and I'll 'tend to mine, see?" And the wretched, suffering horse got no drink. But the lady went at once and joined the Society For Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and got a badge showing her to be a member of it. Next time she sees a human monster refusing water to a thirsty horse she will show him that badge and he will be forced to loosen the checkrein or be arrested. The dumb protest of that one tortured horse did good to his suffering brothers, anyhow.

If the two legged beast who drove the four footed one had his story told from childhood, no doubt it would be found that when his mother moved away from one house to another she left the family cat to starve in the abandoned home or to be stoned to death by street boys. Probably, too, his woman teacher wore upon her hat the tender breast of a rare plumaged bird, torn from it to satisfy the whim of a bloody, awful fashion. Perhaps, too, his grown up sister wore a fur boa, with the head, natural and lifelike, of a mink or a fox dangling from it for ornament. Ornament! Heaven have mercy on the children whose mothers, teachers and sisters do these things!

Woman tender hearted? Woman merciful? Never say it again. And you, O women, do look beyond your noses and see these crimes you are responsible for! You will answer for them so sure as justice reigns.

If there is no society for the prevention of cruelty to animals in your neighborhood, form one. Let the children who can learn the most concerning the habits and anatomy of animals, the methods of treatment best adapted to them, be the banner members. It is true that if all the cats and dogs were allowed to live earth would be overrun with them, but for your own souls' sakes teach children that the way to get rid of these is not to stone and starve and kick them to death, but to put them out quickly and painlessly by drowning or by chloroform. In most towns there are now societies that, if notified, will take away and put a painless end to homeless and objectionable animals.

You women teachers—you who exercise your pupils in mathematical gymnastics till they can answer instantly when you ask them "if the nineteenth part of a hair measures four ten-thousandths of an inch, how much will the ninety-ninth part measure?"—have you ever asked them to explain to you the difference between a cat's claws and a dog's paws? Do you know it yourself? Have you ever taught them that to give a tug to a cat's tail is really giving a tug at her spinal marrow and hurts her horribly, even up to her brain? Have you ever told them that a cat's whiskers are as sensitive as their own eyes and eyelashes, and to touch them even gives her annoyance, while to pull these whiskers inflicts keen torture upon her? Or perhaps you didn't know that yourself.

And you, mothers, women teachers, grandmothers, grown sisters, aunts and all—do you ever gather the children around you and tell them stories of the intelligence and affection that animals display to those who treat them well, and that oftentimes human beings can learn from them, dumb though they are, as much as from books?

JANE STORY.

AFFECTED WOMEN.

Men Can See Through Their Little Mannerisms Every Time.

What's the use of acting differently with a man than you would with a woman? I mean what's the use of posing, of gushing and of pretending a whole lot of things which you are not. In a word, what's the use of being affected? Perhaps you think the man doesn't know the difference. That's where you make the greatest mistake of your life. Ask any man. He'll tell you. That's what I did the other day. The man answered most emphatically in the affirmative. "But how can you tell?" I asked. "Why, I can just feel it," he answered, "just as I can tell in business when a man is trying to bluff me." "Do you know," I went on, "I rather fancied that men liked silly, affected girls; they certainly seem to go with them more than they do with the sensible ones of my acquaintance." The man laughed. "Why, of course that kind of a girl amuses a man. It's as good as going to the theater, and it's all for his own particular benefit. Do you wonder that men get conceited when girls put themselves to so much trouble to please them? Why, I have known girls to pretend they were just the opposite of their natural selves just to make an impression on a man. It must have been hard work, too," he mused reminiscently.

"But doesn't a man ever get taken in and then find out his mistake after he is married?" "Not if he is a man of any brains," he answered. "Do you know how a wise man judges the character of the girl he thinks of marrying? He watches her when she is with other women. That's the sure test. Then there's another even better. He takes notice of the way the girl treats her chaperon or the elder women of the party—not how she treats them before him, but how she treats them when she thinks no one is noticing. Why, I remember a case which touches just upon that point. A friend of mine was engaged to a charming girl, and one of her most beautiful traits was the consideration with which she treated her old mother. It was nothing but dears and darlings and kisses and little attentions. Well, they were staying at the same summer hotel, and one hot night when the windows were all open he happened quite by accident to overhear a conversation she had with her mother. What a revelation it was to him! There was one engagement the less before the summer was over and one sadder and wiser man."

The day when men admired affectation is gone by with the time when they admired weakness in women. Men today like to look a woman straight in the eye and feel sure that she is as free from hypocrisy as the best of their own sex; for there is one masculine quality that a man does admire in a woman, and that is being "square."

But Armstrong had been studying the situation and was not easily daunted. He was a man whose opinion carried weight, and from the very first he had maintained that while 15,000 or 20,000 might be men enough to hold Manila, 50,000 might not be enough to subdue at once the forces of Aguinaldo in case they should turn upon the Americans, which, said he, placidly, they will most certainly do before we are a year older.

The Dudes, therefore, much to their disgust, were kept steadily at work. Other regiments, profiting by example, followed suit; but in others still, a small proportion of their membership, believing, as they said, that the "jig was up," took to lawless and unhallowed expression of their disgust and became thereby a nuisance to the neighborhood. San Franciscans, who had wept copiously when others sailed away, would have seen these patriots sent into exile without shedding a tear.

"Every man of this command will yet be needed and yet be sent," said Armstrong. So, too, did the veteran division commander, and the brigade took heart accordingly. The last of the regulars, with the recruit detachments for regiments already in the Philippines, had been shipped to Honolulu, there to await orders, and September seemed destined to go by without a change for the better in the prospects of the men still left in camp about the reservation. The Primes, convinced at last that the boy they sought was not to be found in California, had gone to Santa Anita visiting their kindred, the Lawrences; and Armstrong, buckling down to hard and constant work, was striving to persuade himself that he did not care that the mornings no longer brought with them the carriage and the fair face of that gentle girl; the department commander himself had gone to take a look at his new responsibilities in Hawaii; little Mrs. Garrison still held court, though with diminished retinue, at the Presidio, when one day, just as October was ushered in, there came a message from the adjutant general in town. Would Armstrong drop in at the office at the first opportunity? A matter of some importance had come up in the general's first letter from Honolulu, one on which Armstrong's opinion was desired; and the colonel, hoping for tidings of a chance to move even that far to the front, made immediate opportunity and took the first car for the Phelan building. The adjutant general looked up from a littered desk as Armstrong entered.

"It is good of you to come so promptly," said he. "I'm in a stew, to tell the truth, and I want your advice." Then he tapped his bell. "Excuse me to anyone who comes for the next ten minutes," said he to the attendant who entered. "I have business with Col. Armstrong."

No soner did the orderly vanish than the man of the desk whirled full on the man of the saddle. "Armstrong," said he, "you defended Gray and proved him innocent. What else has Canker against him?"

"Nothing that I know of—why?"

"Because he's got him in arrest again at Honolulu, and the chief is worked up over something. Look here—do you suppose—did you ever hear about certain letters that were stolen from Gen. Dayton's tent?"

"I heard—yes. Why?" And the look of disappointment which had appeared in the grave face of the colonel gave way to one of alert interest.

"Just read that," said the staff official, holding forth a letter. "Begin there at 'Later!'"

And Armstrong read, his forehead slowly grooving into something very like a frown.

"Later. I may have to remain here several days. Canker, with the —teenth, went ahead before news of the protocol could stop him; but he leaves here a number of sick—Lieut. Gray, charged with using threatening and insubordinate language to his commanding officer, among them; and Gray is down with brain fever. The doctors say he is too ill to be disturbed, and his side of the story is hard to get at, as the boy is too flighty to talk sense. From Canker's own admission I learned that he accused Gray of having knowledge of the whereabouts of that packet of letters stolen from Gen. Drayton's tent, and the youngster's reply was furious. Canker had to place him in arrest and prefer charges. When asked if he were sure of his ground in making so serious an accusation, he declared he had proof positive, at least he would have the instant they reached Manila, and his intention was to take the boy along with him to be tried there by court-martial, where 'no meddling outsiders,' as he said, could buy off witnesses. It was plain that he considered himself out of my jurisdiction, and that he resented my staff officer's questions. But Dr. Morrow had appealed to me in behalf of Gray. Said that if compelled to continue a prisoner aboard that transport under Canker's tyrannical rule Gray might be goaded into insanity. He was in a condition bordering on brain fever when Morrow came to see me, and in another day was raving. That settled it. I ordered him taken off and placed in hospital here, and Canker had to go without him. But I wish you would see Armstrong and tell him about Gray, so that I may know the whole situation as soon as I return. Canker evidently intended not to let us know his proofs. He probably believes that he will find a more credulous and complaisant listener in Drayton; but his insinuations pointed to Gray as at least an abettor in the theft, and he went so far as to say that if Armstrong could be brought before the court some very interesting testimony could be dragged from him, and, finally, that both Armstrong and Mrs.—well, the wife of a staff officer who is already well on the way to Manila—might be compelled to testify. I cannot bring myself to repeat more that he said; but he was in ugly and almost defiant mood, and I had to give him a dressing down. You may say to Armstrong for me that I do not believe one word of Canker's calumny at his expense or that of the lady in the case. But he declared his intention of laying the whole matter before Gen. Drayton immediately on his arrival, and it is best that Armstrong should be prepared. As for the lady, Canker said she and Armstrong were very close friends when they were at Fort Stanhope ten years ago, though they no longer meet as such.

Nowhere saw the mistress of the house.

"And that brings me to another matter. I declined positively to allow two or three ladies, wives of officers, to go on to Manila with Canker's command; and they said that as I had promised Mrs. Garrison a passage I had no right to refuse them. Pressed for their authority, two very estimable women told me that, at the Presidio two days before we sailed, Mrs. Garrison openly boasted of having my promise to send her on the very next steamer. Now, who is really the fabricator? I told her positively that, with my consent, she should not go; and she laughed delightedly, and said she only asked as a matter of form—the whole thing had already been settled. Just see to it that if any more transports start before my return no woman is permitted aboard except, of course, authorized nurses. Gray is a very sick boy tonight, but you might wire his father, saying nothing of the arrest, that the doctors are confident of his recovery in course of time."

Armstrong read these pages twice over before he looked up.

"How did this letter come?" he asked.

"By the Salvador yesterday."

"And the next mail for Honolulu?" queried Armstrong, rising from his chair and handing back the folded letter.

"The next mail closed an hour ago, man. The China sails at two. No other boat for a week. Where are you going now?"

"To camp for ten minutes, then to the Presidio."

"Oh, come over to the club and have a bite first?" said the adjutant general, rising and wriggling out of his uniform coat as he did so. "I won't keep you half an hour."

"That half hour may prove precious," answered Armstrong, already at the door. "Many thanks, all the same."

"Well, hold on. What am I to say to the general as to Gray and those letters?" asked the staff officer, intent upon the subject uppermost in his mind at the moment.

"You can't say anything that will reach him before he returns. You have just told me no other boat would start for a week. By that time he'll be coming home." And with that Armstrong let himself out and strode to the elevator, leaving his friend to cogitate on the question over his luncheon. It was decidedly that officer's opinion that Armstrong knew much more than he would tell.

The fat undertaker,
Who plants by the acre,
Poor victims of cough and cold
Is sighing and crying,
For we've all stopped dying
Since Brazilian Balm was sold.
And for those who desire
Not just yet to go higher
It is worth its weight in gold.

Potatoes Are a Food of Very Great Importance

They Constitute More Than Thirteen Per Cent. of the Total Food of This Country

THE potato, called in different regions white potato, Irish potato, English potato, or round potato, was first introduced into Europe between 1580 and 1585 by the Spaniards, and afterwards by the English about the time of Raleigh's voyages to Virginia. It is commonly believed to be a native of Chili. Wild potato plants closely resembling those cultivated to-day are still found there, though it is a fact worthy of mention that, as the potato has been modified by cultivation, it has largely lost the power of producing seeds, and the cultivated potato differs from the wild in seldom producing seed-bearing fruits. When first visited by Europeans, the aborigines in Chili and adjacent regions cultivated the potato for its edible tubers and had apparently long done so. It was probably introduced into the United States, especially into Virginia and North Carolina, toward the end of the sixteenth century. It is not surprising that the new food stuff should have grown rapidly into popular favor when we remember its prolific yield, superior keeping qualities, ease of propagation and agreeable flavor.

The valuable qualities of the potato were speedily recognized, and there are early records of attempts to determine its food value by means of chemical analyses. In 1795 Pearson reported "Experiments and observations on the constituent parts of the potato root." Einhof, in 1805, published analyses of the potato, as did also Vauquelin in 1817. In America, analyses of the potato were reported some 50 years ago by Emmons. These investigations were useful at the time, although they were not made by the methods generally followed to-day. This was necessarily the case, as the subject of the chemistry of nutrition is of comparatively recent growth. In later years many studies of the composition and food value of the potato have been made in this and other countries.

CHANGES IN STARCH CELLS IN COOKING.

a. Cells of a raw potato with starch grains in natural condition: b, cells of a partially cooked potato; c, cells of a thoroughly boiled potato.

The edible portion is made up of 78.3 per cent. water, 2.2 per cent. protein (total nitrogenous matter), 0.1 per cent. fat, 18.4 per cent. carbohydrates (principally starch), and one per cent. ash or mineral matter. Of the carbohydrates, 0.4 per cent. is made up of crude fiber and materials which in some of their modifications constitute the cell walls of plants and give them a rigid structure. The above figures, like others for composition of food materials, represent general averages, from which there are wide variations in individual specimens. Though the skin, cortical layer, and flesh differ somewhat in composition, they all resemble more or less closely that of the whole tuber.

The principal ways of cooking potatoes are baking, boiling and frying, or some modifications of these processes. The objects sought are principally to soften the tissues and render them more susceptible to the action of the digestive juices and to improve the flavor. Just why cooking changes the flavor as it does has apparently never been made the subject of investigation. In potatoes, as in other foods, the cooked starch is more agreeable to the taste than the raw. Possibly also there are volatile bodies of more or less pronounced flavor, which are removed or produced by the heat of cooking. The physical condition of the potato is much affected by heat. In the raw potato the separate starch grains are inclosed in cells with walls composed of crude fiber, a material resistant to digestive juices. If potatoes were eaten raw, the digestive juices would not reach the starch as easily unless the cell walls happened to be ruptured mechanically, as in mastication. Heat, however, expands the water present, ruptures the cells and breaks up the starch, expanding the granules, which, when raw, consist of tightly-packed concentric layers, to a mass of much less solid structure.

In considering the nutritive value of any food, the digestibility must be taken into account, for it is what the body can absorb from any given material as it passes through the digestive tract, rather than chemical composition, which determines food value. The digestibility of potatoes has been frequently studied. Some years ago Rubner kept a Bavarian soldier who was used to eating large quantities of potatoes on a potato diet for two days. The potatoes were boiled and eaten with salt or with vinegar and oil as a salad. The carbohydrates, the principal nutritive material in the potatoes, were quite thoroughly assimilated. As is usually the case, the digestibility was determined by deducting from the total nutrients present in the food the quantities excreted in the feces. The protein was not well digested. Similar results were obtained by a later German investigator, though in this case the protein was somewhat more thoroughly digested. In this experiment about three-fourths of the crude fiber present was found to be digestible. A number of experiments on the digestibility of potatoes were also made in St. Petersburg by a Russian investigator with three healthy men. Each test was divided into two periods. In one a simple mixed ration was eaten; in the other the food consisted of cooked potatoes only—baked, boiled or fried in oil. It was found that 93 per cent. of the total dry matter (which in the potato consists largely of starch) was digestible; of the total nitrogen present, 58 per cent.; and of the albuminoid nitrogen, 41 per cent. In experiments on the digestibility of potatoes by man, recently made at the Minnesota agricultural experiment station, it was found that 71.9 per cent. of the protein and 93 per cent. of the carbohydrates were digested or assimilated. In this experiment the potatoes were eaten with some eggs, milk and cream, so the conditions may be assumed to be about normal. How far the digestibility of any food is influenced by the foods eaten with it is a matter on which little reliable information is available.

The experiments cited above show little, if anything, regarding the ease or rapidity of digestion, and, indeed, trustworthy data of this sort regarding any food are not abundant. According to some investigations made a number of years ago by Beaumont, and which have been frequently quoted, roasted or baked potatoes require somewhat less time than bread for digestion in the stomach (conversion into chyme); boiled potatoes require the same time as bread, namely, 3½ hours. Too much importance should not be attached to these differences, as no account was taken of digestion in the intestines. As the digestion of starch takes place in the intestinal tract after the food has left the stomach, this is a matter of great importance in the case of starchy foods like the potato. The total length of time the potato remains in the body probably does not vary much with the different methods of cooking.

According to statistics obtained in the large number of dietary studies made in this country, potatoes constitute about 13.7 per cent. of the total food consumed by the average American family, and furnish not far from 3.9 per cent. of the total protein and ten per cent. of the total carbohydrates.

The potato is a staple article of diet in almost every household. The universality and extent of its consumption would seem sufficient to prove it to be a wholesome and nutritious food. The statement, however, is frequently met with in popular articles that potatoes are not wholesome. So far as can be learned this is purely a gratuitous assumption. While it is possible that there are persons with whom they do not agree, or who for some reason are compelled to forego starchy foods, there is no reason to suppose that potatoes are not as a rule a useful and wholesome article of diet.

The potato is essentially a starchy food, and eaten alone it would furnish a very one-sided, badly balanced diet, which would probably prove unwholesome to most people, as it has been estimated that man in health, performing a moderate amount of muscular work, is best maintained by a diet furnishing daily 0.25 pound protein in addition to fat and carbohydrates enough to make the total fuel value 3,500 calories, while a man without active physical labor might be well nourished with 0.20 pound of protein and 3,000 calories of energy. When the potato is eaten with meat, eggs, fish, etc., which are essentially nitrogenous foods, a well-balanced diet, which is most conducive to health and vigor, is secured.

JOSH BILLINGS SAYS:

"My son, observe the postage stamp. It's usefulness is in sticking to one thing."

If there is any virtue in sticking to one thing, my efforts to convince the people of Plainfield that, first, they should use ice as a matter of economy, and, second, use Hygeia ice, must in time be rewarded. Haven't my arguments been clear and logical? I think they have. So much so that every home in this town should be using Hygeia ice. A large majority of them are but there are that few yet who have not come to the conclusion that I am right about this ice business. I am expecting to see every family in town a user of Hygeia ice. If not this year, next year—anyhow some time. Come and join the great majority now.

SPORTING.

ON THE DIAMCND.

It is understood that Hand, the former left fielder on the Hope chapel team, will reasume his position on the nine.

James Montross, the Hope chapel pitcher, has made a record for himself this season, that many professionals would be proud of.

McGinley and Conroy comprise a battery that is depended upon to hold the Elizabeth batters in the game this afternoon between the police force nines of that city and Plainfield.

Westfield will play the Pearsalls, of Greenville, at Westfield Saturday. This should prove one of the best contests of the season. The Pearsalls always put up a small score game and have given the Equitable Life and the Perth Amboys good scares.

A number of Plainfield base ball "cranks" and "rooters" accompanied the Plainfield police nine to Elizabeth this afternoon, where they will witness the game with the Elizabeth cops' team. The local team is very confident and its sanguine expectations are shared by the "rooters."

Manager Monahan, of the St. Mary team, is endeavoring to obtain two games on Labor Day with a nine at Lambertville. The latter maasgement, however, has not yet stated positively just what its intentions are. Unless they come to terms within a short time Manager Monahan will accept the terms offered by the Elizabeth Y. M. C. A. to play its team at that place in the morning.

The next game of the St. Mary team will be with the Prospect Park Y. M. C. A., of Brooklyn, Saturday afternoon. The start will be made from this city about 2 o'clock and rooters desiring to accompany the team will be welomed. There is every prospect of a good game of ball as the Brooklyn team has been strengthened considerably since the St. Mary's defeated it early in the season.

At the present time Hope chapel is without a game for Saturday. Arrangements are being made for one, however, and it is quite likely that before the time arrives a match will be arranged. The manager is communicating with a team at Asbury Park and also with the nine representing St. Agnes' School, New Brunswick. If the Asbury Park team will play, the game will take place at the shore.

GOLF.

In the first match round in the Waumbek Golf Club tourney at Jefferson, N. H., yesterday, Walter B. Smith beat D. S. Rowland, 3 up and 2 to play; J. Whitney Baker beat A. W. Fisk 4 up and 3 to play. This play was for the Waumbek cup.

It is surprising with what rapidity the caddie boys on the local golf courses are improving in their play. It is a fact that many of the boys can easily defeat the regular members of the club for whom they caddie. Some of the scores made are quite remarkable. The older boys are very observing and readily pick up valuable points of the game.

ROD AND GUN.

A fishing party composed of Joseph Sattels, Eugene O'Reilly and Henry Wierenga, left this morning for Perth Amboy, where they will spend the day angling. As all three are familiar with the haunts of the fish in the Raritan bay, a good haul may be expected.

FLAG DAY.

Will be Observed by Sunday-School of Park Avenue Baptist Church Sunday Morning.

The Park Avenue Baptist Sunday-school is to have an especially interesting session Sunday morning at 9:30, the programme for which has been arranged by Superintendent George E. Hall, who has designated the occasion as "Flag Day." The superintendent believes that loyalty is one of the principles that should be taught in the school, and has taken this to emphasize the truth in a convincing manner.

The American colors are to be extensively displayed, and a souvenir programme of patriotic design to be presented to every one who attends. Music appropriate for the occasion is to be given by a selected Sunday-school choir, which in addition to leading all the singing, will render "The Star Spangled Banner" as the entire school salutes the flag.

The regular lesson of the day: "Abraham and Isaac," will be taught from the desk by Mrs. D. M. Runyon. A cordial invitation is extended to all to be present.

QUIET WEDDING.

Miss Winifred Curtis and Irving A. Hunting Married at New Market.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Market, August 22—A very quiet wedding took place at the home of C. E Custis, last evening, when his sister, Miss Winifred Curtis, of Westerly, R. I., was united in marriage to Irving A. Hunting, of Alfred, N. Y. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, of Plainfield, in the presence of a few intimate relatives and friends. The young people were unattended.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Hunting left for a wedding trip, which will include a visit to the Pan-American Exposition. The groom has another year to complete his course at Cornell University, at the end of which time they will go to housekeeping in western New York.

TO WED SOON.

Announcement Made of Coming Marriage of Miss Templin and Thos. MacDonald.

Announcement is made of the approaching marriage of Miss Mabel Templin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Templin, of North avenue, to Thos. MacDonald, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard MacDonald, of North Plainfield. The event will be celebrated Saturday, August 31, at the home of the bride.

The couple is well and favorably known in a large circle of acquaintances. Miss Templin has for some time past been soprano soloist in the choir at the First M. E. church, and Mr. MacDonald has also been a member of the same choir.

JURY EXONERATED HER.

Her Story That Child Was Born Dead Was Accepted.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Bound Brook, August 22—A coroner's jury empannelled by Dr. Field, of Millstone, yesterday exonerated the sixteen-year-old daughter of James Gillespie, of River road, from causing the death of a female child to which she gave birth, Tuesday. The infant was found dead in an outbuilding on the farm where she lived. As there were no marks of strangulation, the girl' story that it was born dead was accepted, and the verdict rendered was death from natural causes.

Will Meet Fridays.

At the meeting of Benevolent Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., held last evening it was decided to meet regularly every Friday evening in the Sons of Temperance rooms, Washington Hall. No other business of importance was considered. The next meeting will be held Friday evening of next week.

Once Lived in Plainfield.

Today's Tribune announces the death, in Brooklyn, of Mrs. Antonie J. J. Hodeppyl. Her husband was formerly a prominent resident of this city, living for many years on East Front street.

DEMOCRATS IGNORE DISTRICTS

COUNTY BOARD OF ELECTIONS NOW DRAWN INTO ELIZABETH MUDDLE.

Elizabeth Committee Sent In Election Officers for Old Districts—Board Took No Action.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, August 22—The Union County Board of Elections met yesterday in the Freeholders' room at the courthouse to receive nominations of election officers from the chairman of the Democratic and Republican county committees.

The names were forthcoming from the Democrats for all the cities in the county, including Elizabeth. The names submitted from the latter place, however, are for the twelve wards, as they now exist, the Democratic county committee ignoring the recent redistricting of Elizabeth by the Governor's Republican commission.

The board took no action, but decided to adjourn until September 4, and the clerk was instructed to notify the chairman of the Republican city committee of Elizabeth to send in the names it had selected by September 4.

The board has until September 11 to confirm the nominations made by both parties.

It was the opinion of members of the board that the Elizabeth muddle would have to be fought out in the courts.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. Charles Buygoine, of Philadelphia, is the guest of Mrs. A. B. Vail, of Duer street.

Max Goldstein, of Watchung avenue, has returned from a visit to friends at the shore.

Thomas Carty, Jr., of Orchard place, is confined to his home with an attack of intermittent fever.

Miss Mary Brown, of Washington avenue, has gone to Manasquan for a few days' visit with relatives.

Mrs. George Welda, of Hoboken, has returned from a visit to Mrs. Matthias Menzenbach, of Somerset street.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Coriell, of West Front street, have returned home from St. Johns and Halifax, where they have been spending a month.

Mr. Golden, formerly night operator at the North avenue station, but lately holding a similar position at Bound Brook, expects to return to Plainfield soon.

Stephen Rushmore, of the Johns Hopkins University, son of Dr. Rushmore, of Park avenue, is pursuing his studies during the summer vacation at Bonn, in Germany.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Paoli, of North avenue, was brightened this morning by the arrival of a son, who is destined to eclipse Garabaldi as a patriot.

Miss Alta McConnell, of Park avenue, has returned home from a several days' visit to New York, during which she attended the wedding of her friend, Miss Ada Games, of Manhattan avenue.

Miss Effie Conover, of 16 Jackson avenue, and Miss Gertrude Conover, of Duer street, left this week for Buffalo and the Pan-American Exposition. They will also visit Niagara Falls, Toronto and other places in Canada.

DISTRICT COMMITTEES ABOLISHED.

Change Made in Organization of Union County Democrats.

The Democrats of Union county have decided to completely reorganize their county committee, and have abolished the district committees of Elizabeth and Plainfield, making the members of these now members of the county committee. Under the change the total membership is increased from thirty-six to fifty-six. Elizabeth will have a representation of twenty-five, while in Plainfield the representation will be nine, one from each election district. The local members will hold a meeting soon, when plans will be perfected for the fall campaign.

Interested in Big Company.

James W. DeGraff, of Central avenue, and Edward and Foster Milliken, formerly of this city, but now of New York, are the incorporators of a million dollar company, which was launched at Newark yesterday. It is styled the Milliken Brothers, Incorporated, with $1,000,000 capital, $50,000 of which is paid in. The construction of bridges, ships, piers and tunnels, is the object of the company.

Plainfield Baby Entered.

Among nearly six hundred entries for the annual baby parade at Asbury Park which opened yesterday is the name of a Plainfield boy, Frank Stanley Pearson, aged two years.

NOT ONE OF WIRE THIEVES.

SO EDDIE "SMITH" WAS RELEASED BY POLICE THIS MORNING.

Proved Conclusively That He Was Not One of Men Who Stole Wire at Lincoln.

After two days' detention at police headquarters, Eddie Stodowiski, of Jersey City, was yesterday found guiltless of complicity in the Lincoln electric light wire theft. He was accordingly released. The kind-hearted police officials collected enough money among themselves to pay his fare home.

Stodowiski's complete innocence was finally established through a communication from Chief Murphy, of Jersey City. He stated that his detectives had positive proof that the boy was at his home Sunday night when the theft was committed. They also learned that, as the boy stated, he simply went for a ride on a Central railroad coal train Monday, because the factory where he worked had closed down. In addition to this evidence two Central railroad brakemen stated positively that Stodowiski was not the boy who had placed the wire on their train at Fanwood.

The local police force is still keeping a close watch for the thieves, but there is now but little hope of their capture being effected.

CABLES HERE.

Work Begun Today in Putting Telephone Wires Underground in The Borough.

After months of delay, the cables to be used in the underground telephone conduits on Somerset street and other thoroughfares throughout the borough, have arrived and will be placed in position immediately.

Manager Charles W. Runyon, of the local office of the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company, put a gang of men to work this morning getting matters in shape so that the cables may be speedily laid. Mr. Runyon states that in all probability the work will be completed within ten days. The order for the cables called for their delivery May 15, but the company making them could not fill the order by that time.

ENDEAVORERS VISITED.

Went to Westfield Fresh Air Camp Last Evening And Conducted a Meeting.

Half a hundred Endeavorers, members of the Hope and Warren chapel, paid a visit to the Fresh Air Camp at Westfield last evening and made the hearts of the little ones there happy by distributing fruits. A quantity of vegetables were also taken along and the children from the East Side of New York will enjoy these later.

The excursion was arranged by the society of Hope chapel. Rev. G. Kennedy Newell, who accompanied the delegates, led the prayer meeting at the camp. A number of Endeavorers from the two chapels took part in the service, and afterwards all inspected the arrangements of the camp.

PULLED OUT DRAW HEAD.

Accident to Freight Train Delayed Several East Bound Passenger Trains This Morning.

The pulling out of a draw head of the engine attached to the freight train, drawn by engine No. 495, which is an extra passing through here shortly after 6 o'clock, caused some delay in the passenger service, this morning. The accident happened just west of the Park avenue bridge, while the freight was going east on the fourth track. With the exception of the 7:26 express and the 7:29 local, which were stalled for some time, none of the trains were delayed.

NOT ASSESSED ENOUGH.

Mayor Jenkins Says Valuation of Local Corporation Should go Higher.

In examining the recently completed books of the local assessors last evening, Mayor Jenkins became convinced that the property of the Plainfield Street Railway Company, the Plainfield Water Supply Company and the Plainfield Gas and Electric Light Company, was not assessed at its full value. The property includes water mains, tracks, rolling stock, wire and buildings. He accordingly notified the assessors that their figures must be changed before their books are presented for final acceptance.

To Entertain Grand Officers.

Unity Lodge, No. 102, K. of P., met last evening and appointed a committee, of which Frank Humpston is the chairman, to make arrangements to entertain the Grand Lodge officers at a district meeting which has been called by District Deputy Frank Putnam for September 18 in this city.

GETTYSBURG, LURAY, AND WASHINGTON.

Personally-Conducted Tour via Pennsylvania Railroad.

This early Autumn tour covers a section of the country at once interesting and attractive. The battlefield of Gettysburg, with its hundreds of monuments; the picturesque Blue Mountains, touched with the first breath of frost; the Shenandoah Valley, reminiscent of Sheridan's Ride; the Caverns of Luray, one of Nature's wonder places, and Washington, the capital and political centre of the United States, offer a programme of delight.

The tour will leave New York and Philadelphia Saturday, September 14, in charge of one of the company's tourist agents, and will cover a period of five days. A chaperon, whose especial charge will be unescorted ladies, will accompany the party throughout the trip. Round-trip tickets, covering transportation, carriage drives, and hotel accomodations, will be sold at the extremely low rate of $25 from New York, $24 from Trenton, $23 from Philadelphia, and proportionate rates from other points.

Gus W. Faber is Now Credited as Being The Best Player in The Club.

SOME MATERIAL CHANGES.

LIST OF COMPETITORS AND THEIR HANDICAPS.

The Last Season Has Seen General Shakeup in The Handicaps—Greatest Improvement Shown by Senator Reed.

This summer has made some decided changes in the relative standing of the golfers of the Park Golf Club. A comparison of the handicaps at the opening of the season and now would show some remarkable differences. Several of the players who were last year among the best in the club have fallen way back and a number of former "duffers" have developed a good game which is beginning to make the older hands hustle to defeat them.

At present, Gus W. Faber is considered the best player in the club. When Morgan T. Townsend went away for the summer he had fallen considerably off in his game, while Faber was making a fine showing. W. de la R. Anderson, winner of the McCutchen cup two years ago, has played but very little and so cannot be counted on to show anything like his form of two seasons ago. Fred P. Taylor was another of the old players who was way off his game. The greatest improvement has probably been made by Senator Charles A. Reed, who now leads for the President's cup.

The present sytem of handicapping was tried for the first time this year and is based on the actual average scores made by the players. The handicap is figured on a gross score of 92 for a basis. At present, there is no scratch man, Gus W. Faber, with a handicap of two, being the lowest. The handicap list, revised to date, is as follows:

2—Gus W Faber.
7—J. H. Simpson, Morgan T. Townsend.
8—W. de la R. Anderson.
10—H. D. Hibbard.
11—Fred P. Taylor, Charles A. Reed.
13—Charles B. Morse.
14—Charles Dupee.
15—William A. Townsend.
17—Allan B. Laing, S. St. John McCutchen.
18—Rev. Dr. W. R Richards, Roger F. Murray.
19—Henry C. Wells, Arthur H. Serrell, Samuel Townsend.
20—Meredith Dryden.
21—Lester W. Hallock, George T. Rogers.
22—J. H. Howell.
23—William R. Faber.
25—Charles W. McCutchen, Donald A. McGee, Rev. J. O. McKelvey, W. F. Murray, Townsend Rushmore and J. W. Sandford.
27—Joseph L. Myers and Charles L. Nichols.
28—H. G. Phillips and Herbert S. Rogers.
29—William J. Buttfield.
30—Dr. H. K. Carroll, Gifford W. Cooley, W. A. Coddington, Charles E. Faber, Alex. Gilbert, George D. Hallock, A. H. Hull, F. Roland Horne, W. M. McGee, Henry A. McGee, Nelson A. Miller, C. E. Murray, Frank Rogers, Phillip S. Suffren, J. H. Studdiford, Aug. Van Deventer, O. O. Wheeler and George C. Worth.

ADVANCED A STEP.

Henry J. Beck, Foreman of Engines on The Central, Has Gone With Baldwin Co.

Henry J. Beck, one of the oldest engineers on the Central Railroad, and for some time past its road foreman of engines, has resigned his position to accept a more responsible one with the Baldwin Locomotive Works. Mr. Beck has spent all his life on the railroads and among railroad men. He has hosts of acquaintances all along the line of the Central who will be pleased to learn of his good fortune.

Last Chance.

Dont forget that the Warren chapel excursion to Asbury Park next Thursday, will be the last to that popular resort from Plainfield, this season. All arrangements have been completed to make it one of the most successful given this summer. If you wish to enjoy a day of healthful recreation, dont fail to attend.

Going To Harvest Home.

Several Plainfielderrs will attend the harvest home to be held under the auspices of the Reformed church at East Millstone, tomorrow evening.

LETTERS RETURNED.

Family of Howard Bennett, Who Joined the Navy, Cannot Locate Him.

The whereabouts of Howard Bennett, of East Third street, is not known by his parents, who have been caused much anxiety by the fact that nothing has been heard from the son in several months.

Mr. Bennett enlisted in the U. S. Navy and was supposed to have been on board of one of the war ships. Many letters have been written to him but they have all been returned. The young man's mother has even sent registered letters to him, and these have also been returned to this city. Persistent inquiries have been made concerning him and up to the present time no trace of the young man can be secured.

Mr. Bennett had very steady habits and not inclined to be wild. Why he has failed to let his folks know of his whereabouts is more than they can understand. Heretofore he has always been prompt in this matter.

GOVERNOR MAKES STATEMENT

REGARDING FRANKLIN MURPHY'S PART IN CARR-SWIFT CONTROVERSY

Says State Chairman Sent in Mr. Swift's Name Just The Same as Others Without Any "String."

In the course of its growth, the Carr-Swift controversy over the place in the Union County Board of Elections, has threatened to involve Franklin Murphy, the probable candidate of the Republicans for governor. The appointment of William C. Carr was made by the Governor after receiving the nomination from the chairman of the State committee, Mr. Murphy. Murphy had, in turn, received the nomination from the chairman of the county committee.

The story was beginning to gain circulation to the effect Mr. Murphy had broken faith with the county committee and sent in a different name from that forwarded to him by the county committee or else had sent in both names for the single place. This would, of course, reflect somewhat on Mr. Murphy and it was being used by his political enemies.

The matter was called to the attention of Governor Voorhees and the injury to Mr. Murphy pointed out. The Governor then made a public statement on the subject which is as follows:

"I have purposely refrained from discussing the Carr Swift incident because I believed it to be of too little significance. Its importance has been unduly magnified. Most of the reports as to the real facts are grossly misrepresented, and in the majority of cases, so far as they relate to Franklin Murphy, are the result of the vivid imaginations of his enemies or lukewarm friends.

"Possibly it may interest some people to know that Mr. Murphy sent in to the Governor the name of O. Addison Swift as a member of the County Board of Elections for Union county. The letter communicating the nomination was received at the executive office within the time required by law. Mr. Swift's was the only nomination for the office, and there was no 'string,' as has been alleged, to the nomination. It was submitted exactly in the same form as the names of all the others appointed were submitted. Mr. Murphy did not at that time, nor at any subsequent time, nominate Mr. Carr.

"To say any more than this about the matter is unnecessary. This much, however, is said in justice to Mr. Murphy, and not as excusing executive action. It is unnecessary to ask what I may think as to the propriety of the chairman of a Republican county executive committee questioning by legal proceedings an appointment made by the Governor of his party to a petty office, the salary of which is probably $300.

PENSION EXAMINER HERE.

Dr. Conover is so Pleased With Plainfield That He Talks of Locating Here.

Dr. Conover, of Red Bank, government pension examiner, has been in this city for the past few days examining applicants unable to appear before the regular board. In his spare moments the doctor has journeyed about the city until he has become greatly interested in Plainfield and talks of locating here. He is not only impressed with its excellent residential advantages, but it would be more central for him in his trips about the State.

Fire Protection For Whitehouse.

Whitehouse, Hunterdon county, is at last to have fire protection. A hydrant is to be established near the Jersey Central Railroad Company's tanks, with a supply and pressure sufficient to amply provide for the whole town in case of fire.

PLAINFIELD'S FINEST WENT DOWN TO DEFEAT.

But it Was a Great Game Nevertheless and Full of Thrilling Features.

ONLY PLAYED SEVEN INNINGS

ELIZABETH COMBINATION WON BY SCORE OF 13 TO 10.

Both Teams Went In to Win, But Plainfield's Expectations Failed to Materialize—Great Work by Higgins—The Score.

Once again the Plainfield police baseball team met the star aggregation of ball tossers, the Elizabeth "cops'" nine, yesterday afternoon, and once again was the local team defeated. The final score of 13 to 10 in the seventh inning, when the game closed, does not begin to tell the story of that unique contest, in the nature of a return game, which was played on the Y. M. C. A. grounds at Elizabeth.

Plays that would have made a National League crank shout himself hoarse with delight, mixed with plays that would have warranted the average manager of a nine in releasing more than half the team on sight, was the combination which made the game an interesting one and served to keep the enthusiasm at a high pitch throughout the contest.

The funny stunts, the thrilling plays and the evident determination of every man on the two teams to do or die, turned the base ball game into a theatrical performance of the variety sort. The bill was full of unparalleled features and the audience, composed of a lively lot of rival "rooters," showed its appreciation of the heavy efforts of the actors in the seven act comedy-drama.

From the time when the Plainfielders' orchestra of horn blowers struck up its music and McCarthy made his appearance at the bat until John Flynn was put out in the seventh inning good feeling prevailed and it was not confined to the spectators by any means. The popular captain of the Plainfield team had instructed his men that that game was theirs and all that was needed was to take it. Captain Schuler told his men the same thing and he took the precaution to place Ward in such a position that would prevent the visitors walking off with a victory.

The Plainfielders went to the bat first and started to work at a pace that almost prompted Captain Schuler in calling off the game on account of sudden dizziness. McCarthy was the first man up and he made a base hit, stealing second in short order. Then it was "Big Bill" Conroy's turn and he made himself famous on the spot. Conroy got his eye on an inshoot and sent the ball whizzing over the fence and into the suburbs of Elizabeth. He took the two bases and in raped McCarthy while the Plainfield "rooters" went wild with joy. The grand stand work did not end there, for McGinley was to be heard from and when he came up the trick was repeated. Conroy crossed home plate. McGinley got in and so did Totten later on. With the exception of the sixth this was the greatest inning for the Plainfield boys. The Elizabeth cops made three runs and when the inning closed the score stood 4 to 3 in favor of Plainfield.

In the second inning the bluecoats of the county seat forged ahead and retained the lead until the close of the contest, despite the plucky battle put up by the coppers of this city to wrest the victory from them. Ward, of the opposing nine, was in fine fettle and struck out nine men during the game. He was given good support as a rule and this largely accounts for the result. The Elizabeth men batted well and succeeded in placing their hits to advantage. Convoy made a two-base hit and Rabig also did clever work at the bat.

All the features were not confined to the Elizabeth team by a good deal. Plainfield, although defeated, showed considerable improvement over the former contest. McGinley's curves were gotten on to, however, but not so much as in the last game. The fielding of the local team was not as steady as it might have been, but with all some good plays were made. Overbaugh made two fine catches, one in the the second and the other in the fourth inning. He also did good work at the bat.

At the bat Higgins was the surprise of the day. He did not put the ball over the fence, but he got his first on a safe hit in the fourth inning which was a new order of events for him. McCarthy and Totten were among the other good batters.

In the sixth inning Plainfield started the merry-go-round and for a time it seemed as if there was some chance for a turn in the tide. It was then, however, that "Nick" Myers, the baseball player of bye-gone days, distinguished himself by "pushing the wind" for three strikes. Eight men were at the bat in this inning, but only three runs were netted, while Elizabeth got four. The game closed in the middle of the seventh after Plainfield had failed to score.

As a whole, the contest was an enjoyable one and the same friendly feeling, which characterized the former game, prevailed. Robert Swartz, of Elizabeth, umpired and gave satisfaction to both teams. The Elizabeth team treated the visitors cordially and no unpleasant incidents marred the contest.

The batting order and summary is as follows:

GOOD PROGRAMME ARRANGED.

FOR BENEFIT ENTERTAINMENT AT THE INN SATURDAY NIGHT.

Given to Madame Cortada Who Has Arranged Musicales at That Hotel.

An unique affair in the shape of a complimentary concert and vaudeville performance will be given at the Mountain Park Inn Saturday evening. An elaborate programme has been arranged and a number of talented musicians will appear on this occasion. The entertainment will be given as a complimentary benefit to Madame Cortada, of New York, who has conducted all the events at the Inn so far this season. Mrs. Babcock and Miss Mather, the managers of the resort, will assist at the affair.

Among the artists who will appear is Miss E. Ray Tucker, of New York, who has assumed the title of "The Black Prima Donna." This young woman is a student of an Italian musician and her repetoire includes selections from the leading Italian operas. Some humorous recitations will also be given by her. Fred Van Eps, the skilled banjo player, will render some selections, and Westley Woods, of Jersey City, will sing a few tenor solos. The climax of the entertainment will be a laughable "darky" sketch, which will end in a cake walk. This will be given by Madame Cortada and Mr. Magruder.

THIEVES AT WATCHUNG.

Robbed Hen Roosts and Milked the Cows in Washington Valley.

The presence of thieves in the vicinity of Watchung is causing the residents many sleepless nights. The chances are that if these midnight prowlers continue to visit this section they will receive a reception, the warmth of which will leave no doubts in their minds. From all accounts these thieves are fond of milk, for on several occasions A. Klein has found his cows dry when he went to extract the white fluid in the evening, and his customers have been put to much trouble.

These same sneaks have had their eyes on a number of chickens. Postmaster Schmidt and Mrs. L. Shank have been sufferers in this direction, the former losing six hens and the latter sixteen large broilers, which Mrs. Shank had in a coop, fattening for market. There may have been other depredations, but they have not yet been reported. Every household is now provided with a gun, and woe betide the thief or thieves that dare to visit Watchung for another haul.

VANQUISHED FEASTED AS VICTOR'S GUESTS.

Banquet to Plainfield Police Nine Followed Yesterday's Game at Elizabeth.

SPEECHES AND SONGS ALSO.

SERVED TO BIND TIES OF FRIENDSHIP ALL THE CLOSER.

Affair Was Given at Betz's Restaurant—Fitting Climax to a Great Game—Invited Guests Assisted in Good Time.

A royal good feast, at which there was not only an abundance of good things to eat, but some witty speeches and well rendered songs, was enjoyed by the Plainfield policemen's nine and its friends, as the guests of the police force of Elizabeth, in that city last evening. The affair was held in Betz's restaurant and served as a pleasant aftermath of the baseball game played in the afternoon between the nines representing the police forces of the two cities.

It was a fitting climax to the afternoon's sport and served to bring the police forces of this city and Elizabeth closer together in the bonds of friendship. Twice had the Elizabeth boys administed successive defeats to the Plainfielders, but the victor and vanquished sat about the dining table smoking the pipe of peace and listened to an impromptu after-dinner entertainment. Nearly two hours passed, while the sumptuous repast was being disposed of and clever remarks and catchy songs were being produced by the bidden guests.

Lots of fun was poked at the baseball coppers of Plainfield as well as those of Elizabeth. Ward, the jolly pitcher for the Elizabeth team, was the target for nearly every speaker, but he took it all in good turn, and reciprocated by singing and whistling for the banquetters. Patrolman John Lucas, of Elizabeth, presided, and on his right sat Patrolman Herbert Overbaugh, the captain of the Plainfield police nine. Almost everyone in the room was called on to say or do something. Patrolman Lucas welcomed the visitors and Captain Overbaugh responded in a neat speech.

Among the speakers were Freeholder W. A. Westphal and Lawyers Robert M. Clark and Francis J. Blatz, of Plainfield, and City Judge Mason and John Martin. Robert M. Clark sang a number of popular songs. Others who sang were James Stewart and Special Officer Conroy, of Plainfield, and Robert Swartz and Patrolmen Ward, Schuler and Sheridan, of Elizabeth. Some whistling solos were rendered by Patrolman Ward, and some mouth organ selections by Councilman Lee, of Plainfield.

SPECIALLY INTERESTING.

What The Veteran Will Want to See While at The Pan-American Exposition.

Now that many members of the G. A. R. propose to attend the National annual encampment of the organization, which will be held in Cleveland during the coming month, not a few are planning to take in the Pan-American Exposition, before returning home. Naturally these veterans will only have a limited time at their disposal in which to see the things of interest connected with the great fair.

There is one exhibition at the Exposition which eclipses all others in the eyes of the old soldier who has witnessed it. This is the great electric cyclorama, the Battle of Missionary Ridge, an enormous reproduction of the mighty conflict. It is to be seen in all its magnificence on the Midway Red Star Route. The picture is a monument to the valor of the old Army of the Cumberland. On the canvas Missionary Ridge seems volcanic with its belching fire, as the great line of blue, directed by Grant, Thomas, Sheridan, Granger, Meigs, Hunter and Reynolds, slowly surges to the crest, where Bragg, in command of the Confederate troops, is crushed and annihilated, after a most desperate conflict.

This is but one of the countless attractions on the famous Midway Red Star Route, but it suffices to demonstrate that none, and the old soldier in particular, should fail to visit this part of the Exposition.

STRIKE ON LAKEWOOD.

New Jersey Central Ferryboat Tied Up For Three Hours Yesterday Afternoon.

The double-decked ferryboat Lakewood, of fleet of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, was out of commission for three hours yesterday, as the crew went on strike.

The boat had reached the slip at 10 o'clock in the morning, when the announcement was made that the company had decided to reduce the number of the crew, that the services of one of the two firemen would be dispensed with and that one of the two deckhands would be relieved.

The boat is a new one and carried a larger crew than the other boats. When the crew heard this they held a meeting and decided that the services of all the men were necessary properly to man the boat, and quit work. After a conference between Superintendent of Terminals Richie and Captain Richmond a compromise was reached.

HIGH PRAISE FROM AN EDITOR.

A. E. WINSHIP REFERS TO VALEDICTORIAN AT THE HIGH SCHOOL.

He Made Address at Commencement Exercises in June—Is Editor of Journal of Education.

In the current number of the Journal of Education, there appears an editorial which undoubtedly refers to the city of Plainfield and Mrs. Kizzie Eager, who was valedictorian of the graduating class at the Plainfield High School last June. It will be remembered that A. E. Winship, editor of the Journal of Education, delivered the chief address on that occasion.

The editorial is as follows:

"Every commencement season has associated with it, for those who are privileged to be a part of many of those exercises, some one incident which distances all the others in interest. This season has been no exception. The heroine was the valedictorian of a large and brilliant High School class in one of the wealthiest and most cultivated cities of 20,000 inhabitants in the middle States.

"Because of family reverses a girl of fourteen left school. At seventeen she was a saleslgirl in a store, and at nineteen married a young man every way worthy of her. She was not content to spend her life in comparative idleness and her husband was unwilling that she should work. She, therefore, entered the grammar school, ninth grade, fitted herself for the High School, which she entered in 1897, and this year graduated at the head of her class, the pride of the school.

"When one realizes how many young married women with no family spend much of their time with the latest novel, at whist parties and inane social functions, it is refreshing to know of one young married woman who took advantage of the public school privilege and fitted herself for nobler companionship."

FOR POLLUTING RIVER.

Suits Are to Started For Alleged Pollution of Rahway River in Union County.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, August 23.—Suits for alleged pollution of the Rahway River are about to be begun against several industrial establishments in Union county, which, it is charged, empty sulphuric and other noxious acids into the stream, thereby destroying the fish.

A complaint has been made by the New Jersey Game and Fish Commission against the American Copper Extraction Company, of Garwood, which is the first company to be charged with violation of the law by dumping sulphuric acid into the river.

WILL FIX A DATE.

Meeting of Republican State Committee Called to Arrange For State Convention.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Newark, August 23 — Chairman Franklin Murphy, of the State Republican committee, yesterday sent out a call for a meeting of the committee at the Trenton House Wednesday morning. The meeting will be the first gun of the campaign from the Republican side, as the committee will fix the date for holding the State convention for the nomination of the Republican candidate for governor.

There is an impression among the Republican politicians that the date will be fixed for September 26, and that the convention will once more be held in the Taylor Opera House at Trenton. The selection of the date may be left to a committee of the State committee, and the matter deferred until after the return of General Sewell from Europe.

VALUABLE COLLECTION OF RARE OLD COINS

It is the Property of Richard A. Osmun Who Refused to Sell It.

PART IS NOW ON EXHIBITION

SOME OF THE MOST VALUABLE IN THE COLLECTION.

Collection is One of the Finest in This Part of the Country—Coins are American—Very Interesting to Examine.

There are very few persons who can lay claim to such a valuable and rare collection of American coins as Richard A. Osmun, of Central avenue. For years Mr. Osmun has taken the greatest interest in collecting coins of an old date and today he has a collection comprising 400 in number, some of which cannot be duplicated anywhere. Some of these coins are now on exhibition in the show window at J. Hervey Doane's jewelry store in Park avenue, where they are attracting widespread interest.

One of the more interesting in this collection is a Lafayette dollar issued in 1900 at the time a statue of Lafayette was erected in France by people of this country. An American dollar, issued in 1803 and another in 1795, are also of much interest. A rare coin is one issued at the time the British occupied Philadelphia. The date is 1721 and bears a face which would represent King George or George Washington. Beneath the figure are the words "George Ruled" and this can be taken in two ways.

Another interesting coin, issued as a political token, bears the date 1837, also the names of VanBuren and Webster. Still another coin issued in the same year is marked executive experiment and on one side there is represented a turtle carrying a safe, intended to represent the United States Treasury. Included in the collection is another coin that appeared at the time the saying "Millions for defence, but not one cent for tribute," became famous throughout the land. As early as 1838 there was talk of slavery, and in that year a coin was issued picturing a slave with uplifted hands, pleading for mercy. One of these coins is in the collection.

A coin of much interest bears on one side the well-known saying of President Jackson, "The Constitution as I Understand It," and on the other a picture of Jackson. There are also two coins issued in 1787, one in Massachusetts and the other in New Jersey, and there are a number of half and quarter dollars of old date, and all are in a remarkable state of preservation. A very old coin, without date, bears a picture of an elephant one side, and "God Preserve" on the other. It also bears the mark of being made in London. A coin that is rarely seen is that known as the Isabella quarter issued in 1893, which is among those in the collection.

Mr. Osmun has twenty cent pieces issued in every year since their coinage. There is in the collection a London penny bearing the date of 1795, upon which is stated that the same is payable at the office of Clark & Harris. Another very old penny bears the date of 1800, and still another coin that is rare bears the date of 1787. This was issued in Vermont.

A person interested at all in old coins would find much to engage his attention in examining this collection, which is probably not equalled in this part of the country. Whenever the Government issues a statement with fac simile of old coins, Mr. Osmun always receives one. He has been offered fabulous sums for his collection, but prefers to keep it for its true worth.

Miss Clara Long, of Park avenue, still continues to improve from injuries received recently in a runaway accident.

George Meyer, of South Second street, who recently suffered the loss of a foot, is recovering rapidly and will soon be able to leave Muhlenberg Hospital.

Miss Alice Higgins, of the local telephone office, will commence her two weeks' vacation tomorrow. She intends visiting Buffalo and Niagara Falls and several New England towns.

AT THE THEATRES.

Something About the Attractions Which Plainfield Theatre-Goers May Care to Witness.

With no deviation from the unbroken rule of years, Keith's Union Square Theatre continues as the popular place of amusement for the laugh lovers and for weeks the "standing room only" sign has been in evidence at every performance. There are no less than sixteen comedians on the programme at this theatre this week, and it is not exaggeration to say that their combined efforts keep the audience in one continuous roar of laughter. The bill is headed by those well-known stars of the comedy world, George Felix and Lydia Barry, presenting their side-splitting sketch, "The Vaudeville Craze." Another star team of laugh-makers are Willard Simms and Aimee Angeles, who present "Flinder's Furnished Flats." Others on the bill are Clark and Temple; Casey and LeClair; Trovollo, the ventriloquist; Guy and Guntram, eccentric acrobats; John LeClair, juggler; Margaret Scott, vocalist; Jones and Sutton Trask and Gladden, songs and dances; Bush and Gordon, comedy acrobats, and others worthy of mention. On the announced bill for next week are named; Jack Norworth, monologist; Midgely and Carlisle, juvenile sketch; Louise Dresser, vocalist; Mignonette Kokin, danseuse; Gillett's trained dogs; Callahan and Mack, Irish comedy sketch; Thomas E. Clifford, baritone; Estus, equilibrist, and others. Continuous performance from noon to 10:45 p. m.

CHILE WILL STAY OUT.

Why She Refuses to Attend the Pan-American Congress.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—The dispatch from Santiago, Chile, announcing that the committee on foreign affairs of the chamber of deputies has refused to grant the funds necessary for the representation of Chile at the congress of American republics has attracted much attention here and is looked upon as the result of canvasses which have been going on among South and Central American countries concerning the programme of the congress and the extent to which arbitration would be discussed.

A rather sharp line of division has arisen between Chile and most of the other southern republics, the latter being favorable to arbitration without any limitation. On the other hand, Chile has wished to have the discussion of arbitration limited to future questions. Although the subject has been involved in numerous complications, yet there is expectation that they will be overcome and the congress held.

JEFFRIES-RUHLIN MATCH.

Hitch in the Arrangements For Proposed Fight.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 23.—A hitch has arisen in the arrangements for the proposed Jeffries-Ruhlin fight. When the fighters' representatives met with those of the local clubs, no sealed bids for the fight were in evidence. It was announced that the clubs had agreed not to put in bids until certain clauses of the agreement made by Ruhlin and Jeffries Tuesday should be modified. The clubs wish to have the $2,500 bond clause eliminated, also the one pertaining to the referee. The clubs object to George Siler for referee on the ground that the supervisors will not issue a permit for the contest if a referee shall be chosen outside of the state.

It also developed that the clubs have an understanding with each other and are willing to give up 65 per cent of the receipts. Madden and Delaney are holding out for 65 per cent and $500 training expenses.

National Firemen's Association.

BUFFALO, Aug. 23.—The National Firemen's association held a brief and slimly attended convention here. Judge Eggleston of Cortlandt, president of the New York State Firemen's association, briefly addressed the delegates. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, George C. Hale, chief of the Kansas City fire department; secretary, D. W. Gillen of Chicago; treasurer, H. S. Salsbury of Wisconsin, and corresponding secretary, L. E. Lockabill of Virginia. A number of vice presidents were also chosen. The next convention will be held in Detroit.

Ruined by Too Much Rain.

CHATTANOOGA, Aug. 23.—A heavy rainstorm deluged the country for several miles near Collinsville, Ala., ruining the crops and suspending train traffic for a few hours. A cloudburst at Hodges Station, near Knoxville, covered the Southern's tracks at that point with four feet of water and delayed the trains five hours.

SHAMROCK ON TRIAL

First Spin of the Challenger In New York Waters.

SIR THOMAS IS HIGHLY PLEASED.

More Confident Than Ever That His Trim Craft Will Make a Good Showing in the International Yacht Races.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—Sir Thomas Lipton's new challenger for the America's cup, the Shamrock II, had her first trial spin in New York bay yesterday, and, although it only lasted 90 minutes, it was a most satisfactory performance from start to finish.

Sir Thomas Lipton and Designer George L. Watson, both of whom were on board the yacht during her trial, expressed themselves as perfectly satisfied with the result.

In sailing about eight miles dead to windward against a two knot tide she covered the distance in 57 minutes and the reach back of six miles in 40 minutes. The wind was fresh and fairly steady from about south by east and of from 10 to 12 knots strength. The yacht carried mainsail, working topsail, fore staysail and jib.

At times while on the wind she put her lee rail under a trifle, but she showed herself well able to carry her sail, and she appeared to be quite as stiff as either the Constitution or the Columbia. Her sails set remarkably well for the first time out. The mainsail, a splendid piece of duck with narrow cloths and wide seams and of the crosscut pattern, was set for the first time yesterday. It fitted to perfection with the exception perhaps of a slight looseness in the leach, which can be remedied by inserting three battens, for which pockets are already supplied. The headsails set well, as did the jib headed topsail she carried.

The trial was all in smooth water except during the last mile of the windward work, when she passed out by Coney Island point. There a slight easterly swell made her pitch a little, but not enough to stop her headway to any extent. She makes very little fuss under her lee bow and carries hardly any quartering wave. Her wake is clean and smooth, and from observations taken from directly astern while she was close hauled her sails trim very flat, and she is able to lie within four points of the wind with every sail full. Many thought her "pointing" was fully as close as that of the Herreshoff boats, but that remains to be seen.

The yacht is so perfectly balanced "on the wind" that she carries neither lee nor weather helm, her long tiller being exactly amidships.

During the eight or ten tacks she made to fetch from her anchorage to the buoy at the junction of the swash and main ship channel, where she turned back, the average time from "full to full" in stays was about 17 seconds. It was plain, however, that Captain Sycamore was not putting her through her best paces in that direction. The crew trimmed and handled sails with that smartness and precision that shows experience and a thorough knowledge of their ship.

COLUMBIA WINS AGAIN.

Constitution Fairly Beaten by the Old Defender.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Aug. 23.—The Columbia gave the Constitution a good sound beating yesterday twice around the Seawanhaka triangular course. On corrected time the old boat won by 2m. 5s. and on elapsed time by 1m. 39s.

But the figures do not represent the decisiveness of the Columbia's victory, for as a matter of fact she beat the new boat twice. The first time around the triangle of 14¾ miles the Columbia gained over five minutes. Then a sniff of wind on the short leg across the sound put the Constitution upon even terms, when a new race was practically started, the breeze now coming true again. This time the Columbia gained over a minute and a half. It was a day of fluky sound breezes, but if either boat got any advantage from the frequent changes in the wind it was the Constitution. It was at no time a white cap breeze, and the sea was smooth, conditions which have heretofore always favored the Constitution.

The new boat did not seem to have any of the speed she has shown in light airs. She was sluggish on the starting line, and, although the two yachts crossed almost at the same minute, with a one gun start, the Columbia romped off and took a lead of an eighth of a mile while the Constitution was gathering way. To be sure, the Constitution was trying a new mainsail, and it set very badly during the first round, but it kept getting better and better and for the last 15 miles of the course was drawing very well. Then, too, the club topsail was almost useless in the windward work. The club was badly bent, and the canvas did little work when the Constitution was close hauled. But all this does not account for her defeat. Even on the last leg of the race, in a close reach for the home mark, while both boats had exactly the same wind and the Constitution's sails were apparently drawing for all they were worth, the Columbia added over a minute to her lead.

The two racers were given a late start because all the morning the winds were very light and fluky. For two or three hours a north and south wind were contesting for position in the sound off Oyster Bay, and it was not until late in the afternoon that the south wind finally prevailed. At 1 o'clock the north wind had the right of way, and, as it came true and fairly strong, the race committee of the Seawanhaka club set the line and prepared to send the boats away. In the absence of Chairman C. W. Wetmore, Mr. Walter C. Kerr and Charles A. Sherman of the committee had the race in charge and were assisted by Mr. Robert W. Gibson and Mr. W. Crittenden Adams. The signals for the No. 1 course were set, and had the wind held true this would have given a close reach of 3¼ miles, a beat to windward of 5½ miles and a run of 5¾ miles twice around, the whole course amounting to 29½ miles.

The circular announced a one gun start, but Mr. Duncan of the Constitution preferring a start that allows two minutes to cross the line, the committee said they would change if the Columbia people would agree. When the Columbia came alongside, Mr. Morgan was hailed and asked his preference. The one gun start seemed to suit him and Captain Barr, and so no change was made, the directions of the circular being followed out.

TALK OF MEDIATION.

Governor Stone Suggested as Arbitrator of Strike.

THE STAR TIN MILL STARTED UP.

Few New Developments Reported in Great Steel War—Operators Claim Decided Gains, Which Are Denied by the Strikers.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 23.—Aside from the partial equipment of the Star plant of the American Tin Plate company and the preparation for its immediate resumption of business there were no special developments in the strike situation in this city during the last 24 hours. No further trouble occurred at the Pennsylvania Tube works, and at all other strike points quiet reigns. The Amalgamated people point with pride to the conduct of their members in restraining themselves from violence when they see nonunionists being marched into the mills to take their places. The incident at the Star plant yesterday morning is given as an example of especial significance and, to use an Amalgamated officer's expression, shows that the men have been educated to the knowledge that their strongest weapon in such cases is silence and submission until it is demonstrated that the mills cannot be operated successfully without the aid of the skilled men now on strike. The steel men, on the other hand, are highly pleased with their success in manning the Star plant and say that if the men they secure are not molested it will be but a short time until all of their mills will be in full operation and doing good work.

While the strikers claim that four of the new men at the Star plant have deserted the company and say that others would leave if they could get out of the mill, Superintendent Harper maintains that he has 100 men at work, that none has deserted and that the men can go and come from the mills as they please. Mr. Harper says the plant will be in smooth running order tonight, and he apprehends no further difficulty in its operation.

The Painter mill has 250 men at work, and the management expects to be running full handed by next week. Two mills are being operated at the Lindsay & McCutcheon plant, one of them the ten inch mill. No sign of a break in the Carnegie Upper and Lower Union plants made its appearance yesterday. McKeesport is still completely tied up, but an attempt may be made to start the Demmler Tin works tonight with men secured from outside points. The strikers are still vigilant as pickets, but are keeping quiet and making no threats.

At Irondale the tin plant company gained another victory by the successful start of one set of rolls. There are said to be enough men in the plant to man one mill one turn, and the company officials say now that the break has been made they will get the men back.

A delegation of strikers from Wellsville went to Irondale last evening with the intention of having a talk with the men at work and trying to persuade them to quit.

At Amalgamated headquarters in this city the time was devoted almost entirely to routine business, and nothing of unusual importance occurred. President Shaffer said last evening that no movement has as yet been made by either side looking to arbitration or mediation. No hint had come from the steel people on the subject, and none had gone out from the workers. There was, however, a tendency among many of the labor leaders to discuss the possibility of arbitration, and on every side was heard mentioned the name of Governor W. A. Stone as an arbitrator or conciliator, and it is said he will be asked to tender his good offices in this direction.

Rumor of Resumption Denied.

JOLIET, Ills., Aug. 23.—Reports that steel mills here are to resume Monday are absolutely without official foundation either as regards the company or the Amalgamated association. Neither side has made any move to that end. No notices are posted at the mills, and Superintendent Sheldon said he knew of no change in any way. It is not thought there will be any change here until South Chicago's position shall be finally determined. There is a strong sentiment among some of the strikers in favor of a return to work under some honorable plan, but they will stand by the strike order, at least until it shall be known that South Chicago will not go out.

Movements of Warships.

NANTUCKET, Mass., Aug. 23.—The vessels of the north Atlantic squadron still remain at anchor in Nantucket waters. Admiral Higginson expected to touch Newport on his trip south, as he has two companies of marines aboard which he had detached from Newport for special maneuvers at Camp Long; but, the fleet being short of provisions after its stay of 15 days here, Fleet Paymaster Littlefield went to Boston and purchased ten tons of provisions, and as soon as the stores arrive the vessels will immediately sail for Hampton Roads. The special detachments will be sent from that place to Newport by rail.

Negro Kills His Wife.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Aug. 23.—Frank Bundy, colored, of this city shot and instantly killed his wife Ida, aged 35 years. The murder occurred near the business section of the city, and Bundy, after threatening his would be captors with the still smoking revolver, succeeded in making his escape. After a series of quarrels caused by jealousy Bundy met his wife on the street. He pulled a revolver and fired three shots, and she fell dead.

Fight With Moonshiners.

CUMBERLAND, Md., Aug. 23.—After serenading a wedding couple and imbibing hard cider at Colebank, W. Va., a party of young men attacked a moonshine still in the mountains. Three raiders and two moonshiners were probably fatally shot. The moonshiners escaped with their wounded.

Two Killed; Fourteen Hurt.

DONALDSONVILLE, La., Aug. 23.—At Rapidan Landing the boiler of a pump boat owned by Loisel & Israel exploded, killing two negroes and injuring 14. The pump man, a negro, fell asleep, and the boiler went dry, resulting in the explosion.

Well Known Lake Captain Dead.

KENOSHA, Wis., Aug. 23.—Captain Stephen A. Jackson, perhaps the best known survivor of the great race of early lake captains, died in this city after a long illness. He was 74 years old.

QUAKER CITY FIRE.

It Has at Last Burned Itself Out. Loss, $300,000.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 23.—The fire which started at the works of the Atlantic Refining company at Point Breeze, on the Schuylkill river front, in the southwestern section of the city, has burned itself out. Vice President Lloyd of the company estimates the loss at about $500,000. Fourteen tanks containing about 200,000 barrels of oil were destroyed. One pumping station and thousands of feet of pipe were rendered useless, but the most important machinery is intact.

According to officials of the company, business at the plant will not be impeded. The steamer Gut Heil yesterday received her cargo of oil, and three other vessels will be loaded today, it is said. Thousands of barrels of oil are still in the tanks not reached by the flames, and the company is taking new orders for petroleum.

It is definitely learned that the two employees of the company said to have lost their lives in the explosion early Tuesday morning are safe. This reduces the death list to the three firemen previously named. About 150 persons, including firemen, employees and spectators, were burned more or less severely during the progress of the fire.

A message has been received from the New York office of the company instructing the representatives here to make proper provision for the families of the dead firemen.

CZAR MAY INTERVENE.

Report That He Will Try to Stop the British-Boer War.

BRUSSELS, Aug. 23.—The Independence Belge prints a dispatch from Copenhagen which says:

"It is currently reported in Russian circles that the czar has decided to broach South African intervention to Emperor William and President Loubet. He considers the time opportune for friendly mediation."

The paper adds under reserve that the czar during his stay in France will receive Mr. Kruger in private audience and obtain from him a direct statement of the Boer position, with the view of formulating a plan for action.

New York Police Indicted.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—The grand jury has returned indictments against Wardman Glennon, Detective Dwyer and Sergeant Shiels, all of the West Thirtieth street police station, for misdemeanor, charging them with neglect of duty in failing to report the existence of a disorderly house. The indictments were in a batch handed up to Recorder Goff in part 1 of the court of general sessions at 2:30 o'clock. All the accused men were in the criminal court building at the time the indictments were filed. They had been called to appear before Justice Jerome for examination on the charge of neglect of duty.

No More Teachers Required.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—Colonel Edwards, chief of the division of insular affairs, expressed his satisfaction upon learning of the arrival at Manila of the 500 teachers who sailed on the transport Thomas, as it practically marks the completion of the work of selecting American teachers for service in the Philippines. The great flood of inquiries and applications continues, but all are informed that Professor Atkinson, the general superintendent at Manila, has cabled that no more appointments will be made.

The British Iron Trade.

LONDON, Aug. 23.—The writer of an article in The Standard today, reviewing the British iron trade, considers that there is every prospect of a considerable revival in the autumn and winter. This revival, he thinks, will be helped by the heavy reduction in the prices of coal and coke and by the resumed activity in shipbuilding. Moreover, in consequence of the Pittsburg strike American consumers of finished goods, he asserts, are placing orders in Great Britain on quite a large scale.

Worsted Mills Sold.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Aug. 23.—The property of the Prospect and Globe mills, makers of worsted goods, which recently failed, was sold at auction. The valuation set by experts on the Prospect mill was $123,850.47, and it finally went to a representative of the American Woolen company for $41,250. The Globe mills appraisal was $57,692, and it went for $21,650 to the same corporation. Later some tenement property of the mills was sold at bargain prices to individuals.

The Freaks of Lightning.

KINGSTON, N. Y., Aug. 23.—Mrs. John F. Barry of Marlborough was instantly killed by lightning at that place. She was taking clothes off a wire line, when the lightning struck it. One man recently struck at the same place became insane during the storm. A number of buildings at Marlborough have been struck and burned this year.

Sheriff Fires on Mob.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Aug. 23.—A News correspondent at Asheville wired at 2:50 p. m. that Sheriff North and deputies had fired on a mob seeking to lynch James Brown, colored, who was tried and convicted of assault. Two members of the mob were fatally wounded. One hundred shots were fired.

SILVA'S STATEMENT.

Colombian Minister Explains South American Situation.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—The Colombian minister, Dr. Martinez Silva, discussed the press dispatches received in this country from President Castro of Venezuela through his secretary and from President Alfaro of Ecuador. Dr. Silva spoke without criticism and confined his remarks to pointing out certain essential points which these messages from the two presidents made clear.

"Coming from such high quarters," said Dr. Silva, "it cannot be doubted that these messages afford excellent means of viewing the present situation of affairs from the standpoints of the two governments. The chief point to be noticed is that they do not treat war as existing. The message from President Alfaro expressly states that war between Colombia and Venezuela is improbable, and he adds that such conflicts as have occurred growing out of the union between the Conservatives in both republics are of a transitory character. It is well to have the view of so high an authority on the improbability of war and on the transitory character of the party disturbances which have occurred. As this dispatch from Quito is dated Aug. 21, it seems to dispose of the reports of several days ago saying that an Ecudoran army was about to invade Colombia and fight a battle near Pasto. Evidently the president of Ecuador knows nothing of the imminence of such a conflict.

"The dispatch from General Castro's secretary also indicates clearly that no war exists. It states that the Conservatives of Colombia have resolved to assist in a revolutionary move against Venezuela and her government. From this it will be observed that the basis of the affair is a revolutionary movement against Venezuela, and of course such a movement is an internal affair of Venezuela with which Colombia has no concern. Altogether the messages seem to be reassuring as to the fact that no actual war in the sense accepted by international authorities exists or is probable.

"I am perfectly sure that in the revolutions in Venezuela there is not one Colombian. I also am well informed that the Colombian authorities on the frontier have made the utmost efforts to prevent Colombian territory from being made the base for revolutionary movements into Venezuela."

Progress of the Revolution.

WILLEMSTAD, Curacao, Aug. 23.—Venezuelan steamers have transported 800 men from Maracaibo and Coro under command of General Davila, who defeated and captured General Hernandez, to invade Colombia near Rio Hacha and to support General Uribe-Uribe. The Venezuelan authorities have also sent ammunition to that point.

General Juan Pietri, leader of a revolutionary movement that was about ready to start, was captured near Magdalena, in the state of Carabobo, while on his way to arouse Guarico. On being taken to Caracas he was immediately set at liberty by order of President Castro.

Censorship in Colombia.

COLON, Colombia, Aug. 23.—The Colombian government is now enforcing a strict censorship.

A Novel Tax Question.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—A peculiar internal revenue tax question has arisen in the case of Louisa A. Chance, who by her father's will was left the income on $20,000 for life. Mrs. Chance died a short time after her father and before she had received any benefit from her interest, when the whole amount passed absolutely to three granddaughters as reversionary legatees. The question involved was whether in this circumstance the life interest was taxable. The commissioner holds that it is and says it is the life tenant's expectancy of living, as shown by approved tables, which determines the value of the life interest.

Sale of State Lands.

HELENA, Mon., Aug. 23.—Montana's auction sale of 3,000,000 acres of state lands will commence in Carbon county, of which Red Lodge is the seat of government, on Sept. 18. Flathead county sales will begin Oct. 22. There are 55,000 acres in this county. Whether any intervening sales will be held has not yet been decided. The state land office is being flooded with inquiries as to the character of the land and terms of sale, which are briefly that no land will be sold for less than $10 per acre and if not sold will be leased to the highest bidder.

Mrs. Lees Exonerated.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 23.—Mrs. Robert Lees, who was held for the killing of the Hebrew peddler, Robert Nogler, during a quarrel at the home of Mrs. Grace Woods, was exonerated from all blame in connection with the stabbing of the man at the coroner's inquest. The jury was out but ten minutes. The verdict stated that Nogler was killed by the woman in self defense and the killing was justifiable.

Tennessee Postoffice Robbed.

CHATTANOOGA, Aug. 23.—The postoffice inspector here has been notified of the robbery of the postoffice at Petersburg, Tenn. The safe was blown open with dynamite and about $300 in cash taken, besides the entire supply of stamps.

FRANCE IS RESOLUTE

May Seize Turkish Customs if Necessary.

ONE WARSHIP SENT, FOUR TO FOLLOW

War Is Not Thought to Be Imminent, but the Frenchmen Will Fight if the Sultan Does Not Come to Time.

PARIS, Aug. 23.—The Matin announces that the French second class cruiser Cassard has started for Turkish waters and that a naval division is ready to follow.

According to the foreign office officials, there is no news and no change in the situation of the Turkish imbroglio. This, however, was noticeable—the officials were more reticent than ever. While reasserting that no naval demonstration is contemplated, they refuse to confirm or deny the truth of the news contained in special dispatches saying that three battleships and a cruiser which arrived at Toulon yesterday are taking coal and provisions on board. They said they had no information on the subject.

Perhaps it is not lacking in significance that M. Deschanel, president of the chamber of deputies, who was attending the council general at Chartres, suddenly went to Rambouillet to see President Loubet, and also that M. Delcasse, the minister of foreign affairs, leaves the council general of Ariege and returns to Paris today to attend a special meeting of the cabinet called, it is asserted, to arrange the programme for the reception and entertainment of the czar.

Meanwhile the Turkish embassador, Munir Bey, is absent, and at the Turkish embassy only minor officials are visible. They assume an air of absolute indifference and ignorance of the whole matter.

Most of the diplomatists are away for the summer holidays, hence it is difficult to obtain opinions. One of the oldest members, who has been connected with the diplomatic corps for over 25 years, said:

"The sultan's hand contains one trump just now. It is not likely that France will run the risk of opening the eastern question on the eve of the czar's visit."

The newspapers here, under the influence of the overwhelming joy at the czar's approaching visit, are paying scant attention to Constantinople and generally are taking the view that the matter will soon be settled to France's satisfaction.

The coming of the czar is causing intense satisfaction throughout the country. All the councils general are now sitting, and even those in which the opponents of the government are in the majority are passing resolutions warmly congratulating President Loubet and the ministry on the czar's visit, which is regarded as a happy result of the government's foreign policy.

The approaching visit of the czar to France largely overshadows the interest taken in the Franco-Turkish incident, in which the French embassador at Constantinople severed diplomatic relations with the porte.

The apathy of the public is reflected by comments of the newspapers. They generally express confidence in a peaceful settlement of the dispute.

The Temps, semiofficial, has a note on the lines of the interview which the correspondent obtained with a high official of the foreign office, saying:

"The rupture as yet is only the personal act of M. Constans, French embassador at Constantinople, and will only become official and complete if the sultan persists in his present attitude, in which case, as Munir Bey is absent from France, it will only be necessary to notify him not to return until diplomatic relations are resumed."

The Temps adds that there is no question at present of a naval demonstration and hints that if it becomes necessary France may imitate the example of Austria, which once under similar circumstances seized the custom houses of certain Ottoman ports.

Say Judge Was Corrupted.

HELENA, Mon., Aug. 23.—Sensational affidavits filed in the Silver Bow district court in the Minnie Haley case, in which it is alleged that Judge Harney of Butte was improperly influenced in rendering a decision favorable to the Heinz interests, have reached the supreme court through official channels. The affidavits as well as the Mrs. Brackett letters, which make up a large record, were filed with the supreme court by counsel for the Boston and Montana, and an injunction is asked to restrain Heinz from working the Minnie Haley mine pending an appeal from Judge Harney's judgment. One court will hear the applications for injunction next Monday.

Aeronaut Falls From a Balloon.

JERSEY CITY, Aug. 23.—Benjamin Benjamin, an aeronaut, fell from his balloon while making an ascension at the Hoboken Schuetzen park. Failure of the parachute to work caused the accident. Benjamin fell possibly 300 feet into the Hackensack meadows, and this probably saved his life, as he landed in mud and water, sinking up to his neck. A boatman rescued him. His injuries arose not only from shock of the fall, but from the onslaught of myriads of mosquitoes which attacked him as he was stuck in the mud and whose stings made his features unrecognizable.

Guilty of Attempted Bribery.

DALLAS, Aug. 23.—R. E. Cullom, a well known Dallas lawyer, has been convicted of an attempt to bribe the jurors in the famous Hayden-Cranfill lawsuit growing out of the Texas Baptist church trouble and sentenced to three days in jail, to pay a fine of $100 and stand disbarred. This is the highest penalty under the law, as contempt of court is the only offense for attempting to bribe jurors.

Justice Dykman Seriously Ill.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—Supreme Court Justice J. O. Dykman is lying seriously ill at his home in White Plains. He has been ill all summer with bowel and stomach trouble, and it is supposed the excitement attendant upon granting the stay in the Police Captain Diamond case aggravated it, for he has not been able to see any one since on any business matters.

Hoffmann's Flying Machine.

LONDON, Aug. 23.—Engineering describes minutely R. J. Hoffmann's flying machine, which is nearing completion in Berlin, as being very similar to Professor Langley's, but adds that it has some essential improvements, including a water tube boiler and a compound condensing engine.

State Convention.

While the call has not yet been issued, it has been definitely decided that the Democratic State convention shall be held at Trenton some day during the first week in October. The fixing of the exact date has been left to a committee.

October is unusually late for a State convention in Jersey and it will naturally tend to make the campaign following it considerably shorter. It takes a little time after the State convention to fix up the county tickets. This year, there is the city ticket to be nominated, as well, and the result will be that there will be a shorter time than usual for the real activity of the campaign.

While Mayor Seymour is still a very prominent figure in the field for the gubernatorial nomination, it is yet a question as to who is to be the man. The strong opposition to Mayor Seymour, right in Essex county, is likely to prove fatal to his chances. Of course, it is possible that he may be nominated, but no political party is inclined to name a candidate who is strongly opposed by the leaders from his own county. If that opposition can in any way be tempered, then Mayor Seymour may be regarded as having the best chance of anyone.

There is little likelihood that James R. Martine will be nominated. It is quite possible, however, that the Union county delegation will give him a complimentary vote. Mr. Martine has been one of the staunchest and most hardworking leaders in the State, and he is certainly deserving of any honor that the Union county Democrats can bestow upon him.

Dunellen's Freeholder.

The announcement in yesterday's Daily Press that an attempt had been started to unseat Freeholder Peter C. Staats, of Dunellen, was quite a surprise. The surprise came, not in that the attempt was to be made, but rather that it had been delayed until now. When the Middlesex County Board of Freeholders voted to seat Mr. Staats and refused the same thing to Luther H. Tappen, of Metuchen, it was generally expected that legal proceedings would be started at once. There has been no explanation, so far, as to why this action was delayed until this time. It is possible that the act may have some political significance.

If the reports of the situation are true, it seems on the face of it as if the legal representative of the board was right when he advised the members of the board not to seat either of the two men from the boroughs of Dunellen and Metuchen. If there is a law which requires a population of 3,000 before a borough is entitled to separate representation in the board, then surely, because an error was made in the past, it is no reason that it should be made again.

There may be certain limitations, however, of which the public knows nothing, which may give Dunellen the right to have a freeholder of its own. However it is, the proceedings in this case will be watched with much interest.

When Larkin, the rich soap man of Buffalo, started business by making soap in his kitchen, carrying the materials in a wheelbarrow, he used his first profits to advertise in the newspapers, relates the Philadelphia Record. As the profits increased he enlarged his purchase of newspaper space. He now employs nearly 1,000 men, and credits his success to newspaper advertising.

One of the results of the Meeker Election Law will be that the election officers in the cities will have to work harder and will receive less compensation. They are paid by the election now and no provision is made for the added labor which will be required to count the votes for the various municipal officials as well as the county and State officers.

An application to hold a boxing match in this city is now before Mayor Jenkins. If His Honor respects the feeling of a majority of the citizens, and there is every reason to believe that he will, he will refuse the permission.

There are few speakers more popular with the rural population of Hunterdon county than Plainfield's farmer orator, James E. Martine. That is why he is invariably chosen as one of the chief speakers at the farmers' picnic.

If the steam roller would continue its work out Watchung avenue as far as East Fifth street, the act would be greatly appreciated by those who have to travel over the stretch between Fifth street and the depot.

Baseball, as played by the policemen of Plainfield and Elizabeth, is a strange and wonderful thing to see. Considering, however, the amount of practice they have, the local policemen put up a great game.

If water meters were introduced generally in Plainfield, the charges of the Plainfield Water Supply Company would be far more equitable than they are at present.

The Republicans are making great plans for their clambake, but they have so far failed to provide for any protection against the mosquitoes.

The advertiser who wants the fall trade will place his ad in a conspicuous place in The Daily Press.

It is quite certain that the big time which the borough firemen are planning is going to exceed all previous ones.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May Be Of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

The Union County Democratic committee has appointed election officers for twelve wards in Elizabeth, and the city has been redistricted into nine wards. They hope to get the matter into court before the general election by refusing to obey the law. It is possible that the Republican election officers may be left to fill vacancies on election day without the consent of the Democratic committee.—Jersey City Journal.

* * * * * *

The County Board of Elections is naturally perturbed about the redistricting situation in Paterson. There were eight wards originally, the Democratic Board of Aldermen created eleven and the Republican redistricting commission made twelve. Now the two parties are watching each other's moves, and the first symptom of official recognition of either redistricting will be the occasion for legal proceedings, which must be promptly settled to enable the County Board to appoint election officers and designate polling places. To save trouble, why does the board not toss up a cent to seen which redistricting shall be recognized?—Passaic News.

* * * * * *

John R. Vanderwort, of Plainfield, has a happy faculty of sharing vast wealth with those who know how to spend money rightly. Having discovered a way in which to lay hold of some millions of dollars for which Madam Jumel, being dead, has no further use, he advertises for "twenty honest, Christian parties, male or female, with $1,000 each, to act as trustees." The $20,000 will probably "pay the freight" in the legal proceedings necessary to connect Mr. Vanderwort with Madam Jumel's millions, and the "honest Christian parties" are supposed to share in the subsequent divvy. No dishonest Christian party need apply for a trusteeship, not even if he (or she) possesses $1,000.25.—Newark News.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

(Special Correspondence.)

Scotch Plains, August 23—In Justice Clark's court, Wednesday evening, Fred Conroy, Albert Gaub and Fred Almond, all of Plainfield, were each fined $5 and costs. The charge against them was disorderly conduct. Sunday evening they were ordered by Officer Pangborn to leave the porch of Walpole's Hotel, but instead of complying, they refused and then, it is alleged, resisted arrest. The trial lasted over two hours. Richard Hayes was the only witness secured by the prosecutors.

John Kenney, of Elizabeth, while proceeding on horse-back through Scotch Plains, Wednesday afternoon, was thrown violently to the ground by a sudden sidestep of the spirited animal which he was riding. He was quite seriously cut about the head and face but was able to reach home by trolley. The horse was captured several miles from the scene of the accident.

George Allen, Edward Hand, Arthur Hasket and seven other young men composed a crabbing party at Sewaren yesterday.

Miss Tilly Schroeder, of Jersey City, is being entertained at the home of Miss Annie Hossinger.

William Coulber has resigned his position as dispensor at the Campbell Hotel.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short and Gossipy Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

The present humid weather is causing no end of trouble for householders who find it difficult to maintain the slightest degree of dryness about their homes. Doors, windows, bureau drawers and screens have expanded to such an extent that it is very hard to open them. One boroughite overcame the trouble yesterday by having a fire started in his furnace, thus drying out the house.

* * * * * *

A farm wagon filled with a number of young folks from over the mountains came to town yesterday afternoon to see the sights. They were well received by everyone and soon were enjoying the generous hospitality for which Plainfield is noted. Some kind-hearted persons printed a few signs and tacked them to the wagon. One read "On the way to the Pan-American, round trip $49." The other signs were worded similarly, the only difference being cut rates. The young folks remained in town for an hour or more having a good time. They appreciated the jokes played on them and took no offense. The party was composed chiefly of young women, with a stray young man here and there to act as escort.

* * * * * *

Tired, worn and disappointed, after a fishing trip of three days' duration, a wholesale dealer in wet goods, in the borough, returned to his home during the fore part of the week. He did not have any fish for none were caught by him, and the question of how to evade the queries of his friends was to him a perplexing one. Not having the courage to pass through into the dwelling part of his place, the forlorn fisherman determined to rest in the store for a time. In a few moments, a friend called and asked the price of fish. No sooner had he disposed of this question than in came another person, who left an order for three pounds. These two were followed by others and at last when the fisherman's patience had become exhausted, he made a mad rush to lock the store door. In doing so he spied some signs. These were placed in every conceivable place and on them were written the words: "Fresh Fish For Sale." The fisherman is vowing vengence.

Are All Well.

A letter from Rev. C. Schenck, Ph. D., to F. E. Smith, clerk of the Consistory of Trinity Reformed church, states that Mr. Schenck and family are all well and enjoying the bracing air at Spruceton, in the Catskill Mountains, very much. They will return to Plainfield about September 5, and Dr. Schenck will occupy his pulpit Sunday morning, September 8.

Dr. A. V. Harrington, physician on the Maasdam, of the Holland-American line, has been visiting his cousin, Mrs. W. C. Dobbins, of Elmwood place.

Wm. Townley, of fire headquarters, will return to duty Tuesday after a pleasant ten days' vacation. The next member of the department to go will be Tillerman Harry Bush.

DEATH OF MISS PANTLY.

Taken Ill on Occasion of Visit Here and Had to Remain Until Death.

Miss Susie Pantly, of Washington valley, died yesterday afternoon at the home of John L. Schwartz, of 520 West Front street, where she went a few weeks ago.

Miss Pantly's death is particularly sad one. She was taken ill two months ago. One day she came to Plainfield to consult her physician, Dr. Zeglio. While here her condition suddenly became worse and she was unable to return home. She then went to the home of Mr. Schwartz, where everything possible was done for her.

Miss Pantly was twenty-two years of age and was engaged to be married to a brother of Mr. Schwartz, who lives on an adjoining farm at Washington valley. There was a complication of diseases, but the direct cause of death was hasty consumption.

The funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock from the late home in Washington valley and at 2 o'clock from the Presbyterian church, Pluckemin.

PENNY FOR A FEE.

Westfield Groom Wedded in Jersey City —Had Lost His Pocketbook.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Jersey City, August 23—Justice of the Peace Crawford, of this city, tied in the nuptial knot yesterday Frank Carroll, twenty-eight years old, of Westfield, N. J., and Alice Oates Everson, twenty-two years old, of No. 178 West Twenty-ninth street, New York City. When the ceremony was over the bridegroom was surprised to find that he had lost his pocketbook. He gave the justice a cent for luck and promised to send him a larger fee.

Fell on His Face.

Andrew Stiglitz, a young lad living on East Front street, had his cheek badly cut yesterday afternoon by being thrown from the rear of a delivery wagon in which he was standing. The horse made a sudden start, causing the boy to lose his balance and topple out.

WANTS DAMAGES.

Claims That Careless Wheelman Ran Into Her and Caused Serious Injuries—Suit Started.

Papers have been issued by Justice Huff in the case in tort of Grace Jackson, by her next best friend, Amos Jackson, against Lewis Grant, returnable August 30. William Newcorn represents the plaintiff.

Miss Jackson, who is eighteen years of age, is employed at the organ works at Garwood, as is also the defendant, who is a resident of Roselle. Last Saturday shortly after noon, Miss Jackson was crossing North avenue at Garwood, when Grant, it is alleged, came along on his wheel riding at a high rate of speed. It is said that he ran into Miss Jackson, knocking her down. She was taken to the house of a friend nearby, where she lay unconscious for several hours. Her injuries consisted of bruises and cuts. She claims $200 as damages.

FARMERS' PICNIC.

Big Time at Flemington Came to an End Last Evening—Was Very Successful.

(Special to the Daily Press.)

Flemington, August 23—The tenth annual picnic of the Farmers' Alliance of Hunterdon county came to a close yesterday afternoon. The picnic was the most successful the Alliance has ever held.

G. H. Strobel, of Newark, was the first speaker. He talked on "Direct Legislation, or Government Socialized." Between 1 and 2 o'clock the speakers engaged in discussions. Rev. J. B. Clever, of Bound Brook, spoke for the Republicans, and Rev. E. E. Robinson followed with the views of the Prohibitionists. George H. Goebell, of New York, a social Democrat, delivered a ringing address, setting forth the Socialistic principles.

PLANNING ACTIVITY.

Central Lodge Will Soon Start an Active Campaign.

Central Loge, No. 48, A. O. U. W., met last evening, when a committee of three, consisting of Charles Randolph, C. T. Rogers and H. R. Thorn, was appointed to plan for the fall and winter work. The idea is to make an extra effort to increase the membership.

After the routine business, Deputy Grand Master Edward Mosher and Grand Trustee C. T. Rogers made speeches regarding the growth of the order and urging the members to greater effort. In the good of the order ice cream and cigars were served in abundance and the members enjoyed a social hour.

DOGS RUNNING LOOSE.

Game Warden Hawkins Has Secured Evidence And Arrests Will Follow.

Game Warden Hawkins has been in this city during the past few days, investigating numerous complaints from residents in the surrounding country in regard to dogs running loose on fields inhabited by game. He has already secured evidence enough for several convictions and complaints will be made before a local justice of the peace within a short time. A conviction make possible a fine of $20.

Kept Busy.

Chris. Sorensen, the talented young trombonist, of this city, who has just completed a successful season at Rockaway Beach, will leave tomorrow for Manhattan Beach for a visit with Arthur Pryor, trombone soloist, of Sousa's Band. Monday evening Mr. Sorensen enters upon a forty-five weeks' engagement as trombonist in the orchestra at the Criterion Theatre, Brooklyn.

Appetites of Geologists.

It is not surprising, perhaps, to learn that geologists have good appetites. Sir Alexander Geikie, who has recently retired from the directorship of the geological survey, relates that Robert Chambers tried to dissuade him from the career which he afterward adorned because he did not seem to possess "either strength or appetite enough for a professional geologist." Chambers had lately been in Wales with a survey party, consisting of Ramsay, Jukes and Selwyn, and he, being the oldest member of the company, was voted to the chair, where he had the duty assigned to him of carving a leg of Welsh mutton. He then found that geologists had a prodigious capacity for food, and an incredibly short time had passed when he found nothing before him but a bare bone. Murchison, too, looked on that slim, youthful figure as hardly the style of man for a surveyor. Needless to say that he proved himself equal to all the climbing. What a loss to science if he had been rejected because his limbs did not appear strong enough! Sir Archibald is succeeded by Mr. Teall, a member of the survey, and a well-known authority on British petrology. After De la Beche the succession has been all Scotch—Murchison, Ramsay, Geikie—and all distinguished. The science of the rocks seems to be congenial to the Scottish intellect. — London Telegraph.

Suit for Weary Willie.

An old coat and a soft hat with a note attached, is all that John Maxwell, of Warren, has left of a fine-looking scarecrow.

Mr. Maxwell is a farmer on West Brookfield road, and has a large field of corn. The crows have troubled him considerably this year, and to keep them away Mr. Maxwell dressed up a dummy.

This morning when he went out to the field he missed this scarecrow, and, going to investigate, found a soft hat, badly dilapidated, and a ragged coat.

In the inside pocket of the coat was a short note. The note read:

"Dear Sir: Much obliged for your clothes and a straw hat. Both were perfect fits. Please accept the thanks of a 'weary Willie.'"—Worcester Telegram.

A Swift Flying Star.

A faint star in the Great Bear, known as "1830 Groombridge," is famous among astronomers on account of its rapid motion. Recently a new computation of its velocity has been made by Prof. Campbell, of the Lick observatory. He estimates its speed across the line of sight from the earth at 150 miles per second. At the same time it is drawing nearer the earth at the rate of 58 or 60 miles per second. But its distance is so great that light, moving 186,300 miles per second, requires more than 23 years to pass from the star to the earth. The spectrum of "1830 Groombridge" bears much resemblance to that of the sun.—Youth's Companion.

Injurious to Coal.

If a load of coal is left out of doors, exposed to the weather—say for a month—it loses one-third of its heating qualities. If a ton of coal is placed on the ground and left there, and another ton is placed under a shed, the latter loses about 25 per cent. of its heating force, the former 47 per cent. Hence it is a great saving of coal to have it in a dry place, covered over and on all sides. The softer the coal the more heating power it loses, because the voltaile and valuable constituents undergo a slow combustion.—Chicago Chronicle.

The Point of Interest.

Mr. Noodle—The doctors say he is fatally hurt.

Mrs. Noodle—But what chance is there for him to live?

"That's what I wanted to know, and they told me his recovery was impossible."

The Humane Czar.

The czar of Russia inherits from his mother the Danish characteristic of repugnance to any form of sport entailing suffering to animals, and has said that a boy who robbed a bird's nest or tortured a cat or dog should be punished in Russia by the law as he would be in Denmark.—N. Y. Sun.

UNDER-PRICE OFFERING OF DWIGHT MILLS ANCHOR BRAND SHEETS AND PILLOW CASES.

Thank the manufacturers for this rare opportunity to buy their high-grade unmatched goods at so low a price. To introduce their goods in this vicinity they have given us special inducements. We thus are enabled to offer these fine sheets and pillow cases to you at prices considerably under the regular rates.

Dwight Anchor Bleached Muslins combined, in a remarkable degree, the qualities essential to secure the best service. The tendency of fine heavy bleached goods to become hard, to crack and to turn yellow in washing is well known. This is because water cannot easily penetrate and cleanse the fabric.

THE DWIGHT ANCHOR CLOTH is readily washed, will remain soft and pliable, and consequently it will retain its clear white color, and will not crack.

These qualities, with the extraordinary weight and durability of the fabric, have given the Dwight Anchor fabrics deserved popularity wherever known.

During this Introduction Sale the following prices will prevail:—

PILLOW CASES.		HEMSTITCHED SHEETS.
45x36	15c	63x90	65c
50x36	17c	72x90	70c
54x36	19c	81x90	75c
45x36 (hemstitched)	22c	90x90	80c

PLAIN SHEETS.

63x90	50c
72x90	55c
81x90	60c
81x99	65c
90x90	65c
90x99	70c

Well-informed housekeepers will appreciate this fact in relation to the Dwight Anchor product. The goods are torn—not cut—thus ensuring straight edges. These sheets and pillow cases are all perfect, clean and ironed ready for use.

Four unusual values in WHITE BEDSPREADS.

A manufacturer's surplus, bought one-fourth under regular prices. They are offered to you at the same saving. Economical housewives will find this a rare opportunity to save money.

FRANCIS W. PARKER.

Famous Chicago Educator Who Doesn't Like to Hear "I Want to Be an Angel."

Dr. Francis Wayland Parker, who, at the recent convention of the Society of Religious Education in Detroit, declared it was folly for children to stand up and say or sing: "I want to be an angel," is the head of the Chicago institute in Chicago. Dr., or "Col.," Parker, as he is better known in Chicago, is famous over all the world for his original views and methods on subjects of education. He has long been an advocate of common sense in educating children, and his friends at the convention were not surprised when he took the stand in his speech against the theme of one of the best-known Sunday school hymns. He declared that young persons should be taught more practical desires than to become "angels." Such expressions were silly, he said.

COL. FRANCIS W. PARKER.
(Head of Chicago Institute, Founded by Mrs. Emmons Blaine.)

Col. Parker was not the only noted educator who expressed himself on the question of Sunday-school hymns at the convention. Prof. L. H. Jones, of Cleveland, also expressed some original views. The idea of both speakers was that practical ingenuity should be instilled into the minds of children. Merely to want to become an angel without working for it was too easy, the speakers thought.

These views are along the line of Col. Parker's ideas on education, which Chicago people have long been familiar with. They were developed by him while he was president of the Cook county normal school. It was to enable Col. Parker to put his views of education into practice without being hampered by politics that Mrs. Emmons Blaine endowed the Chicago institute and placed him at the head.

ALFRED B. KITTREDGE.

Sioux Falls Lawyer Who Will Probably Succeed the Late Senator James H. Kyle.

Alfred B. Kittredge, a prominent attorney of Sioux Falls, S. D., and ex-national committeeman for South Dakota, to whom all signs point as the fortunate republican who will be appointed to fill the unexpired term of the late United States Senator Kyle, is a native of Cheshire county, N. H. He was born March 28, 1861. In 1878 he entered Yale, from which he graduated in 1882. From that time until 1884 he studied law at Rutland, Vt., when he entered the Yale law school, from which he graduated in the spring of 1885. He was admitted to the bar by the supreme court of Connecticut the following June. Then he came to Sioux Falls and engaged in the practice of law. He was elected state senator from Minnehaha county in 1889 and in 1891 was reelected. At the republican national conventions of 1892 and 1896 he was elected as South Dakota member of the republican national committee. He is the local attorney of the Great Northern and Chicago, Milwauke & St. Paul railroad companies and has a large and lucrative practice.

Here's a Queer How-to-Do.

Georgia has just passed a law to this effect: "If a woman fails to manage the house according to the husband's ideas, he is justified in insisting that his ideas be carried out." It is solemnly made his prerogative "to determine what servants shall do and not do, the hours at which meals must be served and the menu at each meal." The man that undertakes to act upon that law will have more experience to the square inch than he ever had before. It were better that a millstone were hanged around his neck and he were drowned in the depths of the sea.

In Portland, Ore., lives a gentleman who suffered for years with dyspepsia and disease of the kidneys, with a long list of distressing symptoms, causing chronic constipation, which was a source of constant annoyance. He had bloating of the stomach and was very nervous. He had to be very careful of his diet, and for six months lived almost entirely on graham bread and crackers. Doctors and change of climate did no good. One day he saw an advertisement of Ripans Tabules, and, as a drowning man grasps a straw, he bought some and commenced taking them. They helped some, and he got more. "To-day I am all right," he declares, "and can now eat anything I wish without the least distress. I always carry a few in my vest pocket. I never imagined that such a little thing would do so much good. I am enjoying the best of health, and do not have to go to the mountains either."

SHEER MATERIALS.

Veiled and Polka Dotted Effects Are All the Style.

The most popular materials still continue to be crapes and veilings. Veiled effects are a fad of the moment. Silks impossibly tinted and even deplorably patterned if directly veiled make a most striking and artistic whole. It is quite the thing to make a polka dotted muslin or chiffon over a silk lining of the same shade dotted in a different color. One of the prettiest of Parisian gowns shows this effect. The material is coffee colored veiling with a raised dot of the same shade. This is made over a turquoise blue taffeta polka dotted in black. The effect is very odd and rich.

GRENADINE EVENING GOWN.

Paris is trying her hardest to make us adopt the all white frock. Even for the coming fall there are white frocks made out of the heavier materials. Most fascinating gowns of white veiling are trimmed with coarse embroidery and soft knots of Persian ribbon in the very faintest pastel shades.

In the cut we have a simple dancing gown for a young girl. The material is tucked white grenadine over pink taffeta. The skirt is tucked down to below the knees, where it is left to flare in soft folds. The bottom is ornamented with four narrow ruffles edged with white silk applique. The waist is made blouse fashion and is all laid in fine tucks. There is a bertha of shirred white chiffon, which takes the place of the customary strap on the right shoulder. This strap is seen, however, on the left shoulder in the shape of a narrow fold of chiffon. It is the height of style nowadays to make the shoulders of an evening gown unlike. A beautiful spray of tiny pink roses starts from the center of the back, falling below the left shoulder and across the left breast, whence is descends to the bottom of the skirt in irregular clusters. Two larger pink roses form a charming Japanese hair decoration.

ORIGINAL TRIMMINGS.

Dressmakers Vie With Each Other In Devising New Appliques.

Appliques of original design and material are appearing daily, and considerable ingenuity is displayed in this class of trimming. Linen gowns with large trimmed lozenge shaped appliques of foulard edged with braid or herringboned down are most uncommon. Take, for instance, a light blue linen with a band of these lozenge appliques in blue and white foulard outlined with a half inch edging of cream guipure.

A biscuit colored veiling has diamond shaped appliques of glace silk outlined with narrow black lace, and a pink veiling is very effective with a border of black taffeta applique in a vine leaf pattern veined and edged with black and white lace braid. It is by her originality in these little touches that we recognize the first class dressmaker.

The black and white gown illustrated is a fine example of effective trimming. The waist is made in blouse fashion, opening over a tucked front of white chiffon. The blouse and overskirt are made of black chantilly lace. The underskirt is of plain black net banded with black velvet ribbons of different widths, and the sleeves and bolero effect are also made of the velvet ribbon and the net. The overskirt is laid in fine gathers at the hips. The belt is of stitched black velvet. The entire gown is made over white taffeta.

The picture hat is made of black tulle with a facing of white chiffon. It is trimmed with five black ostrich tips and a jeweled buckle.

But Armstrong knew much less than he himself believed. Hastening back to camp and ordering his horse, he was soon speeding up the slope to the wind-swept heights overlooking the Golden Gate. The morning had opened fine as silk, but by noon the sky was hidden in clouds and the breath of the sea blew in salt and strong. The white-caps were leaping on the crest of the surges driving in through the straits and the surf bursting high on the jagged rocks at the base of the cliffs. A little coast steamer from Santa Barbara way came pitching and plunging in from sea, and one or two venture-some craft, heeling far to leeward, tore through the billows and tossed far astern a frothing wake. With manes and tails streaming in the stiff gale, the troop horses of the Fourth cavalry were cropping at the scanty herbage down the northward slope, and the herd guard nearest the road lost his grip on his drab campaign hat as he essayed a salute and galloped off on a stern chase down the long ravine to the east, as the colonel trotted briskly by. One keen glance over the bay beyond rocky Alcatraz had told him the China was not yet away from her pier. He might have to send a dispatch by that swift steamer, and even then it would be six days getting to Hawaii. If the department commander should by that time be on his homeward journey the information would still be of interest to the general commanding the new military district at "the Cross Roads of the Pacific," and of vast benefit, possibly, to his late client, Mr. Gray. He wondered what Canker's grounds could be for saddling so foul a suspicion on the boy's good name. He wondered how long that poor lad would have to struggle with this attack of fever and remain, perhaps happily, unconscious of this latest indignity. He wondered if Amy Lawrence yet knew of that serious seizure, and, if she did, what would be her sensations. Down the winding, sloping road he urged his way, Glencoe, his pet charger, marveling at the unusual gait. The cape of the sentry's overcoat whirled over the sentry's head and swished his cap off as he presented arms to the tall soldier spurring past the guardhouse. "I envy no one who has to put to sea this day," said Armstrong to himself, as he turned to the right and reined up in front of a little brown cottage peeping out from a mass of vines and roses, shivering in the wet wind. Half a dozen strides took him across the narrow walk and up the wooden steps. With sharp emphasis he clanged the little gong bell screwed to the back of the door and waited impatient of the servant's coming. There was no answer. He rang again and still again, and no one came. A glance at the windows told that the white lace curtains hung there draped as prettily as ever. Fresh flowers stood on the window sill. A shawl and a pillow, the latter indented as by a human head, lay in the lounging chair on the little porch. Another chair stood but a few feet away. There was even a fan, though fans in a 'Frisco summer are less needed than furs; but nowhere saw he other sign of the temporary mistress of the house. He went round to a side window and rapped. No answer. Then he turned to the walk again, and, taking the reins, bade the orderly inquire next door if Mrs. Garrison could be found. Yes, was the answer; she went driving to Golden Gate Park with Mrs. Stockman an hour ago, and Mrs. Stockman was to leave for Los Angeles that night. Odd! If Mrs. Garrison drove to Golden Gate Park the easiest and best way was that along which he came, and he had met no carriage. In fact, not since that night at the Palace had he set eyes on Mrs. Garrison, or until the coming of this sorrowful news about Gray had he cared to. From all that he heard Mrs. Frank was enjoying herself at the Presidio. Cherry having gone one way and her devotee another, Mrs. Frank speedily summoned a chum of old garrison days to come and keep house with her for awhile, and Mrs. Stockman, whose lord had left her at the call of duty, and gone to Manila with his men, right gladly accepted and much enjoyed the fun and frolic that went on night after night in Mrs. Frank's cozy parlor, or the mild flirtation, possibly, in the recesses of Mrs. Frank's embowered porch. The last expedition had borne off almost all the "regular" element at the post, but had not left it poor, for, fast as camp grounds could be made ready for them, vastly to the disgust of the saloon keepers and street car magnates who had reaped rich harvest from Camp Merritt, regiment after regiment, the volunteers came marching over from the malodorous sand lots and settled down in sheltered nooks about the Presidio. So cavaliers in plenty were still to be had, cavaliers whose wives and sweethearts, as a rule, were far away; and Mrs. Frank loved to console such as were so bereft. The chafing dish and Scotch and soda were in nightly request; and even women who didn't at all fancy Mrs. Frank, and spoke despitefully of her among themselves, were not slow to come "for just a minute," as they said, as the evenings wore on, and to stay and chat with various visitors—it was so lonesome and poky over home with the children asleep and nothing to do. Women there were who never darkened Mrs. Garrison's door after the first formal calls; but they were of those who deeply felt the separation from all they held most dear, and who, forbidden themselves, heard with envy and even distress her gay assertion that she would sail for Manila the moment the Queen of the Fleet was ready. From what source—or circumstance—did she derive her influence?

But with the edict that no more troops should be sent came comfort to the souls of these bereaved ones. Transports would not go without troops, and Mrs. Frank could not go without transports, the journey was far too expensive. They wished her no evil, of course; but if they were themselves forbidden how could they rejoice that she should be permitted? They were actually beginning to feel a bit charitable toward her when the Queen of the Fleet herself came in Honolulu with the latest news. The fifth expedition had been halted there and put in camp. The hospital held several officers. Billy Gray was down with brain fever, and there had been a furious scene between him and his peppery colonel before the breakdown; and by that same steamer Mrs. Garrison had got a letter that had made her turn white and tremble, as Mrs. Stockman saw and told, and then shut herself up in her room an entire day. Now for nearly a fortnight the lovely guest had been daily hinting that she really must go home, "dear Witchie" was surely tired of her; and Witchie disclaimed and protested and vowed she could not live without her devoted friend. But then had come that letter and with it a change of tone and tactics. Witchie ceased to remonstrate or reprove Mrs. Stockman, and the latter felt that she must go, and Witchie consented without demur.

In no pleasant mood Armstrong mounted and trotted for the east gate. The road was lined with camps and volunteers at drill. Vehicles were frequently moving to and fro; but the sentry at the entrance had kept track of them, and in response to question answered promptly and positively Mrs. Garrison's carriage had not come that way. "But," said he, "the wagon with the lady's baggage did. I saw the name on the trunks."

The colonel turned in saddle and coolly surveyed him. "Do you mean Mrs. Stockman's name?" he asked, in quiet tone. "How many trunks were there?"

"Oh, some of them might have had Mrs. Stockman's name, sir; but the two or three that I saw were marked M. G."

This was unlooked-for news. To her next-door neighbor Mrs. Garrison had said nothing about going away with Mrs. Stockman, and Armstrong had grave need to see her and to see her at once. The train for Los Angeles did not leave until evening. Possibly they were lunching somewhere — spending the afternoon with friends in town. He rode direct to headquarters. Some of the staff might be able to tell, was his theory, and one of them justified it.

"Did I happen to meet Mrs. Garrison? Yes, I just saw her aboard the China."

"Aboard the China!" exclaimed Armstrong, with a sudden thrill of excitement. "D'you mean she is going?"

"Didn't ask her. They were hustling everybody ashore, and I had only time to give dispatches to the purser; but she was on deck with friends when I came away."

People wondered that day at the speed with which the tall officer, followed by his orderly, clattered away down Market street. In less than ten minutes Armstrong was at the crowded pier, and pushing through the throng to the China's stage. Too late! Already it was swung aloft, the lines were cast loose, and the huge black mass was just beginning to back slowly from its moorings. The rail of the promenade deck swarmed with faces, some radiant, some tearful. Words of adieu, fluttering kerchiefs, waving hands, tossing flowers were there on every side. Two officers, Honolulu bound, shouted Armstrong's name, and a cheery good-by; but he did not seem to hear. A gentle voice, the voice of all others he most longed to hear, repeated the name and strove to call attention to his gesticulating comrades on the upper deck; but he was deaf to both. Eagerly, anxiously, incredulously he was searching along that crowded rail, and all on a sudden he saw her. Yes, there she stood, all gayety, grace and animation, stylishly gowned and fairly burdened with roses; and it was right at him she was gazing, nodding, smiling, all sweetness, all confiding, trusting joy; with just a little of triumph, too, and a tinge of sentimental sorrow in the parting. Apparently, it was all for him; for her blue eyes never faltered till they fixed his gaze, and then, kiss after kiss she threw to him with the daintily gloved little hand, and, leaning far down over the rail, lowering it toward him as much as possible, she finally tossed to him, standing there stern and spellbound, a bunch of beautiful roses she had torn from her corsage. It fell almost at his feet, for in his astonishment and rising wrath he made no effort to catch it. A man, stooping quickly, rescued and handed it to him. Mechanically he said: "Thank you," and took it, a thorn pricking deep into the flesh as he did so; and still his eyes were fixed on that fairy form now surely, swiftly gliding away, and over him swept the consciousness of utter defeat of exasperation, of dismay, even as he strove to fathom her motives in thus singling him out for such conspicuous—even affectionate—demonstration. Triumph and delight he could have understood, but not, not this semblance of confidential relations, not at least until he felt his arm grasped by a cordial hand, heard his name spoken by a friendly voice, and Mr. Prime's pleasant inquiry: "Have you no greeting for other friends?" Then the hot blood rushed to his face and showed even through the bronze as, turning, his troubled eyes met full the clear, placid gaze of Amy Lawrence.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Aug. 25—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—Daily prayer, "I will make it the rule of my life to pray every day."—Ps. xxxiv, 1-23.

The weakness of many of our religious vows is their indefiniteness. We consecrate ourselves to God, but in a general way, and are often as a result careless in the performance of definite and specific duties. To the glory of the Christian Endeavor pledge, it does not make this mistake. Entire consecration is embraced in it, but it also specifies definite duties of devotion and of service. This phase of it has been of untold blessing even to many who had long been Christians before they became Christian Endeavorers. The definite consecration to daily prayer and to daily Bible reading has made them more faithful in these duties than ever before.

It is most fitting that the first definite clause in the pledge should be consecration to prayer and to daily prayer, "I will make it the rule of my life to pray every day." Devotion should be the first business of the day, and the day should be closed as it is begun—with prayer to God. Nor should communion with God, which is prayer, be limited to the extremes of the day, but should characterize us at all times. This was Paul's attitude toward prayer, and he recommended it to the Thessalonians when he wrote unto them, "Pray without ceasing." Nor should daily prayer be limited to the individual. There should be daily prayer in the home—family worship. This custom of the fathers is rapidly passing away, but it should not. It is true our method of living is vastly different from that of our ancestors, yet there can be, by proper effort, some time in the day when the family can worship God together. The hallowed memories of such devotion is lifelong and inestimable in blessing and in benefit.

Daily prayer is Scriptural. It is taught by the customs of Judaism, from which Christianity sprang. Daily the sacrifices were offered to God; there were daily hours for prayer in the temple, and three times a day—morning, noon and night—the devout Jew prayed unto God, with his face toward Jerusalem, as we see illustrated in Daniel in Babylon. Christ practiced and taught daily prayer. "Give us this day our daily bread" could only be intended to be a daily prayer for daily bread, and if we should pray daily for physical food how much more important that we should pray daily for spiritual food, for God's presence and support amid the temptations and trials of the day, with gratitude and thanksgiving for past mercies of the same character.

THE PRAYER MEETING.

Have a prayer and praise service.

BIBLE READINGS.

Ps. v, 1-3; iv, 17; lxxxviii, 13; Dan. vi, 1-10; Math. vi, 11; Luke xviii, 1; Acts i, 12-14; iii, 1-8; x, 1-4; Eph. vi, 18; I Thess v, 17.

God's Love.

The seasons come and go; spring's young bloom—the blossoms and springing grass and flowers and the running water, released from its icy bonds, and the happy songs of the birds—changes into summer's heat and beauty, and that again into the sweetness and deliciousness of autumn, with its beautifully tinted leaves, its hazy atmosphere, its flowers, peculiar to it alone; this merging into the ice king's reign, when the earth is covered with a mantle of snow, which transfers all outdoor objects into visions of beauty. But, though the seasons change, God's love ever remains the same. "It abideth forever." Throughout the centuries, through Old Testament times, to where He sent His only Son into the world for our sakes, down through the ages, His love has never changed, and is manifested in many countless ways.—Philadelphia Ledger.

The Peace of God.

True peace is not stupidity of mind. It exists in conjunction with the utmost mental activity. It is not a state of insensibility, like that of a rock, but one in which the feelings are as refined and quick as the apple of the eye. Nor yet does it consist in the absence of conscience, as in the ox or eagle.

True peace is the harmony of the heart with God, the assurance that questions relating to the spiritual nature and life have been rightfully and eternally settled and, above all, the abiding conviction that "all things work together for good to them that love God." Peace flows from a loving trust in God as water from an overflowing fountain.—Philadelphia Methodist.

Helping the Lord.

There is but one way in which man can ever help God—that is, by letting God help him—and there is no way in which His name is more guiltily taken in vain than by calling the abandonment of our own work the performance of his.—Ruskin.

Airs of the Spirit.

Softer than south winds blow,
Heavy with balm,
Airs of the Spirit flow,
Bringing us calm;
Melodies sweet and low,
Stilling the spirit's woe,
Making life here below
One holy psalm.

List, then, O heart of mine,
List and rejoice!
Each note of joy divine
Utters His voice.
Each bird on swaying limb,
Chanting a morning hymn,
Sings like the seraphim
Songs of His choice.

Sweeter than honey dew
In sun kissed flower
The love He pours for you
Each day and hour.
If thou, from out thy store,
For others love shalt pour,
Soul, thou shalt have the more,
This be thy dower.

—Boston Transcript.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning Aug. 25—"Daily Prayer and Gleanings From Many Fields"—Text, Dan. vi, 10; Ps. lv, 16, 17; xxiv, 3-7.

"Evening, morning and at noon will I pray and cry aloud, and He shall hear my voice."

More things are wrought by prayer
Than this world dreams of. Wherefore let thy voice
Rise like a fountain for one night and day,
For what are men better than sheep or goats
That nourish a blind life within the brain
If, knowing God, they lift not hands in prayer
Both for themselves and those who call them friend?
For so the whole round earth is every way
Bound by gold chains about the feet of God.

Much comes to us in this world unasked and unsought—sunlight, air, rain and all the marvelous equipment of the natural world in which we live.

Many things are asked for and eagerly sought, but never come. Some are lifelong sufferers and never know a day free from suffering. Some are poor, plain of feature and peculiar in manner and ever wish for things they never get. But the best things of life come only by asking and seeking and always do come to those who seek and ask.

"A man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things which he possesseth."

"The kingdom of God is not meat and drink." The best goods of earth are not things, but are possessions of the soul. The best gifts of God are in His spirit and can be given only to spirit. Soul rest, beauty, strength, are far beyond all bodily comfort and excellence, as hunger of spirit exceeds all appetites of flesh. The divine perfections and glory are incomparably more desirable and satisfying to soul than any mere filling of physical wants. God designs to share with us His own best goods. Better than gold and honors of men are nearness to God and consciousness of His favor and guidance.

Prayer is the medium by which God imparts His best gifts to men. Prayer is not so much asking God for things desired as it is putting the soul in contact with the divine person and then by that contact receiving the enlightenment of the Spirit, fee

JOSH BILLINGS SAYS:

"My son, observe the postage stamp. It's usefulness is in sticking to one thing."

If there is any virtue in sticking to one thing, my efforts to convince the people of Plainfield that, first, they should use ice as a matter of economy, and, second, use Hygeia ice, must in time be rewarded. Haven't my arguments been clear and logical? I think they have. So much so that every home in this town should be using Hygeia ice. A large majority of them are, but there are that few yet who have not come to the conclusion that I am right about this ice business. I am expecting to see every family in town a user of Hygeia ice. If not this year, next year—anyhow some time. Come and join the great majority now.

SPORTING.

ON THE DIAMOND.

Percy Hand, a former member of the Hope baseball team, wishes to deny the statement that he will resume his position. He says he has never had any intention of joining the team since his resignation went into effect.

Among those who attended the baseball game between the cops of this city and Elizabeth, yesterday afternoon, at the latter place were Councilman Lee, Freeholder Westphal, Lawyers Blatz and Clark, and J. E McConnell, of the Hotel Plainfield.

The St. Mary baseball team crosses bats tomorrow afternoon with the Prospect Park Y. M. C. A. team on the latter's grounds at Brooklyn. The home team is in excellent shape and proposes wresting a second victory from the Brooklyn nine.

The Plainfield "rooters" at the policemen's game, in Elizabeth, yesterday afternoon, taxed their strength in blowing tin horns and shouting in an effort to "rattle" Ward, the pitcher of the Elizabeth nine. The attempt was futile, however, for the good humored ball tosser kept his nerve throughout the contest.

Although it has been announced that the Hope team would probably cross bats with the New Brunswick B. C. on the former's grounds tomorrow afternoon, the game will not, however, be played. Instead the Hope team will leave town at 7 o'clock tomorrow morning for Asbury Park, where it will contest with a team at that place.

GOLF.

The semi-final round in the Waumbek Golf tournament has been stubbornly contested. It was played yesterday at Jefferson, N. H., when McCawley, of Philadelphia, only held his own after a nineteen-hole match, and J. Whitney Baker, of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club, shared in his sensational matches of the day, beating Walter Smith on the nineteenth green by one up.

ROD AND GUN.

Stanley Emmons and Harry Darby established a record as crab catchers Monday. In two hours and a half they captured 142 crabs in the Rahway river.

William Hartfelder, of Grove street, and Gus Feiring, of Harrison street, spent yesterday crabbing at Sewaren. They caught seventy-five between them.

Lewis Dunavan and C. E. Hepburn accompanied by several friends, spent yesterday fishing at Perth Amboy. They returned home in the evening with an excellent catch.

AMONG THE STEPPERS.

While no regular programme has been prepared, there will be matinee races tomorrow afternoon at the Gentlemen's Driving Park. Some of Plainfield's fastest horses will be on the track and a good exhibition of trotting is promised.

Honored His Departure.

The members of the O B Joyful Club, assisted by their young women friends, tendered a pleasant party to Willard Martin, of Jackson avenue, last evening, in honor of his departure for the west. In various ways the young people passed the hours pleasantly until midnight when all were served with refreshments. Mr. Martin leaves next week for Trenton, Mo, where he has been appointed to a responsible position in the office of a western railroad.

Picknicked in the Valley.

The annual picnic of St. Peter's Evangelical Lutheran church was held yesterday afternoon and evening on the premises of Mrs. Koch at Watchung. There was a very large attendance of members and young and old enjoyed themselves thoroughly. It is regarded as being one of the most successful affairs which has been held under the auspices of the church.

Just in Time.

Dispossess proceedings were commenced during the fore part of the week in Justice Mattison's court by Thomas McGann against Titus H. Lowry. Before the writ could be served the defendant removed from the premises, which are situated on Manning avenue.

OPERATION PERFORMED.

F. S. Runyon Passed Through the Ordeal Successfully and Relief Has Followed.

An operation for intestinal obstruction was performed on Francis S Runyon, cashier of the First National Bank, this morning at Muhlenberg Hospital. Mr. Runyon stood the operation well and as far as can be learned he has fully recovered from its effects.

Mr. Runyon, who had but recovered from a two weeks' illness, was taken sick Sunday evening. Since then he has been in a poor condition. His attending physician, Dr. P. J. Zeglio, determined that an operation was necessary and Mr. Runyon was removed from his home on West Front street to the hospital. Dr. Alexander B. Johnson, of New York, a specialist, came over this morning and performed the difficult operation, assisted by Drs. Zeglio and Murray.

It will be some days before the exact result of the operation is known, but temporary relief has been afforded and it is hoped that permanent relief will follow.

FINDING WATER.

Test Well On Greenbrook Road is Drilled Fifty Feet—Plenty of Water Now.

Much headway has been made in sinking the well at the corner of Greenbrook road and Harrison street. The idea is a scheme of Mayor N. B. Smalley, who believes that there is an abundant supply of water in that locality.

Charles P. Sebring has charge of the work. A depth of fifty feet has been reached and already a large quantity of water has been found. A test will be made to ascertain just what the amount is at that depth. It is the Mayor's intention to run a pipe line from this point up the mountain side, which is but a short distance, should the supply of water warrant it. A reservoir will be built and it will be covered by a cement and stone roof, which is deemed preferable to a stone roof.

SALT WATER DAY.

Great Crowds of Colored People Bound For Sewaren and Florida Grove.

Every trolley car on the Plainfield-Elizabeth line, which left the Watchung avenue terminus this morning, was crowded to the rail with colored people. In addition to this every available stage among the local liverymen was pressed into service to carry colored people out of the city. The cause of the general exodus was colored people's salt water day at the resorts along Station Island Sound.

It is estimated that several hundred more left this city today than or any other previous salt water day this season. Sewaren and Florida Grove are the objective points of most of the Plainfielders. They will remain until late this evening.

Death of an Old Resident.
(Special to The Daily Press.)

Fanwood, August 23—Mrs. Nancy Townsend, an old resident of this place, died this morning after a brief illness at the home of her nephew, Albert McKown, of Martine avenue. She was eighty-one years old and leaves a host of acquaintances in this vicinity. The funeral services will be held from her late residence. Interment will be made at Greenwood.

Gone to St. John.

Col. C. W. Burton and daughter, Mrs. Harriet Burton Ford, of Watchung avenue, left today for St. John, N. B. They will take the steamer from Philadelphia to Boston and the steamship State of Maine from Boston to St. John. Mr. Burton returned last Saturday from a two month's visit to St. John and Nova Scotia and will now remain until September 1.

Trial at New Brunswick.

The case on contract of Mintz Bros., against S. Lederer & Son, of New Brunswick, will be tried in the District Court at the latter place, Tuesday, September 3. William Newcorn represents the plaintiff.

Harry Holland, of Prescott place, is improving under Dr. Long's care from a tedious illness.

Jacob Blimm, of Somerset street, has been confined to his home for some time past with an injury to his leg.

Mrs. John Evans, of East Sixth street, will return home tomorrow from Friendship, N. Y., where she has been spending a few weeks with relatives.

EVERYTHING WAS JAPANESE.

NOVEL KIND OF EUCHRE PARTY AT THE NETHERWOOD.

Ball Room was Decorated After Fashion of a Japanese Hotel—Some of the Costumes was Japanese.

As an innovation a progressive euchre, on a Japanese pattern, was given at the Hotel Netherwood last evening, and the unique qualities of the affair added considerably to the enjoyment of the event. To sum it all up everything was Japanese, even the prizes.

A number of the young women who are sojourning at the resort, had gotten together and transformed the ball room into a representation of a typical apartment of the high-class Japanese citizen. S. B. Carson, of Crosby & Hill, who is staying at the hotel, furnished all the materials necessary and when the work was finished the room was exceedingly handsome. Mrs. S. B. Carson and Samuel Garrett had charge of the affair, and assisting them were the following, who were garbed in Japanese costume: the Misses Mai Coleman, Helen Humphrey and Mabel Simpson and Mrs. A. B. Prentice.

There were twelve tables in all and each participant wore something, emblematic of the Japanese, the women tying tiny fans in their hair. The only thing that was not distinctly Japanese was the music of the Orpheus Club orchestra. The musical selections were of a classic nature.

The prizes were awarded as follows: Women's—Mrs. J. W. Hawes, large Cloisonaise vase; Miss Coventry, fern dish; Mrs. W. P. Cook, decorated plate; Mrs. Lloyd Kane, set of gauge; Mrs. Beard, large umbrella. Men's—E. V. S. Heberton, ivory sword; H. K. Tetsuka, ivory paper cutter; R. C. Sterling, jeweled lantern; Mrs. Coleman, cup and saucer; W. P. Cook, tobacco jar.

OLD DOCUMENT FOUND.

Commission Granted to Plainfield's Postmaster Way Back in 1840.

A quaint looking document in the shape of a postmaster's commission issued by the Government in 1840, has been presented to Postmaster Elias H. Bird by John D. Titsworth, of Madison avenue. The instrument was found by Mr. Titsworth in an old desk.

The commission is of local interest inasmuch as it is one issued to John W. Craig, who was to serve, according to the certificate, during the pleasure of the postmaster general. It is dated December 30, 1840. So far as appearance is concerned the commission is unattractive. Printed on ordinary paper, the typographical work would not compare favorably with that done by the average amateur today. A representation of an American eagle with outspread wings adorns the document. A noteworthy feature of the document is that the commission is issued by the postmaster general himself and not by the president as is the custom today. The postmaster general at that time was John M. Niles and his signature is appended to the document.

Postmaster Bird intends to have the document framed and will probably place it near his own, which is a medel of the engravers' art. Craig's commission is printed on a sheet of paper of a size 9x15, and is a peculiar looking document when placed beside that of Postmaster Bird.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL PICNIC.

Just as Dinner Was Ready the Rain Came and There Was Fun.

An enjoyable picnic was held by the members of the Sunday-school of Lincoln at Dewey Park yesterday. Notwithstanding the unpleasant weather many friends of the Sunday-school children joined in the outing and took part in the games that were started by the young people.

In the middle of the day the teachers prepared the table for the feast and just as all were summoned to gather about the board, a torrent of rain came down and deluged a considerable amount of the eatables. Much remained, however, and the youngsters gorged themselves with the good things. The trip to the Park was made in stages.

Putting Wagons in Condition.

By the direction of E. W. Mills, the local agent of the United States Express Company, five of the company's delivery wagons have been placed in local carriage repair shops to be repainted and otherwise renovated. The remaining two wagons are doing the entire duty at present, and as soon as those being repaired are ready for use again, the two will also be overhauled. The company's trucks which are used at the railroad station, are also being put in first-class condition.
